St. Andrew's W.M.S.

St. Andrew's W.M.S. met at the manse on Tuesday at 3:00 with the president, Mrs. H. Tremain, in the chair. The program was arranged by Miss F. Dixon and her group, the subject being "the Christian Stewardship of Time." Mrs. A. Porteous read the scripture lesson. Mrs. James Johnson sang a beautiful solo, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. R. Harle. Miss A. Moir offered the dedicatory prayer. Mrs. F. W. K. Harris, Presbyterial president, gave an informal and inspiring talk on the work of the W.M.S., using as her text, "Hitherto hath the Lord led us." The meeting was brought to a close with prayer by Miss Dixon.

Ferguson Barr Married In St. Catharines

ST. CATHARINES, Aug. 18—On Sunday afternoon Queen Street Baptist Church, St. Catharines, was beautifully decorated with salmon pink gladioli and palms, intermingled with fern, for the marriage of Helen Carr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Nickerson, to the Rev. Alfred Ferguson Jardine Barr, son of the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. A. T. Barr of St. John's, Newfoundland and formerly of Peterborough.

Dr. Barr performed the ceremony throughout which Mr. George Hannahson played soft organ music. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of gardenia white moire, fashioned with a long fitted bodice, a heart-shaped neckline, long sleeves and a gathered skirt. A Mary Queen of Scots cap, of shirred ivory net, held her finger-length veil and she carried a cascade bouquet of Johana Hill roses. Her attendants were her sister, Miss Gwendolyn Nickerson, as maid of honor, and Miss Ruth Trummer of Toronto as bridesmaid. They wore street-length suit-dresses with flared peplums and small ruffled hats of material to match their gowns which were gallant blue and evening rose, respectively and they carried muffs and sweetpea clusters.

Mr. T. R. Cosmord of Stratford was the groomsman and the ushers were the Rev.. George Young of Beamsvile and Mr. Charles Baker. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Nickerson held a reception at their home, "Fair View," Niagara highway, where gladioli and other garden flowers were used as decoration. Mr. and Mrs. Nickerson the latter wearing turquoise crepe with ruby hat, shoes and gloves and a corsage of Bettertime roses, and Dr. and Mrs. Barr, the latter wearing a lilac gown and hat and corsage of Talisman roses, received with the bridal party. For going away, the bride wore a dusty blue costume with navy felt hat, navy shoes and gloves and carried a nvay bag. Following a short trip the Rev. and Mrs. Barr will make their home in Springville, Pictou County, N.S.

Concert Artists Wed In New York

NEW YORK, Aug. 18 (AP)—Sgt. Eugene List, noted pianist, and Carroll Glenn, violinist were married here Monday, climaxing a musical romance which has had wide attention since List announced his engagement over the air after his performance of Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue" with the New York Philharmonic Orchestra July 11.

The couple announced they will "publicly celebrate the wedding in a joint recital Sunday" over the Columbia Broadcasting System as guests of Andre Kostelanetz. They met at Juilliard School of Music.

List, 25, a native of Los Angeles, has played with orchestras throughout the United States. His bride, 22, of Chester, S.C., also has been a soloist with the New York Philharmonic and other major symphony orchestras.

At the ceremony, Christine Johnson of the Metropolitan Opera Company sang. Sonya Stokowski, a daughter of the conductor, was a bridesmaid.

Price Control Ration News

The Women's Regional Advisory Committee, Consumer Branch, of Central Ontario, Wartime Prices and Trade Board answers questions put to this paper regarding price control and ration regulations.

Q.—My son lives at home where he has his breakfast each day and four lunches a week, but he has to get his dinner at a boarding-house. Who is entitled to his ration book?

A.—Since your son gets the majority of his meals at home, you should be entitled to use the majority of his coupons to get his supply of rationed commodities. However, as he eats his dinner at a boarding house his landlady there is supplying part of his share of rations and therefore has a right to this amount.....Of course the number of coupons used by the boarding house on your son's behalf should correspond as nearly as possible to the amount of tea, coffee, sugar, butter and meat he is served. These details will have to be ironed out as equitably and fairly as possible among the three of you.

Q. My baby was born May 30. Because of illness I was unable to get down to our local ration board office until August. They gave me only two sugar coupons. As I am trying to put down fruit for the baby as well as myself, am I not entitled to sugar coupons back to the date of birth?

A.—As you were not able to go down to the local ration board office when the baby was born, you could have had a friend or relative get the baby's book for you at that time. You can quite understand that it is impractical to make rationing regulations so flexible as to permit the issuing of back coupons to people who have not bothered to apply for their fair share at the appointed time.

Q.—I am spending a week (August 21 to 28) at a resort. What coupons will the ladylady of my boarding house be entitled to while I am away?

A.—Since you will be away for one week, your landlady back home will not be entitled to your share of rations for this period, but you will be obliged to surrender a week's coupons to the management of the resort at which you are holidaying (one butter coupon and two meat coupons). The stay must be 14 days or longer before the management is entitled to remove coffee, tea or sugar coupons.

Q.—As I expect to be out of town when the new ration book No. 3 is issued, can I obtain my new ration book on my return, and if so, where should I apply?

A.—If you are away from home during the new ration book distribution period, you will be able to get your new ration book No. 3 by calling at any distribution centre in Canada and presenting your old book (with the application card completed in the back of it)....Distribution of the new books takes place on August 25, 26 and 27.... If you are definitely not able to go to a distributing centre while out of town, you should apply later to the office of your local ration board."

Cecil Hopkins Wed In Hastings

HASTINGS, Aug. 18 (ENS) —The wedding took place Saturday at St. George's Anglican church, Hastings, decorated with ferns and gladioli, of Evelyn Ina, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Chamberland, Hastings to Cecil Hopkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Hopkins of Peterborough. The Rev. Mr. Lennex performed the ceremony.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her uncle, Mr. Wilfred Crysler, to the wedding music played by Miss Della Plant. She wore a street length dress of white sheer, with rounded neckline, fitted bodice caught with buttons at the waist falling into a full skirt. Her shoulder length veil of embroidered bridal net fell from a Queen Anne coronet and she carried a bouquet of red Briarcliffe roses.

Miss Doreen Fleming was bridesmaid in a street-length gown of baby pink sheer, made along the same lines as the bride's gown, with a square neckline, and carried a bouquet of pink rose buds.

Best man was Clifford Chamberland, brother of the bride.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the De Luxe Cafe, Peterborough.

For travelling the bride chose a light blue sheer dress, white shoes, gloves and purse to match. The happy young couple left by motor on a wedding trip.

On their return Mr. and Mrs. Hopkins will live in Hastings.

FEAR OF MICE NOT JOKE BUT SYMBOL OF WOMAN'S WEAKNESS

Some Get Married for Protection, Others Go to Live with In-Laws Though Unwelcome

The great trouble with women is their lack of courage. It handicaps them at every turn and is responsible for most of their failures and unhappiness. They never really enjoy today because they are so afraid of tomorrow. They spend their lives dreading misfortunes that never happen to them and terrorized of bugaboos that they conjure up out of their imaginations. Their traditional fear of mice is more than a joke. It is a symbol of the sex.

As an example of this take love, which is always the most important thing in the world to women, but out of which they never get the full measure of happiness because they are always scared of losing it. A woman may have a husband who gives every proof of devotion, who toils like a slave to keep her soft and comfortable and who spoils her to death, but she can't settle down in peace and security and thank Heaven for her luck.

Will He Love Her Tomorrow?

She lies awake at night wondering if he will love her when she is old and fat, and haunted by apparitions of beautiful blond secretaries, with sylph-like figures, who will take him away from her. The beauty shops are run on the fear of wives that they will lose their husbands' affections if they don't keep young and beautiful.

It is fear that drives innumerable women into making unsuitable marriages. When the average woman gets into the thirties and is still single, she flies into a blind panic in which she loses her reason and will marry anything in trousers that happens along. She may be a woman or independent means. She may be a successful business woman. And life may be full of family affection, good friends, interests and amusements, as agreeable an existence as one could wish.

But she gets scared of the future and afraid that she may be lonesome, or regret not having married, and so she takes the rejected suitor who she has refused a dozen times, or marries the widower with seven children, or the down-and-outer she has to support.

Fears Dominating Some Marriages

Other women marry because they are afraid of being called old maids. They are not in love with the men they marry. They know they are not bettering their condition, socially or financialy, by marrying. They have no urge towards marriage. On the contrary, they are celibate by nature and much prefer their own freedom to a husband, but they haven't the nerve to go along and live their own lives the way they want to do, as men do, and marry, or not, as they please.

It is sheer cowardice that makes so many women endure the martrydom of miserable marriages. They submit to every sort of humilation. They let their husbands insult and revile them. They put up with tightwads of husbands who begrudge them the very food they eat. They

The Maximum Elegance

Monte Carlo Beach Club

Black wool, cut with a V neckline and slim silhouette, has deft front skirt fullness, and edges finished with a scalloped line. Overall are sewn clover leaves of black sequins.

By PRUNELLA WOOD

RESTRAINT rather than rich explosions of detail make for elegance, and whatever else wartime shortages have cost us ,they have helped out fashion design a lot. Your mighty dressmakers have always presented the unsullied line, in beautiful fabric and finish; your lesser manufacturers have frequently drenched line and fabric with so many trimmings and gewgaws for "style" that they disappeared completely. In the late afternoon through evening New York creation, above, glitter sequins, often so overdone, are added to just the degree which will brighten the sure, slim lines of a practical warm wool frock. Lovely without accessories, the model is yet a good background for individual trinkets.

slave for husbands who never give them a kind word. They stand for grouchiness and surliness and ill-temper simply because they lack the backbone to get up and get out.

They are so afraid of what might happen to them in the outside world, though nothing could be any worse than what they are suffering at home. No one could be crueler to them than their husbands are. Nowhere would they have to work harder than they do in their homes. But they stay on in sodden misery, downtrodden, despised, kicked about like a dog, because they haven't the courage to put up a fight for their own happines, or to rebel against their tyrants.

Afraid To Work To Support Themselves

It is women's lack of courage that keeps them from snapping their fingers in Mrs. Grundy's face and doing the things they wanted to do and that Nature intended them to do. They are so afraid of what people will say if they take in sewing, or start a boarding-house, or get a job taking car of children, that would pay them good money and let them be independent and happy, that they go to live with their children, where they know they are unwelcome guests to their in-laws, or they become parasites and hangers-on of relatives who grudge them the pittance they dole out to them.

And it is lack of courage, nine times out of ten, that makes women commit the supreme folly of trying to keep up with people who are better off than they are. They are afraid that they might be criticised if their entertainments are not as elaboarte as somebody's else's; if their cars are not as expensive, so thier cars are not as expensive, so they run into debt that swamps them and ruins them.

Poor women, so afraid of nothing! I wonder if being WAVES and WACS and putting on a uniform will keep them from being scared cats?

LAWN BOWLING

At a meeting of the men's games committee, held last evening, further activities for the bowlers were planned.

In about a week or so the present schedule will have run its course and it's the duty of the committee to arrange other games.

Some years they have run supplementary schedules, some years doubles and some years skips and vices, but this year the committee has decided on a "novelty" competition.

All the men's rinks are put in the draw and there will be three competitions run on the straight elimination system. There will be the "Primary," the "Consolation" and the "Hard Luck."

So far so good, but here's where the fun starts; the rinks are to be turned inside out or upside down or right about face.

We believe that the regular second player skips, the lead plays vice, the skip leads and the vice plays second.

It sure is going to be lots of fun, particularly when the going gets tough. However in the meantime talk it over and we'll have more information later on.

It will be men's rinks on Friday night.

We have one more announcement to make—On Wednesday, August 25, at 1.30 o'clock our club is staging their annual mixed tournament in aid of the British War Victims. The notices call for 3 15-end games. Choose your own rink, and the fee is set at $5.00 per rink.

Knowing Nursing Fundamentals Is Essential Today

HOW TO LIFT PATIENT

You can never tell in wartime when you will be called upon to help save a life. So learn the fundamentals of nursing and be prepared!

Hospitals are so crowded today that if you're ill you may not be able to get a bed in a hospital. Some might even be having their babies at home or might return home from the hospital two or three days after the birth. There is nothing disturbing about this, particularly if you know a little about home nursing.

Undoubtedly you were instructed at the hospital about the care of your baby after you got home. Often, however, you forget important points.

Refresh your memory on the points that require emphasis.

Learn how to take care of a bed patient with a contagious disease, or after an operation, or with any common ailment.

For your copy of WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT NURSING send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

Millbrook News

A baptismal service for the twin sons of Major and Mrs. W. R. Howard was held at morning worship in St. Andrew's Church on Sunday, under the direction of the pastor, Rev. A. L. Sisco, and the names bestowed being Robert William and Thomas Ralph. The babies' grandfather, Mr. S. R. Howard, of Iowa, and grandparents, Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Bannister, of Peterborough, were present for the service.

Major W. R. Howard, of the Midland Regiment, is home on two weeks' furlough, and goes then to a new training centre.

Miss Dorothy Sisco, nurse-in-training at the Nicholls' Hospital, Peterborough, is home for a three weeks' vacation, and at present is with her parents, Rev. A. L. and Mrs. Sisco, at the parsonage.

Mrs. John Dawson, who spent the past year with her sons in the West, returned to Millbrook on Saturday, and is visiting with her sister, Mrs. Arthur J. Mulligan, and Mr. Mulligan, at their summer home, Mansion grounds, and her brother, Mr. J. R. Eakins, and Mrs. Eakins.

Another sister, Mrs. Henry Armstrong, and Mrs. Armstrong of Toronto, were here over the week-end.

Miss Mary Eagleson left on Monday for a week's stay with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Greer, of Bailieboro.

Mrs. Edmund Ball spent last week with her brother, Mr. J. Edgar Burnham, and her niece, Mrs. A. C. Darling, at Chemong Park. Mr. Burnham accompanied his sister home for a visit before leaving for his home at St. Petersburg, Florida, at the end of August.

Dr. M. E. Hobbs returned on Sunday after a two weeks' holiday at Tait's Beach, Rice Lake; Mrs. Hobbs and the children, Janet and Judy, are remaining for a longer stay.

Rev. A. L. and Mrs. Sisco were guests of Dr. H. A. and Miss B. M. Turner at their summer home, Stoney Lake, recently.

"The Authority on Authorities"

AVOID LONG CHANCES

IT IS EASY to let your thinking processes get upset if, when you are playing for what seems a very easy contract to make, some development, such as an extremely bad trump break, shows that your original simple idea won't work. Naturally, you don't give up right then before looking for some alternative plan. But, if the plan you first spot then is one with heavy odds against it, you really ought to take another look and see if there is not some more likely course. Long chances should be avoided, if they can be.

North: ♠ 7 5 3 2 ♥ 6 4 3 ♦ A K Q ♣ 10 9 7

West: ♠ A K Q J 9 ♥ 9 8 7 5 ♦ 6 4 ♣ A Q

East: ♠ 10 8 6 ♥ 2 ♦ 8 7 2 ♣ 8 6 5 4 3 2

South: ♠ 4 ♥ A K Q J 10 ♦ J 10 9 5 3 ♣ K J

(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♥	1 ♠	Pass	Pass
2 ♦	Pass	2 ♥	Pass
3 ♥	Pass	4 ♥

South ruffed the second spade lead, and reckoned at once that he had a cinch, with no possible losers in sight except maybe two in clubs and the one already gone in spades. He was brought up with a bump when the second round of trumps showed that West held four of them. Now he could no longer finish the hostile trumps in three rounds, take the dummy's three top diamonds and re-enter his own hand with his last trump to run the rest of the diamonds.

Quick study showed him a desperate chance, and he took it. He finished trumps with the next two rounds, then scored dummy's three top diamonds, following with a club lead toward his K. This would have worked fine, he figured, if west had a six-card spade suit and East now was out of it, and if the club A was held by East. But the odds against that were heavy. So, when West got the club K with his A, he scored another club with his Q and two more spades, putting the contract down two.

A little more study, after the second trump round, should have told South to take two of the dummy's diamond tops at once, hoping west held at least two of the suit, then lead the dummy's last trump to his own hand. His own final trump then would have settled West's last trump and made possible discard of dummy's last diamond, unblocking the suit for him.

Tomorrow's Problem

North: ♠ A J 8 ♥ 5 4 3 2 ♦ 6 5 4 ♣ 6 5 3

West: ♠ K Q 10 ♥ K Q J 10 9 ♦ 8 7 3 2 ♣ 10

East: ♠ 9 7 6 5 ♥ 6 ♦ J 10 9 ♣ J 9 8 7 2

South: ♠ 4 3 2 ♥ A 8 7 ♦ A K Q ♣ A K Q 4

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

If West, who had bid hearts and later doubled your 3-No Trumps, leads the heart K, how would you in the South try for the contract?

WITH THE ALLIED FORCES ON THE FRANCAVILLA FRONT, Aug. 16. — (Delayed). — (CP Cable). — Eighth Army and United States transports are rolling thickly into Northeastern Sicily on the heels of the evacuating German forces.

Pace of the heavier equipment is only as fast as the engineers can clear the roads of mines and build detours around numerous ruined bridges. Behind the forward patrols, which are meeting only hastily-surrendering Italians, some of the quickly-built road deviations are clogged with lines of transport being pushed toward Messina.

(Since this was written, Messina was occupied by American troops.)

In some cases on the northeastern coastal road up which the British division is proceeding the infantry is beyond the reach of road-borne supplies and ammunition is being landed from the sea to keep the men going.

Because heavy traffic prevented a visit to the division front at Fiumefreddo, I cut through hills north of Mount Etna and witnessed the linking of British and American troops on the Randazzo-Linguaglossa road, then became the first correspondent to make the northern circuit around the big, smoking volcano.

Bridge Wrecked

My intention was to travel by jeep to Francavilla to see the British and Americans join hands there. But the hilltop town of Castiglione, which was just taken by the British division, was as far as I got. A wide bridge between Castiglione and Francavilla was wrecked and there was no other way into the latter town within sight in the valley below.

We drove back the Linguaglossa road the way we had gone north and headed west to Randazzo.

Here and there along the twisting route a hatless Italian soldier plodded wearily to give himself up. One or two British soldiers marched after other small groups of prisoners.

I came across the first American forward troops near Passo Piscita, their transport intermingled with Bren carriers occupied by Tommies.

I met more American troops and equipment as we went on toward Randazzo, then encountered transport of the British 78th division, pushing up the Adern-Bronte road west of Etna.

Natives Prove Friendly To Canadians In Sicily

Native Sicilians who met Canadian troops engaged in the fighting soon discovered that the newcomers were friendly liberators, not conquerors, and they reciprocated. AT TOP, Gunner A. E. Crucial Phase Of Conference Nears At Quebec

By JOHN DAUPHINEE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC, Aug. 18 (CP). — The crucial phase of the sixth Churchill-Roosevelt war council will be reached within a few days with the arrival of the United States' President.

Aside from the official Washington announcement that Mr. Roosevelt will be here "this week," there has been no definite word on his plans. Movements of the President are kept secret until completed.

But a group of almost 30 American newspapermen came in a group late yesterday to join about 20 already here—an indication they anticipate the most important part of the meeting to get under way almost immediately.

Last week's informal talks at Hyde Park, N.Y., between Prime Minister Churchill and the President may have resulted in major decisions even before their sixth formal war conference begins here, it was indicated last night in reports from Britain.

War Cabinet Sits.

London morning newspapers said the War Cabinet was in constant session yesterday, that it was in touch by telephone with Mr. Churchill here, and that there was an impression important developments were pending.

The Hyde Park discussions have been kept secret but presumably the two war leaders considered many phases of the global war. A report of the informal meeting probably as transmitted at once to London for the War Cabinet's information.

This report may have been before the War Cabinet yesterday, perhaps its contents necessitated a decision by Ministers in London before the President and Mr. Churchill meet again.

Possibility a new, unprecedented combined operation against Axis occupied Europe, either in the west or in the Middle East, would be approved and ordered at the forthcoming conference was a subject of much speculation here.

Keen Censorship

While there was no confirmation of this rumor, with only the barest scraps of information filtering out to the press through official channels, it was recalled the only British cabinet minister to accompany Mr. Churchill to Quebec was Lord Leathers, Minister of Transport.

The amount of shipping available for the transport of troops and supplies is a vital factor in any sea-borne invasion attempt.

With Lord Leathers here were Lewis Douglas, head of the United States war shipping administration, and Lt. Cmdr. C. P. Edwards Canada's deputy transport minister. Hon. J. E. Michaud transport minister, was in Quebec last week for a joint meeting of the British war cabinet and the Canadian cabinet war committee.

While the combined chiefs of staff of Britain and the United States were meeting to prepare for their deliberations with Mr. Churchill and Mr. Roosevlt, the civilian authorities charged with direction of merchant shipping were presumably conferring in the Chateau Frontenac, conference headquarters.

Working Hard

Prime Minister Churchill and his military advisers have been hard at work here and presumably now are putting the finishing touches on material for the anti-Axis meetings of the British and American leaders and their combined chiefs of staff.

Already the government of two of the major democracies is being directed from Quebec. When Mr. Roosevelt arrives this will be virtually the hub of the democratic war effort for a few days.

Mr. Churchill spent several hours in each 24 conducting business in his capacity of Prime Minister, for his 10 Downing street office has been literally transplanted to Quebec. This work is in addition to his conferences with his military advisers and his preparation for his coming meeting here with the President.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King also has moved his office to Quebec, and conducts from his temporary office in the Citadel all the business which normally would be done in Ottawa.

Since Mr. Churchill returned from Hyde Park Sunday morning he and his host have been together often, continuing more-or-less informal Anglo-Canadian discussions which, it is believed, have centred largely on the future role of the Dominion's armed forces, and particularly the army.

It was anticipated Rt. Hon. Anthony Eden, British Foreign Secretary, would arrive about the same time as the United States president. There have been rumors he will carry to Moscow, and perhaps Chungking, a report on the conference decisions. Neither Russia nor China is represented here.

German Mines

This huge pile of German land mines was found by Allied forces advancing in Sicily, near Roccopalumba. Evidently the fleeing Axis forces never had a chance to plant the deadly weapons usually strewn in the path of an advancing army.

26 Chaplains

BURFORD, Ont., Aug. 18. — (CP). — A freak cyclone which raced through a small area in the surrounding district recently, carried several sheaves of oats from the farm of Charles Standing and carried them a quarter of a mile to Hilton Duckworth's farm. Boards and shingles were torn from the Duckworth barn and a tobacco crop was destroyed.

Jap Prisoner Listing Said Complete

OTTAWA, Aug. 18 (CP) — The External Affairs Department said Monday night, in a statement on Canadians held prisoner by the Japanese, that the lists of Canadian servicemen in Japanese hands are believed to be "virtually complete" but those of the Canadian civilians, like those of the other United Nations, are "incomplete."

The department said the statement was being issued because of the "great distress" caused to the families of Canadian prisoners of war and internees in the Far East because of the lack of news.

Pointing out that the enemy Government alone can give information as to prisoners and internees, the statement added:

"It is blieved that the lists of prisoners of war from the Canadian armed forces who are in Japanese hands, which have been furnished from time to time by the Japanese Government, through the International Red Cross committee, are virtually complete.

"While these prisoners were all captured at Hong Kong, it has recently been learned that upward of 610 have been transferred from Hong Kong to camps in Japan, and all next of kin concerned have been notified accordingly. It is not known definitely whether the rest of our men are still in Hong Kong of if they have been transferred elsewhere, but efforts have been made to obtain this information, and these efforts are being vigorously pursued."

Postal Deal Not Completed

Approximately 1,900 men made up the Canadian force at Hong Kong, which surrendered to the Japanese Christmas Day, 1941.

Discussing the question of correspondence, the statement said the Japanese Government undertook a year ago to establish a postal service for prisoners of war and civilian internees, but did not open this service in the case of Malaya, the Philippines, Siam and the Far East until last Jan. 1.

From all Commonwealth prisoners, more than 28,000 letters and postcards have been received. From Canadian prisoners, 510 letters were received in August, 1942, when the diplomatic exchange vessel Gripsholm returned from her first and only trip. Since that time only a few letters have found their way through to Canada. It is not known when more may be expected, but "it is to be hoped that more are on the way."

Letters are being forwarded from Canada to the Far East at "every available" opportunity, but the proportion of these that have reached their destination cannot be determined with any certainty. It is known that large numbers of letters have been distributed fairly recently in various Japanese-occupied territories.

There is no definite evidence that letters from Canada to Hong Kong are being delivered regularly. Arrangements, however, are being concluded for a second sailing of the Gripsholm at an early date, and it is expected that letter mail will be sent on this vessel.

When the final arrangements have been made the public will be duly notified as to the way in which such letters should be addressed and mailed, the statement said.

It added:

"Thirdly, as regards conditions in camps and hospitals. Visits by the Swiss representative are provided for under the Prisoner-of-War Convention. Visits have been made in Japan and occupied China, but soon after the war in the Far East began, neutral representatives were informed by the Japanese that they would not be allowed to establish themselves in any newly occupied territory.

"It has, therefore, been impossible to secure independent information about prisoners of war or British subjects in those areas, namely Malaya, Burma, Netherlands East Indies, or Indo-China. An exception was made in the case of Hong Kong, where an International Red Cross delegate is now working from whom reports have been received."

Flying Fish Plug Gouges Cottager

BANCROFT, Aug. 18 (ENS). — Mrs. Broadworth, a sister of Dr. F. Ross, of Belleville, who was also camping at Trout Lake, met with a freak yet painful accident while watching one of the boys in their party casting off Stewart's Point. They boy had made several casts successfully and then the unforseen happened. Instead of the plug striking the water it swung in an arc, striking Mrs. Broadworth on the left side of the head.

One set of hooks passed through her ear and the other set buried themselves under the skin near the temple. She managed to get the line cut from the plug and ran around the shore to Wiggin's cottage where Reginald Wiggins drove her into town and Dr. S. S. Lumb removed the embedded hooks. Mrs. Broadworth later returned to her cottage.

Dr. F. R. Ross, Belleville physician, who just arrived at Trout Lake, near Bancroft, for a vacation, on Saturday was stricken with an acute attack of appendicitis and rushed to Bancroft at midnight, where he consulted Dr. S. S. Lumb, afterwards motoring to Belleville where he underwent an operation early Sunday morning.

Snipers Bullet Ends Life Cpl. Fred Terry

By LOUIS V. HUNTER
Canadian Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, Aug. 5. — (Delayed).—(CP Cable.) — Corporal Fred Terry of Vancouver is dead—victim of a sniper's bullet— but before he fell he assaulted single-handed enemy machine-gun posts, wiped out one machine-gun crew and made it possible for his company to advance and silence others.

Terry was buried in the field July 30 after a service conducted by the regimental padre. Three of his closest friends, Sgt. Bob Peebles and Ptes. Al Noxon and John Hyra scoured the dry countryside to find flowers for the grave.

Terry's company commander, Maj. H. P. Bell-Irving said the Corporal's leadership and bravery contributed greatly to the capture of a hill. When the top of the hill was reached Terry began assisting in the task of re-organization. As he advanced around an exposed flank to see if it was safe for others a sniper's bullet killed him.

Pincers Close Around Kharkov City

Escape Corridor In The Rear Narrows Rapidly

MOSCOW, Aug. 19 (AP) — Red Army troops, slogging ahead through dogged German resistance south of Kharkov, today were approaching the two remaining railway escape lines supplying the beleaguered Nazi garrison inside the key Ukraine bastion.

A Soviet communique last night announced capture of Zmyev, 20 miles south of Kharkov, in a "decisive assault" in which 1,200 German shock troopers were killed. Zmyev is less than 10 miles from the Kharkov-Lozovaya railway, the main enemy supply line.

A few miles beyond lies the Kharkov-Krasnograd spur, which also must be severed before the Russians can close the Kharkov escape corridor, now less than 30 miles wide. The Kharkov-Poltava railroad had been cut earlier.

Northwest and west of Kharkov the Russians also reported overall gains of seven miles, capturing more than 50 additional towns and villages. Stubbornly contesting every fortified place, the Germans slowly fell back after suffering another 2,000 casualties.

Fight in Streets

In the northeastern suburbs of shell-wrecked Kharkov, meanwhile, Soviet shock troops kept up the see-saw, street-to-street battle against reinforced Nazi units.

In the wheeling movement south of Kharkov, which took them across the Donets river to Zmyev, the Soviet battalions were said to have scooped up great quantities of enemy war material.

Gains in the Kharkov area were made against fresh German reserves. These held momentarily, but superior enveloping tactics enabled the Red Army to continue its advance, the Russians said. They reported capture of a factory strong-point from counter-attacking Nazi troops yesterday.

On Three Sides

At the northern end of the 400-mile active front, converging Russian divisions were blasting the approaches to Bryansk from three sides, and Soviet dispatches said 1,300 German dead were counted.

Aerial Armada In Action Again

LONDON, Aug. 19 — (CP) — A mighty fleet of Allied planes flew out across the English Channel in daylight today to resume the aerial offensive against the European fortress of the Axis.

The formations which headed over the Strait of Dover included bombers and fighters and the roar of their engines resounded over the coast almost without interruption for more than two hours.

R.A.F. fighter-bombers carried out sweeps over France and the low countries last night, destroying a German patrol boat off Ostend, bombing the Poix airport and shooting up eight railway locomotives, it was announced.

One of the raiders was listed as missing.

There were no reports of bombings last night by the heavy bombers of the R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. which apparently were grounded by bad weather over the continent after 72 hours of unprecedented and almost continuous activity by British, Canadian and American airmen.

New York Times Says Dieppe Costly Proof Heavy Air Support Essential To Invasion

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—(CP).—The New York Times said in an editorial to-day, the first anniversary of the Canadian-led raid on Dieppe, that the "mistakes of Dieppe will not be made again."

The editorial said in part:

". . . Men afoot and men in tanks were exposed to a fire that no valor could withstand. Hundreds of them went as far as they could and died, but these deaths achieved nothing except to prove what was already known—the high quality of the Canadian troops and of the small units of British Commandos, United States Rangers and Fighting French who accompanied them.

With North Africa and Sicily in United Nations hands we can look back on the Dieppe episode with some composure, and leave to the historians the restowal of praise and blame. Dieppe belongs to a phase of war that has passed, as surely as have the tactics of Napoleon and Grant. The next landing in France will be preceded by operations which did not take place at Dieppe; by an air bombardment which will leave no able-bodied enemy within range of the beaches; by parachute and glider landings behind the hostile lines; by an overwhelming concentration of force ready to strike at the selected points.

"And some day there will be two spots on the French coast sacred to the British and their Allies. One will be Dunkirk, where Britain was saved because a beaten army would not surrender. The other will be Dieppe where brave men died without hope for the sake of proving that there is a wrong way to invade. They will have their share of the glory when the right way is tried in France, as it has already been tried in Sicily."

Eden's Arrival At Quebec Brings Political Flavor

By J. F. SANDERSON, Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC, Aug. 19.—(CP).—A general review of Allied political strategy developed here today when Anthony Eden, British Foreign Secretary, went into conferences with President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill, to be joined later by the veteran United States Secretary of State, Cordell Hull.

Mr. Eden arrived here yesterday by plane after a direct flight from Foynes, Eire, giving the Quebec conference decided emphasis on the political, as distinct from the military, side. The arrival time of Mr. Hull is uncertain.

High on the list of subjects to be discussed by the Allied leaders is a unified stand on recognition of the French Committee for National Liberation; a policy toward Italy, perhaps involving Rome as an open city; and, finally, political relations with Russia, particularly as they affect the German satellite nations in the Balkans.

It is taken for granted here Mr. Eden will fly to Moscow after the conclusion of the Quebec Conference to give Premier Stalin a detailed report on the deliberations, perhaps accompanied by some high-ranking American official like Sumner Welles, Undersecretary of State.

No further details were available today on President Roosevelt's projected visit to Ottawa, scheduled for early next week.

High officials of the conference were entertained at dinner in the Citadel last night by Prime Minister Mackenzie King, who included a number of leading Canadians in the list of 50 guests.

The highlight of the conference yesterday was Mr. Eden's arrival, almost 24 hours after the President came in from Washington, to complete the list of principals. With Mr. Eden in the big British Clipper-type plane which alighted in the St. Lawrence at the base of Wolfe's Cove was Sir Andrew Cadogan, Undersecretary at the British Foreign Office; and Brendan Bracken, British Minister of Information.

Mr. Eden's arrival gave a new twist to the conference, hitherto regarded as primarily a strategic meeting, with the Canadian, British and American Chiefs of Staff and their advisers plotting military moves in global warfare. However, the military conference continues in the old citadel, with high-ranking officers called in to discuss strategic problems with the president and Mr. Churchill.

It may develop the outstanding results of the Quebec conference are in the political, not the military field.

One obvious problem is French recognition, with Britain and the United States—particularly the British Foreign Office and American State Department—pulling in opposite directions in relation to the De Gaulle-Giraud setup.

Hun Government Moves To Vienna

LONDON, Aug. 19—(CP)—The United Nations radio at Algiers today broadcast a Berne dispatch quoting Hitler's newspaper Voelkischer Beobachter as saying "the whole German government has left Berlin." The broadcast was recorded by the Associated Press.

There was no immediate explanation or confirmation of the report.

The statement that the "whole German government" had moved came as a surprise in London, although there had been numerous unconfirmed reports the past three or four weeks that some governmental departments were being transferred.

These reports told of great vans being loaded at the doors of Berlin ministries and rolling away—possibly to Vienna, Linz or Breslau.

Neutral reports also have told of the moving of some governmental offices shortly after the Germans announced that they were withdrawing non-essential civilians from Berlin.

One Briton said "if the report is true it undoubtedly is inspired by the fear of a 'Hamburg' bombing which in a single night might destroy tons of records and create chaos in the governmental machinery."

There also was the possibility removal of the government might be a forerunner of an attempt, such as that of Rome, to obtain an "open-city" status for the Reich capital.

This was regarded as doubtful, however, due to the great concentration of electrical and other factories in the Berlin area and its importance as a transportation centre.

A Conservative guess in London of the number of persons who would be involved if the whole govern-

Barge Force Wiped Out By Americans

1,900 Japanese Drown Off Vella Lavella

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, The Southwest Pacific, Aug. 19 (AP) — The Japanese have been bloodily repulsed by a United States surface force in their first attempt to retake Vella Lavella Island in the central Solomons, occupied last Sunday by American invasion forces.

A spokesman at headquarters of Admiral William F. Halsey's South Pacific command said hundreds of barge-borne Japanese troops were killed or captured during a frustrated landing attempt early Tuesday. The thrust thus came a bare 48 hours after the first American amphibious units landed unopposed on this northerly island of the New Georgia group.

Of an estimated 1,500 to 2,200 troops in the enemy counter-invasion force, not more than 300 succeeded in reaching the island. And while there has been no ground action as yet, the spokesman said "unquestionably there are small groups" of the enemy roaming Vella Lavella.

Bag One Destroyer

The landing attempt was repelled by a light naval force which intercepted between 20 to 30 Japanese barges packed with 75 or more men each and a screening force of four destroyers.

In the engagement that followed, Allied Headquarters announced that one Japanese destroyer probably was sunk, another severely damaged and a third was hit. American warships routed the enemy destroyers which turned for home bases and then wiped out most of the barges. A few barges escaped to make landings on the northeast coast. The Allied communique announcing the victory also disclosed a small United States cargo ship was sunk on the same day by enemy aircraft.

On the left wing of the Allied offensive in the South Pacific, Japan's hour of reckoning in northeastern New Guinea was brought much nearer by airblows too staggering to permit early recovery.

EXTRA!

TORONTO—The General Synod of the Church of England in Canada will hold its 15th session here, Sept. 9-17 inclusive, it was announced today.

NEW YORK—BBC today quoted a dispatch from Lugano, Switzerland, as saying that Italian authorities had ordered the evacuation of the northern Italian towns of Varese and Como.

STOCKHOLM — Swedish correspondents in Rome indicated a major development occurred in Italy today but censorship prevented disclosure of the news in regular dispatches.

Dieppe Invasion One Year Ago Cost 3,350 Men

By DOUGLAS AMARON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Aug. 19.—(CP Cable.)—The first anniversary of the Battle of Dieppe, passed almost unobserved in Canadian army camps in England today as soldiers trained eagerly for the greater battles yet to be waged on the European continent. There are, however, plans for the observance of the anniversary this weekend with prayers and church parades.

But to-day for the most part the anniversary was observed with informal after-breakfast discussions in the mess halls of army camps scattered throughout the country here as officers and men recalled briefly the flaming action that took place on the beaches around Dieppe just a year ago. Then they plunged immediately into the arduous training program laiad out for uous training program laid ou for

New Reinforced.

This was especially true of battalions which fought at Dieppe. Few officers or men who fought on French beaches are left with the units but other soldiers have replaced those who have gone.

Dieppe units already share in another campaign, for they provided hundreds of men attached as reinforcements to 1st Division troops in Sicily.

New men have come to the Dieppe battalions in recent months and this means that much of the territorial distinction which marked these units has been lost.

The Essex Scottish battalion, once almost exclusively formed of recruits from the Windsor, Ont., area, now has men from every province of Canada. Whenever possible, however, replacements have been drawn from districts near the home towns of the units.

Meanwhile as training continues with one exercise after another, Dieppe is viewed as an invasion rehearsal but not a dress rehearsal. It is felt that the landings in North Africa were dress rehearsals and Pantellaria and Sicily were opening performances.

At a high price—3,350 troops casualties or war prisoners— the Canadians learned a lesson from which tactics have been evolved which are proving very effective in practice.

Incomplete Job

It was learned at Dieppe for instance that a successful landing depends on "complete" combined operations, and Dieppe was only partially complete.

It was learned also that it is infantry with guns that must secure a bridgehead and that tanks cannot do it, and further that the German Air Force can be dealt with before the enemy can bring up distant re-

American Warships Attacking Italian Mainland

By RELMAN MORIN
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, Aug. 19 —(AP)—American warships shelled the Italian mainland yesterday for the first time, developing violent explosions at Gioia Tauro and Palmi, and Allied air fleets deprived beaten Axis troops of respite by pounding communications throughout southern Italy, it was announced today.

"United States naval forces which had been supporting the advance of the U.S. 7th Army in Sicily have taken up shelling military objectives on the Italian mainland now that the island has fallen," a communique said.

Specific targets of the first thrust were bridges and power installations at Gioia Tauro and Palmi, on the Gulf of Gioia 20 miles north of captured Messina.

Light bombers and fighter bombers carried out attacks on roads and railways which might be employed by the remnants of German and Italian forces which escaped from Sicily, pitting the tracks and destroying enemy vehicles.

Wreck Bridges

"Medium bombers attacked bridges at Angitola and roads and rail communications at Pontiodi and Staletti," it was announced.

Fighter-bombers left a small Axis naval vessel in a sinking condition off southern Sardinia and medium bombers sank an enemy merchant craft in the Gulf of Eufemia, just north of the Gulf of Gioia.

"The Bizerte area was again attacked by enemy aircraft last night," an aerial communique said: "Six enemy bombers were shot down. Two enemy aircraft were destroyed on the night of Aug. 17 in addition to those already reported."

From all operations, three Allied aircraft are missing, the bulletin said.

Palmi, a town of some 11,000 population, lies half way up Monte Sant'elia which commands a view of the Calabrian coast and Sicily, a position that would be ideal for Axis artillery posts.

The town is 20 miles north of Reggio Calabria on the main coastal road used by Axis forces retreating after their defeat in Sicily. Giogia Tauro is on the same road about six miles farther north.

Palmi and Gioia Tauro are located on the western side of the mainland where the Gulf of Gioia makes a deep dent in the coast. Palmi is the larger municipality and is nearer Messina than Gioia Tauro.

While the American 7th Army was advancing along the northern coast of Sicily, United States warships frequently lent support by smashing enemy concentrations and installations ahead of the troops, but they never before had attacked the mainland of Italy.

British naval forces, however, have bombarded Italy on several occasions.

It was announced at headquarters that military activity had simmered down to occasional exchanges of artillery fire across the strait near captured Messina.

New Labor Law Can Shift Workers 16-40

OTTAWA, Aug. 19.—(CP).—Labor Minister Mtichell announced today that all youths and men aged 16 to 40 have been made subject to existing and further compulsory employment transfer orders under a recent order-in-council.

Previously, the orders — used to shift workers from non-essential to essential industries—applied only to men designated for the compulsory military call-up and to youths aged 16 17 and 18. Now they apply to all youths and men aged 16 to 40, inclusive, whether married or single and whether or not liable to military call-up.

Mr. Mitchell said the sixth compulsory employment transfer order will be issued shortly. The order, which will relate only to the occupations and industries included in the first five orders, will bring under the previous orders all youths and men from 16 to 40 who have not already been covered.

Mr. Mitchell said the recent Order-in-Council amends Section 210 of National Selective Service civilian regulations to read as follows:

"210 (1) the Minister may, by order, forbid any employer or group or class of employers to retain in employment after a specified date any male person (or group or class of male persons) who has attained or who later attains his 16th birthday and who has not attained his 41st birthday, unless such person has presented to the employer a permit in prescribed form issued by a Selective Service officer; or may require any employer, or group or class of employers to terminate, at such time and in such manner as he may specify, the employment of any such person or group or class of such persons."

Work Slowly.

Mr. Mitchell added that it was intended to "go carefully into the circumstances" surrounding the employment of all men from 16 to 40 in a large number of occupations and industries.

"The cases of men subject to mobilization regulations and of the young men 16, 17 and 18 years old have already been reviewed in quite a lengthy list of occupations." he said.

"Shortly an order will be issued bringing the cases of all other men who are within the age limits provided by the amendment, under examination, and progressively further orders will be issued covering all men in the groups now referred to in the regulations, who may be engaged at certain occupations not covered by the first five orders.

"The process of moving men up to occupations of high priority involves a very great deal of careful and painstaking administration, so that the job must be done progressively. However, the project will be moved along as rapidly as is pos-

Casualties Light Compared To Dieppe Show

OTTAWA, Aug. 19 (CP)—Casualties to Canadian troops in the Sicilian campaign totalled 1,895 up to Aug. 4, the Defence Department announced today.

Confirming an earlier announcement from Algiers it was disclosed that by an odd coincidence the casualty total for Sicily was exactly the same as the 100 per cent casualty toll suffered by the Canadian arms at Hong Kong, its first heavy loss of this war.

The text of the Department's statement said:—

"Advices from overseas to the Department of National Defence give the numbers of casualties suffered by the Canadian troops in Sicily between July 10 and 6 a.m., Aug. 4, as follows:—

	Officers	Other ranks
Killed	25	360
Wounded ...	100	1,100
Missing	10	300
Totals	135	1,760

Moderate Losses

"In view of the fact that the fighting had been particularly heavy during the latter part of the period covered by these figures, and in proportion to the number of troops engaged in the campaign, the casualties among our troops are considered to be quite moderate, averaging about 70 a day for the 25-day period.

"Detailed official casualty lists, giving names and other particulars of the Canadian personnel killed, wounded and missing in Sicilian operations, are now being issued. To date two lists, totalling 133 names have been made public and others will follow from time to time."

In Sicily, a Division was engaged, the 1st under command of Maj.-Gen. Guy Simonds of Kingston, Ont. Proportionate to the number of troops engaged, the losses were very small compared with the last major Canadian Army engagement, the Battle of Dieppe, when out of two Brigades and an army tank battalion, a total of about 5,000 troops, more than 3,000 casualties were reported.

Invasion Chief Will Be Named

LONDON, Aug. 19 — (CP). — The London Daily Mail's correspondent in Quebec, Don Iddon said in a dispatch to-day that the Churchill-Roosevelt conference is studying plans for naming a Commander-in-Chief, probably a Briton, to head a "direct invasion front in which huge armies now massed in Britain will be hurled against the Continent at a number of points."

General arrangements for a "receivership" of the Italian state, and selection of a Commander-in-Chief in Southern Asia, also are being studied, he said.

Iddon said his information was that Lt.-Gen. Joseph W. Stillwell United States Commander in China, Burma and India, would head the Far Eastern Command, whose responsibility would be to retake Burma and open a drive against Japan while Gen. Douglas MacArthur's forces push up from the South Pacific.

Once Italy falls, the correspondent said, Britain would have only a modest use for her naval power in European waters and large numbers of British ships would be moved to the Pacific to join the American Fleet.

Japs Reeling From Blows In Pacific

Nazis Facing Bloody Crisis In Russia; Reds Clamor For Aid

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

As the big chiefs go into action at Quebec to grease the skids for Nazidom it strikes me we might well pause for a touch of the cap to the gallant fighting services which have continued to hold the Pacific lines while we have been engaged in "beating Hitler first."

It gives one a chill to think what might have happened to Australia, the Hawaiian Islands, Alaska or even the west coast of continental United States and Canada if it hadn't been for the skill and sacrifice of all categories in the Fai Pacific. They've done one of the decisive jobs of the war.

The latest aerial success yesterday and Tuesday at Wewak, New Guinea, is a reminder that not only have the Pacific forces performed the essential holding operation against a powerful enemy, but they have done the impossible by seizing the initiative and putting the Japs on the defensive.

The significance? Well, that beautiful Wewak job brings us just so much closer to the day when we shall wipe out the great Jap naval base at Truk, thus rendering the Mikado's forces impotent in that whole vast zone of islands northeast of Austrila. The little men of the Rising Sun are being forced back step by step.

Meantime in the "Hitler-first" campaign, Moscow reports the Germans are counter-attacking before Kharkov on the fiercely - contested southern battle-front, seeking an opening for an offensive to offset the devastating Red drive. Such a development would greatly intensify the already-bloody crisis which is threatening to force the Nazi chief to withdraw his entire great line in Russia.

Want Diversion

This turn of events has resulted in the Soviet Army newspaper Red Star making a fresh appeal for a second land front in western Europe, to force Hitler to divert troops from Russia and put him no the defensive in both west and east.

Red Star estimates the German force in Russia at 211 divisions, which might run close to 3,000,000 effectives. There are said to be some 16 divisions more (say more than 200,000 men) in reserve in Poland. About 75 other divisions (maybe 1,000,000 troops) are estimated to be distributed over the rest of Europe.

"The disposition of the German forces and reserves clearly proves that the German general staff does not await any forthcoming large, serious operations by the Allies on the continent says Red Star.

All this is set forth by the newspaper with direct reference to the Quebec conference, and of course anything published in Red Star represents the government view.

So far as Quebec is concerned, the need of a land front in western Europe at the earliest feasible moment was conceded long ago by the Allied High Command. Therefore the problem of Messrs. Churchill and Roosevelt, and their advisers, isn't whether there should be such a front but when it will be feasible to establish it.

Labor Backs Cohen's Stand

Lawyer Wants Clarification Of Policies

OTTAWA, Aug. 19 — (CP). — The Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, in a statement issued today, complimented J. L. Cohen, K.C., of Toronto, on "his courageous stand" in refusing to continue sitting as a member of the National War Labor Board on controversial cases until certain Government policies have been clarified.

Mr. Cohen, in a letter to Mr. Justice C. P. McTague yesterday, said the existing legislation covering Board operations imposed limitations upon it. He revealed that Justice McTague and himself had differed in respect to recommendations to be made to the Government on future labor policy.

In a statement last night, A. R. Mosher, president of the Canadian Congress of Labor, said his organization was "greatly surprised and disturbed" to learn there had been disagreements between Mr. Justice McTague and Mr. Cohen on the recommendations to be made on labor policy.

P. R. Bengough, acting president of the Trades and Labor Congress, said to-day his organization wholeheartedly endorsed the stand taken by Mr. Cohen that the Government position should be clarified in regard to labor policy before any further disputed cases are heard before the War Labor Board.

Bombers Unnerve Balkans

Hungarians Demand Peace As Huns Rule

ISTANBUL, Aug. 17 (delayed)—(AP)—Bombardment by American planes of the Wiener Neustadt Messerschmitt Aircraft plant in former Austria Friday and dropping of tracts by the planes in Budapest stirred up trouble in the Hungarian capital, travellers from there said today.

The day after the planes appeared over Vienna and Budapest, the Central Railway Station of Budapest was choked with Hungarians trying to flee to the country.

Near the station, some large crowds waiting for trains began a demonstration and parade, crying "peace, peace," the travellers reported, adding that police broke up the demonstration.

The German minister at Budapest had a long conference with Premier Nicholas Kallay Monday, according to a diplomat. The diplomat said the subject of the conference apparently was the dangerous point reached recently in Rumanian Hungarian enmity over Transylvania.

It was believed the Germans proposed mediation of the quarrel and got an agreement from Kallay that the Hungarians would not push their claims for the present.

BROADCAST BEAMED TO OCCUPIED EUROPE SAYS LIBERATION NEAR

French Told Get Ready For Invasion

Germans Massing Troops In North Italy

By LEWIS HAWKINS
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Aug. 19— (AP)— The Germans are moving troops into Italy in considerable strength apparently intending to make a real fight for at least the northern end of that country, a competent British military informant said today.

"Several divisions" have been on the move to Italy from France and Germany in the last week or two, but an exact estimate of Nazi strength in Italy is not possible now, said this commentator who cannot be identified further.

From other sources came indications the Germans are not only moving into Italy, but that their troops from western and northern France have taken over the French coastal stretch from the Italian border to Toulon—previously garrisoned by Italian troops.

A radio broadcast in the name of the Allied high command told patriots in occupied Europe last night to prepare for invasion of the continent which "might be near."

The best information in London before the fall of Sicily indicated the Germans had two or three divisions south of Naples on the Italian mainland and these plus perhaps 25,000 troops evacuated from the island would give the Germans a force of 50,000 to 75,000 for defence of Southern Italy—if they are still there.

The broadcast, directed primarily to people of metropolitan France, declared a new phase of the European war, "the liberation of occupied countries," has begun now that the occupation of Sicily is complete.

"We obviously are not going to reveal where the blow will fall," the message said, then added:—

"People of the occupied country which is to be the first to welcome the armies of liberation will be notified at the last minute."

Urged Use Care

Until that time arrives, all patriots were asked to aim their actions toward perfecting preparations for giving assistance to the Allied invaders while at the same time exercising "the greatest care" that they do not fall into the hands of the enemy.

"All those elements which are to contribute in any way whatsoever to the success of eventual operations on French metropolitan territory must be fully equipped to carry out their task," said the broadcast.

"In the past you have heard similar messages from Allied Headquarters," the announcers said in conclusion. "You have just heard one of gravest importance."

The invasion blow could fall from the hands of the victorious Sicilian armies now poised in Messina across from Italy or from the big concentrations of battle-eager troops waiting and trainng in England. Opinion is growing in Britain there may possibly be more than one diversionary blow accompanying major landings.

German commentators were quoted to the same effect in Stockholm dispatches to London morning newspapers.

A dispatch from Associated Press correspondent Thomas F. Hawkins in Berne said indications there were that Germany is planinng to fight a delaying action from Southern Italy northward, will do her best to keep Italy in the war, and will make a determined stand at the Brenner Pass in the north.

German commentators kept up a chatter about an invasion fleet massing in the Mediterranean.

A Berlin broadcast recorded by the Associated Press claimed 22 Allied ships with a total tonnage of 138,000 were damaged on Tuesday night by German planes in a raid on the Tunisian port of Bizerte.

The Madrid radio, in a broadcast last night heard by the Associated Press, quoted "informed circles" as saying the Allied Commander-in-

16-Year-Old Boy Held For Theft

Brought back from Stratford early Thursday by Detective Sergt. W. E. Meagher and Officer Archie Menzies, Carl Northey, 16, appeared before Magistrate R. B. Baxter in police court today on a charge of stealing a truck belonging to Wonder Bakeries here on August 8.

Northey had been arrested in Stratford on a charge of stealing gasoline there and on his plea of guilty was sentenced to two months in jail. On a judge's order he was brought back here to stand trial on the truck-stealing charge.

The youth who was represented this morning by Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., entered a plea of not guilty and at the request of the crown was remanded for a week.

Pte. Albert Selmes, similarly charged, was remanded until the same date and later in a juvenile court hearing a younger boy, arraigned for theft of the bread truck was also remanded when it was announced that the youth's parents had not been notified.

day some form of modified recognition of the French committee would emerge from the conference, limited to the French Colonial Empire and not as a governmental institution.

Russia Paramount.

It was suggested here last night that relations between Russia and the western democracies will be of paramount consideration, particularly as they appear to be reaching a point where some concrete indication of unity, co-operation and solidarity may be necessary to reassure public opinion in Allied and enemy-dominated countries.

Diplomatic sources here to-day stressed that Allied policy toward Italy has lately lost its propaganda value among the Italian people. They suggested that Premier Badoglio is presenting one face to the Germans and another to the Allies, with the result the Allies have been able to make no political progress among the Italian people since the downfall of Benito Mussolini.

This situation, it was suggested here, may be duplicated in the Balkans when military victories tear them from the Axis side—something that requires an immediate review of Allied political strategy.

What may emerge from the conference is a positive Allied general policy making allowance for political differences in each state but at the same time designed to take advantage of internal unrest and disruption that has been evident in Italy.

For Friday, August 20

A PARTICULARLY auspicious time for seeking promotion, favors, and other tokens of good will and esteem from those in high places, either in business, employment or from group, community or public officials. All should be kindly disposed, especially to trose who have worked hard and faithfully for rewards of merit. The accent is placed this day on courtship, romance, popularity and charm, with all the claims of youth, its ideals and aspirations under splendid auguries for fulfillment.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of advancement, promotion, preferment and favors from those in power and authority, in employment, in public posts or with other influential personages. Seek such emoluments and aims with the force of personality, with charm and magnetic approach, as these are under splendid stimulus for achievement of hopes and wishes. Romance, courtship or marriage should bring much practical satisfaction as well as youthful ideals and ambitions.

A child born on this day should have a successful and happy life, with possible honors and distinction, based on its innate talents as well as its charming and convincing personality. It may have an artistic or literary career.

LONDON, Aug. 19 —(CP)— The King today congratulated Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and the forces under his command upon the successful conclusion of the Sicilian campaign which, he said, caused rejoicing throughout the British Empire.

He asked that the Allied commander-in-chief convey "to my British and Canadian troops special assurance of my pride in their share of this victory."

His message said:

"On the final accomplishment of the occupation of Sicily I wish to send to you and all members of the forces that you command with such distinction my heartfelt congratulations on a great achievement.

"Throughout the British Empire we have watched with admiration the ordered progress of the campaign by sea, by land and by air. We rejoice at its successful conclusion.

In the case of men with domestic responsibilities, changes of residence will not be required which will involve domestic hardship, although these men will be available for transfer within industry in the areas in which they reside.

He said that once the amendment to the regulations is implemented by specific orders, male employees covered will be required to register at an employment and selective service office and an employer will be prohibited from continuing to employ the men affected except under special permit.

Canada Pays $8,000 Daily For Conference

By C. R. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC, Aug. 19.—(CP).—Canada is paying about $8 000 a day to cover the expenses of between 500 and 600 people engaged in the Churchill-Roosevelt war conference at the Chateau Frontenac here.

This was revealed to-day by Dr. E. H. Coleman, Undersecretary of State and chairman of the Canadian Co-ordinating Committee on Conference Arrangements, at a press conference held in the Quebec City Council Chamber.

He told how—working under the handicap of utmost secrecy starting the last week in July—he obtained the exclusive use of the crowded Chateau, famous tourist hotel owned by the Canadian Pacific Railway and crowded to capacity at this time of year.

Given Hotel.

He said he was authorized to tell his brother,, D. C. Coleman, president and chairman of the C.P.R., what the hotel was wanted for when he went to him July 30 with the request that the entire building be vacated for the conference.

"I told him that I had a great secret to tell him and he said if it was a great secret he did not want to hear it—and I did not tell him," said Dr. Coleman.

The C.P.R. head knew it was something big and gave his permission.

Guests Leave

The hotel, which has 1,100 beds and 624 sleeping rooms, was vacated Sunday evening Aug. 8, except for six aged and permanent guests who were permitted to remain in quarters closed off from the rest of the building and with an exit other than through the lobby.

Here are some practical details of the facilities and arrangements made to use them, as revealed by Dr. Coleman:

1. The British and American delegations range from 200 to 250 persons each. The Canadian delegation comprises 85 persons.

2. The Canadian Government is being chargec between $11 and $12 a day for each person living in the Chateau, this amount covering rooms and meals. The charge is $10 a day for each of the 25 rooms converted into offices.

3. This arrangement and all others was made with B. A. Neale, C.P.R. hotel system director, and the rate was considered "reasonable."

4. Each of the three delegations has an entire Chateau floor for its exclusive use.

5. The Citadel, summer home of the governor-general, was made available for Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt, each with a suite of about eight rooms.

6. Prime Minister Mackenzie King, conference host, is quartered in the apartment of Brig. E. Blais, district officer commanding Military District No. 5 (Quebec), immediately adjoining the vice-regal residence but with a separate entrance.

So it can be said that Dieppe founded a timetable for invasion, that the Dieppe regiments by trial and error paved the way for their comrades in Sicily, and on the basis that the Allies profited from the lessons learned on France's blood-stained beaches, it can be said that Dieppe established soundly the belief that Europe could be invaded, while operations since then have proved it.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 19 — (CP). — Wheat and rye futures registered sharp gains yesterday on Winnipeg Grain Exchange in trading which produced additional export business to the United Kingdom and further inquiry for Canadian wheat from the United States Commodity Credit Carporation. Wheat advanced ½ to ¾ cent a bushel.

Rye jumped ⅞ to 1⅛ cents on fair purchases by American interests in the October and May options.

Shippers purchased nearly 200,000 bushels of No. 2 Northern in the cash wheat market. Only small lots of lower grades changed hands. Rye was in demand in the cash coarse grain market, but no important transactions were reported.

Hong Kong Count

At Hong Kong, a combined Canadian-British-Indian force resisted a Japanese attack for more than two weeks before surrendering Christmas Day, 1941, when further resistance became impossible.

The Canadian contingent numbered 1,891 men in two battalions, the Winnipeg Grenadiers and the Royal Regiment of Canada from Quebec, plus a Brigade headquarters. The whole force was either killed or made prisoner and subsequent reports from the Japanese on the number of prisoners indicated 296 of the Canadians were dead or missing.

An unofficial total of Dieppe casualties gives 561 dead, 239 missing, 570 wounded and 1,918 prisoners.

The Canadian force engaged at Dieppe was probably less than half the size of the force engaged in Sicily.

5 Armies Gone

It was announced officially the entire Italian 6th Army was destroyed during the Sicilian campaign.

This makes a total of five armies Italy has lost since the beginning of the war. The 1st, 5th and 10th were destroyed during the African fighting. The 8th disintegrated in Russia.

The 6th Army originally was composed of two corps, comprising 300,000 men with 1,700 guns and 150 tanks. (Presumably, both manpower and material had been cut appreciably in previous campaigning and by desertions of troops who donned mufti in Sicily.)

Gen. Eisenhower announced yesterday the Axis lost more than 167,000 men killed, wounded and captured on the island up to Aug. 10. Allied casualties from beginning to end in Sicily were 25,000 men, the Allied commander in chief said.

Appearance of the warships off the western edge of the Italian toe increased the heavy volume of fire already being poured into Italian comunications and fixed installations by powerful armadas of Allied bombers.

Officers said the Germans lost two complete divisions, killed, wounded or captured, and a large amount of heavy equipment including an unstated number of 60-ton Tiger tanks, many of which were seized intact and were capable of being put into immediate operation.

"While "wrecking crews" of the Northwest African air forces chased Axis forces across Southern Italy, Middle East squadrons maintained their offensive over the Eastern Mediterranean.

Axis shipping and harbor installations of three Greek islands, Zante, Melos and Syros were attacked by R.A.F. Beaufighters and Wellington bombers both Tuesday and Tuesday night, a Cairo communique said.

Aerial Coup Cripples Jap Airfleet

Second Attack Spares 10 Out Of 225 Planes

By C. YATES McDANIEL
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, The Southwest Pacific, Aug. 19 (AP)— Japan's hour of reckoning in northeastern New Guinea—left wing of the Allies South Pacific offensive—has been brought much nearer by air blows too staggering to permit early recovery.

At Wewak, a once potent force of 225 planes was reduced to an impotent 10 in two spectacular raids by Allied bombers and fighters Tuesday and Wednesday. Japanese fliers and ground crewmen killed exceeded 1,500.

Down the coast 350 miles, the Japanese air base town of Salamaua is largely in ruins from more than 1,000 tons of bombs dropped within the past month by Australians and Americans.

Five miles below Salamaua Japanese troops are fighting to keep Allied jungle forces from capturing the airdrome.

Smash Barges

They need supplies and reinforcements which the Japanese try to sneak down by sea. Yesterday Allied planes blew up several supply barges and also hit at least four small coastal vessels. On southern New Britain 17 were destroyed or damaged.

Other Allied planes yesterday bombed a 4,500-ton enemy freighter-transport between New Britain and New Ireland.

Today's communique from Allied headquarters reported Allied bombers and fighters went back yesterday to the Wewak area airdromes where on Tuesday all but 52 of a fleet of 225 enemy planes were either destroyed or damaged. Thirty of the 52 rose to meet the raiders. Twenty-eight were shot down.

Strafed for Hours

Then the raiders bombed and strafed the 'dromes for hours until only 10 of the fleet remained

Fala Gives Wink To Reporters

Fala, President Roosevelt's famous black Scotty who gave reporters the tip-off that the President's train had arrived in Montreal on its way to Quebec. The presence of the President's special train was kept secret until Fala emerged at the end of a long leather leash for a stroll, accompanied by a Filipino houseboy.

LIFFORD LINE

Thieves Take Cream Cheques

LIFFORD LINE, Aug. 19 (ENS) —On Wednesday morning when Orono Cream truck called to collect cream along Lifford Line there were no cream cheques to be handed out in payment for the previous shipment. Some time during Tuesday night or in the early hours of Wednesday morning robbers broke a window in the creamery at Orono and robbed the safe of a total of three thousand dollars in cheques and cash which had been left ready for delivery to patrons in the morning routes.

Although police are busy on the case, so far no clue has been found as to the whereabouts of those connected with the robbery.

Some insurance was carried against robbery which will partially cover the loss sustained.

ROSENEATH

W.A. Arranges Special Meeting

ROSENEATH, Aug. 19.—(ENS.) —A business session featured the meeting of the W.A. of the United church on Wednesday afternoon when plans were developed to entertain sister societies at the September meeting.

The meeting will be held in the town hall and Mrs. M. Davey and Mrs. E. Sandercock were appointed a reception committee and Mrs. A. Nill, Mrs. C. Grigg and Mrs. Ella Brown form a program committee. Mrs. G. L. Tucker and Mrs. F. Norris are members of a refreshment committee. At this meeting final arrangements regarding Christmas boxes for overseas, under discussion, will be completed.

Boxes Received

Mrs. Fannie Blodgett was hostess at the meeting and Mrs. G. L. Tucker, president, was in the chair, and Mrs. E. H. Unstead conducted the devotional period, ner subject was "I Am the Way."

The correspondence consisted of letters of thanks for boxes received from overseas by Jack Pacey, Clark Lapp, Walter and Elmer Down, Frank Linton, Bill Stanworth, George Dobson, Jack Arber and Frank Mouncey.

Letters of thanks were received from Mrs. John Coyle and Mrs. Alfred Braithwaite for remembrances received while ill.

Receipts for the day were $2.50 from the quilt committee and $2 from the sales committee

Donate Quilts.

Early in the year Mrs. Alfred Braithwaite and Mrs. Clark Sandercock donated two quilts to the society, the proceeds when quilts were sold to be applied to the Red Cross fund, as a result $8 was turned in to the Red Cross at the meeting.

It was decided on motion to make a donation of $3.00 to the Milk for Britain fund.

Mrs. M. Davey Mrs. C. Grigg and Mrs. Clark Sandercock were named a committee to arrange to have the church windows re-finished.

Varied Program.

The program in charge of Mrs. S. Thackerey, consisted of a piano solo, 'Up the Hill," by Doris Robins; reading by Mrs. C. Sandercock, Marojrie Sandercock and Mrs. F. Norris; a Biblical contest by the convener and a musical contest by Mrs. Frank Adams. Mrs. M. Davey read an article from "Items From Sories of Free China," and gave a brief sketch of the author.

Mrs. Unstead pronounced the closing benediction.

An Unnecessary Insult To Russia

A few weeks ago we announced our intention to reprint, from time to time, articles which had appeared in the French-Canadian press, in the hope that by so doing we might contribute a little toward a better understanding between the two principal races in Canada. If we know what Quebec thinks, we argued, and if Quebec knows what we think, the chances of our reaching agreement on important matters is certainly better than if both sides argue from partial understanding and prejudice.

And now L'Action Catholique, an influential Quebec paper, has published an editorial signed by Louis Philippe Roy, with which we strongly disagree. This is how it begins:

> Stalin will not come to Quebec.
>
> We rejoice. His presence would have spoiled the pleasure we have and tarnished the pride we show in welcoming the political and military leaders of the United Nations.
>
> Not that we ignore the extent of Russia's participation in the war and the importance of the Russian factor in the advantageous turn of operations on all fronts. But since the "Red" dictator has not participated before at any of the Churchill-Roosevelt conferences, his coming to Quebec, capital of the only Catholic state on this continent, would have been a challenge.
>
> Moreover, one should not be astonished if Mr. Churchill and Mr. Roosevelt little favored the presence of Stalin in their deliberations. The Prime Minister of Great Britain, the President of the United States, the Prime Minister of Canada, and the representatives of other United Nations will no doubt discuss the peace and some post-war problems. Now on these various points the attitude of Stalin remains more than enigmatic; it is frankly disquieting.

The remainder of the editorial is a development of this theme.

Could any statement of opinion be less fortunate? As we pointed out in these columns on Friday last, there are already reasons for uneasiness between Russia and the western democracies, and we should eliminate those reasons as quickly and as completely as possible. Let us keep this firmly fixed in our minds: Russia has just as many reasons to mistrust us as we have to mistrust her. The ideologies of the democracies and of Russia are opposed on many important points, and Russia fears that we are out to queer her pitch, just as many people here fear that she is out to queer ours. It is only by rising above these disputed points and concentrating on the job of defeating the foe who threatens us both that we can hold the United Nations together and win the war.

L'Action Catholique has gone out of its way to slap an ally in the face, an attitude which ill becomes a paper in the one province in this Dominion which has been isolationist and obstructionist in a large body of its opinion ever since the war began. A dislike of Communism as a political creed is characteristic of almost all the people of Canada; a desire to make that dislike the basis of an anti-Russian foreign policy is characteristic only of Quebec.

We cannot think of any journalistic action in the course of the war which contains such seeds of discord and mischief as this one. Let us hope that the Russians will not mistake this pinched and provincial outburst for the true voice of Canada.

Comparative Taxation

Mr. Morgenthau, the United States Secretary of the Treasury, has published a series of charts demonstrating the differences in Income Tax paid by two salary groups — the $2,000 and $5,000 groups—in the U.S., in Canada, and in Great Britain, in order to back up Mr. Roosevelt's demand for higher taxes and greater savings. Here are the figures for a married man with no dependants:

Country	$2,000 Net Income	$5,000 Net Income
United States	$188	$932
Canada	231	1,378
United Kingdom	378	1,628

These figures have awakened interest and some apprehension in the U.S. It has been pointed out by the new York Times that the charts deal with comparatively low incomes, and that in the higher brackets the U.S. taxes are comparable with the British taxes. The U.S. has State and local taxation, and places a heavy burden on corporations; it also taxes certain types of income twice — once as it effects the corporation and once after it has reached the individual.

But we suspect that Mr. Morgenthau is paving the way for increasing the income tax to the lower brackets. Until quite recently the U.S. treated Income Tax very much as a class tax, and it was paid only by about one person in twenty-five. Britain, and to a lightly lesser degree Canada, look upon Income Tax as a chief source of revenue, and spread it over the whole taxable population. Perhaps Mr. Morgenthau has some comparable scheme in the back of his mind.

The Major And The Monocle

An interesting story reaches us of Major Bernard Ferguson, an officer of the famous Black Watch who is now with that astounding outfit, Wingate's Penetration Force, in Burma. Wingate's Mob have done a job of jungle fighting perhaps never equalled in history, and Major Ferguson was in all of it; he wore a monocle during all of his waking hours and never once lost it, though he broke two or three in moments of stress. Thus, when an R.A.F. plane dropped a parcel of stores for his Chindit column, it included a couple of monocles for the major, as necessary supplies.

Very few men on this side of the Atlantic wear monocles. An iron control of the face and an aloofness of spirit are needed to wear a monocle which do not flourish in the North American climate. Many Englishmen wear them; the New Yorker recently reported the presence of a British vessel in the harbour of New York City which, as it was manned by the Naval Volunteers, numbered four monocled ordinary seamen among its crew. And frequently the monocle has its importance as a symbol.

Clearly Major Ferguson did not mean to allow any nasty little Japs to detract from his personal dignity; he did not go hunting them in goggles. Had he been captured by Japs he would no doubt have died with his monocle wedged firmly in his eye; had he been captured by cannibals he would have disappeared into the stewpot with a gleaming eyeglass and an unimpaired sense of his superiority. But he did neither of those things. With the rest of Wingate's Mob he gave the Japs a thorough shellacking, and beat them at their own game of jungle warfare, and he kept his monocle as well. There is a great deal to be said for refusing to compromise, particularly when one is dealing with thoroughly nasty people.

A Word To The Wise

The problem of shopping for food becomes more complex with each passing week. Not, of course, that Canadian housewives have any difficulties comparable with those of Britain, but the search for the ingredients of a well-balanced and pleasant diet is long and hard. The woman who does her week's shopping in one afternoon now must visit a dozen or more stores in order to find the things which she used to buy at one or two favourite shops; and the number is increasing of those who make the rounds of the stores every day looking for whatever is in short supply, and snapping it up as soon as it is put on the shelves.

And of course in these circumstances women cannot be so particular as they were in the days of plenty. They are no longer able to ask for their favourite brands of goods; they must take what they can get. Often they buy products which they have never used before, produced by makers with unfamiliar names, and sometimes they are surprised by the excellence of these unknown goods.

That is why manufacturers who have had a wide popularity and a large market are well advised to keep their trade-names before the public, whether they have goods for immediate sale or not. If they do not do so, they will be forgotten, and when the war is over they will find that their place has been taken by the unknown makers whose goods were forced into prominence during the years of shortage.

Readers of papers from Great Britain these days must be amazed by the quantity of advertising which is printed for no other purpose than to keep the name of a popular product before the public. These advertisements say, in effect, "You cannot have our biscuits now because they are all going to the armed forces, but after the war we shall be back, just as good as ever; don't forget us". And because of the ingenuity and humour with which these reminders are presented—and the use of humour in advertisement is almost entirely neglected in this country—the public will remember, and will be faithful to its old friends.

A word to the wise, we believe, is sufficient.

Trades Union Considerations

(WINNIPEG FREE PRESS)

IT has been said that greedy capitalists were willing to jeopardize the whole future of their system for the sake of an immediate profit. Whatever validity this assertion had for capitalists does not concern us at the moment. What does concern us is that it can be applied with considerable factual basis to the position now being taken by Canadian labour leaders. From their recent speeches it is apparent that they are willing to jeopardize the whole future of Canadian unionism for the sake of immediate advantages to be gained from compulsory collective bargaining legislation. And in this pursuit of immediate advantage a fundamental right upon which trade unionism is founded is lost sight of. That is the right of a workman to belong to a union of his choice.

In the present struggle, Canadian labour is following the American pattern. That is it is seeking to have governments do things for it by the passage of laws which it has been unable to do for itself. For this there is a considerable body of argument in Canada as well as in the United States. Thus after years of non-union operation of their plants, many industrialists became so strongly entrenched that unions could make no headway. In some of these non-union plants, working conditions were very good and in some they were very bad. In the United States federal laws were passed which forced all companies engaged in inter-state commerce to recognize and bargain collectively with legitimate trades unions. In addition, many states passed local laws to govern intra-state commerce. Canadian unions are now pressing for similar action in Canada and three provinces, British Columbia, Ontario and Nova Scotia, have already passed collective bargaining acts.

THE Dominion Government, early in the war, passed p. c. 2685 which recognized the rights of workers to belong to unions of their choice and to bargain collectively with their employers. As a statement of principle, this was good, but as a law it was bad because it was not enforced. As a result powerful employers have been able to defy the government, refuse to recognize unions and bargain collectively, and get away with it. Despite the hundreds of cases where new collective bargaining agreements have been made as the result of the establishment of this principle, extremists have been able to make a good deal of capital out of the defiance of the government by the Kirkland Lake mine operators. Out of the dissatisfaction thus engendered has come a demand for a codification into the law of the land of labour agreements previously negotiated between employees and employers.

The unions are demanding not only that employers be forced to bargain collectively with them, for which a case can be made, but that the same law forces employers to institute closed shop contracts and provision for checking off duties payments from the pay of the members. Here labour is asking the government to do something which it ought to do itself. If it succeeds in its campaign, it will gain considerable immediate advantage but the ultimate harm that it will do to trades unionism will far exceed the quick gains.

In this world of ours the more we depend upon others the less we depend upon ourselves. The danger in this is that when the time comes for us to defend ourselves and our rights we may have lost the ability to do so. If trades unions are to play a useful part in the operation of the Canadian economy, and they can if they will, they must be alert and continually concerned with the welfare of their members. Their members must carry cards because they believe in trades unions and know their value and not because they are forced into them by law against their will. The only kind of membership that is worth anything is one which is keen and enthusiastic. A lethargic, even antagonistic, membership is of no value to a trades union or any other organization for its support cannot be counted upon when it is needed most.

IF an employer and a union decide that there should be a closed shop clause in the contract, or a check-off clause, they can have it. If they decide against it, they can have it that way. If they disagree then in normal times it can be settled in time-honoured fashion by a strike. These and a score of other details are things which should be worked out between interested parties. They are not things which should be written into the laws of the country. When we start codifying everything and restricting the hand of managers in the operation of their businesses we are flirting with Fascism, for these are manifestations of corporate state thinking. Hitler and Mussolini went through different motions, but in the end result was the same. Management was told whom to employ, at what wages and for what hours. Labour was told where it had to work, for how much and for how long.

By writing a closed shop clause into the law, the right of a workman to belong to a union of his choice goes by the board. His right also to belong to no union if he does not believe in it is also lost. He must join the union which at the moment has the majority in the shop. This is exactly what happened in Montreal. A minority of the employees of the street railways were forced to abandon the union of their choice and join another union which they did not choose. In a country where the hatreds run as deep as they do in our rival trades union bodies, the struggle for control will lead to violent upheavals from time to time. But if the closed shop clause goes into the law the turmoil will be more serious and more difficult to surmount.

Why Pigs Wallow

Pigs are not naturally dirty. In nature they normally live in the neighbourhood of swamps and river banks, or in damp woods. They have very little hair, and the usual mechanism of sweat glands for maintaining a constant body temperature is poor by comparison with other animals.

In hot weather they naturally wallow in mud, which soon dries in a hard cake in their skin. This prevents the rays of the sun from scorching the skin and it also introduces an effect similar to the evaporation of perspiration, which is effective in regulating temperature.

If pigs are kept in a small confined sty which is not maintained in a clean condition, they will in hot weather wallow in anything they can find. Given suitable surroundings, they are, however, from a sanitary standpoint of view, more cleanly by instinct than the other farm animals, as may be seen by observation.—Notes and Queries.

Democracy – Socialist Brand

(MONTREAL GAZETTE)

IF there is one principle upon which the C.C.F.-Socialist party has insisted more than another it is that of democracy. No political group has been a louder champion of free institutions. As a democrat, every Socialist spokesman has been a seagreen incorruptible. That the party platform, in certain of its other phases, has been utterly and hopelessly undemocratic, has not affected, certainly has not modified, the professions of these sturdy and uncompromising tribunes. But in practice things are sometimes different. They were, in the Toronto constituency of Dovercourt, in the recent provincial election.

When the election was called, the C.C.F.-Socialists of Dovercourt held a convention, properly constituted and all in order, and G. P. Granell was nominated. He accepted. Then, so the story goes—told by The Toronto Telegram—the party bosses looked over the field and decided to have another candidate in Dovercourt—a C.I.O. man, according to Granell. The latter, with the endorsation of the first convention behind him, determined to stick; he would run as an Independent-C.C.F. This was his right as a citizen in a democracy. What followed was this.

He received a letter from G. M. A. Grube, chairman of the Socialist provincial executive, depriving him, not of his citizenship, but of his party standing. "I must inform you," wrote this Mr. Grube, "that your action in running as an independent in a riding which has a C.C.F. candidate automatically forces us to cancel your membership in the C.C.F."

To emphasize this political liquidation Mr. Grube sent back a hundred dollar contribution which Mr. Granell had put into the Socialist election chest—"Under the circumstances we are not desirious of keeping your money for our campaign." All this was in the best totalitarian style of personal regimentation. It was the Reichsfuhrer touch. It made no difference to the election, the combined votes of the two Socialist candidates being less than the total polled for the successful Progressive-Conservative, but it has done something else. It has illuminated the Socialist conception of democratic procedure and the attitude of the party toward independence and independent action. There is in it, perhaps, the shape of things to come—assuming that the C.C.F.-Socialist party ever gets into office.

Africa's Carpet of Flowers

ABOUT noon we again find ourselves in a wild solitary region, and the breakfast-tent is set up in a charming spot that is absolutely redolent with perfume. It is at the bottom of a fresh green valley that has no name, where springs are gushing on every side from among moss-covered rocks, and where cool clear little brooks meander among the myosotis, the cresses and the water anemones. The sky, now entirely blue, is wonderfully clear; it brings to mind our noontides of the month of June at mowing time. There is still a dearth of trees, but this is atoned for by the carpet of flowers; as far as the eye can reach, the plain is an incomparable medley of colour; but the expression "carpet of flowers," has been so abused by application to ordinary meadows that it loses its force here. There are belts that are absolutely pink with great broad mallows; patches white as snow with daisies; broad stripes of resplendent yellow where the buttercups are. Never in any bed, nor in any artificial basket in an English garden, have I seen such a luxuriance of flowers, such a crowding together of those of the same species, producing a combination of such brilliant colours. The Arabs must have drawn their inspiration from their lonely prairies when they designed their high grade carpets, variegated with such fresh and striking shades of colour, which are manufactured at R'bat and Mogador. The hills, where the ground is drier, are decked out in a different dress; that is where the wild lavender grows, the plants of which are so thick and bloom so to the exclusion of all other flowers that the ground is absolutely of a violet colour, of a sort of ash-coloured, grayish violet; the hills appear to be covered with plush of a very subdued tint, and the contrast with the blazing display of the plains is singular. When the lavender plants are crushed beneath our feet, a strong and healthy odor is disengaged from the broken stalks, and fills our garments and pervades the air. And there are thousands upon thousands of butterflies, beetles and flies and every sort of little thing with wings, which are flying about....In our paler lands, or in tropical countries where the heat is enervating, there is nothing that can equal the bright splendor of such a springtime.—From "Into Morocco," by Pierre Loti.

Whitehall Notebook

(By ALLAN NICKELSON, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

LONDON, Aug. 19 (CP)—A 71-year-old spinster, gifted with wit and vigour, held the House of Commons engrossed for more than half an hour in a speech exorting the government to reverse the serious trend toward a dwindling population.

A silver-haired lady in a plain black frock, Eleanor Rathbone told the House during a debate on the population decrease that one of her ideas was to open up immigration barriers because "we are losing an opportunity which Hitler's lunacy offered us of getting some of the cream of European culture."

Miss Rathbone, Independent member of parliament for the combined English universities, more than once was encouraged by cheers from other members. And she drew laughter when she said that importing foreigners wouldn't matter because "we are a mongrel race," a reference to the many nationalities.

A member who interrupted to suggest she was getting out of order by straying from the subject brought her the rarest of parliamentary prizes—a graceful compliment from the chair.

"If I may say so with the greatest respect," said the chairman, Cmdr. C. Williams, "I thought the lady was making her points admirably."

Miss Rathbone urged several remedies, including better housing and family allowances to encourage mothers to bear large families.

Miss Rathbone has devoted herself to the population problem throughout the 14 years of her Commons' membership.

Before Health Minister Ernest Brown terminated the debate by promising a broad inquiry on the whole question of birth-rate and population, a couple of other women members had their say.

Dr. Edith Summerskill, Labour, made the most original speech. Warning in advance that her proposal would not be looked on with a kindly eye by any male, she said every wife should have a legal share of her husband's wages, so serious was the frame of mind of the House, however, that no one laughed.

"The housewife should be given economic independence," said Dr. Summerskill, mother of two children. "It is the woman who decides the size of the family and where the woman in the home has been able to compare her lot with that of other workers she is in a condition of silent revolt. She refuses to produce the most valuable commodity—the embryo worker."

Lady Astor, mother of six children, said she believed it would take 25 years for Dr. Summerskill's revolution to succeed. The men were to blame for the present state of affairs, she said, because "they have been in control."

"I know that even the richest men will not tell their wives how much they have got," she added. "Rich women will not tell their husbands."

A Liberal party conference in London demanded that women be eligible for the House of Lords. It adopted further resolutions that women be granted equal status with men and should be entitled to retain their nationality on marriage to an alien.

As an amendment two Oxford undergraduates, who said they had been "pelted with abuse by women Liberals" for sponsoring the proposal, submitted it was essential that married women should devote themselves above all to rearing families.

A Bible Message

There is therefore now no condemnation to them which are in Christ Jesus, who walk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit....For they that are after the flesh do mind the things of the flesh; but they that are after the Spirit the things of the Spirit. For to be carnally minded is death: but to be spiritually minded—is life and peace. Because the carnal mind is enmity against God: for it is not subject to the law of God, neither indeed can be. (Rom. 8: 1, 5-7.)

Now the works of the flesh are manifest, which are these: Adultery, fornication, uncleanness, lasciviousness, idolatry, witchcraft, hatred, variance, emulations, wrath, strife, seditions, heresies envying, murders, drunkenness, revellings, and such like: of the which I tell you before, as I have also told you in time past, that they which do such things shall not inherit the kingdom of God.

But the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, longsuffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance: against such there is no law..

If we live in the Spirit, let us also walk in the Spirit. Let us not be desirous of vain glory, provoking one another, envying one another. (Gal. 5: 19-23, 25, 26.)

Aristotle, a rival of Diogenes for the title of the most distinguished philosopher in Athens, was one of the free thinkers of early times. He had a caustic tongue and many were the truths he forced upon the Athenians. One day a student asked this great scholar of human nature: "What does a man gain by telling a lie?"

"Not to be believed," Aristotle replied, "even when he tells the truth."

A party of clergymen were attending a Presbyterian conference in Scotland. Several set off to explore the district. Presently they came to a river, spanned by a temporary bridge.

Not observing a notice that the bridge was unsafe, they started to cross it. The bridge-keeper ran after them in protest.

"It's all right," declared the spokesman, not understanding the reason for the old man's haste, "we're Presbyterians from the conference."

"I'm no caring aboot that," was the reply, "but if ye dinna get off the bridge ye'll be Baptists!"

MILLBROOK

Council Finds Expenditures More In 1943

MILLBROOK, Aug. 19 (ENS).—The Millbrook municipal council met on Monday with Reeve P. I. Bentley presiding and all members present.

Some communications were received, from the Canadian Institute for the Blind asking permission to hold a Tag Day on Saturday, October 2, 1943; and notices of indigent patients in hospitals at Peterborough and Toronto.

It was moved by Powell and Ball that the Institute for the Blind be given permission to hold a Tag Day on October 2; Councillor M. W. Ball made report of relief dispensed during July amounting to $90.59 Powell and Olan moved that the report be received and the accounts ordered paid.

Higher Expenditures

The treasurer presented a statement of expenditures to date with estimates of the total expenditures for the year, which are more than last year.

The Clerk then introduced By-laws to levy certain rates and taxes for 1943, striking a general rate of 33½ mills, and a school rate of 19½ mills. These were passed.

Outstanding arrears of taxes were discussed at length, and it was moved by Olan-Ball that the treasurer be authorized to collect at once all taxes in arrears.

Accounts Paid

The following accounts were presented and on motion of Ball-Powell were ordered paid:

Hydro, street lighting $63.75, halls $3.78, Red Cross $1.50, $69.03; Telephone Co. $3.91; Harry Whyte, caretaker, and extra work, $23.25; J. J. Kellett, constable $12.00; Muir Cap Co., cap for constable $6.42; Dr. M. E. Hobbs, medical care for Mrs. Weatherup $10.00; Counties' Treasurer, maintenance H. Hawkin, Toronto General Hospital $29.75; G. T. McPherson, ambulance $7.50; Cavan Council, use of grader $25.50; Attwoll and Sheppard, lumber, cement, etc. $68.45; J. H. Hall, 100 feet of tile $58.32; L. Olan, drawing tile and gravel $8.00; D. Dunlop, grading $3.90; E. J. Powell, work on curb, etc. $29.25; Clerk of the Peace, 6 copies of voters' lists $6.00; Eakins hardware, nails, etc. $5.52; S. Pethick, goods relief $24.00; G. E. Burnham, goods relief $25.00; W. H. Coombe, goods relief $21.50; R. A. Ford, goods relief $99.07; I. W. Larmer, milk relief $3.72; M. McDowell, milk relief $5.20; F. Hutchinson, shelter relief $2.50; Mrs. Forsyth, maintenance $5.00.

Council adjourned to meet Thursday, September 7.

Egg Producers Told To Allow For Humidity

Professor E. S. Snyder of the Ontario Agricultural College, who addressed the poultry convention on Wednesday, said that at the University of Missouri it was found that when eggs were taken freshly laid from pens and placed in a room of 50 degrees temperature, it took only about one hour for the eggs to cool down to 60 degrees, a desirable holding temperature. If they were placed in an ordinary galvanized pail, it took about fourteen hours for the same condition to result, and if placed in an egg case it took twenty-four hours.

"We can cool our eggs quickly. That means we should put them in wire baskets and get them down to a temperature somewhere between 50 and 65 degrees, and we should strive to have as high humidity as possible."

A group of workers in Pennsylvania found from investigating a number of farms that temperature and humidity in holding rooms had the following effects: On nine farms where the temperature was under 65 degrees and the relative humidity was 75 per cent, 97 per cent of the eggs were A grade.

On those farms where the temperature was a little high and the humidity correct only 92 per cent graded as well.

Eggs stored at the Ontario Agricultural College showed practically the same results. On farms where the humidity was too low, and it is too low in many of our storage rooms, only 45 per cent were grade A, though the temperature was correct.

Gather Eggs Quickly.

If you want to lose money, gather eggs infrequently and store in a poor place. Eggs should be gathered two or three times a day and should be cooled as quickly as possible. They should be kept in a place that has some moisture rather than a place that is dry. It has been found that inside two hours there is a measurable difference in the quality of an egg left in the nest. Cool quickly and put in a storage that is clean, free from mould and free from odors, and keep them cool. Eggs should be treated like milk and cream."

Prof. Snyder said it was highly important that farmers should send their eggs to market at the peak of their quality.

Often Spoil.

The average egg going from the farm to the city consumer was kept as long as a week on the farm, and then was taken to the grading station, and if the station was not properly controlled as to moisture in the air, or humidity, and temperature, and the truck was not properly controlled taking the eggs out, then rapid deterioration followed. Also if they were placed in an open window or retail store for some hours at a time the quality was further reduced.

"It is imperative that eggs be got to the market of the consumer as quickly as possible after being laid, and that in the interval they be kept under proper conditions."

Prof. Snyder dealt with his subject in many other of its detailed aspects, but salient recommendations placed emphasis on the factors of what might be called the best marketable conditions for the satisfaction of the consumer and the maintenance of demand.

Garnet Taylor of Bloomfield was chairman of this morning's session with several hundred men and women from the district in attendance.

Climbers Find Missing Plane

VANCOUVER, Aug. 19 (CP). — The official Canadian Pacific Air Lines party making its way to the wreckage of the passenger plane carrying 13 persons which disappeared eight months ago reached the base of the final slope today. The plane struck high on a mountainside 73 miles east of Vancouver.

Three Alpine climbers sent out by the Vancouver Daily Province reached the scene of the wreck on Monday and reported that death must have come swiftly to the 10 passengers and three crew members. Wreckage was strewn over a wide area.

Names of those on the plane were:

Passengers—A. L. Smith, Surrey, B.C.; Hugh Stuart, Vancouver; R. A. Schroeder, Milwaukee; J. J. Coyle, Butte, Mont.; Capt. W. R. Kehr, Auburn, Wash; Mrs. B. Herron, Fort St. John, B.C.; Mr. and Mrs. B. Stouse, Pinchi Lake, B.C.; W. M. Scharfe, Vancouver; R. Battye, Vancouver.

Crew—Capt. Ernest Kubicek, Edmonton; Co-pilot, William Holland, Hamilton, Ont.; Stewardess, Edna Young, Hamilton.

It takes 250,000 Canadian volunteer workers to get that new ration book safely into your hands. And the nucleus around which those volunteers work is the force of 5,000 men and women who are giving their time week in and week out as members of Canada's 600 Local Ration Boards; working hand in hand of course, with the ration administration, Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

Canadian Gunners Backed Attack In Sicily

The success of Canadian troops in Sicily has been due in no small measure to the accuracy and efficiency of Canadian gunners, who have covered advancing infantry with formidable fire power. Here, Canadian gunners of a Western Canada field battery, working from a good stock of shells, pound German positions near Nissoria.

He Forgot

DENVER, Aug. 19 — (AP). — Melvin Forgets-Nothing, 17-year-old Blackfoot Indian from a reservation in South Dakota, registered at a Denver hotel pending a United States army physical examination. Recruiters waited past the scheduled examination hour. Finally Melvin showed up and explained he "forgot."

TEA-STRETCHING SECRET NO. 1...
ALWAYS use the choice, YOUNG tea leaves. Ounce for ounce, you get more fragrance, more flavor...indeed, you might say more "tea". Champion "tea-stretchers" know it's not "how much" but "how good" that makes tea genuinely satisfying. To be sure of getting the choice, YOUNG leaves, always ask... by name... for Tender Leaf Tea!

WESTCLOX GIRLS NEED ONE GAME TO COP SENIOR SOFTBALL TITLE

Defeat Aircraft 5 to 2 For Third Win

Westclox climbed to within one game of taking the Girls' Softball League senior title Wednesday night when they defeated Aircraft 5 runs to 2 to lead the playoff series three wins to one. Another victory for the Big Bens will give them the round, and the rivals tie into each other again Friday night.

Last night's battle was a light-hitting affair with Isobel Bullock going the distance for the winners and Marilyn Low, the former Marilyn McCarthy, and Marg. Selkirk dividing the pitching task for the Aircraft.

Westclox had to come from behind to turn the trick. They were blanked for the first five innings by Marilyn Low who turned them back in order in the first four frames. Meanwhile the Aircraft had scored a pair of runs in the second session and they went into the sixth leading 2 to 0. Then fielding lapses enabled the league leaders to stage a three-run rally and pull the game out of the fire. Marg. Selkirk replaced Marilyn Low with the bases full and two out and walked the next batter to force in the run that put the Big Bens in front. It was a tough break for the starting pitcher who had twirled great ball up to that disastrous frame.

Isobel Bullock was Manager Hayden's pitching choice and while she had some difficulty with her control, walking eight batters, she struck out ten of the opposition and held them to four scattered singles. Her support wavered a bit in the second inning when the losers scored their two runs, but after that the Westclox pitcher blanked them for the rest of the game.

SPORTS – DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

Tonight's battle between the Military Training Centre and the 4th Battery teams in their City League semi-final series has the fans all atwitter and one of the biggest crowds of the season will see the rivals tangle. The return to form of the Battery team has materially increased the interest in the argument. When the Soldiers won two straight games in the playoffs and the Gunners were held to two hits and three hits respectively by Tom Parsons and Jack Wilson the series looked to be all over. However the Artillerymen found some of their old power just in time to save them from elimination and they cut loose on Tom Parsons Tuesday with quite a barrage. As a result the round now has a different complexion in spite of the fact that the Soldiers are still a game in front. Battery can sew the whole thing up with a win tonight. On the other hand the Camp outfit can grab off the series by outscoring the Gunners. In any event it should be a thriller all the way. The tussle is billed to start at 6.45 o'clock and it should do exactly that in order to have a chance to get through before dark.

* * * * * *

It is expected that either Johnnie Walker or Jack Wilson will be called upon by the Soldiers to work on the hill-top tonight. Walker pitched the first game of the series and got a tie verdict. Wilson did the tossing in the third fixture and won a 5 to 3 decision, holding the Battery to three hits. So far as the Gunners are concerned the task of holding the Soldiers in check will fall on Dave Wilson who has gone well against the camp team all season. They have only managed to beat him once in five starts and on that occasion he yielded only one earned run. Both teams expect to be at full strength, although the Battery will be without the sailor member of their lineup, Nels Foster, who left this morning to re-join his ship. The two clubs have staged half a dozen interesting tussles this season and this looms up as one of the best of the lot. With Battery still fighting with their backs to the wall the excitement should be keen all along the route. There is the hottest possible rivalry between the rivals and it will make this argument probably the most peppery of the season.

Westclox Lead 3 to 1

The Westclox girls softball team moved closer to the Senior Girls' loop title last night when they defeated Aircraft 5 to 2 and now lead the playoff series three games to one. Thus the Big Bens need only one more win to repeat their feat of last season and take the championship. However the series is by no means over yet. The Aircraft team has plenty of fight and for a long time last night it looked as if they might pull through with a win and tie up the final round. Fielding misplays were their downfall after Marilyn Low had pitched great ball. However the two they registered at the expense of Isobel Bullock were also the result of two defensive slips. The two rivals will meet again tomorrow night at the Bowl in the fifth game of the final round and another exciting battle should be the result. Aircraft will be fighting in the last ditch with a loss meaning their elimination and that should make the battle a memorable one. The pitching selections for this all important game have not been announced. It looks like Marg Watson for the Westclox but the Aircraft choice is not so clear. The C.G.E. girls will have to guess right in making their decision as to the starting pitcher for they cannot afford to lose another game.

Ross Trimble will coach the Toronto R.C.A.F. Hurricanes this fall and Bill Westwick, Ottawa Journal sport commentator, welcomes him back to football with the following paragraph: "Ross Trimble returns to football this season after a year's absence. It means that Toronto Hurricanes will have the benefit of some sound coaching and that Trimble will be happy again. He has made attempts to join both army and air force in the past. He underwent two rigid physical tests with the air force and was rejected because of badly injured knees, though on the last occasion he had high hopes of making the grade until final returns were in. There is only one sport as far as Trimble is concerned. He's one of those football enthusiasts from away back. Even if he had never coached a gridiron squad he would be among those hardy fans who can't satisfy their appetites for the sport by merely attending games, but haunt the parks for practices each evening during the fall. But once having coached he wasn't the same man during a year's absence from the senior picture. He felt lost and he showed the effects last season. He turned up around Toronto at every game and at practices. He talked football the year around and it was still his favorite subject when he met the hockey teams from Ottawa and renewed acquaintances with friends from here."

A Lot of Baseball

There was a lot of baseball in the big show yesterday and some battles worthy of note. One was the defeat of Elmer Riddle of the Cincinnati Reds. Riddle, one of the hurlers who looks certain to grab off 20 wins this season was gunning for his 16th victory yesterday but he met Bill Tobin on one of his best days and the Braves grabbed off the verdict 4 to 3. Then the veteran Bucky Walters turned around and pitched a seven-hit shutout in the second game which the Reds took 5 to 0. Montreal's Harold Gregg made his start for Brooklyn and was taken for a ride by the Chicago Cubs 7 to 5. The Phillies broke even with the Cards, Krist shut them out with a five-hitter in the first game but they came back to take the second at the expense of Munger. Harry Walker, Card outfielder made three hits in the first game to run his consecutive hitting streak to 29 games—and then he was stopped cold in the second game.

In the American loop the feature was the fourteen innings victory scored by the Chicago White Sox over Washington. The Senators looked to have that one stowed away until the Sox batted in the ninth inning and hammered in two runs to tie the score. Then they succeeded in pushing the winning marker over in the 14th. Washington had their turn in the second game of the double-header, crashing out four doubles in the ninth to drive in three runs and grab off a 4 to 1 win. The New York Yanks lost both ends of a double-header ot the Cleveland Indians with Jeff Heath contributing homers in both ends of the twin bill to blast the leaders. He interjected one circuit clout in the 14th inning of the second game to win that one. The Indians outslugged the Yanks to come home in front 9 to 8 in the first battle. Yank Terry of the Boston Red Sox lost a tough one at Detroit when after pitching a four-hitter he was beaten 1 to 0 on the strength of a run scored by the Tigers in the first inning without a hit.

Goodwill Bill Captures Pacing Event

STRATFORD, Aug. 19—Goodwill Bill, scion of the Volomite family owned by Herb E. Hatch, Toronto, and driven by Chappy Chapman, won the pacing division of the two-year-old Standard-Bred Horse Society Futurity here yesterday in decisive fashion. This was the second start of the colt in his career, and he has now carved his name in the equine hall of fame by his victory in this the richest purse for two-year-old harness horses in Canada.

Bob Wilkes, London-owned juvenile, set the pace in the first heat, with Goodwill Bill trailing him to the half in 1:12, the balance of the field well bunched. When they reached the three-quarter pole it was quite noticeable Goodwill Bill was fighting for his head, and at that point Chapman took him out, and he was soon leading the select field, coming on to win in 2:23 from Bob Wilkes.

It was a different story in the second fracas, as Goodwill Bill set the pace away from the wire, closely followed by Bob Wilkes, and this pair raced together; but by the time they reached the half-mile post Bob Grattan had moved up to second place, and Louie James, who had the reins behind the latter, kept his nose close to Chapman, and it was quite evident there was a real race in the making the further they went. At the head of the stretch James pulled Bob Grattan on the leader, and from there to the wire both drivers had the washing out, Goodwill Bill winning in 2:18¾ in a close finish, with Bob Wilkes, stablemate to Bob Grattan, a good third.

Jerry Proulx Enters Local Tourney

So you think you can hit a golf ball? There are a lot of pros and amateurs who pride themselves on their long drives off the tee, but Jerry Proulx, professional of the Laval Golf Club, Montreal, will really show the Peterborough and District golf fans, something about it, next week-end at the Kawartha Club. Proulx's entry has been received for the 54 hole pro tournament, along with Stan Patton and Stanley Horne, also of Montreal.

Lex Robson, Kawartha pro, tells us that Proulx is the most consistent long hitter in the game, and will have drive after drive of 380 yards. As a matter of fact at the last Canadian Open, he outdrove Sammy Snead, by 30 yards every time he stepped up to the tee. No fooling, this Proulx can really powder the ball. Bill Kerr of Toronto and his new assistant pro, Archie Grimsditch have sent in their entries, bringing the total pro entry to date, 15. This will be the first pro tournament that Grimsditch has ever played in, and it will be interesting to watch him, battling it out for the experienced campaigners.

Lex Robson is continuing to tear the course apart and is really hot for this week-end. It's going to take some par shattering golf to beat Lex out for top money, and as usual in a case like this the other pros will take great delight in beating Lex on his own course. But, he'll take plenty of beating.

Willie Spittal, pro last year at the Peterborough Club has entered, and while he hasn't played as much golf this year, as in other years you can bet that Willie will be heard from before the match is over. Arrangements have been made with Joe and Mrs. Leeming to have plenty of their fine food on hand for Saturday supper and for the noon and evening meals Sunday.

The pros deserve a lot of credit in coming down here, but these chaps have been more than generous with their time, whenever they have been called upon to play for war charities. The proceeds from this match all go to the Kinsmens Club Milk for Britain Fund, and when the pros heard that, there was no hesitation about their coming, and giving their best exhibition.

The course has never been in better shape, and Syd Pellow, groundskeeper, and his assistants deserve a world of credit for the job they've done. Then, a couple of nights this week, Ed Riley, president of the Club headed a gang of members who went out after supper and cleaned some 15 loads of hay off the course. These gentlemen also deserve a great deal of credit for taking hold and getting the course in such a shape, that it will do justice to the entire Kawartha District. With such interest taken by the members, and everyone in town talking about the tournament, this week-end will see the largest golf gallery ever to follow a match, in the history of Peterborough.

LAWN BOWLING

To R. Burns and his rink from our club, go the honors of capturing the Ovaltine trophy and first place, and to C. Renaud's rink, also from our club, goes second place. J. Cullen came third and the veteran W. Oke from Port Hope came fourth.

If it had not been for two entry's coming up from Port Hope, the "Open" mixed tournament for the Ovaltine trophy might have been easily termed "local."

With an even dozen rinks entered, it was the smallest open tournament ever held on our local greens. But notwithstanding the small entry the bowling was real good and all had three fifteen-end games.

The draw was managed by George Gimblett, chairman open tournament committee, and the games were all over by ten-thirty.

Our next big open event is the men's rinks tournament on Wednesday, September 1.

No. 2 group plays their postponed June 15th game, this evening.

The Sports Round-Up

By SID FEDER—(Pinch-Hitting For Hugh Fullerton)
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 19 — (AP).— Billy Southworth says his St. Louis department is so close to Leo Durocher's he can toss a rock in the Lip's window...But he hasn't tried it lately — he doesn't have to.... Steve Hamas, the ex-heavyweight, has just written a book on "Stratosphere Stamina" that's being distributed to all the Army pilots in training.....Steve's an Air Corps lieutenant now.

Umps no Barney—even in blarney.

Cable from Belfast tells about the umpire, handling a game between the 8th United States Air Force and a United States Army team tagged the North Ireland Blues, who put himself out of the game.....Seems the Blues were questioning everything from his eyesight to his ancestry....He took it for 10 scoreless frames, then announced, "It ain't worth it"—and walked out. Another guy finished up and the Blues won 1-0, if you're interested.

Hit and run:

Cubs Scout Jack Doyle tells John (What Town Is This) Carmichael, Chicago News sports ed., that Bill Sarni, Los Angeles' 15-year-old catcher, is farther along now that Gabby Hartnett was at the same stage and age...Incidentally, Sarni's father thought the kid should get $15,000 for signing....But a pal of the family—and the club—stranghtened it out....The Pimlico Futurity may have a $40,000 pot for the two-year-olds this fall.

Knife-and-fork sports:

One soldier correspondent writes: "The mess hall here features home cooking....One meal and you wish you were home cooking."

Gentry Blanks Orioles 5-0

By the Associated Press.

Rufe Gentry seems assured of becoming a 20-game winning pitcher in the International League.

The Buffalo twirler chalked up his 17th triumph last night with a five-hit 5-0 shutout of Baltimore Orioles, a team that already boasts a 20-game winner in Ed. Klieman.

Given a lead in the first inning on Otto Denning's three-run homer, Gentry was efefctive the rest of the way although he handed out six walks in addition to four singles and a double. He fanned seven and left 10 Orioles stranded.

Newark gained a game and a half on the first-place Toronto Maple Leafs by taking a doubleheader from Montreal, 5-2 and 4-0 behind the excellent pitching of Ken Holcombe and Joe Page. Page was especially effective in the nightcap, striking 15 and yielding only three hits, all in the last three frames.

Toronto went down before Syracuse 2-1, on Frankie Kelleher's ninth inning single with two out. The one-baser brought home Dutch Mele who had doubled. Rochester beat Jersey City 6-5 in 10 innings. The winning run scored on Del Rice's single, his third hit of the fray.

Indians Smear Yankees In Two Games

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The way the rivals of the Saint Louis Cardinals and New York Yankees are reacting to the unimpeded sweep of these two clubs to the major league pennants is an interesting topic today.

Some still are trying to strengthen themselves for the present season, some are trying to rebuild f r next year and some simply are waiting for the schedule to end.

Washington Senators are the prize example of the first group. It would take a miracle to move the Senators ahead of the Yankees but Clark Griffith isn't overlooking any chances and yesterday he finally put through a deal with St. Louis Browns for third baseman Harlond Clift and pitcher John Niggeling.

The Old Fox has been trying to get Clift for at least two years.

The deal quite likely will let the Senators finish second. A jump from seventh place last year. They lost their runner-up spot yesterday, though, by dividing a double header at Chicago. The White Sox nosed them out in the first game 3-2 in 14 innings, but Washington rallied to win the nightcap 4-2. The Senators made 10 double plays in the two games.

Take Second Place

The Yankees were ambushed by Cleveland Indians 9-8 and 7-5 in morning and afternoon games, enabling the Tribe to move up to second place. The second game went 14 innings before a two-run homer by Jeff Heath decided it. Heath, who had walloped a two-run homer in the first contest, also hit a triple and a single in second game to bat in a total of seven runs for the day.

Philadelphia Athletics, among the clubs that are merely marking time, dropped their 12th consecutive game 4-0 in the face of a five-hit pitching performance by Bob Muncrief of the Browns and Detroit Tigers nosed out Boston Red Sox 1-0.

Brooklyn Dodgers tried out two youngsters on the mound yesterday and dropped both ends of a doubleheaders to Chicago Cubs 7-5 and 15-6.

Hal Gregg and Rex Barney, both of Montreal, started the games for the Dodgers and each gave four hits and six walks in addition to some wild pitches before being eliminated early.

St. Louis Cardinals divided a mid-day doubleheader at Philadelphia, sinking the first game 6-0 on Howard Krist's five-hit hurling and dropping the second game 6-3.

Cincinnati split a doubleheader at Boston, winning 5-0 for Bucky Walters after losing 4-3 and Pittsburgh Pirates split with the New York Giants. A single by Pete Coscarart in the 10th gave Hank Gornicki his third win in two days 7-6 in the opener and Carl Hubbell won the nightcap 3-2.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Third Baseman Al Hart, for three seasons with the New Orleans' Pelicans in the Southern Association, was sold yesterday to the Brooklyn Dodgers but will not report until the end of the season. Hart is currently hitting .320 and has homered 15 times.

The 1943 licenses of Jockey George Bowman, owner-trainer Lawrence K. King and an exercise boy were revoked yesterday by the Illinois Racing Board for the alleged use of a battery on the horse Tib at Washington Park Aug. 10. Edward Janis, said to have been involved, was barried from all tracks in the state.

Since the opening of the 1940 baseball season, Pitcher Joe Beggs of the Cincinnati Reds has not started a game and his great ambition is to be called upon some day by Manager Bill McKechnie to pitch the first delivery. As relief twirler, however, he has won 26 games and lost nine for the Reds.

Cops Take Laurels

The Ontario Provincial police can shoot. Yesterday at the third annual revolver tournament at St. Catharines, Sgt. Douglas H. Darby of Hamilton took the individual championship with 229 out of a possible 240 points. Provincial Constables Jack Fulton, Strathroy, and Bern Hammett of St. Catharines were second and third. The Provincial Police entry won the team prize.

The California Athletic Commission announced its decision yesterday to recognize the winner as the lightweight champion in the bout between Henry Armstrong, the veteran ringster, and Luther White, Baltimore Negro, when they meet in a 15-rounder Sept. 18 in Hollywood.

Marchildon Slumps

Phil Marchildon of Penetang, 17-game winner for the Philadelphia Athletics last year, was not good enough yesterday at Halifax to win a Service League game for R.C.A.F. against the Navy squad, the latter taking a 7-0 decision behind the twirling of Dick Pawley, formerly of Stratford and Dundas. Pawley gave only two hits.

Hester Hanover, three-year-old filly owned by Elbridge L. Gerry of New York, captured the Nyack trot yesterday in the Grand Circuit racing at Empire City track, doing the second heat in 2:05 to outsprint symphony. The daily double, for which Mac Abigail and Gem Hanover combined, paid $179.30.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By CHARLES EDWARDS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Aug. 19.—(CP).— The Buffalo Hockey Club of Calgary won the Western Canada intermediate puck title last winter and now has designs on bigger fields. The Buffaloes have embarked on a five-year plan of building that should be a lulu. Buffaloes will sponsor a six club pee wee hockey league for five years with Davy Duchak, Sam Timmins, Gordon McFarlane, Jack Armour, Joe McGoldrick and other club members coaching.

When the plan is fully organized it will embrace a membership of at least 300 boys from 12 to 14 years of age. Each player will be provided with complete hockey equipment except skates, which he must provide himself. Each will have a brand new uniform.

If this land of plenty were as easy for a boy to attain as it sounds it might have bad efects; but the Buffaloes aim to build solid citizens as well as high-class hockey players. To be eligible a boy must attain high standards in school and be approved by an executive committee.

If the Buffaloes followed through—sponsor the boys through organized hockey at least into junior leagues at age of 18, there's a good chance Calgary will become a power in amateur hockey. Calgary hos won the national junior title just once—in 1926—and the Canadian senior championship has never gone to Alberta.

Keen interest in midget and juvenile hockey leagues is the surest way to develop championship junior teams. By the time the youngsters reach junior age, they've had the benefit of good coaching and keen competition for so long that they're already polished performers.

The midget and juvenile leagues are the major reason for Manitoba's dominance of the junior hockey picture. Manitoba teams have won the Memoral Cup three years in a row now and six times in the last nine years. Some of the greatest stars of Manitoba rinks have been lured elsewhere by attractive offers, have helped to pack teams in other cities. But latterly, at least, the flood of Manitoba puck material has been so great a winning club was always forthcoming.

Calgary's Buffaloes deserve success if they carry through with their five-year plan. Whether they eventually win a major championship or not, they'll be performing a service to the country in giving youngsters proper guidance in organized sport.

Wins Open Title

WINNIPEG, Aug. 19 — (CP). — Allan Boes turned in a 36-hole card of 149 for the 36 holes at the Niakwa Course yesterday to win the Manitoba open golf championship for the second time. He last won the title in 1941.

Good Management Not Good Luck Main Factor In Raising Chicks

The grade 'A' milk fed chicken and its relative, the sunshine egg, were extolled as ultimate ideals of their industry at the Central Ontario poultry production conference here yesterday.

Among consumers the market reputation of this chicken is so generally recognized and accepted that literally it stands without a peer in a class by itself. So does the sunshine egg, for that matter, but the phrase is unfamiliar and is beyond the hope of practical trade use and popularity.

The sunshine egg is a term signifying a highly desirable exactness in combination of color, especially of the yoke framed in its background of white, a conception of perfection that might have inspired Dr. W. R. Graham's aphorism "You taste with your eyes." And Dr. Graham one of the galaxy of poultry experts on the conference program, was introduced by the chairman, Garnet S. Taylor of Bloomfield, Prince Edward county as "the most beloved man in the poultry industry on this continent."

So, the sunshine egg expresses a delicate balance of color as the egg comes from the pan on to your plate, usually an accompaniment of a round of ham which the consumer himself has held as an ideal all along. And at any divergence from that combination in its precision of color tends to raise at a doubt that all is not well with the appetizing ham and egg, although the slight difference at which the fussy and possibly pampered consumer may lift a silently enquiring eyebrow may be only a slight shade off the sunshine ideal.

But, that otherwise trifling variation is one of the fine points of production which causes uneasiness in the trade, because they feel and know that the public may doubt the entire and inherent quality of the egg if it strays from the sunshine standard.

That was one of the topics which emerged in the conference discussions which covered a broad range of subjects in the production of chickens and eggs on a basis of quality that will ensure and command price.

Five hundred men and women from the Central Ontario counties from Prince Edward to Ontario county attended this regional meeting which packed into morning and afternoon sessions ideas and problems and methods which could easily have been spread through two days deliberations.

For the assistance of producers the conference committee offered the knowledge and experience of some of the industry's leaders in this country. Among them were Dr. Graham formerly of O. A. C. and now retired and living at Burlington; Dr. F. N. Marcellus, head of the poultry department of the Ontario Agricultural College and Prof. E. S. Snyder of its poultry husbandry department.

Also Norman S. Schultz of Brantford, one of Canada's outstanding poultrymen; E. D. Bonyman, chief market poultry inspector of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, and George Robertson, Dominion Poultry Husbandman of the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa; Dr. C. H. Weaver of the poultry pathology laboratory, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

The program included addresses on practical phases of the industry, a demonstration of killing, plucking and grading of poultry, and a concluding question and answer period with James G. Wharry of Peterborough as chairman.

Norman Robinson, Toronto, conference manager, told the Examiner that a similar conference for western Ontario producers would be held at London in the near future.

Ernest C. Braund was chairman of the local management committee with Robt. M. Pierson, J. G. Wharry, R. H. Carter and Frank C. Paterson.

Mr. Pierson was chairman of the program committee with George Lockington, C Gould, G. Matthews, M. McIntyre, F. W. Horton, F. Bell and G. Nicholls.

Close to forty questions were answered by the visiting speakers and the sessional chairman, Mr. Taylor.

Mayor Hamilton greeted the visitors at the opening of the afternoon conference, extending them a hearty welcome to Peterborough.

Raising Chickens

The subject of the talk by Mr. Schultz was "Management of Layers," and it was packed with practical advice from his own experience in building up one of the largest poultry farms in the country.

"When you are handling chickens, remember that they are babies," Mr. Schultz advised. "When you get them home, assuming that you have bought them as chicks, if you can't put them directly uuder the brooder, take them into the house, put the boxes on the table in a room of about 70 degrees temperature. Lift the lids occasionally to make sure the chicks are comfortable. At one farm we like to put the chicks under the brooder just after dark, so that the birds will settle down directly and be very little trouble for the first night. By morning they are accustomed to the brooder and know which way to go to get warm, and are ready to go to work.

Don't Mention Luck

Luck does not enter into this business in any way. It is good managements that produces results.

Get the chicks out on the ground as quickly as possible. In the case of late chicks this may be done by the time they are a week or ten days old. With earlier chicks it will be necessary to provide windbreaks of some sort, and if the ground is too cold and wet for the chicks, you might spread straw so that they will have dry feet. As they get older don't forget they need more air and less temperature.

Poultry Pasture

Pasture is one of the most important items in developing good layers. If you will think of a nice, well kept lawn, you will have some idea of what we mean by suitable pasture for birds. In the early season this can be produced by sowing oats frequently. Later on it is usually a case of depending on a permanent pasture, kept short.

Don't forget the birds are growing all the time, and need more room.

When they are done with the brooder, you had better take out part of the birds from the brooder house, and put them in shelters, spread them out. Probably about one hundred birds will be enough to leave in a good sized brooder house. The rest should be put in shelters.

From now on we like to depend more and more on the pasture as feed stuff for the growing birds. That is, cut down the growing mash, and also on the amount of the grain. The birds will grow a bit slower but they will be better layers when it comes time to put them in the pens.

Some Shade Needed.

Along with the pasture the birds need some shade during the hot weather. This can be provided by apple trees, corn or sunflowers.

We have found at the farm that it pays to provide the birds with nest boxes on the range. It not only saves a lot of eggs and keeps them cleaner, but also teaches the birds to lay in nests.

About July 1 take pullets of the year before, put them out in range shelters, on good pasture again and leave them out for a couple of months. When they come back in the fall, they will do a first class job of production.

In the cleaning the laying pen use plenty of elbow grease. Oil the roosting equipment and spray the pen completely with whitewash. If you can let the pen stand idle for six weeks or two months before the new crop of birds some in, so much the better."

Moving To Pens

The early hatched birds will be ready to move from range into laying quarters some time in August. Let the birds run from the laying pen for three or four weeks, so that they gradually become accustomed to confinement. It will be time well spent if you supply them with some sort of green stuff; also take in some fresh earth every few days, and the odd sheaf of oats thrown in the pen will also help to ease them over the change to the laying pen.

For winter production, pullets should be gradually changed over from the feed used on range to the laying ration.

The Schultz Method.

First thing in the morning we give them all the germinated oats they will clean up in half an hour's time. At ten o'clock they are fed dry mash, enough to last them until about 7 or 8 o'clock the next morning, and then at 5 o'clock they are fed scratch grain. This can be fed either in troughs, on top of the dry mash, or in the littler. We like to feed it in the troughs because you can see at a glance whether the quantity is right or not.

We watch the birds for body weight, some time between September 21 and October 1. We start the morning lights, turn them on about 4 a.m. About this time or a little later we start in with moist mash. This is mixed 24 hours ahead of time, and kept warm so as to produce fermentation, and then is fed about one o'clock. Make sure it is all cleaned up within half an hour.

Along in December or January if you find there is a tendency toward a slump in production, we would advise increasing the light to all night, one 60 watt bulb to each 100 birds, and this should be located over the water vessel.

Providing Litter.

Litter is important. We start in August or September putting in a few wheelbarrow loads of topsoil, then start to add straw. Each week or ten days following we add some more. Keep on building up the litter, so that by the time cold weather comes you will have a good depth that will keep moisture from condensing on either cement or wood floor. This litter is cleaned out the following summer when the pullets are moved out on the range."

Importance of Pastures

Dr. Marcellus expanded the subject of poultry pasturage upon which Mr. Schultz touches in his address.

Good pastures, said Dr. Marcellus, constitute a valuable source of protein material, which is in short supply at present. This protein content will vary considerably with the different species of plants, ranging from 16 to 25 per cent, and in some cases might even come slightly higher.

"Present information indicates that good pasture may be the source of from 15 to 30 per cent of the birds' feed requirements.

There are numerous cases on record where operators have discontinued the feeding of growing mash after ten weeks of age and have grown their chickens to maturity from this period on whole grain and pasture.

It is extremely important that for greatest nutritional efficiency the pasture crops be kept short either by pasturing with other classes of live stock or by frequent mowing and clipping of the pasture. It is also well to remember that in extremely hot, dry, weather when growth is practically at a standstill, even although the crop may appear green its nutritional value will be definitely down when compared with a pasture which is in an active state of growth and there is an abundance of new leafy growth coming along continuously.

Many operators are finding it a help to supplement the permanent pastures with anuual crops such as oats, wheat, barley and fall rye. It will require in an average season thirty days from the time the oats are sown until the crop is ready for pasturing.

Repeated seedings are necessary so that new growth will be coming along continuously to supply pastures of the greatest value.

In preparing permanent pastures, various mixtures of grasses and legumes have been used.

A Sample Mixture

A mixture that has proved satisfactory is one composed of white Dutch clover, 2 pounds; alsike clover, two pounds; alfalfa, three pounds; timothy six pounds; red top, two pounds; Kentucky blue grass, three pounds.

This makes a total of 18 pounds and for some persons sufficient for seeding an acre.

One of our leading Ontario poultry men sows timothy seed at the rate of 25 pound to the acre in the fall with fall wheat. By frequent clipping or mowing, this seeding in the following year it is kept short, producing a very abundant leafy growth.

In using oats for spring pasture, sow early at the rate of 4 to 5 bushels per acre. A new seeding of oats must be made every two or three weeks in order to maintain a continous supply of tender green feed. The area sown at one time should be limited to the amount of pasture that would be required to feed the birds for two or three weeks. It is not advisable to continue oat seeding much beyond the first of June.

Corn and rape may be sown for the hot midsummer period.

A pasture might carry up to 500 birds to the acre, but in a dry season the limit might be 200."

Effect On Yolk

There is no question of the value of pastures in the poultry program, Dr. Marcellus said. Care, however, in the use of such pastures for laying stock must be observed owing to the probable effect on egg yolk color as most of these green forage crops will intensify the yellow colorization of the yolk and probably affect the grade.

Sanitation

In addition to fragment clipping, especially of the permanent grasses, to insure maximum nutritional value of the crop, it should also be emphasized that maintaining fresh short growth not only of the grasses but of the clovers and alfalfa is an essential part of the sanitation program. Housing and feeding equipment should be moved frequently to avoid smothering and killing of the pasture growth. Where using annual pastures such as seedings of cereal grass, it is important that as soon as an area becomes eaten off sufficiently that there is not vegetation to make it of further value, the bare ground should be cultivated and if possible reseeded, not only to increase the green feed supply but as a sanitation measure in keeping the surface soil fresh and clean."

Children Suffer During Summer

During the hot summer and early fall months most children, and especially those teething, are subject to diarrhœa, dysentery, colic, cholera infantum and other bowel complaints.

Every mother should keep a bottle of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry in the home as a protection against sudden attacks of these troubles.

Shipping Losses Handicap Japs

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18—(AP)—An acute shipping shortage resulting largely from Allied torpedoes, shells and bombs is making it difficult for Japan to get at her newly-won East Indian riches.

The Netherlands Inforation Bureau estimated today, on the basis of Tokyo broadcasts and information available in Australia, that the Japanese have suffered a net loss of 500,000 to 750,000 tons of merchant shipping since the war began.

The Japanese have said on several occasions that they needed 20,000,000 tons or more of merchant shipping to exploit the conquered areas. Yet Japan had only 6,000,000 tons of merchant ships at the end of 1941, and since then she has built only an estimated 600,000 to 700,000 tons.

In addition she has captured perhaps 500,000 tons, the Bureau added, but nearly 2,000,000 tons of Japanese cargo ships are reported to have been sunk by the Allies.

Short of steel, the Japanese have concentrated on building wooden ships in Kobe and Formosa, the Philippines and the Netherlands East Indies.

intact. They also set fire to three ships in the harbor. In this second raid, three Allied planes were lost a total cost of six for the two raids.

The communique also reported that in the Solomons, below Vella Lavella Island occupied by United States troops last Sunday, American warships Tuesday night intercepted four Japanese destroyers escorting barges believed bound for the enemy's air base of Vila, on Kolombangara. Three destroyers were hit and one probably sunk after which the majority of the barges were destroyed. No American warship was damaged.

Tuesday night, in the heaviest of three raids made within a week on Balikpapan, Borneo, bombers covered 2,600 miles round trip to sink four tankers, damage two others and rekindle fires among oil refineries. All bombers got back.

Japs Have Own Pearl Harbor

By J. E. HOLDSWORTH
Canadian Press Correspondent

SYDNEY, Aug. 18—(CP Cable)—An Australian military commentator said today that the "astonishing" destruction of the Japanese air fleet on the ground at Wewak, where Allied bombers destroyed or seriously damaged 170 aircraft, may be aptly described as "Japan's aerial Pearl Harbor."

"Nowhere in the entire Pacific area have so many Japanese planes been destroyed on the ground in a single battle," he wrote. "For weeks the Japanese have been apprehensive of South Pacific developments, especially about Lae and Salamaua on New Guinea.)

"It was known that the enemy has been building up his resources at Wewak which was increasingly taking the place of Rabual as the major air base in the northeastern sector. This accounts for packing such a large aerial armada in one circumscribed area.

Sale Of Flavelle Lindsay Dairy Dims Name Prominent 70 Years

Flavelle's Limited of Lindsay is the latest unit of the creamery chain headed by A. E. Silverwood. It will be known as Silverwood's Lindsay Creamery Limited, with H. S. Johnston as manager and director, carrying on from his recent position as vice-president and managing director of the Flavelle institution.

The beginning of this Lindsay business goes back to 1860 when J. R. Dundas and Mr. Cluxton opened a general store. In 1872 J.D. Flavelle joined the firm which then operated the largest store in the town. Mr. Cluxton retired in 1879, and was replaced by Wm. Flavelle. The name of the firm was then changed to Dundas and Flavelle Brothers.

From its origin as a general store the business expanded along two lines. Mr. J. D. Flavelle developed the grain business and eventually acquired controlling interest in the flour mill on the river near Lindsay street, operating this under the name of Flavelle Milling Co. Ltd., until sold out about 1912 to the Canadian Cereal Co. Ltd. Mr. W. Flavelle acted as manager of the dry goods and men's furnishings store until sold to the Canadian Department Stores in 1925. At the same time a growing produce business handling eggs, butter, cheese and poultry was developed and a warehouse, originally with ice storages, was constructed on King street. Subsequently this was enlarged and mechanical refrigeration installed. At the same time branch plants were established all over Southern Ontario.

In 1904 an Ontario charter was obtained for the produce business in the name of Flavelle's Ltd.

In 1912 the Lindsay Creamery which had made butter was acquired and operated as a department till 1918 when a separate Ontario charter was obtained in the name of Lindsay Creamery Ltd. and in the same year the coal department was incorporated as the Lindsay Coal Co.

Disastrous Fire.

In October, 1916, a fire completely destroyed the cold storage plant on King street, with the exception of the power plant.

A modern storage and creamery was erected immediately on the present site on Kent street and completed in time for use during 1917. This was the most complete small storage in Canada at that time, with special rooms for storage of cheese, butter and eggs, refrigerated work rooms, and a creamery complete with the latest equipment for making butter.

In 1928 the Creamery was expanded by installing dairy equipment and milk routes were started in the town and local summer resorts.

The producing of skimmed milk powder was started in 1937.

The above are a few of the outstanding developments made by the Flavelles Ltd. Through all these years they have built a reputation that any firm would be proud to have.

W. Flavelle has always been a hard worker. He has brought to Lindsay an industry that the town has been proud of. Mr. Flavelle himself is one of Lindsay's oldest and most respected citizens and he has made the name of Flavelle well known throughout many parts of Canada.

To the staff that has been with the Flavelle Ltd. a lot of credit is also due. Their work has had to be the best in order to keep up the name of the firm. To them also goes a great deal of the credit.

Mr. Flavelle has spent a lifetime building a great business and the Silverwood people will continue this splendid record.

Retires

In January 1911, Mr. H. S. Johnston, formerly employed in Toronto became associated with Flavelles Limited in Lindsay. In 1914 he was elected secretary-treasurer of the company and in 1921 when Mr. W. Flavelle retired from active management of the business he was elected managing director of the firm.

Upon the death of Mr. J. D. Flavelle in 1925 he became vice-president and managing director of Flavelle Limited and the Lindsay Creamery Ltd., which position he held until the sale of the two businesses was consummated.

Of collateral interest to the change of ownership of Flavelle's Limited, is the fact that Albert Edward Silverwood, head of Silverwoods Ltd., was born in 1876 outside the village of Oakwood near Lindsay. His father, of English descent, was born in Peterborough.

Young Silverwood worked his way through Lindsay Collegiate Institute, and taught school nearby on a salary of $300 a year. He was planning a university course preparatory to entering law when in 1899 he obtained a position in the produce business of Flavelle brothers at Lindsay, and shortly afterward was admitted to partnership.

In 1903 Mr. Silverwood opened a branch for the firm in London, Ont., and finally in 1916 he purchased the interest of the other partners and launched out under his own name. Silverwood Dairies Limited now have creameries and dairy plants in seventeen cities employing 1,200 people on a payroll of more than $1,500,000.

A final touch of business romance brings A. E. Silverwood back to Lindsay president of the company which has now acquired the business in which he began his highly successful career.

Slackers Warned Board To Crack Down

With the re-opening of the city's high schools now in the offing, many boys who have been filling positions in agriculture and industry during the summer months will leave their jobs to go back and continue their education. Some have already laid down their tools, it was stated to-day by W. H. Mellis, manager of the local Selective Service office, and he said further, "We may expect the pace to accelerate considerably in the coming weeks."

"The altered date for the opening of the schools, from Oct. 1 to Sept. 7, is going to make it that much harder to find the men to fill the positions these boys will vacate," Mr. Mellis said.

In regard to agricultural labor, to the boys who have gone out in the fields purely as summer help and to assist in the harvestings, there was no difficulty, the Selective Service officer pointed out. "Those boys who were employed with the clear understanding that their services would be required only on a temporary basis, and so there is no worry in their case about finding replacements. It is the industrial positions that we have to fill."

Have Choice.

Boys under 16, who are required in the first place to obtain permits to work from the Truant Officer, must by law return to school. Those who have passed their 16th birthday are free to choose whether they will continue in the jobs they now hold or give them up and go on with their education.

"In spite of the labor shortage which prevails throughout the province," Mr. Mellis said, "we are urging all of those boys who have not completed their education to return to school and do so. This is in the boys' own best interests. We expect to lose most of those over 16."

In answer to the question where his office would find replacements available for the vacanies occurring from the departure of school-age boys, and in view of the large manpower shortage already existing, Mr. Mellis stated that new teeth were being put in civilian Selective Service regulations. These, it was expected, would serve very well to comb in a lot of drifters and evaders who have not been doing their share.

"We are going to clamp down very soon," the labor officer asserted.

Strong Action.

In the future, Mr. Mellis explained, employees have failed to report or refused to follow the direction of the Selective Service officer when their 7-day period of grace, following the filing of the Notice of Separation, has expired will have their names and addresses forwarded to an Alternative Service Officer. In the event that an appeal is taken by the employee, this procedure will be put into effect immediately after a dismissal of the appeal.

The Alternative Service officer will in turn direct the man to some specific employment, and if this is not accepted, he will then direct the employee to report to an Alternative Service Work Camp, Mr. Mellis said, adding that every person upon whom such an order is served is compelled to comply.

In these camps, where many conscientious objectors are stationed at the present time, the employee will perform alternative service such as the Minister of Labor may direct. He will be provided with living quarters, with board, medical care and transportation, Mr. Mellis said, but no allowance is to be made for supplies of clothing. For every person so employed payment will be not less than 50c a day; if the worker is appointed a sub-foreman, he may receive not more than 75c, and if a foreman, not more than $1 a day.

Rustlers Operate In Modern Style

Three Hereford cattle, the property of Walter Bryan of Dunsford have been stolen from a ranch operated by Bryan in the northern part of Harvey township.

The three animals, a steer and two heifers, were valued at $120 each.

Signs around the ranch indicated that the stolen cattle had been loaded into a truck and driven off.

Similar cattle thefts have been reported from Northumberland County.

Scope Of Health Activities Surprise To Enquiring Reporter

By ALENE HOLT

It was my pleasure recently to be asked by the editorial department to interview our new Medical Health Officer, namely Dr. R. A. Kelly. Dr. Kelly has only been in Peterborough a little over a month and already speaks very highly of this fair city. He is a Queen's University graduate and also has his diploma in public health from Toronto. He was formerly with the Provincial Department of Health in Toronto. Just as a matter of interest to the fair sex, he has only been married a short time and kept right in the profession by marrying a registered nurse, Miss Helen Robinson of Kingston.

Contagious Diseases

The idea of this interview was to have Dr. Kelly interview me as being representative of the women of Peterborough and find out just how much I knew about the workings of the Health Department. First of all, we discussed the control of contagious diseases. Dr. Kelly mentioned that they always appreciate people reporting contagious diseases or the suspicion of the same, so that an examination may be made. A person's own doctor is always consulted first and if it is found that a patient cannot be properly cared for in the home, it is suggested that he or she be removed to the Queen Mary Isolation Hospital. It is up to this department to quarantine the patient or arrange for the removal to the Isolation Hospital.

Theatre managers or those who are responsible for large gatherings could be of great assistance in reporting contagious diseases, especially whooping cough. We both agreed that it is a nasty and dangerous experience to have a child sitting near you in a theatre 'whooping' away for all he is worth and spreading the germs hither and yon.

Venereal Diseases

We then discussed at length venereal diseases, which today is an outstanding problem and one which requires considerable care and attention. According to present day standards, venereal diseases are not "hushed up" and Dr. Kelly said that it is the duty of every person who has or suspects they are infected, to undergo a thorough examination either by their own doctor or at the Venereal Disease Clinic which is under the supervision of Dr. C. B. Waite. If they are found to be infected they should receive treatment until a definite cure is effected. When I mentioned that people are ashamed to have an examination when they suspect the infection, Dr. Kelly said they should think of others and submit to an examination and do all in their power to control the disease.

Sanitation

Mr. R. M. MacPherson, City Sanitary Inspector, then came into Dr. Kelly's office and I was asked what I knew concerning the subject of "Sanitation." Beyond knowing that restaurants, hotels and other food establishments were inspected regularly, I was very green. I did mention though, that I didn't like "cracked dishes" and asked if they could be harmful. I was assured that many germs can lodge in cracked cups and plates even though they may have been washed properly, and it was thought to be a good idea to refuse to accept cracked dishes. Dishes are always washed in hot water and soap suds then are rinsed in a chemical solution to prevent germs, however, even in spite of these precautions it is sometimes impossible to kill the germ which may have lodged in a crack.

Defacing Rest Rooms

At the present time it is very difficult for restaurant owners and others to keep the rest rooms clean and tidy, try as they may. They have reported that the plumbing equipment has often been put out of order, mirrors broken, walls defaced, and when such unscrupulous people do such things, it is almost impossible to keep the rest rooms up to par and according to the standards of the Department of Health.

Home Fumigated

We dwelt briefly on the subject of "Housing". In some instances Dr. Kelly and Mr. MacPherson have come across overcrowding, and in this city I was astounded to learn that we still have some homes where vermin is present. The homes have been fumigated under the department's supervision and it is to be hoped that these cases will soon be few and far between.

Purification of Water

The Department of Health also has to look after the purification of water. The drinking water is tested regularly and the water in the many swimming holes is tested for pollution and contamination. Many diseases can be contracted from impure water and beaches such as septic sore throat, typhoid, para-typhoid (a) and (b), scarlet fever, etc., and if a mother is suspicious at any time that her child has caught a communicable disease from the water or a beach, the Department of Health would appreciate her notifying them and a further inspection would be made.

General Sanitation

Dairies are also inspected regularly by Dr. Kelly and Mr. MacPherson, and in general, these gentlemen look after the general sanitation for the city of Peterborough. Both were very emphatic when asked regarding the good-will and co-operation of restaurant owners, hotel proprietors, etc. All help in every way possible.

Well Baby Clinic

The Child Hygiene Clinic is a very important department under Dr. Kelly's supervision, but not being a mother I asked Dr. Kelly the questions this time. I believe that only "well" babies are invited to this clinic which is held twice a week, Wednesdays at All Saint's Church, and Fridays at Central School, from 2:30 to 4:00 p.m. A nurse from the Department of Health is always in attendance and is assisted by voluntary workers of the Junior Welfare League. Dr. Kelly emphasized the fact that only "well" babies are cared for and that babies who are sick should be attended by the family physician. At this clinic the babies are weighed, examined and advice given on feedings. Literature is also available on the general care of babies. Immunication is given at the clinic as desired, and definitely, no treatment is given at this clinic because they are "well" babies.

Immunization Clinics

During the months of July and August, Immunization Clinics on Tuesday mornings, (9:30-11:00) at the Immaculate Conception School and on Thursday morning (10:00-11:30) at the Queen Mary School, have been held. Children are immunized against diptheria, whooping cough, scarlet fever and vaccinated against small-pox. Immunizations that are already started and which will not be completed before the clinics close, will be carried on at the Well Baby Clinic. The above is all a part of the services of the Department of Health given to their citizens by the city of Peterborough.

"T. B."

"T. B." control was also discussed. Dr. Kelly stressed the fact, that if a person suspects a "T.B." germ, consult your physician immediately. If the disease is present, the Department of Health will be notified and arrangements will be made for the patient to enter a sanitarium. It was interesting to note that Dr Kelly and his assistants try to contact all persons who have been in company recently with the patient and ask them to submit to a skin test, and if found to be positive, a chest X-ray will be made. Chest clinics are held three times a year. Also, I do not believe it is generally known that when a patient returns from a sanitarium, the Department is responsible for the after-treatment and care.

Three Assistants

Miss Geraldine Conley, nurse-in-charge, Mrs. Margaret Shaw and Miss Madonna Hurtubise assist Dr. Kelly and they are always willing and ready at all times to instruct in health education, post-natal care, nutrition, home conditions and cleanliness. Before leaving "being interviewed" I had the opportunity to talk to Miss Conley for a few minutes, because she was busy at the Chest Clinic, but she did give me, a very interesting fact, that is, that a nurse belonging to the Department of Health never gives medical advice. Her job is health-teaching and to assist the family physician in any way she can.

All in all, the writer is just wondering how many knew all the foregoing about the Department of Health? Would you have rated 100%? P.S.—I didn't!

Hastings Mishap Brings Serious Charge

As an aftermath of an accident near Hastings on Sunday July 15 in which one man was injured fatally and ten other persons hurt, William Locke, Stratford railwayman, was arraigned before Magistrate R. B. Baxter in police court this morning on a charge of reckless driving.

Locke was defended by Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., and the case was adjourned until Monday next when Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., stated that the crown was not ready to proceed today.

The charge was laid by Provincial Constable Archie Grayling of Havelock.

Charles Frederick, Norwood, faced a charge of careless driving laid against him by Provincial Constable Grayling after a collision a mile north of Norwood recently in which two Peterborough persons were injured.

His case was also adjourned until next Monday.

He Really Sleeps

NEW YORK, Aug. 19. — (AP).—If there's a sounder sleeper than Harry Childs of East Orange, N.J., then Pennsylvania Railroad police would like to meet him. Childs, police report, snoozed blissfully on a bench in Pennsylvania Station while a man removed his hat then replaced it; next took a package from his lap and put it back, and finally filched $2 from his pocket. The latter, however, was too much for a watching cop, who placed the man under arrest—and wakened Childs.

Tax Payments Highest In 3 Years

Payment of first and second instalments of Peterborough's municipal taxes amounted on Wednesday to 68.04 per cent of the collectible total due and payable this year, City Treasurer M. E. Shaver informed the Examiner today.

Payment percentages at this stage of the year have increased steadily in a comparison with 1941 and 1942, when the respective percentage of the tax roll was 64.43 and 66.47.

Taxpayers who are meeting their municipal obligations on time will be interested in Mr. Shaver's brief summary.

For 1943 the amount of the tax roll is $787,953.14 and the amount of taxes paid to August 18 is $536,127.61 or 68.04 per cent.

In 1942 the tax roll amounted to $645,530.28 and payments on the corresponding with yesterday were $501,558.87 or 64.47 per cent.

Going back to 1941 the amount of tax roll was $803,554.07, taxes paid subsequent to the second instalment at this time were $517,759.40 or 64.43 per cent.

Sub Lt. D. Rogers Reported In Sicily Action

LONDON, Aug. 19. — Coincident with the virtual wind-up of the Sicilian campaign, further details have become available in London of the "grand job" which Canadian seamen attached to combined operations performed in helping to land troops and supplies on Sicily's beaches last month. The Canadians came out of the battle without loss of a man.

Their role was described by Cmdr. K. S. MacLaughlin, of Ottawa, back in London after acting as staff officer to the Royal Navy officer in charge of small craft in the area around Syracuse.

Four Canadian flotillas, including many men who gained experience at Dieppe and during the North African landings last year, participated in the operation.

"They performed the job superbly," said Cmdr. MacLaughlan. "The men manning assault craft were finished a few hours after daylight and cleared off, but the boys engaged in supplying the beaches worked like Trojans 24 hours a day. A week after the landings they were still beetling back and forth from huge transports to the beaches."

Boat officers with the flotillas included Lieut. R. G. Buckingham, Montreal, and Sub.-Lieuts. W. A. Wedd, Toronto; Dave Rogers, Peterborough, Ont.; I. A. Barclay, Montreal; R. E. S. Wakefield, Ottawa; J. D. Chisholm, Winnipeg; G. C. Clark, Ottawa; D. J. Lewis, Westmount, Que.; W. R. Sinclair, Edmonton; J. C. Beveridge, Hamilton, Ont.; R. J. Cruthers, Kingston, Ont.; K. Kidder, Wawa, Ont.; H. E. Trenholme, Montreal; G. E. Allin, Edmonton; G. Nuttal, Calgary, and L. Williams, Vancouver.

SPRINGVILLE

WMS Carry Out Harvest Theme

SPRINGVILLE, Aug. 19 (ENS). —Mrs. A. Hunter was hostess to the W.M.S. for their August meeting, which was opened with quiet music by Mrs. B. Preston.

The subject for the day was "Harvest Time." Mrs. Grandy was in charge of the worship period and asked the members to repeat Psalm 23 in unison.

Discusses Miracle

Mrs. Grandy brought thoughts on the miracle of the loaves and fishes. She pointed out how it might be applied in our own day. Prayer by Mrs. Grandy closed this part of the meeting.

A letter of appreciation was read from Mrs. Walter Bowles.

Regret at the absence of the secretary, Mrs. Dunford, owing to illness, was expressed.

An invitation was to be extended to the members of the Fairmount W.M.S. to be guests of the Springville society at their September meeting.

Harvest Theme

Mrs. Dunn's group took charge of the program and a poem "What You Sow You'll Reap" was used. Readings entitled "Harvest" "He Who Ploughs" and "Luther Burbank" were given respectively by Mrs. Johnston, Mrs. Staples and Mrs. Whittington. Mrs. B. Preston gave on a paper on Our Dependance on God for our Harvest. In concluding her paper she read a story "Mrs. Norton's Garden."

Mrs. Dunn took the study book chapter which was followed by a discussion in which all took part.

Canucks Prosper

"The great majority of Canadians living comfortably at home are far better off to-day than they were before the war." Donald Gordon, chairman Wartime Prices and Trade Board, told the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association.

Poured Barrage Of Shells Into Sicilian Towns

Canadian gunners poured a cascade of 25-pounder shells into the Sicilian towns of Nissoria and Agira — firing more rounds from one gun than whole batteries had fired in Britain during a month of training—before the infantrymen moved in for the final assault. At LEFT, Gunner F. L. Stove of Brooks, Alta., piles some of those deadly shells shortly before the zero hour, and at RIGHT, Gunner J. R. Walsh of Montreal, works the sights of a 25-pounder, apparently not the least concerned about the shrapnel from German counter-battery work.

Russia Protests, Wants Invasion

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Aug. 19— (AP). —The Russian army newspaper Red Star, commenting on the Churchill-Roosevelt conference at Quebec, said yesterday that the Allies had failed to take advantage of the opportunity afforded by the Soviet summer offensive to strike Germany from the west, and repeated the call for a second front.

"Only such an operation can cut down the length of the war to any considerable extent," the newspaper said.

The Germans revised their strategic plans since their defeat in the battle for Kursk, it continued, and decided in a special assembly of military and political leaders at Hitler's headquarters to resort to a stubborn defence effort to prolong the war and "delay the imminent catastrophe."

Red Star said the battles at Kursk and Orel "proved the superiority of Russian troops over Germans both on the offensive and defensive."

The newspaper said: "The Allied command carried out a well-prepared landing operation in Sicily," but added:

"The struggle for Sicily, however, failed to divert a single German division from the Soviet-German front. The German military observer, Capt. Ludwig Sertorius, said a few days ago that not a single plane had been shifted to Sicily from the Soviet-German front. Consequently all the possibilities opened by the victorious offensive of the Red army have not been used so far for strong blows on Germany from the west."

More 3 Yolkers

GALT, Ont., Aug. 19. — (CP).— Three yolks in one egg was said to be a rare feat, in fact a Toronto egg dealer said such an egg was one in 100,000,000 when Mrs. S. Kermerman of Toronto discovered a three-yolk egg last week. But the hens on Radford Brown's farm near here don't seem to believe in figures. Mrs. Ira Hammond has received two eggs from the Brown farm, each containing 3 yolks.

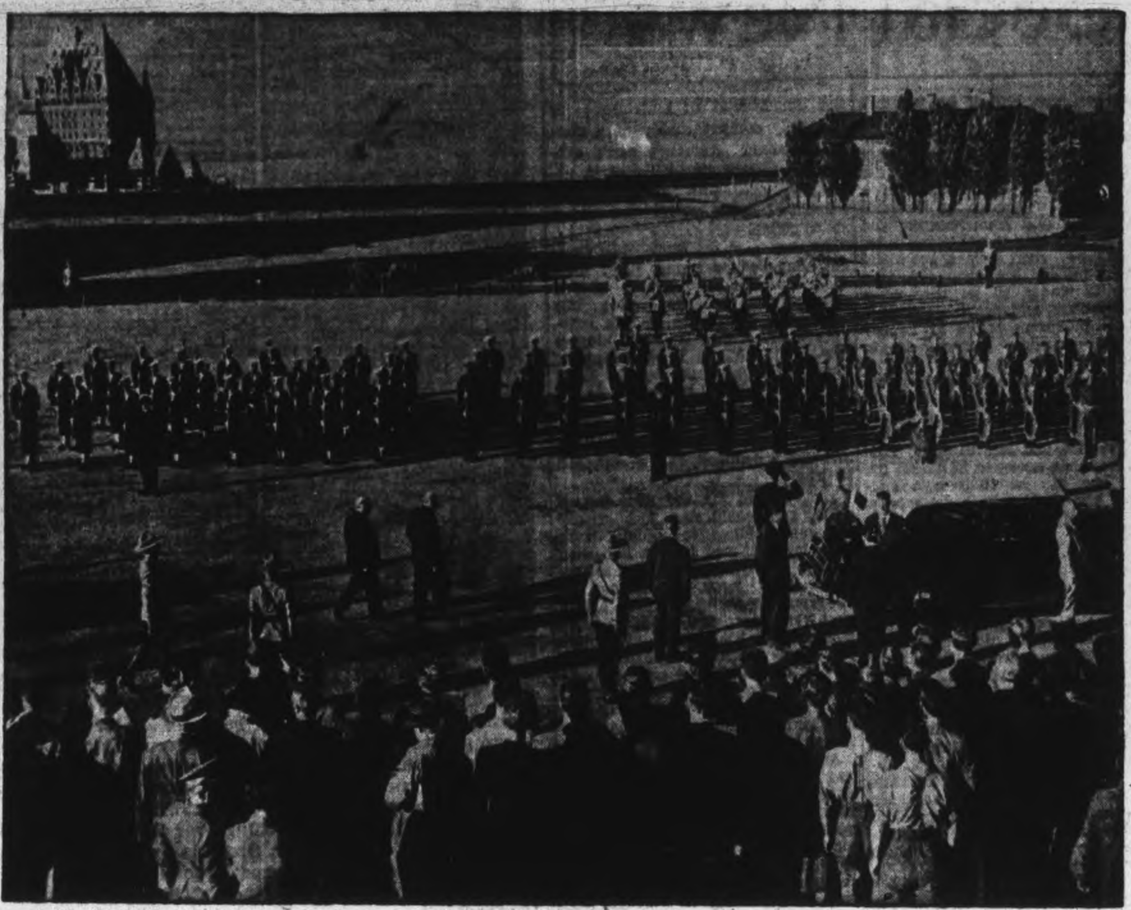
Roosevelt Arrives At Quebec's Citadel For Talks



Franklin Delano Roosevelt, President of the United States, arriving in a closed car to review a guard of honor and an R.C.M.P. band at Quebec's Citadel, summer residence of Canada's Governor-General. Walking behind the car are Prime Minister Winston Churchill and Prime Minister Mackenzie King who have been waiting to confer with Mr. Roosevelt. Drawn up across the parade ground are detachments of the Royal Canadian Navy, Royal Marines, Canadian Army and Royal Canadian Air Force.

Council Says Tanks Tearing Roads

OTTAWA. Aug. 19 — (CP). — Romeo Boismenu, L'Original, Ontario, roads engineer for Prescott and Russell counties, Wednesday served notice on the Defence Department, through an advertisement in an Ottawa newspaper (the Citizen), that the counties can not be held responsible for accidents on their roads caused through the operation of tanks.

The notice was inserted on instructions of Reeve Marshall Rathwell of Cumberland, Ont. who said that churning 20 to 30 ton tanks from the army testing ground at Navan, Ont., on 200 mile non stop test runs over the Prescott and Russell county road system have damaged some 50 miles of soft top road "to such an extent that some farmers are isolated and other unable to draw their crops."

Reeve Rathwell and Reeve William Perrault of Gloucester township complained that tank operators, who in turning must stop one set of treads and keep the other in motion, were "churning up great gouges in the soft top county and township roads, piling gravel as high as four and five feet in some places."

Defence Department officials said they had received no official notification on which to base a check of the complaint, and that they did not regard the newspaper notice as official notification.

OBITUARIES

MRS. ALFRED POOLEY

One of the saddest funerals that has taken place in Peterborough in a long time was that of the late Mrs. Alfred Pooley, which took place from the J. J. Duffus Funeral Parlours to St. Peter's Cathedral on Monday morning, where Requiem Mass was offered by Reverend Gregory Wolff, who also preached the funeral sermon.

Mrs. Pooley who was only 25 years of age, is survived by her husband, now overseas, and her two daughters, Rosemary, 4 years, and Alfreda, 3 years, who was born since her father went away.

The sympathy of the community was exemplified by the exceptionally large number of spiritual offerings and floral tributes.

Among the sorrowing friends who were present were Mrs. A. Saulnier, Mrs. H. Cousineau, and Mrs. S. Smith, of Montreal.

Casket bearers were Messrs. P. Killen, H. Coulson, T. Monks, Leo Girard, Sr., A. Girard, and W. Lanouette.

Interment was in St. Peter's Cemetery, Reverend Vincent Corkery conducting the burial services.

ROSEMARIE MENZIE.

HAVELOCK, Aug. 19.—(ENS).—There passed away in Nicholls Hospital, Peterborough, little Rosemarie Menzie, only child of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Menzie in Belmont, at the age of 2 months, 8 days.

The funeral was held from the family residence, north of Havelock, and was conducted by Rev. J. W. Wilkinson, with interment at Maple Grove Cemetery.

Pallbearers were four boys, Russell and Garnet Keating and Gerald and Grenville Menzie.

FREDERICK JOHN HARD

MILLBROOK, Aug. 19 (ENS).—The death of Frederick Hard, life long resident of this vicinity, took place on Sunday, following some years of ill-health.

He was the fourth son of the late John Hard, and his wife, Mary Bunting, had spent his entire life on the family homestead, Concession 2, Cavan. Actively connected with the former Methodist and the United Churches, he served for several years as superintendent of the Carmel Sunday School and was a faithful member of Carmel Orange Lodge, the latter having the funeral under its auspices, on Tuesday at 2 p.m., the service being in St. Andrew's Church, Millbrook.

Mr. Hard was well known for his exemplary Christian character. This was stressed by Rev. W. E. Honey of Cavan, from the text:—"I am the resurrection and the life," and by his pastor, Rev. A. L. Sisco, who spoke briefly.

The large attendance of neighbors and friends at the service was another tangible evidence of the love and respect accorded the deceased.

The pall bearers were six brethren of the Orange Order, Wesley Armstrong, Samuel Kennedy, Vertile Kennedy, Wilmot Strong, Harvey Challice and Delbert Olan.

Four brothers died earlier and two nephews, Thomas Hard and Fred Hard, are the immediate surviving relatives. Interment was in the family burial plot at the 8th Line Cemetery.

MRS. MARY FLYNN.

DOWNEYVILLE, Aug. 19. — The death took place in Rochester, N.Y., of Mrs. Mary Flynn, wife of the late Patrick Flynn, formerly of Downeyville, in her 94th year.

She died at the home of one of her daughters, Mrs. Agnes Moher. She lived in Downeyville until some years ago, when the family moved to Rochester.

The funeral was from St. Frances church and interment was in Holy Sepulchre Cemetery, Rochester, N.Y.

She leaves four daughters, Mrs. Catharine Foley, Mrs. Agnes Maher, Mrs. Elizabeth O'Hara and Mrs. Margaret Fleming, all of Rochester, N.Y. Her husband and three daughter predeceased her.

MRS. MARGARET FARNHAM

Mrs. Margaret Louisa Farnham passed away at the home of her daughter Mrs. E. L. Reid of Bancroft on Tuesday, August 17th in her 94th year.

The late Mrs. Farnham had been in poor health for a number of years. She has spent the past 10 years in Bancroft with her daughter, and is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Phillips. She was predeceased by her husband the late Timothy Farnham, of Belleville several years ago. She had lived both in Cannifton and Belleville. Surviving are a daughter Susan (Mrs. E. L. Reid of Bancroft), an adopted daughter, Margaret (Mrs. James Hicks) of Napanee and one son Delbert of Belleville.

The funeral was held Wednesday at 11 a.m. from her late residence to chapel service at the Belleville Burial Home, Belleville, at 3.3^ the Rev. McLaughlin of Bancroft and Rev. L. S. Wight of Belleville officiating at the service. Interment was made in the Belleville Cemetery. Many floral tributes showed the esteem in which the late Mrs. Farnham was held by her many friends.

Germans Ready In Northern Italy

BERNE, SWITZERLAND, Aug. 18. —(AP)—The Lausanne Gazette said today 15 German divisions now are stationed on Italian territory with "an equal number ready to penetrate in case of need."

The Zurich newspaper, Neue Zuercher Zeitung, added in a Berlin dispatch that the Nazis were making the strongest possible preparations to defend Italy regardless of what the government of Marshal Pietro Badoglio might do.

A Chiasso, Switzerland, dispatch to the National Zeitung of Basle however, reported "there are few signs of preparation for the defence of northern Italy," leading to a belief among the people there that the war would not long be continued on Italian soil.

The Lausanne Gazette said "field grey offensive units in much greater number are established" in Italy, massed in the Brenner Pass between Italy and Austria and spread along the French Riviera.

Weary Soldiers Find Messina Empty

By DON WHITEHEAD
Associated Press War Correspondent.

MESSINA, Sicily, Aug. 19— (AP) —A soldier leaned his rifle against a wall, unhooked his pack from tired shoulders, and stepped into the street to take a look at Messina's bomb-wrecked buildings.

"Well," he said with finality, "that's all there is, there ain't no more."

When the first patrols came down from the mountains to occupy the enemy's last stronghold on the island, only a few stray shots from snipers opposed them, in contrast to the bitter fighting a few days earlier. There was no elation or hilarity apparent over the historic entry into Messina. The troops just walked in, looked around, and sat in the shade to catch up on sleep or eat their tinned rations.

They found the post city, with a normal peacetime population of 125,000, virtually deserted and smashed to piles of debris under the pounding of the Allied Air Force hitting at the important Messina-to-Italy ferry lines.

In all Sicily there was no city wrecked as thoroughly and efficiently as Messina. Once it must have been a beautiful place. Its wide streets, tree-shaded boulevard and modern buildings — now torn and tattred by the heavy aerial bombardments— reflected prosperity and civil well-being.

The worst battered parts of the city were the railroad and dock areas, reduced to scrambled heaps of rubbish, twisted steel and pulverized masonry.

"It's funny," one officer said, "after we get Messina, we don't know what in hell to do with it."

Millbrook News

Miss Margaret Wood received word on Wednesday morning of the death of her brother-in-law, Dr. Bruce C. Whyte, of Battle Creek, Michigan, on Tuesday evening, following an extended period of ill health. Dr. Whyte was a nephew of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Eakins of Millbrook, and is survived by his widow, formerly Gertrude Wood, youngest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Wood, of Millbrook; by one son, PO. Geoffrey Whyte, R.C.A.F., now in England, and one daughter, Nancy Whyte, of Michigan.

Misses Muriel and Ruth Ball, who have been holidaying at Presqu'ile Point, returned home this week.

Miss Betty O'Brian, of Peterborough, and Marguerite Macklem, of Welcome, are holidaying at Brynell Manor, Cameron Lake, leaving on Saturday.

PO. Reg. Edmunds, who has been at a training centre in Quebec, is home for a brief stay with his mother, Mrs. Ross Edmunds.

Mr. and Mrs. Bridge, who have been occupying Mrs. George Hetherington's bungalow, Tupper street, have moved this week to Miss L. Burton's house, King street, formerly occupied by Mrs. F. L. Edworthy, who has gone to Peterborough. Mrs. Hetherington has returned from the West and intends living again in her own home.

Mr. and Mrs. Lavergne Fallis have moved to the village and are living in the house recently purchased from Mrs. L. Ingram, Anne street.

Councillor and Mrs. J. J. Powell entertained at a dinner party on Tuesday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Keith Powell, who have just returned from their

This is Everybody's War

By MOLLY BROWN

One of the most important elements necessary to the winning of this, or any other, war is co-operation—co-operation among individuals, among the Allied governments, among air, land and sea forces, among organization and among government departments. However, judging by an advertisement which appeared in Monday's paper, there is one service which apparently considers itself exempt from this necessity for co-operation.

The ad in question pictures two girls looking at a sign-board urging enlistment in the branch of one of Canada's armed services. One girl is saying to the other, "That's what we ought to be doing."

What's wrong with that, you say? Nothing, except that the two girls are wearing overalls, kerchiefs and identification badges, a type of dress which typifies them as factory workers—and, almost undoubtedly, war workers, in other words, girls who are already doing a vitally important job in working to supply the tools of war to our men overseas. There is no job in the war effort more important than theirs, for no matter how brave a soldier, sailor or airman may be, he cannot hope to fight successfully against a fully equipped army, unless he is equipped himself with the necessary weapons.

But the service in question had apparently not thought of that, or did not consider it important, for the ad goes on to say, "The job you are doing today may be quite useful to the war effort. But somewhere there's a more important job made to order for you!" In fact, the ad suggests that girls, who have already released men for active service by taking factory jobs; who have learned to operate machines as speedily and efficiently as men and who are now skilled at important war work; should leave these jobs and join the services, learning a new job from the ground up, and making it necessary for their former employers to spend valuable time finding new girls and taining them to fill the vacant jobs.

This column has no wish to discourage the recruiting of women for Army, Navy or Air Force, but it does consider that the recruiting should be conducted with a better conception of the importance of all jobs in relation to the war effort and a recollection of the fact that our armed services are supposed to be fighting against Hitler, not waging an underground feud with National Selective Service.

Price Control Ration News

Q.—Will you please tell me where I can get my new ration book if I am out of town when the books are distributed?

A.—You will be able to get your new ration book No. 3 by calling at any distribution centre in Canada and presenting your old book (with the application card completed in the back of it). Make a point to call for your new book while you are away. Distribution days are August 25, 26, and 27.

Q. — Will I be entitled to tea coupons in the new ration book for my child who will be 12 years old August 22?

A. — Yes. As your child will be 12 years old by September 1st, coupons for rationed commodities will be included in his new book.

Q. — Are boarders supposed to give their ration books to the people they are boarding with?

A. — Yes, certainly. Unless the boarding house is registered with the Wartime Prices and Trade Board as a quota user, the only way your boarding house keeper can get supplies of rationed commodities for your meals is by using coupons from your ration book .. .. The number of coupons used by the boarding house should of course correspond as nearly as possible to the amount of tea, coffee, sugar, butter and meat you are served (one, two or three meals). These details will have to be ironed out as equitably and as fairly as possible between the two.

Q. — Does each application card in the back of our old ration books have to be signed by the particular person who owns the book?

A. —Yes. It is absolutely necessary for the holder of each book to sign his own application card, unless the person is under 14 years when a parent or sponsor may sign from him.

Please send your questions or your request for Price Ceiling Record Book (the book in which you keep track of your ceiling prices) mentioning the name of this neswpaper to: — Wartime Prices and Trade Board, 406 Metropolitan Building, Toronto.

BLACKETEERS.

Anyone who in any way breaks a price or rationing regulation which has been made to protect the masses, is dealing in the black market, according to Wartime Prices and Trade Board authorities.

Powers Model Becomes Movie Star

By ARLENE WOLF
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 19—(CP)—When a movie company invests $2,000,000 in a pretty girl that's news. And when it gives the same pretty girl the leading role in three class A pictures, and released them in as many months, that's even bigger news.

But Marguerite Chapman, for whom all these bells toll takes it all so very calmly. Those blue eyes of hers may spell romance under the Klieg lights, but off the set, she's just a gal who knows where she's going—and knows how to get there.

A couple of years back, the twenty-two-year-old star of "Destroyer" got tired of saying "White Plains, long distance," for the benefit of the telephone company. So she put down her earphones, and invested the savings from her $18 a week in a modelling course.

"The school wanted me to model in wholesale houses," she says. "But I wanted commercial work. So I saw Mr. Powers."

It would be more accurate to say that Mr. Powers saw her. Marguerite met him in an elevator, and by the time they had walked down the hall to his office she was a Powers girl—making more than $100 a week.

On To Hollywood

That satisfied her for about eight months. "Then I realized," she says, "that I couldn't go any higher in modelling. So I decided to go to Hollywood."

Thousands of pretty young things decide to go to Hollywood, and thousands get there. The thing that's different about Marguerite is that she didn't get stymied taking orders in a drive-in, or serving the celebrities in a restaurant. She entered Hollywood with a bang.

"At first I did everything wrong," she laughs. "The first party I went to at Jack Warner's house, I fell down a flight of stairs and landed right on my face in the middle of a bunch of stars. Then I told one actor I had enjoyed his pictures as a child."

Marguerite doesn't have to worry about the star's room any more, for it's hers. It took four years, and 20 smaller parts before she graduated to top billing, but she made it. In 18 months, she's filmed "Destroyer," "Appointment to Berlin," and "My Kingdom for a Cook."

Helen Davidson Is Wed To Cecil Neal

MARMORA, Aug. 19 — (ENS).—A pretty wedding was solemnized in St. Paul's Anglican Church on Wednesday evening as Verna Helen daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Davidson of Marmora became the bride of Cecil Arthur, son of Mrs. Lindsay Neal and the late Lindsay Neal of Marmora Township. Rural Dean A. B. Caldwell officiated. The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Clayton Davidson of Marmora, looked charming in rose chiffon, wearing a tulle veil surmounted by a coronet of flowers. Her corsage was pink and white roses. She was attended by Mrs. Clayton Davidson, dressed in white chiffon, wearing a corsage of roses and gladioli. Victor Neal, brother of the groom, performed the duties of best man.

Wedding music was played by the organist, Mrs. L. R. Rundle, and during the signing of the register, Mr. L. R. Rundle sang "O Promise Me."

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, the happy couple later leaving on a wedding trip. They will live in Marmora Township.

DOROTHY DIX

NEW BEAUTY CULTURE SCHOOL GUARANTEES TO HOLD HUSBANDS

Daily Spiritual Dozen, Exercise Minds, Hearts, Stand on Tiptoes to be Perpetually Young.

DEAR MISS DIX—Is it true that nobody loves a fat woman, and that husbands tire of their wives if they get stout and do not keep a boyish figure? My husband is very dear to me and I don't want to lose him to a flapper, and if the only way to keep him is counting my calories, I will do it, but, frankly, starvation is an acid test of love.

FORTY-ODD.

Pleasant Wife Keeps Husband

ANSWER—I know that the theory prevails that for a woman to be a Lady Love she must have a lean and hungry look, and that for a wife to put on fat is first aid to divorce; but, myself, I doubt if men are so enamoured of bones as women think they are.

Therefore, I am strongly of the opinion that a wife can do more to hold her husband's affections by doing a little figuring about a husband's prejudices, and likes and dislikes, before she speaks than she can by figuring how many calories there are in every bit of food before she eats it. For it is not what goes into a woman's mouth, but what comes out of it, that promotes the peace and harmony of a home.

No man is going to bother about the weight of a wife who is always pleasant and agreeable, who never nags or whines or complains, and who says to him the words of appreciation and affection and admiration that are the music of the spheres to his ears. When it comes to holding a husband's love, I would back the wife who counted the effect of what she said rather than the one who counted the calories in what she ate.

And the fad of face-lifting and wrinkle eradicating which is guaranteed to make a middle-aged wife over into a girl again! I wonder if the average husband wouldn't rather have his wife's spirits lifted than her face, and if he wouldn't a lot rather have the wrinkles ironed out of her disposition than out of her cheeks After all, not many men are beauty mad, but the thing that every man likes in a woman is for her to be cheerful and bright and good-natured and amiable and easy to get along with.

Somehow, when women get along toward middle life they are very likely to slump, to let themselves get depressed and peevish and dull, and to make no effort to be gay and entertaining companions to their husbands. And it is because they are poor company that so many men are driven away from home to seek jolher companionship.

It is the sag in most women's morale, not the sag in their face muscles, that needs to be taken up, and they can be their own surgeons and not only save money, but be sure of turning out a successful job.

Therefore, I commend this new school of beauty culture to all middle-aged women. Its methods always work. And its results are always a charm to conjure with. If women would do their daily spiritual dozen as religiously as they do their daily physical dozen; if they would constantly exercise their minds and their hearts and keep from getting rigid and stiff in their opinions; if they would keep themselves standing on tiptoes with new ideas and interests and enthusiasms, they would keep perpetually young. Or, if they didn't, nobody would know it or care, because they would have the charm that makes them ageless.

DEAR MISS DIX — I am 18 years old. Have been married three years and have one child. I am tired of my husband and sick of matrimony and am thinking of going away with a young man who says he loves me and will take care of me.

A SAD GIRL.

ANSWER—If you are disillusioned with matrimony, you are taking a strange cure for your trouble by running off with another man. What advantage do you think a common-law wife has over a legal wife? What charm will there be in an illicit relationship that a respectable relationship lacked?

The thing that rubs the gilt off the gingerbread of matrimony is the daily companionship of a man and woman. Romance can't survive a woman's seeing a man in his stocking feet, with a two days' stubble of beard on his face and a soiled collar.

Illusion perishes when she finds out that he has funny, fussy little ways, and that he swears a blue streak when his collar-button rolls under the chiffonier, and is irritable when dinner is three minutes late, and that he is unreasonable about bills and hard to get along with, and thinks he is about to die every time he has a headache, and, in general, is just a plain, ordinary, faulty human being, instead of being a demigod, as she supposed he was.

But, believe me, my poor foolish child, you would find just exactly the same things to contend with in a lover, if you had to live with him every day, as you find in a husband. Only more so, because, in addition, you would always be afraid that your lover was about to leave you, and that he would visit upon you all the irritations arising out of a situation that is not countenanced by decent society. Every time people looked askance at him and snubbed him, you would have to pay.

And what about your child? Are you going to abandon it? Do you think you will find much happiness when you lie awake at night wondering if your baby is crying for its mother? And do you think you have any right to bring up a child in the atmosphere in which you are proposing to live? Do you think any child would respect a mother living the kind of life you are thinking of living?

Answer these questions honestly to yourself and you will stick to your job.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—Will you please tell me why it is that gentlemen prefer blondes to brunettes?

HELEN T.

ANSWER—They don't. Just as many men admire dark women as they do fair ones. It is a matter of individual taste.

Look around among the married women of your acquaintance and you will see that there are blondes and brunettes and browns and tans and redheads and whiteheads, and short and fat, and living skeletons and bean poles, and betwixts and betweens. Also, there are morons and highbrows, and clinging vines and bosses, and some man has picked one of them out as his choice. So there is hope for all.

Besides, Anita Loos, who knows all about it, says that even if gentlemen fall for blondes, they marry brunettes.

American Design

By ALICE ALDEN

If American, and especially New York, is to retain the fashion supremacy that has been its lot for the past few years, greater recognition must be given to its fine fashion designers, men and women who before the war worked in shrouded anomnity. We've got to learn the characteristics of famous people like Brownie of Foxbrownie, whose new collection is as good as anything ever done by a foreign designer. Born in New York, Brownie was designing clothes while in her teens and is now becoming famous with the public as well as with the trade. This Foxbrownie design is a cocktail or dinner suit with black wool skirt and beige wool jacket jet embroidered. It is worn with a black rayon jersey gilet.

MILLs MAKE MILES.

Since September, 1939, Caandian mills have produced, cut up and made into uniforms, 50,000 miles of cloth—enough to stretch from Vancouver to Halifax 14 times, says Kate Aitken, Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

DINNERS OF THE WEEK

By MARY MOORE

Dear Mary Moore: Your column in the paper is very interesting and your receipes seem to be economical.

Would you kindly help me out in planning meals for a family of two adults and two children under 10. I'm rather sure I get enough housekeeping money and yet it never seems to stretch over the period of two weeks that is expected We allow $25.00 for two weeks which seems ample.

We are all keen on fresh vegetables and fruits at all times and allow for two quarts of milk per day. As for butter of course we use our limit even though I use gelatine and about half a pound each two weeks.

My husband doesn't like one-dish meals but will take the occasional stew.

Don't think we are extravagant as both of us have been brought up differently and I'm used to cooking and am keen on it. We are all very hearty eaters—perhaps that is our trouble these times.

I would be so glad if you could help us. E. I. G.

Your problem is an universal one E.I.G., but since we are coming into the cheapest fruit and vegetable buying season of the year, I will keep the cost of this list of budgeted meals under the $25.00 you allow yourself. Besides—I expect you buy matches, soap and cleansers out of the $25.000, even though you do not mention these items.

Recipe for Tuesday's Dinner

Cheese, bread and egg dish: cut into ½-inch slices white bread and spread sparingly with butter. Cut two of the slices twice across, making 8 triangular pieces. Cut the remaining bread into cubes. There should be about 4 cups diced, buttered bread. Place layers of diced bread in a buttered baking dish and sprinkle the layers with 1 cup grated cheese. Mix together 2 eggs. 1 cup milk, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon paprika, a shaked of cayenne, ½ teaspoon dry mustard (this last is optional). Pour this last mixture over the bread and cheese and place bread triangles upright around the edge of the dish to form a border. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for about 20 minutes. Serve immediately.

SUPPER (Tuesday)

Pork Liver Loaf (see note)
OR Kidney Stew
Creamed or Mashed Potatoes
Shredded Green Beans or Broccoli
Chilled Compote of Plums Milk

Recipe for Wednesday's Dinner

If you choose Pork Liver Loaf for Wednesday here is a good method: 1½ lb. pork liver, 4 slices bacon, ½ onion, ¼ cup chopped parsley, 2½ cups soft bread crumbs, 2 eggs, 2 teaspoons salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper. Let slices of liver stand in hot water for 10 minutes and then grind with the onion and bacon. Add eggs, crumbs, parsley and seasonings and bake 1 hour at 350 deg. Fahr. Since make 1 hour at 350 deg. Fahr. Since these amounts make enough for 6 you will have a little left for for sandwiches for either Wednesday's or Thursday's supper.

SUPPER (Wednesday)
Hot hard-cooked eggs

For Friday Supper's Soup if used open one can of canned condensed Beef Soup. To it add 1 cup diced potatoes, ½ cup diced carrots, 1 diced onion and 2 cups water and 1 teaspoon salt which have been boiled together until tender. This stretches 1 can of condensed soup so that it may be used for 2 meals.

Saturday

BREAKFAST
Chilled Applesauce
Cornmeal Cereal Top Milk
Brown Sugar
Toast if Desired
Milk for Children Coffee for Adults
DINNER
Wieners and Buns and Mustard
Cole Slaw
Steamed Apple Pudding Milk
SUPPER
Baked Beans with Crust of Salt Pork
Lettuce, Carrot and Celery Salad
Sliced Plain Cake Milk Tea

These meals can be bought for the sum you mention because I served them to my own family in the past week, and for days we had 5 people —BUT there is no room for waste of any kind.

I hope E.I.G. has good luck with them and that the family likes the items I have chosen. There should be no complaints if you repeat this a second week, but it shouldn't be necessary—with one week for a pattern you should be able to adjust next week's meals to it with interesting changes in accord with the market.

For Midsummer Dancing

St. Regis Hotel Photo

Mrs. Felix Warburg wears a white organza dancing frock for an evening party. It is trimmed with navy blue lace applique bands, has a black velvet sash, and red rose nosegay.

By PRUNELLA WOOD

We don't see so many dancing frocks with long skirts sketched in advertisements these days . . . and with so much talk about whether or not they are still being worn, the proof of the argument lies in photographs like the one above.

It was taken on the roof restaurant of a smart New York hotel, and it shows a well-known New York hostess as she appeared for a war relief gala night. The frock is formal, but it couldn't be much simpler, or prettier.

ENQUIRY COLUMN

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: I read your columns and have had much success with your wonderful recipes.

Now I have a problem of my own and wonder if you could help me. My family like tart sauces on their meat preferably with plenty of cayenne pepper.

Would you have any recipes by which I could make my own and keep for the winter?

Also have you a recipe for sweet gherkin pickles, using all sugar? Thanking you.—Mrs. Wilbert Jordan.

ANSWER: There is a pepper relish that calls for cayenne pepper. I make it leaving the cayenne pepper out, but will give you as it is supposed to be and you can dilute it with vinegar if you think it is too thick. A relish would be thicker than sauce.

Pepper Relish

Twenty green peppers, 20 sweet red peppers, 12 medium-sized onions, 1 quart vinegar, ½ cup brown sugar, 2 tablespoons salt, 2 tablespoons mustard seed, 1 teaspoon cayenne pepper. Remove seeds from peppers and put washed peppers and onions through the food chopper together. Cover with boiling water. Let stand 10 minutes, and drain. Cover again and drain in 5 minutes. Mix together the vinegar, sugar, salt, mustard seed and cayenne and pour over the chopped vegetables and boil together 15 minutes, and pour into sterile jars and seal with either regular tops, or if jam jars are used cover with 1 coat hot paraffin immediately, and add a second coating when cold.

A very good barbecue sauce that seems to me more like the kind of thing you want than the above relish follows. It may be heated to boiling point and bottled to keep as described above if desired.

Barbecue Sauce (for meat)

Five tablespoons vingear, 4 tablespoons tomato catsup, 2 tablespoons Worcstershire sauce, 3 bay leaves, 1 clove garlic minced, 2 tablespoons onions chopped fine, 1 cup tomatoes skinned and chopped, or the heavy part of canned tomatoes, 3 stalks celery chopped, ½ lemon thinly sliced, 1½ cups water. Simmer these ingredients for 15 minutes, then strain them. If you care to add cayenne pepper at this point do so. Bring to boiling point and bottle and seal. If to be made a time of using this is very nice with ⅓ cup melted butter added just before serving.

Sweet Gherkin Pickles

Twenty pounds very small cucumbers, 1 cup salt, 12 cups water, 1 gallon vinegar, 11 to 15 cups sugar (depending on how sweet you want your pickles), 2 ounces whole mixed spice, 1 ounce stick cinnamon, 1 tablespoon whole cloves, 1 teaspoon alum. Scrub the pickles very well. Then soak them for 24 hours in a brine made of the 1 cup salt and 12 cups water. Remove them from the brine and pour boiling water to cover over them. Drain them quickly in a colander and pack them closely in sterilized jars hot. Cover them at once with the remaining ingredients which have been brought to boiling point together. Seal jars at once.

TESTED . . RECIPES .

By MARY MOORE

Sunday dinner meats for folks whose meat coupons do not allow them a roast are needed by small families.

Veal In Batter

Is a delicious dish, worthy of your best company and will suit the most fastidious diner.

Prepare the batter: 1⅓ cups flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon paprika, sifted together; then add 1 egg beaten with 1¼ cups milk and mix very well.

Pound until very thin ½ inch slice of veal from the steak or shoulder and cut into very small pieces. Drop into batter with 1 tablespoon chopped parsley and 2 tablespoons lemon juice. Melt and heat in a frying pan bacon drippings or other shortening or heat corn oil. Drop the batter into it by spoonfuls when it is smoking hot and saute the fritters until they are done—turning once. Or they may be fried in deep hot fat at 360 deg. Fahr.

Serve with Mayonnaise to which you have added 2 tablespoons chopped parsley, 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind, and 1 tablespoon chopped sweet pickle.

The above meat is delicious when served in the centre of a platter surrounded by a border of vegetables such as corn on the cob; whole boiled potatoes dipped in chopped parsley, and creamed shredded green beans.

Apple snow with cold soft custard for dessert makes a meal out of the above that I would be proud to serve to Mrs. Churchill.

Bridging the Seasons

By ALICE ALDEN

The white hat is a favorite with many women for in-between-season wear, and here is a model that neatly bridges the gap between airy summer and more formal-autumn millinery. It is a neat sailor of white felt with an applique of black woollen dots and a black grosgrain band. Elaine Shephard wears it with a black sheer wool suit splashed with a white appliqued marquisette jabot, a nice late summer or early autumn costume.

IN MEMORIAM

PAYNE—In memory of David W. Payne who passed away August 19, 1939.

The evening stars shine on the grave,
Of one we loved and could not save,
The call was sudden, the shock severe,
To lose the one we loved so dear,
'Tis sweet to know we'll meet again,
Where troubles are no more,
And that the one we loved so well,
Has just gone on before.
—The Family.

PAYNE — In loving memory of Dad who passed away August 19, 1939.

You left us to remember
None on earth can take your place,
A happy home we once enjoyed,
How sweet the memory still
But death has left a loneliness,
The world can never fill.
—Alice and Wes.

Defeat Aircraft

the Westclockers and Norma Strickland had a pair for the losers. They were the only two players to get more than one safe blow.

The fielding feature was Aggie Anderson's sprint for the short fly in the seventh. The Westclox centre fielder had to come a long way for that looper and she gathered it in on the run in fine style.

Aircraft got their two runs in the second. Annette DeCarlo bunted and reached second when Beryl Dobbin made a bad throw to first. Audrey Patterson struck out, but Norma Strickland singled through short and when the roller got away from Barbara Rome, A. DeCarlo scored and the batter reached second. Isobel Bullock struck out Irma Perdue but then passed Phyllis Bigelow, Ruth Hewitt and Marilyn Low in a row, forcing in Norma Strickland with the second run. Eleanor Craig popped to Beryl Dobbin for the third out.

Stalled To Fifth

Westclox did not get a runner on the bases until the fifth when Marg. Watson and Barbara Rome both singled. The runners were stranded however when Eleanor Craig made a nice catch of Verna Patterson's foul.

Disaster however struck the Aircraft in the sixth. With one out Phyllis Bigelow fumbled Aggie Patterson's roller long enough to give the hitter a life. Viola McLean singled over third. Isobel Bullock flied to Marg. Selkirk in centre field for the second out. Marilyn Low fumbled Marg. Hawthorne's tap and the bases were full. When Marg. Watson's fly to left field got away from Ruth Hewitt, Aggie Patterson and Vi McLean ran home to tie the score. Beryl Dobbin walked to load the bases again and Marilyn Low was taken out of the box, Marg. Selkirk replacing her.

The relief pitcher could not get the ball over for Barbara Rome who drew a pass and Marg. Hawthorn was forced in with the winning run. With the sacks still filled Verna Patterson struck out.

Westclox cinched the game in the first half of the eighth. Marg. Hawthorne opened with a single and went to second while Marg. Selkirk was tossing out Marg. Watson. Beryl Dobbin singled over second to score Marg. Hawthorne and took second on the throw to the plate. She went to third on a passed ball and scored the final run of the game while Barbara Rome was being tossed out by Marg. Selkirk.

Not Hard To Be Adept at Repartee

BRIGHT PHRASES WIN FRIENDS

Gay friend-winning repartee! A girl needs it these days, for chances to make friends are brief—a casual meeting, a few minutes between dances, that's about all.

So, if you get stuck on "yes . . . no . . . I don't know" at such times learn a few bright phrases.

As you get the trick of using jaunty phrases you sail smoothly into a party with a "So nice of you to ask me" to your hostess; you get your dance partners to beaming with a deft compliment, "How well you rumba!" In letters too you sound sincere with a warm "all my love and sympathy" instead of a chilly "sorry to hear."

Our 32-page booklet lists dozens and dozens of vivid phrases to make your conversation and your letters sparkle. Gives pleasing remarks appropriate for many social, business occasions.

For your copy of EFFECTIVE PHRASES FOR ALL OCCASIONS send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

"BLACK-JACKED BY HIM"

THERE ARE hands on which you have no way to make your contract working alone, but which can bring the desired result if you can get one of the defenders to help you by squeezing his partner. Such an artifice is sometimes called a "suicide squeeze" because by means of it the opponents kill themselves. A better name, perhaps, is the other one of "cannibal squeeze" because it involves one opponent devouring his mate. But if the devourer really had available an alternative play which would not have hurt his partner, the latter is justified in saying he was "black-jacked."

That was the bidding used by Carlton Russell, of St. Petersburg, Fla., who employs a No Trump bid which must be kept open by his partner. But the point of this deal was his play.

Mr. Russell let West take two hearts and won the third. He had figured a possible way to add a ninth trick to the eight certain ones, even if the clubs would not break. Two club tops brought a diamond discard from West, then three diamond tricks ensued. East had tossed two spades on heart tricks, so Mr. Russell had the situation pretty well figured out. East was keeping three clubs and two spades, West three spades, undoubtedly including the K-Q, and two hearts. Then the club Q was cashed, and East thrown in with the club 4.

East could not resist the temptation to cash his club J, and by doing so, he squeezed West. The latter had to toss a card from the spade K-Q and the heart 10. Dummy, discarding after him, held the Spade A-J and the heart 5, so any discard would give dummy the last two tricks. Of course, East could have beaten this by letting his club J go by default and instead returning one of his two spades on the eleventh trick. As it was, he "black-jacked" his partner, both literally and figuratively.

Playing at a hopeless 7-No Trumps, how can South limit his loss to one down on this deal after West leads the spade Q?

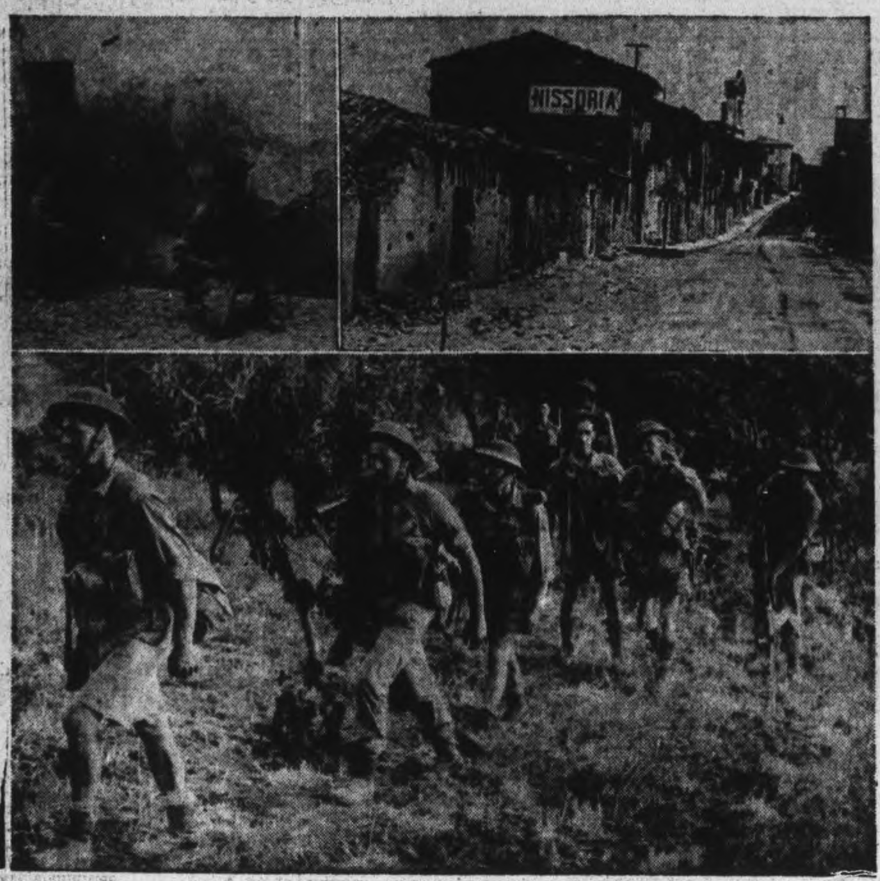
Capture Nissoria And Agira After Violent Assault



German soldiers who had fought in the Polish, French and North African campaigns and some who had fought at Stalingrade, crumbled under weight of the violent three-hour artillery barrage which Canadian gunners laid down on their positions near Nissoria. Captured Nazis said it was the heaviest barrage they had ever experienced. UPPER LEFT shows a patrol of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry crouching against a wall in Agira with an alert eye for enemy stragglers, after the town was captured by the Canucks in prolonged and bloody street fighting. RIGHT Shows evidence of the terrific power of Canadian artillery which smashed at Nissoria. Advancing on Nissoria under cover of artillery fire is a mortar platoon of Canadian infantry regiment BELOW. When the three-hour assault lifted, these men moved into Nissoria and drove out the Nazis after an afternoon of street fighting. Then the Canucks moved on to take Agira.

Should Stay Home

DALLAS, Aug. 19. — (AP). —A husband, asking a divorce, told the judge his wife wouldn't co-operate in making a living. "In the morning," the plaintiff said, "she lets air out of my tires and I have to push the car a block to the filling station. It's awful aggravating when the weather is hot." The divorce was granted.

BALLYDUFF

Church Observes Special Services

BALLYDUFF, Aug. 19 — (ENS) —Ballyduff Presbyterian Church observed its annual anniversary services afternoon and evening on Sunday. The interior of the edifice was decorated for the occasion with bouquets and baskets of summer flowers and house ferns. Rev. Mr. Jamieson, who is the regular minister, had his son, Rev. Mr. Jamieson, of Dresden with him on vacation, and he ably occupied the pulpit at both services, leaving a helpful message with his listeners.

The Janetville Presbyterian choir was the guest choir for the day, asisted by Percy Preston, the choir leader at Ballyduff. Two beautiful anthems were sung at each service with Mr. Preston taking the solo parts.

There were guests present from Yelverton, Janetville, Lifford, Tyrone, Agincourt, and Dresden.

Labor Likely To Win In Australia

By J. E. HOLDSWORTH
Canadian Press Correspondent

SYDNEY, Australia, Aug. 19 — (CP Cable). — Australia's second general election sinces war began takes place Saturday.

The last one was in 1940 before Japan entered the war and before Germany attacked Russia.

At that time R. G. Menzies, then Prime Minister, lost enough seats — all in New South Wales— to make his position untenable. The United Australia party leader had to make way for Arthur Fadden, Country Party leader. Fadden subsequently was defeated by labor when two independents decided to throw their weight behind John Curtin, Labor leader, who became Prime Minister in October of 1941.

With the support of the two independents, Prime Minister Curtin has remained in power since. He decided last July to go to the country after his administration was upheld on a vote of non-confidence by only one vote.

The German attack on Russia in June, 1941, will considerably influence the polling Saturday.

A Strong Force

It brought the Communist openly and strongly behind the Curtin government. Prior to that time they had opposed what they then described as a "capitalist, imperialistic struggle." In those days the Communists opposed Australia's participation in the war anywhere in any form.

A few months ago Curtin lifted the ban on the Communist party in Australia, which for some time had been disbanded. Australian labor, however, as in Britain, still excludes Communists from its membership.

Nevertheless, if a big swing to Labor takes place in the election, as forecast by some Labor circles, an important influence will be the solid support of the Communists and their remarkably efficient organization, especially in industrial areas.

Ballotting is under the single transferable vote system, similar to that used in single-seat constituencies in provincial election in Manitoba and Alberta. All constituencies in Australia are represented by only one member.

If there are four candidates, the voter marks 1st, 2nd, 3rd and 4th choices. The winner is the first person who gets an absolute majority. After first choices are counted, if no majority is established, the last man is dropped and the second choices on those ballots are given to the other candidates.

Must Like The Place

HALIFAX, Aug. 19.—(CP). —Houses are certainly hard to get in Halifax. Sgt. Peter Ryan of the city police force brought eviction-proceedings against William Davis yesterday. He said he had evicted Davis from a house owned by himself several months ago after receiving authority from the courts, but Davis broke into the building and took up residence again. Magistrate R. E. Inglis gave Davis two weeks to vacate the property.

Don't Suffer Stomach Gas, Indigestion; Weak Kidneys

Read Here the Experience of This Well-Known Man; Benefit By the Experience of Hundreds of Others and Take Syntona for Prompt, Effective Results.

MR. WALTER HASKETT

If you are a sufferer of stomach gas pains, sour stomach, bloat, indigestion and stomach distress after meals; if sluggish bowel elimination causes dizziness, spots before the eyes, tired rundown feeling or if sluggish kidneys disturb your sleep, cause backache and are making you nervous and out of sorts, follow the advice of hundreds of reputable men and women and take a short treatment of Syntona.

"Syntona is the finest tonic I ever took," says Mr. Walter Haskett, 11 Hamilton Road, London, Ontario. "I suffered from so many complaints I can hardly describe them all. My stomach was sour and gassy after meals. I'd get dizzy spells, headaches, rheumatic pains in my back and limbs and my kidneys disturbed my sleep so often at night I didn't get the proper sleep. My complexion was sallow, I had a bad taste in my mouth, and always had a full, heavy feeling in the pit of my stomach.

"Since taking Syntona these complaints have gone away; it is fully four years since I've slept so well and I feel fine. I have more energy and pep since I get my full night's sleep and since I'm able to enjoy my meals fully without all the distress and misery after. I would always recommend Syntona to any person suffering as I did."

Let this pure Herbal Tonic help you as it has hundreds of other local men and women. It is pleasant to take and quick to act. Syntona is sold and recommended in Peterborough at Elliott's Drug Store.—(Advt.)

Bitter Fight Rages Near Bryansk

Hand-to-Hand Duels In Rough Terrain Can't Use Tanks

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Aug. 20—(AP)—Difficult going in terrain naturally lending itself to defence was reported slowing down the Red Army today as it pressed twin drives on the Nazi bastions of Bryansk and Kharkov.

Front lines dispatches to the Soviet Army organ Red Star reported that Russian troops on the central front were encountering "considerable difficulties and enormous strain" as they battled their way through forests and swamps and across numerous small rivers toward Bryansk.

The nature of the country, the dispatches said, offered many advantages to the Nazi defendants.

On the Kharkov front in the Ukraine, some 240 miles south of Bryansk, Russians troops were said to be encountering stiff resistance in attempts to overcome German defences based on hills forming a natural line around the city.

Strong Counters

Action in this sector was sharpening in the face of mounting German counter-attacks, while the Red Army Air Force pounded heavily at bases in the enemy rear in an attempt to cripple supply routes.

A fierce battle was reported in one area on the front east of Bryansk where Soviet troops were said to have attacked enemy positions based on four villages. The terrain was such, front line dispatches said, that neither side was able to use tanks and infantrymen slugged it out at close quarters.

Fresh German battalions were repeatedly hurled into the fray but were unable to hold off the charging Red Army, which methodically cleared one village after the other and threw the Nazis back to a new line, the Russians said.

The German air force, meanwhile, was reported striking repeatedly but

Flak-Torn Flaming Plane Pancakes Off Swedish Coast

Written for The Canadian Press
By PO. C. P. McDONALD, D.F.C., D.F.M.,
Royal Canadian Air Force

On April 20 we briefed to go to Stettin. I was to take F. for Freddie and at 9.30 p.m. after circling the airdrome a few times we set course for Denmark at 4,000 feet.

Everything went well until we reached the Danish coast. The fireworks really got underway there, but most of the flak was five to six miles south of us on my starboard side. We saw five bombers get the "chop" (shot down).

The moon lit up every ground detail brilliantly and we were "bag on" track as my bomb aimer, Cy Paley, repeatedly got pin points. We had just crossed the German coast at about 16,000 feet when things began to happen.

"Turn to starboard, go," yelled Johnny. I heeled her over into a 70-degree bank and shoved the nose down, watching for other bombers who might be in my path. The next thing I knew then we had been pranged. Then many holes appeared in my windscreen right in front of my face. These I knew were machine-gun bullets.

Gunner Hit

The explosion I had heard I thought to be a cannon-shell, which afterwards proved to be correct.

"Mac, oh Mac, I've been hit," yelled Chris Ford from the mid-upper turret.

"Okay, Chris boy, just hang on for a minute longer and we'll be out of this mess," I said.

"Damn," I thought, "this is grim."

"Okay, straighten out, Mac," said Johnny.

It sure took some straightening. The airspeed was now 405 knots at 8,000 feet, which is a true airspeed of close to 500 miles an hour. However, we coped all right, old F. for Freddie and I, and we were under control at 6,000 feet.

Just then, Chris, who was in great pain, reported a fire in the port wing. That meant only one thing, we had been hit in one of the petrol tanks in the port wing by incendiary bullets.

Hells bells! The fire had spread by now to two more places in the same wing. Chris was on the rest bed and had a badly mangled left arm. He had been hit by a cannon shell. Maxie and Tommy reported this to me.

Now came the time for the major decision—what to do now. We now had three fires burning fiercely in the port wing. I knew she would never hold together long enough to get back to England. I headed back

Russians Want 3-Power Parley

MOSCOW, Aug. 20 — (AP). — The magazine "War and the Working Class" states in an editorial titled "Quebec and the Soviet Union" that "Quebec is serving the interests of the Anglo-American force and expresses their opinion, but still does not express the opinion of the entire Anglo-Soviet-American Coalition."

"The Soviet Union has only one opinion," the article said. "The time is ripe to change over from words to actions. The time is ripe to inflict a decisive blow from the East and the West."

The article called for a three-power conference which would both cut down the length of the war and prepare the peace on the basis of friendly collaboration of the Allies.

The editorial said that the five previous Churchill-Roosevelt conferences repeatedly pointed out that the main job was to "inflict a blow against the main enemy—Hitlerite Germany."

"However," the editorial continued, "these conferences, in which the Soviet Union did not participate, did not bring about a solution of the vital problem pertaining to the fulfillment of the main obligation of our Anglo-American Allies in the war against the common enemy—they did not result in the organization of a second front in Europe, necessary for victory."

Aerial Blitz Not Enough To Beat Huns

Massive Land Force Must Be Used To Finish Huns

By J. F. SANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC. Aug. 20.—(AP).—Three months ago Prime Minister Churchill, speaking before the Congress of the United States, announced the intensification of Allied bombing raids over Axis-dominated Europe, particularly through the industrial areas of the Reich.

He said the experiment of trying to knock Germany out of the war by bombing alone was worth a trial, providing other means of shortening the war were not excluded. Since that day, thousands of tons of bombs have been rained on German and Italian cities in the greatest softening-up process in history.

But now, as signs multiply that the hour for the invasion of Europe is at hand, it is apparent the Allied High Command has decided that strategic bombing is not enough; the massive land forces must be used to supplement the bombers in the final, conclusive attack on the flanks of the Nazi-dominated continent.

Invasion Topic.

As President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Prime Minister Mackenzie King went into their third day of conferences on military and political strategy, there were plain idications, not only in Quebec but in dispatches from overseas, that the hour for invasion of Europe is not far distant.

Cordell Hull, the Veteran American Secretary of State, is expected here today, completing the list of principals. His arrival, 24 hours after Anthony Eden, the British Foreign Secretary, emphasized the political problems facing the United Nations, particularly in Europe — problems that will develop quickly once the invasion starts.

The timing of the blow in Europe, it was suggested here today, is of paramount importance because of the success of the Russian summer offensive on the eastern front. The impression prevails in some quarters here that the primary responsibility of the military planners now in Quebec is to speed up preparations for the Allied assault in the west, so as to take immediate advantage of the steamroller offensive in the east.

Bomb, Burn, Destroy

The military plans being prepared at the conference are designed "to bomb, burn and ruthlessly destroy, in every way available to us, the people responsible for this war," Brendan Bracken, British Minister of Information, said at a press conference yesterday.

The plans, now being drafted in the inner recesses of the Chateau Frontenac and the Citadel, will be disclosed to the enemy only on the battlefield.

"The time will come," Mr. Bracken said, "when Hitler, Tojo and their tribes of gangsters will get the news of what is being done in Quebec—but they will get it from admirals, generals and air marshals and their fighting forces."

Hull Arrives

QUEBEC, Aug. 20.—(CP).—Cordell Hull, the veteran United States Secretary of State, arrived this afternoon in Quebec by train from Washington, completing the list of principals for the Churchill-Roosevelt conference.

The Secretary was greeted at the railroad station by Prime Minister Mackenzie King and Ray Atherton, American Minister to Canada. It was his first visit to Quebec.

W. Rutherford Campbellford Flies In Sicily

AN ADVANCED AIR BASE IN SICILY, Aug. 9 (delayed)—(CP)—Eight Canadian pilots were among the Kittyhawk night - bomber plane fliers in an R.A.F. unit which came to Sicily after a long and distinguished record with the 8th Army's air support forces in North Africa.

With the Allies having obtained air supremacy so early in the campaign, the Kittyhawk pilots had a field day almost every time they went out against enemy road transport and troops, gun positions, pillboxes, camps and concentrations. The Canadians were in the thick of the operations.

They include: WO. William West, Pembroke, Ont.; Sgt. James Jackson, North Bay and Field, Ont.; Sgt. Cameron McDougal, Kirkland Lake, Ont.

West considers strafing of gun positions as one of the trickiest assignments in their job. "Not only are they hard to locate—sometimes they're in haystacks and bushes but when attacked they throw the works at you from decreasing range as you come in," he says.

The squadron has a high record for the number of enemy road transport destroyed.

Stupendous Aerial Attacks Shatter Industries Riddle 34 Axis Fighters

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, Aug. 20 — (AP). — United States naval forces have seized the islands of Lipari and Stromboli to control the sea area between Sicily and lower Italy, headquarters announced to-day, as Allied air and sea power tore great new gaps in Italy's vital railway system. Stupendous air assaults shattered the industrial and railway city of Foggia, across the peninsula from Naples and 20 miles inland from the Adriatic Sea, in one of the heaviest raids of the Mediterranean war. Allied bombers and their escorts knocked down 34 enemy fighters in battles there.

Occupation of volcanic Lipari and Stromboli Tuesday morning put the entire Aeolian island group in Allied hands. Stromboli is only 37 miles from Cape Vaticano on the Italian mainland and Lipari is 35 miles northwest of Messina in Sicily.

British warships teamed with air power in the hammer blows to disrupt Italy's rail system — a key of Italian defence— by pumping tons of shells into Scalea, on the west coast of the Calabrian peninsula.

Arrive in Waves

Wave upon wave of heavy R.A.F. and American bombers concentrating upon Foggia struck industrial and communications areas in saturation raids typical of attacks that wrecked every important target in Sicily.

Heavy bombers from the Middle East joined in the day and night attacks on the city, 160 miles southeast of Rome.

Medium bombers blasted at Sapri and Salerno, south of Naples, covering railroad yards with interlacing patterns of bombs, and fighter - bombers went after the important communications point at Catanzaro, on the sole of Italy's boot.

They shot down five more Axis fighters, and destruction of still another during the night brought the Allied bag for the period to 40.

Lipari and Stromboli are the two main islands of seven in the Aeolian group. They may serve as important stepping stones towards the Italian boot. Control of the islands deprives the Axis of their use as observation points of Allied air and sea movement.

The islands apparently have no facilities for shipping except the smallest kind and there is no evidence that air fields have been built upon them. Lipari has 8,000 population, Stromboli 1,800.

Damaged Plane With Full Load Of Bombs Flown 5 Hours By Rookie, Lands In Africa

LONDON, Aug. 20—(CP Cable) An enemy night fighter attacked a giant R.A.F. Lancaster bomber while it was crossing the Alps last Monday en route to raid Turin, killed the navigator and wounded the pilot so badly he was unconscious and left Flt. Sgt. A. W. J. Larden of North Bay, Ont., a bombaimer, in charge of the aircraft 500 miles from its base.

Larden, although he had never flown a plane for more than a few minutes before, lifted the pilot from his seat and took over the controls. Five hours later, with the crew holding its breath, Larden brought the plane in for a perfect bellylanding in the darkness of a North African field.

The enemy fighter was still gunning for the plane when Larden took over the pilot's place, forcing him to dive from 15,000 feet to 3,000 feet in order to shake it.

Then, deciding there was little chance of reaching England and even less of reaching Turin without a navigator, he set a course for North Africa. He tried to jettison the bombs, but the release mechanism had been hit and would not work.

Larden had been at the controls five hours, flying low over the sea, when he managed to reach the coast of North Africa. Picking an African coast town and airdrome. Larden circled the field once and came in perfectly despite the bomb-loaded racks, three damaged engines and the 36 bullet holes perforating the machine.

He was as surprised at his skill as anyone, admitting, "I never landed a plane before."

Two Million Men Required For Launching Second Front

By FOSTER BARCLAY, Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Aug. 20.—(CP Cable).—A single knockout blow involving 1,000,000 men or a combination of several blows throwing more than 2,000,000 men into action would meet the Russian army's conception of a second front—an operation which would draw 50 or 60 German divisions from the eastern front.

That is the unofficial reaction of British observers to the Soviet army newspaper Red Star's renewed call for a second front.

(Red Star on Wednesday urged the opening of such a second front, stipulating it meant "an operation by our Allies which would draw from 50 to 60 divisions from the Soviet-German front.")

Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt in their Quebec conferences are mapping the next blow, but whether it will be a single gigantic sledge-hammer punch or a series of encircling movements converging on Germany remains to be seen.

"The Allies undoubtedly will shoot the works when the time is ripe," commented one observer. "Germany would like to know just where and how the thrust is coming. They are plenty worried and that is the way to keep them."

The best bet in military circles is that the United Nations war leaders are ready to put their stamp on a plan which would toss Allied might against Europe in half-a-dozen or more places. Millions of men—their exact number a secret—are poised in Britain and throughout the Mediterranean, waiting for the order to storm Hitler's European fortress.

The Germans themselves expect the next attack will come through Italy for they are reinforcing their troops already in the northern section of the country. Some are being taken from Germany, others from France.

Such an offensive, however, is not considered enough to force the German High Command to weaken its eastern-front strength. But if the Allies also slash at Norway, France and Greece, for instance, Russia is the only place where Hitler would be able to obtain the necessary reinforcement to defend the threatened areas, observers here said.

Quebec Session To End Monday

By C. R. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC, Aug. 20—(CP)—Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt, with their immediate advisers, today seemed settled in for a week-end of solid, hard work which observers here think will bring their sixth war conference to a conclusion by Monday at the latest.

After the conference President Roosevelt will spend a day in Ottawa and the best guess here is that it will be Tuesday. Definite details of the visit are still awaited from Prime Minister Mackenzie King, Mr. Roosevelt's host here.

It was announced this morning at the regular press conference that Mr. Churchill definitely will not go to Ottawa with President Roosevelt.

May Visit Elsewhere

This does not preclude the possibility of him visiting other parts of Canada or the United States be-

Canadians Maul Nazi Fighters

LONDON, Aug. 20.—(CP Cable.)—Three German fighters were destroyed and one was badly damaged yesterday by the R.C.A.F. fighter wing in sweeps over France and Holland, it was announced to-day. The actions cost the wing one pilot, who had receieved his commission just two hours before going on the sweep.

The Canadians sighted 15 or more Nazi fighters over Holland. The Nazis dispersed but four were brought to battle and the Canadians blew two of them from the sky.

Flt. Lt. Dean Dover of Toronto, member of the Wolf squadron, destroyed one with a short burst from 100 yards, and FOS. Harry Dowding of Sarnia, Ont., and Thomas Brannigan of Windsor, Ont., shared another. This was the first encounter with the enemy for Brannigan in 45 sweeps over the continent. FO. A. Fleming of Smiths Falls, Ont., badly damaged a Messershmitt near Abbeville. He saw it go into a spin but did not know if it crashed.

During last night Canadian Mustangs and Mosquitoes attacked railway yards at Orleans, damaging a number of locomotives. They also raided the airfield at Tours and other railway and ground targets. All returned safely.

Burma Raiders Hit River Craft

NEW DELHI, Aug. 20 — (CP).—Royal Air Force Mohawks in a bombing sweep along the Chindwin River in Burma yesterday blasted the Japanese-held town of Mawlaik, north of Kalane, a British communique said to-day.

Many buildings in the target area were hit, and in a second run over the target area the Mohawks swooped low to machinegun military installations and enemy craft in the harbor. Four sampans were sunk.

Buildings in the town of Kyaukpyu, on Ramree Island, were demolished by direct hits.

In a moonlight patrol over the Kaladan River on Wednesday night R.A.F. planes sank a 50-foot river boat and a number of freight-carrying sampans. All planes returned safely.

Allied Threats Drive Nazis From Berlin

Government Deserts Ship When Bombing Crisis Looms

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

One of the most interesting pieces of news to come out of Germany since the war began—and it's one of the most important, if true—is the report that the whole Nazi government has abandoned Berlin.

While unconformed, it does come on the heels of the evacuation of 1,000,000 residents of the threatened capital. Maybe Hitler's intuition has enabled him to read the Allied program which has been set forth at Quebec by Information Minister Brenden Bracken thus pointedly:

"These plans are to bomb and burn ruthlessly destroy, in every way available to us, the people responsible for creating this war."

One could wish, by the way, that the Fuehrer might have heard Bracken deliver that edict. I wasn't present, but I know the Minister as one of Britain's most colorful personalities. He's a big chap who pours out conviction in a torrent of forceful words, while his victim is held fascinated by the brilliant red hair which flares up from Bracken's head like the flames from a blast furnace. Yes, it's a pity Hitler wasn't there.

Desperate Plight.

For any normal government — which of course the Nazi regime is not—desertion of the national capital is like abandonment of ship at sea. It's an act that denotes desperation.

During the height of the terrible aerial blitz which London endured in 1940-41, when the British ship of state was wallowing in mountainous seas, the square-jawed Churchill and his cabinet stuck to the bridge.

Back in 1941 when Hitler's victorious armies were surging towards Moscow, the Soviet authorities moved the diplomatic corps to Kuiryshev. But Stalin and the other members of the Red Government coolly carried on at the old stand.

Abondment of the German capital would mean (1) That Berlin is in peril of destruction, and (2) That the Prussian militarists are exhibiting one of their outstanding characteristics—a disinclination to risk their necks unless it's absolutely necessary.

A Churchillism

NEW YORK, Aug. 20. — (AP).—Elmer Peterson, NBC reporter in London, said in a broadcast last night that Great Britain is chuckling over this latest Churchillism:

The Prime Minister was said to have been asked, just before his departure for Quebec:

"Will you offer peace terms to Germany?"

"Heavens, no!" he was quoted as replying. "If I did, the Germans would accept immediately."

8 Workers Buried By Blast

Explosion Wrecks Three-Storey Building

KEARNY, N.J., Aug. 20—(AP).—A mass of rubble hid the fate to-day of at least eight persons believed buried in the ruins of a three-storey brick and concrete building at the Congoleum-Nairn, Inc., plant after an explosion and fire which left three dead and 10 others injured, eight critically.

Fire Chief Charles Burnett of Newark said steam shovels would be used in the search of the black-roped, smoking heaps of debris.

The blast late yesterday afternoon rocked a 10-mile area in the heart of northern New Jersey and broke windows in homes and stores within a mile radius of the sprawling linoleum products plant.

Fire which sprouted out from the blasted building wrecked two other structures before the flames were brought under control last night.

A spokesman for the company said a check of workers' homes indicated eight persons were missing but other sources indicated the toll might rise much higher.

Fire Chief Charles Burnett of Newark said the explosion was caused by dust from cork and linoleum.

King Victor Pledges Unity

Sicilians Told Italy Stands With Them

LONDON, Aug. 20—(CP)—King Victor Emmanuel told Sicilians in a proclamation broadcast by the Rome radio today that the present isolation of Sicily from the rest of Italy "will not last for long" and he made no mention of continued prosecution of the war.

The broadcast of the unbelligerent proclamation was recorded by The Associated Press.

The King opened his message by recalling that Premier Pietro Badoglio and former Premier Vittorio Emanuele Orlando previously had addressed the Italian people.

"I have lived with you this terrible moment," he continued.

"I have heard your voice. I have understood your sufferings.

"Italians of Sicily, your king is near to you.

"I have faith in a better future. I know that you are faithful to me and my reigning house. We are now cut off one from the other, but this will not last for long. The future will bring a reward for your sufferings."

The King pointedly stressed Sicily's fealty to the monarch in general and the House of Savoy in particular. He spoke of Italy as wounded and predicted the "certain resurrection of your country, generous and strong."

ALLIED OFFENSIVE SLICING DEEPER INTO JAPANESE HOLDINGS

Jungle Force Closes In On Salamaua

Isolated Units Prolong Pacific Campaign

By C. YATES McDANIEL
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, the Southwest Pacific, Aug. 20 — (AP)—Japan's supply line has been cut in the Solomons and sorely strained in New Guinea—the right and left flanks of the Allies' Pacific drive—but the resourceful enemy still has a precarious foothold on New Georgia and clings to Salamaua.

Reports in today's communique from both ends of the 750-mile battle arc emphasize clearly the jungle character of the pacific war and the determination of the Japanese to make the most of the topography.

The communique told of American jungle troops in the Solomons going after pockets of enemy resistance Thursday on atolls and islets only a mile or so west of the Munde airfield on New Georgia which was wrested from the Japanese Aug. 5.

Small Pockets

Despite that, the Japanese have remained on small isles near Munda, even shelling the field, making necessary the liquidation campaign which today's communique disclosed. They also are hanging on at Bairoko harbor. The communique indicated they are continuing efforts to sneak in supplies at night to the imperilled garrison there, reporting that motor torpedo boats dispersed barges Thursday in the north New Georgia vicinity.

Sensing the peril posed by American occupation of Vella Lavella, the Japanese tried to land a counter-invasion force by destroyer-escorted barges early Wednesday but were repulsed.

(A dispatch from Guadalcanal by Art Burgess, Associated Press War correspondent, said more than 1,000 Japanese soldiers were slain or drowned as United States light naval units routed the destroyers and blasted the barges.)

In the northeastern New Guinea fighting zone, the communique reported consolidation of Australian and American positions on ridges five miles southwest of Salamaua. That is within three miles of the airdrome, the primary objective.

Aerial Blitz

There apparently was no resistance from the Italian garrison, which had been cut off from any large volume of supplies by Allied air and sea power.

The Foggia raid probably equalled the first attack on Rome in intensity if not in numbers of attacking bombers.

Foggia is one of four key points in Italy communications linking the northeastern areas of the country with the southern toe. It is a focal point through which German troops that may be moving southward must pass to replace the battered legions from Sicily. And it is likewise a rail route for trains that might be carrying retreating forces.

For the first time in several weeks, the bombers were met by stern German-Italian fighter opposition. This indicated the Axis was growing desperate over destruction of cities and communications junctions and neutralization of outlying points— all of which must be maintained operationally if a real defence of Southern Italy is planned.

One thing the minister made abundantly clear: "When we have rounded up Hitler, the whole might of the British Empire will be given over to beating the Japanese who are a ruthless and savage people."

Mr. Bracken met the press 24 hours after his arrival from Britain with Anthony Eden, British Foreign Secretary. He was vague on the reason for his flying journey to Quebec, but, on the subject of the war as a whole, he was voluble but restrained.

"It is going well," he said, "but it will be long indeed and hard."

Crotone, Crete Bombed Again

CAIRO, Aug. 20.—(AP).—R.A.F. and American heavy bombers were out in force Wednesday night and Thursday, it was announced here to-day, bombing the port of Crotone on the arch of the Italian boot, Crete and Foggia, near the eastern coast of Italy northeast of Naples.

Starting off the attacks, R.A.F. heavy bombers Wednesday night struck at Crotone, scoring hits and starting fires in the rail and marshalling yards.

At the same time R.A.F. Beaufighters and Wellingtons bombed targets in the harbor of Heraklion in Crete and also scored direct hits on a small vessel at Preveza on the west coast of Greece.

The following day American heavyweights struck at freight yards and other targets at Foggia, setting a large number of rail coaches afire. Explosions and fires were observed in the locomotive repair shops and near the main railway station.

"A heavy weight of bombs covered the entire yards and direct hits were scored on an overhead railway bridge, carriage repair shops, warehouses and military barracks near the railway," the communique said.

fore his return to London, it was said.

Steve Early, President Roosevelt's press secretary, attended this morning's meeting with the correspondents and told them that when President Roosevelt leaves for Ottawa it will not be his intention to return to Quebec.

A meeting was in progress at the citadel this morning between Prime Minister Mackenzie King, conference host, and his immediate advisers, completing plans for the visit to the Canadian capital.

These details were expected to be completed this afternoon, a spokesman said. Plans have not bee made public but it is believed likely Mr. King will send or has sent messages to members of both Houses of Parliament inviting them to be in Ottawa in the event President Roosevelt agrees to address a meeting in both Houses.

for the German Baltic coast and told everyone to be ready to bail out on a second's notice.

"Poor Chris," I said to myself, "I wonder if he can bail out."

Try For Sweden

The thought then struck me that maybe we could make Sweden. When I thought I was directly south of Sweden, I told Cy to map-read me to it. Visibility was still perfect.

Old F for Freddie was hard to keep on an even keel. The starboard fin and rudder had been partially shot away. The side and top of the fuselage were like a Swiss cheese. The wind from the holes in the windscreen cut my face. All top wireless aerials had been shot away, too.

Now I could see the lights of many cities and towns like tiny pinpoints miles ahead. This must be Sweden.

The fires had spread to five places now. I almost lost hope. She must blow up any minute. Either that or the wing would drop off, breaking between the port inner and outer engines.

"It won't hurt much when we prang," I thought, "but gosh, I hope I haven't boobed and sacrificed seven men when we could have bailed out over Germany and at least have been live prisoners of war."

Still, maybe poor old Chris couldn't have jumped. Thus I tried to flannel myself into thinking I had done the right thing.

"Yes, skipper, this is Sweden," said Cy, who apparently had just got a fresh pinpoint one one of the many Baltic islands.

"Bail out," I ordered, "and one of you can cope with Chris. Pull his ripcord with some of the trailing aerial after you have thrown him out of the rear door."

Not one of them moved.

Wouldn't Bail Out

"Get out you fools. This wing isn't going to stay on forever. Tie Chris to the rest bed for he and I in a crash-landing."

"Go to hell," was the answer. "We're staying with you."

Now, I ask you, what can you do with a gang like that?

"Good boys," I thought. "They know I'll never be able to lift Christ out alone before we are burned alive."

He was unconscious now from the loss of blood, I guess.

Well, if you've ever played baseball and the score is tied, and it's the last half of the ninth; the bases are full; there are two out and you're at bat with three balls and two strikes on you, you will get some idea of how I felt. The difference being that we were playing for keeps.

"I must not let these guys down."

Now I spotted what looked like a natural shallow bay just off the coast. I came down to what I figured was about 300 feet, examining as best I could in the moonlight my intended forced-landing path.

"The landing must be smooth enough so that the petrol won't splash too much on the burning part of the wing, or so that the burning fragments will not drop into the tank and explode the remaining fuel."

A Critical Moment

All of these things flashed through my mind as I made my approach. I put down 30 degrees of flap and in we came with the under-carriage up.

She touched the water and I jerked the control column back as hard as I could. Everything seemed to shake and quiver in front of me.

Flames now shot 20 feet into the air as some of the petrol splashed up onto the burning wing. I was sure the fire would destroy the aircraft.

The flames were all around and I was in no mood to be fried (not yet). I was out of the hatch like a shot. The rest of the crew were helping Chris into the dinghy, which had functioned properly.

We were soon taken in tow by Swedish military officials and Chris was sent to the nearest hospital. His arm is going to be okay.

I think all my crew should be given gongs for the guts and determination they showed when they really faced death. They stuck with me for one and one for all sort of thing when they twice had the chance to bail out.

But now? I'd give anything to be back on the job again, to be in a Lanc again with places to go and some bombing to do.

Editor's Note: Last January, PO. C. P. (Chuck) McDonald of Toronto, took Louis Hunter of the Canadian Press London staff as a passenger in his Lancaster on a Berlin bombing raid. Engine trouble over Denmark forced them to turn back. Then, on the night of April 20 on his way to Stettin on his 42nd operational flight, McDonald was shot down in flames and is now interned in Sweden.

In his crew were: Sgt. T. J. Parrington, R.A.F., veteran of 32 trips and a flight engineer; PO. Vic Nunn, R.A.F.V.R., 33 trips, navigator; Sgt. Cy Paley, R.A.F., 37 trips, bomb aimer; Sgt. In the foregoing story McDonald tells the story of that Stettin flight.

Sabotage Sweeps Denmark Many War Plants Wrecked

By JOHN H. COLBURN, Associated Press Staff Writer

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 20. — (AP). — A determined, country-wide campaign of sabotage, apparently aimed at destroying land and sea transport facilities used by the Nazis to supply their forces in Norway, was reported by travellers arriving here from Denmark today.

Danish patriots, the travellers said, are systematically wrecking Danish factories producing German war materials as well as railroads and harbor installations which have become increasingly important to the Germans since they can no longer ship men and supplies across Sweden to Norway.

At the same time representatives of the five major Danish political parties were called into extraordinary session in Copenhagen, apparently to consider changes in the Government's policy toward Nazi occupation of Denmark.

Possibility of a switch in Government leaders was seen as a result of the conclave, but any decisions reached are not expected to be announced until after King Christian meets with German Minister Werner Best tomorrow, when, it is believed, Denmark's position in the light of recent developments will be reviewed.

The King was said to have seen Best last on August 14, after Premier Eric Scavenius and other ministers had threatened to resign following Best's ultimatum that the German occupational authorities

TORONTO POULTRY

TORONTO, Aug. 20 — (CP). — The dressed poultry market continues firm with prices to producers and poultry shippers unchanged from last week's quotations, the Dominion Department of Agriculture reports.

Receipts on chickens are up considerably and arrivals of fowl and broilers also show slight increase. The volume of dressed poultry now arriving is more than sufficient to take care of local consumer demand and any surplus is used for out-of-town commitments. Local demand is now centred on top trades, grade C chickens, for which there is little inquiry, being basket-packed and stored. Approximately 6,000 lbs. of inspected, box - packed poultry were shipped to Newfoundland this week.

The live poultry market continues firm with receipts especially on chickens increased. Fowl and broiler volume is slightly higher. Live poultry dealers are killing and processing for immediate sale. Prices to producers and country shippers remain unchanged.

Quotations on dressed poultry to producers and country shippers are: — Broilers, all weights, A milk-fed, 33 cents lb.; B milk-fed 31c; B 29c; C 22c; chicken, grade A milk-fed over 4 lbs. 34½c; under 4 lbs. 33½c; B milk-fed over 4 lbs. 32½c, under 4 lbs. 31½c; B o - 4 lbs. 30½c; under 4 lbs. 29½ cents; fowl, A over 4 lbs. 24¾c; under 23¾c; B, over 4 lbs. 22¾c; under 4 lbs. 21¾c; C 18c.

"Most fellows go after transports and trucks full of men and supplies, and generally manage to blow them to pieces. But my particular thrill is hunting for officers staff cars which are easily identifiable from the air.

"The trouble is that German and Italian offiers must be nervous for as soon as they see us coming they pour out of their cars like bees from a hive, and dive for the ditch. Still, I've managed to strafe quite a few and even if I only destroy their cars, a long walk home won't do their morale any good."

Sink Barge

Canadian pilots played a part in the sinking of a large armed sea-going barge with R. A. F. fighter-bombers.

The barge was caught off the west coast of Italy. It was dive-bombed and strafed despite fierce flak from deck guns, and was set afire so badly it had to be beached, a total loss.

Canadians in this attack included PO. Lyell Shaver, Avonmore, Ont., and PO. Wallace Rutherford of Campbellford, Ont.

Radio Station Supplies Wedding Music

Don Insley of CHEX was backed up onto a sentimental spot yesterday by an unusual request to play the familiar Mendelssohn number for the wedding at Havelock Saturday afternoon of Miss A. McGinnis of Kirkland Lake and Barak Hubble.

The appeal was made by a son of the bridegroom in this week-end nuptial ceremony, a relationship which suggests an autumnal engagement, a connotation of the season of life rather than of the egg tide of the year.

Presumably Mr. Insley had never before been faced with that kind of solicitation for the atmospheric aid of CHEX, and probably his first reaction was to say that it simply was not done. And that was exactly the truth of the matter, perhaps because no one had thought of conjuring the magic of radio to supply a lack of music in the living room setting of a wedding.

The visiting son seemed to place a little calm stress on the prospect of no melody during the pledging of troth and fidelity, and on second thought Mr. Insley yielded to the very unusualness of this importunity. And, so, the air audience of CHEX will have the opportunity of sharing the music of the Barak-McGinnis union in a 20-minute period from 4 to 4:20 p.m. Saturday.

It will include two wedding marches, processional and recessional, the apparently indispensible "O Promise Me" and incidental organ music in the meditative groove. Appropriate timing will have to be adjusted by the wedding party, and the customary script sequence will have to be arranged and followed at the reception end of this departure from studio practice.

Artillery Duels Continue; Allied Bombers Fail To Silence Hill Guns

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, Aug. 20 — (AP). — Lipari and Stromboli Islands, in the Tyrrhenian Sea northwest of Messina, have surrendered to a United States naval expedition it was announced to-day. The occupation of Lipari and Stromboli, the main islands of Aeolian group, places the whole group at the disposal of the Allies, a naval communique said. Stromboli lies off Italy's Gulf of Eufemia about 50 miles above Messina. Lipari is 35 miles northwest of the captured straits port. Both North African air forces and heavy bombers from the Middle East command attacked the Italian city of Foggia yesterday by daylight and darkness, causing heavy damage despite strong fighter opposition.

Great concentrations of anti-aircraft fire encountered by attacking Allied bombers and continued shelling from artillery posts indicated today the Axis was still strongly entrenched around Reggio Calabria in Southern Italy.

There was every indication the enemy would fight to the last ditch to hold the extreme tip of the Italian peninsula against the Allied armies massed along the Sicilian coast across Messina strait

Shells wailed steadily across the Strait as Axis 15-inch coastal rifles, hurling 2,400-pound projectiles, dueled with British and American field batteries.

(Ross Munro, Canadian Press war correspondent now with the British 8th Army, reported last night that the British and American guns were brought into action shortly after Messina was cleaned out. He said that 15 miles of the Italian coast was in range of Allied artillery, allowing them to pound Reggio Calabria itself).

Allied bombers sought to knock out the enemy batteries, hidden in the mountains along the Calabrian shore, but the protective anti-aircraft fire made their task extremely difficult.

Although there was no evidence of any mass evacuation of the area, some German troops who fought to the last hours on Sicily are withdrawing northward through a curtain of fire laid down by Allied aircraft, which are maintaining cease-

Soldier Shot Battling Thieves

KINGSTON, Ont., Aug. 20—(CP) —Sgmn. David Smith, 26, of Ancaster, Ont., near Hamilton, suffered a gunshot wound in his right side early today when he attempted to stop four men from stealing his auomobile parked in front of his rooming house.

He was rushed to hospital suffering loss of blood but after a blood transfusion was reported "doing nicely."

Sgmn. Smith's wife, who joined in the scuffle, obtained the licence number of the automobile said by police to have been stolen, in which the men escaped.

Police said it was thought the bullet which struck Smith was fired by a man standing on the running board of stolen car. It grazed the soldier's hip bone and embedded itself in the ground.

Mrs. Smith did not require hospital attention and is recovering from shock at her home.

Sgmn. Smith was stationed at Vimy Barracks, Barriefield, Ont.

General's Death Incorrect Report

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 —(AP)— United States war department records showed today that an Associated Press dispatch received yesterday from Allied Headquarters in North Africa reporting the death of Gen. Louis Marie Koeltz, commander of the French 19th Army Corps, was erroneous.

The dispatch said that the U.S. Legion of Merit Medal had been given posthumously to Gen. Koeltz. This apparently was due to confusion of his name with that of Gen. Marie Joseph Edouard Welvert, who was killed while leading French troops in the Pichon sector in Tunisia last April and who was awarded the Liong of Merit posthumously.

The war department said Gen. Koeltz, who was one of a number of Allied leaders in the North African campaign to receive the award, is alive. An Algiers broadcast today said "Gen. Koeltz is in perfect health."

Calling ALL WOMEN and GIRLS from 16 to 60...

Your Help is Badly Needed

MOTHERS ... Wives ... Sisters ... Daughters ... here is your opportunity to help on the production of Canada's food supply for next winter. The work is not hard; conditions are pleasant; you will be paid current wages for doing it.

Thousands of those who formerly worked in the canning factories are now on year-round war jobs. If the abundant tomatoes—the peaches, corn, beans, peas and other fruits and vegetables which are being gathered from farms and orchards—are not to be largely wasted, thousands of women must be found now to help can them.

You know how necessary these canned supplies will be this fall and winter. So lend a hand, even though you can spare only a few days or a few half days a week. You'll enjoy the work. And how useful the money you earn will be!

You can be of any age from 16 to 60. You don't need any experience or any special permit to undertake the work. So act now—don't delay.

Do This Now

Apply direct to the Superintendent of any nearby canning factory or see the Agricultural Advisor at your nearest Employment and Selective Service Office for full information.

Late Wes Champ Started Eddie Shore

By VERN DeGEER

Wes Champ, the Regina hotelman and restaurater who started Eddie Shore on a hockey career that was to gain for him the largest salary in the history of the major professional ice sport, passed away the other day.

In recent years Wes had been a busy commuter between Regina and Peterborough, watching over his hotel interests. Except for an occasional visit to Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens and passing interest in the development of young puck-chasers around Peterborough, he had become a forgotten man in the whirl of the world's fastest sport.

Time was, however, when Champ was one of the most energetic and successful of the professional hockey pioneers on the Canadian prairies.

It as in the Fall of 1921 that Champ was persuaded by.. Gordon "Duke" Keats to sponsor a Regina entry in the Western Canada Pro Hockey League, then in the embryo stage.

It was in the Fall of 1924 when Champ listening to an enthusiastic sales talk from a fresh youngster from the "sticks," a strapping individual with a firm conviction that Wes was looking at the greatest hockey prospect in or out of captivity. The fresh youngster had already unsuccessfully tried to sell the idea to Frank Patrick in Vancouver. But it was Summer time and Patrick wasn't interested in this hockey unknown.

Champ signed Shore as a right winger at $1,500 for the season, no great shucks of a contract in a day when the boys were drawing from $2,000 to $3,500. But it was a start and two years later Shore was with Boston Bruins, heading into one of the most colorful careers in hockey annals.

Shore was no ball of fire with Champ's Regina Capitals, but he was learning fast. Fast enough to know the way to the penalty box as well as the next fellow. Only a couple of robust campaigners did more time in the cooler. He scored five goals, his poorest mark in pro company. He was a forward then, fresh from Melville senior amateurs.

At the time Champ's squad included Duke Dutowski, Dick Irvin, Ab Newell, Art Gagne, Rabbit McVeigh, Puss Traub, George Hay, and the irrepressible Red McCusker.

Irvin, Hay, McVeigh, and Amby Moran were members of Champ's first pro club that surprised the hockey fraternity by winning the Western Canada title. Vancouver Millionaires knocked them out in the All-West playoffs; were in turn beaten here in Toronto by the St. Pats. Spunk Sparrow, Bill Laird (now of Toronto), Ernie Anderson and Bill Adams (brother of Detroits Jack), were other Champ "originals."

Convinced that professional hockey's growth on the Prairies was too much for his pocketbook, with salaries hiking at every conference, Champ sold the Regina players and franchise to the late Pete Muldoon in the summer of 1925 for $25,000. Ken (Cagey) Doraty, later a Toronto Leaf playoff luminary, was included in that sale. He had signed with Champ after helping Regina Pats win the Canadian junior crown in the spring.

Muldoon placed the Regina club in Portland, Oregon, and one of the oddities of the deal was his trading of Shore to Edmonton for Bob Trapp. Like many other Western men, Muloon did not see any stardom in Shore's legs. But Kenny MacKenzie and Duke Keats at Edmonton converted "Mr. Hockey" into a defenceman.

In later years Champ promoted amateur clubs around Regina, developed several boys for Eastern pro company, but never attempted activities on the scale of his earlier days.

His most precious souvenir of his pioneering was Shore's original $1,500 contract.

CAMPBELLFORD

Associations Hold First Joint Meeting

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 20 — (ENS). — Members of Zion W.A. were guests of the English Line W. A. for a point meeting at the home of Mrs. Garnet Grills in Seymour East on Wednesday afternoon. It was the first time in the history of the two neighboring organizations that they had got together for a gathering of this type and more than 70 from the group werep resent.

Mrs. Fred Smith, president of the English Line Women's Association was chairman during the afternoon, and she extended an official welcome to the visitors who were later served with dainty refreshments.

The program included a piano solo by Mrs. J. R. Bick, reading by Mrs. Alexander Stephens, reading by Mrs. Mac Little, vocal solo Mrs. Henry Locke, piano solo Miss Gladys Stevens, vocal duet Misses Muriel and Lillian Stollery, reading Miss Dorothy Peake, reading Miss K. Gould, contest Mrs. Douglas Haig. At the conclusion Mrs. Albert Petherick, president of the visiting group, expressed thanks to the ladies of the English Line W. A. for their hospitality.

RECTAL SORENESS AND PILE TORTURE
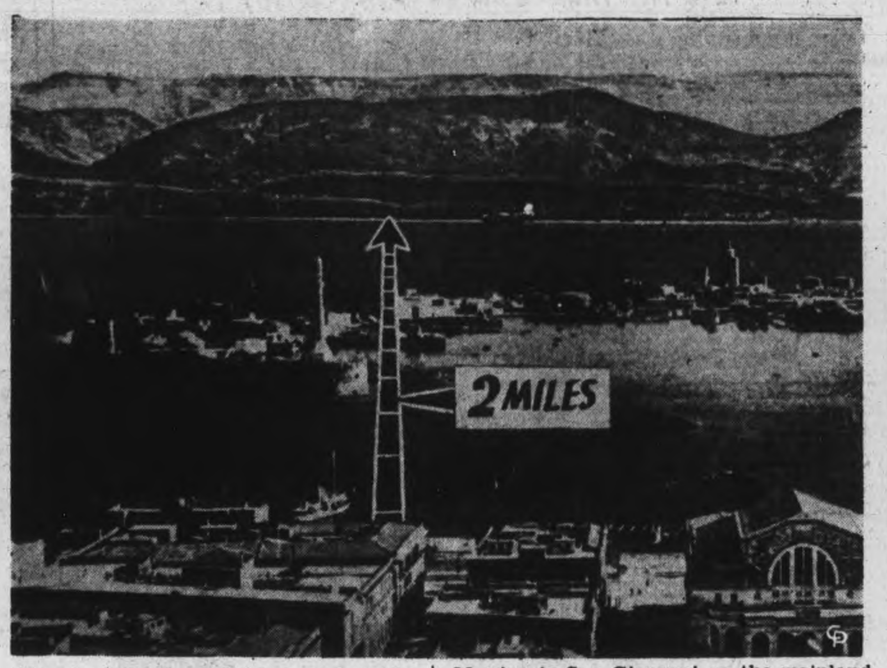
QUICKLY RELIEVED

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from McDermid & Jury or any I.D.A. or other drug store and use as directed. This formula which is used internally is a small easy to take tablet, will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore, tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use is highly recommended and it seems the height of folly for any one to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost.

If you try Hem-Roid and are not entirely pleased with the results, your druggist will gladly return your money. —(Adv.)

Allies Are Close To The Italian Mainland



Here is a view from Messina, captured by the Allies, looking across the strait at the Italian mainland. It is only two miles from Messina to San Giovanni on the mainland and Allied guns already are softening up that coastline for the next stage of the attack on "Fortress Europe."

Campbellford Ladies Win Bowling Honors

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 20 (ENS) —Local bowlers took top honors at a mixed rinks tourney held in Stirling on Wednesday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Archer and Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Wiggins comprised the winning rink which came home with the Baker Silver Cup, the highest award of the day. The Campbellford rink was first for three wins with a plus of 28. A Belleville rink comprising George Watkins, skip, Mrs. Robertson, Fred Harper, Mrs. Watkins, was second for 3 wins with a plus of 17. First of two wins was Harvey Stewart's rink also from Belleville and fourth prize went to Hap. R. Tompkins' rink of Stirling.

Charge Dismissed

GALT, Aug. 20—(CP)—A charge against Arthur Williams, newly-elected member of the Ontario Legislature for Ontario riding, yesterday was dismissed by Magistrate H. R. Polson. He had been charged with obstructing police during picketing at a strike-bound plant here in June.

Men Missing Believed Dead

OTTAWA, Aug. 20.—(CP).— Six men from Eastern Ontario were included in the R.C.A.F.'s 658th casualty list of the war last night, which contained 47 names. The six were on duty overseas.

Listed as killed on active service was Sgt. Eric Stuart McCuaig, wose wife lives at 238 1st St. E. Cornwall.

Among 12 men missing on active service after air operations were Sgt. Herbert Charles Jordan, whose father, H. A. Jordan, lives at Renfrew, and PO. Harry Bertram Parliament, whose father is W. D. Parliament, Cannington.

Twenty-four flyers were listed as previously reported missing on active service, now for official purposes presumed dead. They included, with next-of-kin:

Evans, David Findlay. Flt. Sgt., R95730, J. E. Evans (father) Mountain, Ont.

Ingram, Eric Harold, Sgt., R119142, Ernest Ingram (father) Campbellford, Ont.

Kellaway, Lorne Edward, Sgt., R119175, Edward Kellaway (father) 1 Everett St., Belleville, Ont.

MARMORA, Aug 20 (ENS)— Mrs. Catharine Forestell, widow of the late Samuel Forestell, who was a well-known farmer in Rawdon township, quietly celebrated her 86th birthday on Wednesday at the home of her son George, Forsyth street, Marmora.

She is a native of Madoc, her maiden name being O'Donnell. Despite her advanced age, Mrs. Forestell enjoys very good health and maintains a keen interest in things in general.

She has six sons and four daughters, namely, Louis, Guelph; Mrs. A. Comerford, Sudbury; George, Marmora; Mrs. J. Parnell, Timmins; William, Marmora; Mrs. Crutchfield, Edmonton; John, Edmonton; Mrs. R. Huffman, Belleville; Dan, Coniston; and Charles, Galt. Six grandsons of Mrs. Forestell are serving with the R.C.A.F. overseas.

Circle Has Dinner

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 20 (ENS) —The August meeting of Stanwood Sewing Circle took the form of a pot-luck dinner when members met at the Orange Hall on Wednesday. Fourteen members were present and the afternoon was spent in quilting. They worked on two quilts one of which will be donated to the Red Cross and the other sold to a lady in the community with the money being used for church purposes. Mrs. Carmen Redden presided. Mrs. E. Rowe will be hostess for the September meeting whch is also to take place at the Orange Hall, and quilting will again form the main part of the program.

"EAT MORE EELS"

Result of a government-fostered scheme, supplies of eels will soon be on sale in Britain. An "Eat More Eels" campaign will coincide with their appearance on the market.

Famous Stars At Kawartha

Like every other sporting event, a really big sporting event that is like the Kawartha Lakes Invitation Tournament, scheduled for the Kawartha Club this week-end, golfdom is studded with names. Big names.

And if you think we're kidding, give a look at the entry list already received for the 54 hole professional medal play match. Naturally, Lex Robson heads the list; not only because he's the host on his home course, but also by virtue of his ability to knock the little white ball from here to there, following the old saw that a straight line is the shortest distance between two points, Tee and Cup. Then there is Bob Gray, thought by many experts to be the currently hottest golfer in pro ranks to-day. Bob won the Millar Trophy last month, and won it the hard way. If you don't think so, ask him about his semi-final match against Normie Himes, when the ex-professional hockey player took Gray 20 holes; then ask him about his final with Lex Robson. In the Islington locker room after that match, Lex remarked that he had lost three pounds during the Millar matches. Gray looked up at him and said, "Three pounds! Why you so and so, I lost 20 pounds trying to keep ahead of you in the last match."

Gordon Brydson, president of the C.P.G.A., professional of the Mississauga Club in Toronto, and an employee of the Canadian Small Arms Co., in Long Branch. James Patton, professional of the Seigniory Club, Quebec, and the secretary of the C.P.G.A., Stanley Horne and Jerry Proulx of Montreal, the latter one of the longest hitters in the game.

Add to these names such golfers as Bill Kerr, Bob Burns, Les. Franks, Dick Borthwick, Hugh Borthwick, all of Toronto, Jack Littler of Kingston, winner of the 1943 Ontario Open; Tom Williams of Dundas; Willie Spittall of the Peterborough Club; Bill Little of Belleville; Gord Watson former pro at Cobourg and now a member of the R.C.A.F. Those are only a few of the professional golfers who will be competing for the top money, this week-end, and you'll wait a long time before you see a greater group of shotmakers on the same course.

The fact that the P.G.A. is holding the annual meeting and election of officers, at the Kawartha Club this week-end, has a lot to do with some of these chaps being here. A number of the pros have important war jobs they are doing, with golf this year being a secondary job. The pros are also always at the beck and call of war charities, and the fact that the proceeds of the tournament go to the Milk for Britain Fund, drew them.

We should call attention to the Tournament dance to be held in the clubhouse, Saturday night, where club members will be hosts to the visiting golfers.

It shapes up like a big week-end, golf fans. Don't miss it. The pros tee off in their eighteen holes Saturday afternoon at 2.00 o'clock, on Sunday morning round starts at 9.00 a.m. and the afternoon round at 2.00 p.m.

Joe and Mrs. Leeming, Club steward will have plenty of excellent food on hand to take care of the biggest appetities. Come early and stay until the match is over.

Siren Finds Boy

TIMMINS, Aug. 20.— (CP).— A wailing police siren was credited with the rescue of 12 year old Dutch Elliott, son of Sergeant Roy Elliott of the Provincial Police, who was lost for four hours in a forest swamp in Deloro township. The boy had been berry picking with his parents and had wandered off. When dusk began to fall, a police car cruised up and down the roadways with its' siren wailing. The boys followed the sound to his rescuers.

LAWN BOWLING

We feel sure that all bowlers will join with us in extended congratulations to our good friend Harry Roseavear, Port Hope on the occasion of skipping his rink to win the "Gold Trophy" at Oshawa on Wednesday. He was ably supported by A. McLaughlin, M. Wickett and Tom Stennley.

And while it is a victory for Port Hope, yet we can claim a little of the honor as Mr. Roseavear is a member of our club. In fact he is the only life member of our club.

And while we're speaking about Port Hope we wish to remind our boys that Port Hope is holding an open tournament on Labor Day for men's rinks. There will be four games, one in the morning, two in the afternoon and one in the evening. And we are asking our boys to note this—that the entry is limited to 18. Any of our bowlers who would like to enter a rink if they would please contact R. F. Downey at once, and he will make all the entrys immediately.

On account of many of our ladies taking in the trebles tournament on next Wednesday in Lindsay the mixed tournament in aid of the British War Victims will be held on Friday night instead of Wednesday as previously announced. We will have more details in a day or two.

Remember its men's rinks tonight. Draw at 7:30 o'clock and the fee 25c.

HARWOOD

Stewardship Topic Discussed At W.M.S.

HARWOOD, Aug. 20 — (ENS).— The W.M.S. monthly meeting of Bethesda United Church was held on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. Bell, with Mrs. A. Lawton, president, presiding. A hymn, prayer and a thought for the day opened the meeting. Mrs. Garnet Isaac, newly appointed Baby Band superintendent, conducted a program. Little Pauline Drope sang "I'll be a Sunbeam," a reading "Soldier Susan" by Mrs. Drope, solo "God sees the little sparrow fall" by little Lenore Buttars, reading by Mrs. M. McFiggin, duet by Gail Moffatt and Mrs. G. Isaac.

Mrs. Ellis Isaac, convener of the group, took charge. Scripture lesson was read in four parts; God has a plan, by Mrs. G. Isaac; When should the time for stewardship begin? by Mrs. Luther Harvey. How long does stewardship continue? by Mrs. H. Hutchinson; and What does God promise to such good stewards? by Mrs. McFiggin. Duet "I have left all," by Shirley Drope and Merla Kelly. A Biblical contest was conducted by Mrs. Roy Cowling.

COBOURG

Pte. G. McAnerin Hurt In Sicilian Battle

COBOURG, Aug. 20 (ENS)—Mrs. Garland Edwin McAnerin received word yesterday that her husband, Pte. McAnerin has been wounded in Sicily. No details were given beyond the fact that he had been wounded on August 3.

Before her marriage in October of 1930, she was Charlotte Smith of Cobourg. Pte. McAnerin was born and raised in Cobourg and enlisted in 1939 with the Midland Regiment, shortly after war broke out. He was stationed for some time on guard duty at Trenton, and in March of 1940, he transferred to the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, going overseas in September of 1941. He is the son of Mrs. Lillian McAnerin and the late Mr. McAnerin.

Heifer Breaks Record

BRANTFORD, Aug. 20.—(CP).— The Holstein-Friesian Association announced yesterday that a calf owned by Harold Bingham of Georgetown, Ont., has broken the Canadian Holstein record of producing 18,399 pounds of milk with a butterfat content of 729 pounds.

Salvage Crew Begins

NEW YORK, Aug. 20—(AP)—As the list of the former French liner Normandie was reduced to 30 degrees yesterday, U.S. Navy officials announced salvage crews would begin work on the big hull's interior next week.

Phil Farley Enters Amateur Tilt

The amateur section of the Kawartha Lake Invitation Golf Tournament, scheduled for the Kawartha Golf and Country Club this week-end, was given a shot in the arm, when word was received that Phil Farley, Canada's top ranking amateur would be present. It also came as a bit of a shock, nevertheless a pleasing shock, to local amateurs, who had visions of walking off with the low gross prize.

Phil Farley is a golfing pal of Bobby Gray, and was with the pros recently in Quebec, where he matched strokes, with such great pros as Gray, Brydson, Horne and Huot. The keenest kind of friendly rivalry exists between Farley and the pros, and undoubtedly he is coming to Peterborough this week-end to continue where he left off, two weeks ago in Montreal. Farley is a great golfer, making up with accuracy what he lacks in power, because he isn't a big man. However his golf is beautiful to watch as he is a stylist, and will demand a large gallery. While the amateurs are scheduled to go only 18 holes, Farley will no doubt play as often as the committee will allow, trying to equal or better the best scores turned in by the money players.

There will be no golf played after 7 o'clock tonight (Friday) in order to allow the greens keepers and Lex Robson to set the cups for the week-end matches. It's hard to guess just what Lex has in mind along these lines, but anyone who played in the tournament a year ago, will remember that he set the cups in spots that had the visiting pros, to say nothing of the local amateurs, two and three putting green after green.

The course has never been in better shape. This is the opinion of a number of the older members, who have been connected with the Kawartha Club, since the beginning; every fairway is cut down to look like your front lawn, and the greens, by playing time will be lightning fast.

Mayor Gives Thanks

COBOURG, Aug. 20 — (ENS)— Mayor Jack Burnet of Cobourg yesterday paid tribute to William Goodfellow, Progressive Conservative member for Northumberland County. Mayor Burnet had requested Mr. Goodfellow to use his efforts in connection with some work to be done in regard to industrial expansion in Cobourg.

"Mr. Goodfellow promised that he would help and he wasted no time getting busy. His services in behalf of some industrial expansion in Cobourg proved very effective," declared Mayor Burnet.

Premier Drew's Provincial Cabinet

For the time being Premier Drew has completed his Cabinet, with four portfolios doubled up. It is nine years since there was a Conservative Government at Queen's Park, and thus it is understandable that his ministers are not, upon the whole, well-known through the province; in six months or so that will all be changed. The veteran of the Cabinet is Col. T. L. Kennedy, who was Minister of Agriculture in the Ferguson Cabinet, and who has taken that post once more under Premier Drew.

Eastern Ontario has fared well in the selection of ministers. Dr. R. P. Vivian, the Minister of Health, is well known in this district, and general satisfaction will be felt at his appointment. In his own community of Port Hope he is highly respected, and he was one of the leading lights at the Progressive Conservative conference in that town. The member for Lanark, George H. Doucett, has been given the double ministry of Highways and Public Works; there are plenty of highways this side of Toronto which will need his attention. The member for Grenville-Dundas, George H. Challies, will be a Minister without Portfolio, which means that he will probably sit on the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission. The Provincial Secretary, George H. Dunbar, is member for Ottawa West.

The portfolio of Attorney-General goes to Leslie E. Blackwell of Toronto, an appointment which should satisfy everyone, for Mr. Blackwell is acknowledged to be one of the most brilliant of the younger lawyers of this province. The selection of Leslie Frost of Victoria to be Provincial Treasurer will meet with general approval; Mr. Frost also is well-known in Peterborough. The choice of W. G. Thompson of East Kent as Minister of Lands and Forests will please the city of Chatham, in which there was a strong non-partisan movement to have him included in the Cabinet.

The appointment of a Minister of Education always attracts particular attention; Premier Drew will attend to that department himself, and we shall be greatly interested to see what he does with it. He is himself a man of extensive education and broad culture, and the scope for improvement in our provincial system should give him many congenial tasks; we are particularly anxious to wish the new Premier every success in this part of his work. A better successor to the late Dr. Duncan McArthur could not be found in the ranks of either party.

Will War Change Our Habits?

We have been amused by views of the Ottawa fuel conservers, who want us to cut down our fuel consumption this year. They have suddenly discovered that the average city home in Canada is too hot. We have known this for years, but we have had no luck at all in persuading others to share our opinion. Many people keep their homes at temperatures of 75, or 80, or more, all winter long, and because they have become accustomed to that dry and stifling heat they complain bitterly if they are expected to sit in a room which is heated to 70 degrees or a little less. Living in an over-heated atmosphere they wonder why they have colds, why their skins are rough and dry, why their hair falls out, and why their furniture splits and falls to pieces. If they did not attempt to duplicate the atmosphere of hell's anteroom in their houses they would be more truly comfortable. If they dressed more warmly, and allowed a little moisture to remain in the air which they breathed, they would be more healthy, and the characteristic pasty face of the city dweller would gain a little colour.

But when the Ottawa sages tell us to sleep with our windows closed, we really laugh out loud. For years our children have been taught in school that they must sleep with open windows, or they will certainly become victims of tuberculosis, or at least of sadly depleted energies. Because there is a coal shortage Ottawa wants all this conditioning swept away, and has suddenly remembered that our grandfathers nailed their windows down in October and never raised them until the following May, and that these same grandfathers lived to patriarchal ages. If there were a sudden shortage of clothing we are certain that Ottawa would discover that nudism was the only truly healthy way to survive our Canadian winters.

But in all the chaff which wartime shortages have sent blowing across the land there are some grains of wheat. We do keep our houses too hot in winter, and it is bad for us to do so. And we do eat a foolishly sweet diet, and our sugar rationing may teach us to be moderate in that respect. We do drive aimlessly about the countryside, merely because we like to be on the go, and gasoline restrictions may teach us the pleasure of sitting still and listening to our own thoughts. Everyone will be glad when we have plenty of coal, plenty of sugar, and plenty of gasoline again; but it is to be hoped that we shall have learned wisdom and moderation in the use of these things, for we have certainly abused them in the past.

The Misery Of Being Handsome

He is an unlucky man who is too handsome. In a woman beauty is the crown of whatever virtues she may possess, and an excuse for many virtues which she lacks, but for a man to be too good-looking is a distinct handicap. These reflections are prompted by the welcome which Mr. Anthony Eden, the British Foreign Secretary, received when he arrived at Quebec to join his chief in the great conference. Mr. Eden is one of the notable statesmen of our day, and his stature increases month by month, but a great part of the public—mostly women — think of him principally as the handsomest politician living.

Poor Mr. Eden's good looks have dogged him since the outset of his career. When last he visited the United States he was physically assaulted by women who wanted to kiss him, or touch his hands, or in some other way "get at" him. Articles appeared in the press about the length of his eyelashes and the peculiar charm of his smile. Discussions raged as to whether he was "dapper" or merely "well-groomed". The fact that he was the British Foreign Secretary cut little ice with those who were thrown off balance by his appearance. We are sure that Mr. Eden often wished he looked like a gargoyle, so that he might have a little peace and the respect due to his office.

Now similar outbursts of mass-vulgarity are apparent in Quebec. If Mr. Eden were a movie star, or a crooner, who made his living by gratifying the romantic aspirations of discontented women, no one could object to the gush of treacle with which he has been saluted. But he is nothing of the kind. He is a statesman of great abilities and greater promise. So shall we forget about his eyelashes, and concentrate on his intelligence, which is also a remarkably handsome affair if you look at it the right way?"

More Tea And Coffee

It is good news that our tea and coffee rations are to be increased by one-third of their present amount. We do not think that most Canadians have suffered any serious deprivation during the period of strictest rationing, but it will be pleasant to have a little more of those drinks to offer to friends, or to keep out the cold when we are conserving coal next winter.

But the important aspect of this news is the assurance which it gives us that the shipping situation is greatly improved. During the first phase of the war our shipping was under such heavy attack from enemy submarines and surface raiders that serious shortages of essential foods, and such luxuries as tea and coffee, seemed to be unavoidable in Canada, and severe hardship faced the people of Great Britain. Now the United Nations control the seas, our shipping carries needed supplies all over the world almost with impunity, and there is even passage room for a little more tea and coffee. As we drink the extra cups, let us think of the sea-battles which made them possible, and the great victory of which they are an insignificant result.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A scientist suggests that cows be kept happy with music. What, and make them the laughing stock of the country?

We mustn't expect the war to be over by Christmas if Turkey is to have a part in it.

Hitler once thought that people could be made to believe anything. Why doesn't he make the Germans believe they're not being bombed?

The Whig-Standard of Kingston suggests that this is the time to look up your seed catalogues, just to see how your victory vegetables should have looked.

Benito Mussolini In Retrospect

From the MANCHESTER GUARDIAN

On Thursday, July 29, Benito Mussolini recorded—we can hardly say celebrated—his sixtieth birthday. Sprung from the proletariat, this son of a village blacksmith of the Romagna has exercised dictatorial authority over Italy for twenty-one years. He is the father of European dictatorship, and the propagandist, if not the inventor, of most of its characteristic ideas, methods, and machinery.

Seven dates stand out in this extraordinary career—May 24, 1915, when Italy entered the first world war; October 29, 1922, when he took over the Government; October 3, 1935, when he made war on Abyssinia; November 6, 1937, when he signed the Anti-Comintern Pact; June 10, 1940, when he declared war on Great Britain; July 10, 1943, the invasion of Sicily; and July 25, 1943, when he passed silently from the scene and "resigned." This selection throws the emphasis on the aspect of power, and it is the hunger for and the exercise of power which give a line of guidance through a life, on the surface, full of contradictions. On the eve of the march on Rome he expressed his real philosophy and his intimate ambition: "Our programme is simple: we wish to govern Italy. They ask us for programmes, but there are already too many. It is not programmes that are wanting for the salvation of Italy but men and will-power."

One could contrast acts and declarations on most important issues jostling in antagonism: he was a pacifist six months before he pushed Italy into war against Austria; Fascism was not an article of export in 1928 and four years later "in ten years Europe will be Fascist or Fascisised"; he was an anti-clerical and he made the Lateran treaties with the Pope; he was a Republican and he threw a glamour over the monarchy. Nobody would be less sensitive than Mussolini to the indictment of inconsistency; throughout all his twistings and turnings he has always been himself.

Mussolini was fortunate and skilful in being one of the authors of a war which was unpopular, was victorious, and which could be represented as frustrated. He could take to himself the credit for having pointed the road to victory, and throw upon the governing parties and politicians the odium of the frustration. His strategy of power was the offensive, the accumulation of difficulties for his opponents or rivals. There was material enough in the post-war world. The returned soldiers, the suffering masses had their hope of a better world and their urgent need of immediate relief; the industrialists, the great landowners, the more comfortable peasants had their fears of the new Russian Gospel and their determination to hold what they had; the Army leaders had their traditional dislike of democracy and taste for authority in State and Church. Post-war social problems baffled nations more stable, wealthier, with greater experience and a higher tradition of public service.

The scene was designed for the spirit of negation, for Mussolini's peculiar talents of destruction. He relied not only on wild words but also on wild deeds—murder, outrage the pilage and destruction of his political opponents above all the Socialists whom he had abandoned, whom he feared and whom he hated. But his own strength and his own crimes would never have brought him to power. It was the connivance of the Ministry, the abstention of the Army, the acquiescence of the Crown, and the support of the wealthy; and so he was the first dictator in history to ride into office in a wagon-lit. He had cleared the way to the alliance by announcing that "the national economy cannot be confided to collective and bureaucratic agencies" and that "the regime can be largely modified without interfering with the monarchy." These hostages to the Right have never been withdrawn. Behind the facade of the corporate State the great industrialists and landowners have sheltered and flourished; and if Fascism has taken power from the Crown it has rendered protection and prestige. The poor have become poorer, government has become even more corrupt, intellectual life has withered, liberty has died, but Mussolini retained the power which he seized.

In compensation for all that they had lost the Italian people were given much turgid rhetoric and an Imperial programme. The rhetoric has lost its savour and the Empire is gone. Today, before the eyes of all, Fascism is bankrupt, the scourge of Italy. Mussolini imposed upon Italy not only an evil system but ambitions and tasks beyond its strength. Italy had neither the administrative talents nor the economic resources nor the technical equipment for world-power.

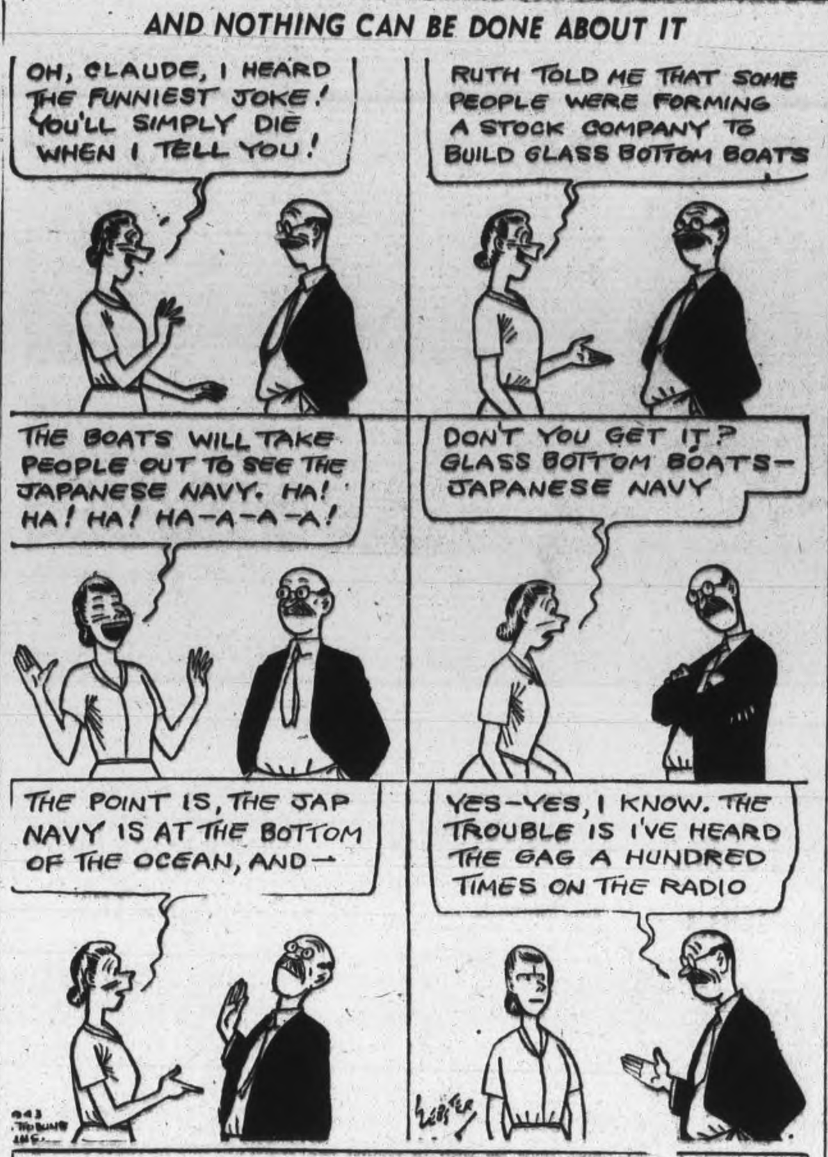
If it had possessed them in the same measure as Germany Mussolini would still have failed, but he would have stood out as incomparably superior to Hitler in all that constitutes a man. He has culture, he can think and write, he is theatrical but has real geniality. Red blood flows in his veins, not the acid of inferiority. He is ruthless, but cruelty with him has the limits of policy, not the infinity of pleasure. He fights, but does not hate. His vice as a statesman is the typical Italian defect of trusting to cunning and manipulation and missing the real elements of strength. Given his programme of Empire his alliance with Hitler, if distasteful, was inevitable. His Empire could be made only out of the estates of the democracies. But for years many in the ruling classes in the democracies fortified his illusions. They encouraged him to think himself as great and powerful as he wished to believe, and so helped him and his country on the road to destruction.

The King's English

Dr. Matthews, Dean of St. Paul's, has occasional streaks of gloom which recall his illustrious predecessor, Dr. Inge, when he looked out through smoked glasses on the mess that man has made of God's beautiful world.

It is not desirable, Dr. Matthews thinks, for the English language to become a universal language, for that would be to tear it away from its historic back ground and empty it of its native virility and grace. That is not exactly what the Dean said, but it is what he means; and he is probably right. Greek and Latin as spoken and written today, are, in a sense, merely distant cousins to the language of Plato and Cicero; their evolution, or retrogression, has been effected by social and geographical influences and their contacts with a constantly changing civilisation.

English as a universal tongue would certainly suffer by expatriation; but hitherto it has been able to hold its own fairly well and even to recruit its health by refreshing contacts with the speech and literature of "lesser breeds."—Aberdeen Bon Accord.



The Gentle Japs !

(LONDON NEW STATESMAN)

A REMARKABLE and terrible story reaches me from Miss Elsie Fairfax-Cholmeley, who escaped from a Japanese concentration camp in Hong Kong in March, 1942.

She now writes from Keilin in Free China. She says that since the Japanese captured Hong Kong 18 months ago, over one million unemployed and unskilled Chinese workers have been driven to leave through denial of food ration cards.

Without any resources whatever, thousands of these refugees have starved to death in the barren islands and coastal regions where they have been taken. The bodies of hundreds of Hong Kong ricksha pullers, longshoremen and others lie by the roadsides in Kwangtung province (where famine conditions obtain even for the local population), some close to the sea, others farther inland—as far as they could drag themselves.

Yet these deportees are more fortunate than thousands of women, children and unemployed who have been simply herded on to junks and barges, towed out beyond the entrance to Hong Kong harbor and dumped overboard. Many skilled workers, who refused to work for the Japanese and were unable to escape, have also died in this manner.

Fifteen thousand Chinese are still forced to work in the Hong Kong shipyards. The Japanese pay a Chinese worker just enough to keep him alive, so that he can never save enough to travel to the nearest factory town in the interior, even if he gets away. Escape often means starvation. Yet thousands of skilled workers have escaped from Hong Kong and many have reached Free China.

Washington Spotlight

(By J. F. SANDERSON, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

QUEBEC, Aug. 19 (CP)—This reporter was in Washington last week-end, trying to keep up with Prime Minister Churchill in his flying visit to President Roosevelt, and one of the things that impressed him was the number of people commenting on the absence of Premier Stalin from the Quebec conference.

It has served to bring Russia-American relations into sharp perspective and there is no getting around the fact they are not as healthy nor as free from friction and suspicion as they might be.

Unlike the British people who obviously are determined to co-operate with the Russians in the post-war world, the American people cannot make up their minds.

It is apparent to any observer in Washington that the American people, as a whole, have nothing but praise and admiration for the military accomplishments of the Russians. But there it seems to end.

There is a strong suspicion of Russia's political intentions in Europe, particularly in eastern Europe. There is a persistent tendency to criticize Russia for not declaring war against Japan, or at least, not providing Siberian bases for air assaults against Tokyo.

To many people, Russia and Communism are synonymous and doubly damned.

The Russians themselves are authority for the statement Stalin was not invited to Quebec, and, in view of the nature of the conference, did not consider it necessary to be here.

Apart altogether from the reasons why Stalin is not in Quebec the fact remains that, among the American people at least, there is a growing tendency to refer to an Anglo-American military combination. For one reason or another, they exclude Russia from the inner Allied circle.

So far, there has been no discernible movement in the direction of Russian imperialism in Europe, since there is nothing that Russia needs less than living room, facing a post-war domestic problem of gigantic proportions, a problem of rehabilitation and reconstruction that will require her undivided attention for many years.

There is little if any evidence that Russia will want to dominate Europe by the familiar methods of territorial control for the sake of larger populations or additional resources. The 1941 boundaries would give the Soviets unhampered access to the Baltic. Some arrangement may be necessary to give Russia access to the Mediterranean, because no nation ever has been great without a direct route to the Atlantic.

It is admitted these are powerful problems—problems the American people as a whole decline to face. If the Russians are enigmatic, so are the Americans because no man can say definitely what the United States will do after the war or where the United States will stand on any single question, any more than dogmatic terms can be used with respect to Russia.

The United Nations specifically the United States, Britain and Russia—still require to be united on the political side of the war.

Crime in the Air

Frank J. Wilson, chief of the United States Secret Service, speaking before the convention of the International Association of Chiefs of Police at Detroit, has given postwar planners something else to worry about — that is, the probable extensive use of the airplane in crime. His advice that law-enforcement officials begin now to think about the possibilities is by no means fantastic. If the air can be used for vast passenger and freight operations—and everybody is sure it will be—then there is no reason why criminals cannot use it for their own purposes.

Indeed, crimes already have been committed in which the airplane has played an important part. At least one murder, in the United States, was committed in a plane. Planes have been used by killers in an attempt to establish alibis. Smugglers have used them. It is a fact, as Mr. Wilson points out, that a fugitive from justice can jump to foreign countries about as easily as he formerly went from one American state to another. The whole prospect is complex and not a little disturbing. Will a "big shot" of the air—an infinitely more sinister and powerful figure than any Capone or Lepke—arise tomorrow to form an international criminal empire of which the basis is the fast plane? And will rival gunmen shoot it out above the clouds? Fantastic? Don't be too sure.—New York Herald Tribune.

Letter To The Editor

HOSPITAL CARE FOR EMERGENCIES

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—Will you allow me a space in the voice of the people. I notice in the editorial page that the City Council intend to set up a committee to consider problems arising from the decision to build a new city hall when the war is over.

On August 3 a lady who happens to be my mother, was struck down by a truck at the corner of Simcoe and George streets. She was taken to two hospitals in an ambulance, and was refused admission, she was finally taken to the Clinic, on Charlotte street, where she received first aid treatment for which we were grateful. The injuries consisted of a broken shoulder, and very severe bruises, she was finally taken home, and has been confined to bed since.

Emergency hospitalization should be available at all times, and I feel it would be to the credit of the City Council, to set up a committee, to consider dealing with emergencies of this type.

A Bible Message

O Zion, that bringest good tidings, get thee up into the high mountain; O Jerusalem, that bringest good tidings, lift up thy voice with strength; lift it up, be not afraid; say unto the cities of Judah, Behold your God. Behold, the Lord God will come with strong hand, and his arm shall rule for him: behold, his reward is with him, and his work before him....

With whom took he counsel, and who instructed him, and taught him in the path of judgment, and taught him knowledge, and shewed to him the way of understanding? (Isa. 40: 9, 10, 14.)

Teach me, O Lord, the way of thy statutes; and I shall keep it unto the end. Give me understanding, and I shall keep thy law; yea, I shall observe it with my whole heart....

The entrance of thy words giveth light; it giveth understanding unto the simple. (Ps. 119: 33, 34, 130.)

Soldier Finds Hamburg People Cry For Peace

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 20.—(AP).—Residents of Hamburg want peace, and many Nazi soldiers fighting on the Russian front no longer believe Hitler can lead them to victory, a 20-year-old Swede just returned through Hamburg from the eastern front said last night.

Sigfried Forsberg, who got out of the German army when his mother discovered that by a previous marriage her son was still a Swedish citizen, was caught in the Allied bombings of Hamburg.

He gave the newspaper Dagens Nyheter the following general picture of conditions in Hamburg and on the eastern front:

"I lived in Hamburg 10 years, and as I bicycled around the city following the raids I was told that 10 per cent. of the town was undamaged, but it looked to me as if everything [illegible] destroyed.

"You couldn't recognize the town. Everywhere were damaged buildings.

"Even before the last attacks, the people wanted peace, and after that everyone was saying: 'The only thing one now wants is peace.'

"It is a common sight now to see Hitler's picture thrown into the street.

"Air attacks against Germany have changed the attitude of the soldiers fighting on the eastern front. Their morale is still good, but they are worrying about what is happeing back home. They still respect Hitler, but they don't believe he can lead them to victory."

Forsberg said that 17-and 18-year old boys were fighting with him southwest of Leningrad, indicating the strain already placed on Hitler's critical manpower supply.

He said that as he was returning from Russia through Poland he found the Poles still fighting the Germans, even hurling hand grenades at them on the streets of Warsaw.

Westwood Institute Honors Grandmother

WESTWOOD, Aug. 20 (ENS). — Westwood Women's Institute sponsored a special meeting for the grandmothers of the community on Tuesday afternoon.

For the roll call the members stated their grandmothers' maiden names and birthplaces. The grandmothers were asked to cite some incident of their girlhood, and the prize was given to Mrs. Hugh Cameron, who told the best story.

The origin of a display of old china, and quilts, was explained by the owners, and several old millinery creations were shown.

Prizes were awarded the grandmothers; the oldest grandmother present was Mrs. T. W. Cardwell and the youngest was Mrs. Don Cameron. The grandmother having the youngest grandchild was Mrs. Fred Faux.

A complete history of the life of the Scottish poet, Sir Walter Scott and one of his short poems "Lochinvar" were given by Mrs. F. E. Birdsall. A legend of the origin of "Willow Ware China" was read by Mrs. A. Wood, the ladies following each detail from a Willow ware plate exhibited by Mrs. J. Thompson.

During a business period it was decided to hold a "honey bingo," the date to be announced later. Letters of thanks for a donation for jam for Britain, and for a parcel of clothing sent to Eley, England, for evacuees were read.

British Fleet Stands In Waiting For Hidden Tirpitz

By JOHN E. LEE

United States Naval Correspondent with the British Home Fleet, Distributed by The Canadian Press.

WITH THE BRITISH HOME FLEET, (By Mail)—All the world remembers the spectacular pursuit of May, 1941, when the giant German battleship Bismarck burst into the Atlantic, sank the British battle cruiser Hood and in turn was sent to her doom in swift revenge.

Today another prize, the powerful Tirpitz, sistership of the Bismarck, glitters elusively before the eyes of Admiral Sir Bruce Fraser's home fleet, which has the irksome task of pinning down the German flagship and other warcraft in harbors where they are concealed.

No Chance

Will the Tirpitz try to break out? That is the chief question in the minds of naval experts who direct the home fleet. Some believe she may attempt it. Others contend the Germans know such a venture would be suicide.

That is the view of a famous British admiral commanding a cruiser squadron who recently received this correspondent aboard his flagship.

He predicted the Tirpitz or any other German ship would have as much chance of survival "as a dog in a meat grinder" if she tried to break out.

Protecting Ships

According to latest information at this northern British naval base, the Germans might be able to bring about 10 large ships into action, in addition to destroyers, submarines and miscellaneous craft.

Germany's most powerful warships are the 40,000-ton Tirpitz, with eight 15-inch guns; the aircraft carrier Graf Zeppelin, with at least 40 planes; the battle cruisers Scharnhorst and Gneisenau, each carrying nine 11-inch guns, and the pocket battleships Luetzow (ex-Deutschland) and Scheer, each with six 11-inch guns and capable of a speed of at least 28 knots.

In Baltic

There also are the cruisers Prinz Eugen and Hipper, 10,000-ton vessels carrying eight-inch guns, and the 6,000 ton cruisers Emden, Leipzig, Koeln and Nuernburg, all equipped with six-inch guns. The cruiser Seydlitz may not have been completed.

The Tirpitz, Scharnhorst and Luetzow are believed to be in northern Norway, while the Gneisenau is reported under repair in a central Baltic port. The Scheer, possibly damaged by aerial attacks, the Hipper in dry dock as a result of a New Year's eve clash with British warships, the Prinz Eugen, the Koeln and the Graf Zeppelin, Emden and Leipzig probably all are in the Baltic. The Nuernberg is said to be somewhere in northern waters.

Alimony Fees Leave Sailor Almost Broke Hero Who Saved Nimitz Tries Burglary

OAKLAND, Calif., Aug. 20 — (AP).—A young sailor identified in court as the man who rescued Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander-in-chief of the United States Pacific fleet, after a seaplane sank in San Francisco Bay last year, asked for probation yesterday on a burglary conviction. He as Raymond E. Gastil, 23, of Alameda, Calif.

Donald Thompson deputy probation officer, cited the rescue of Admiral Nimitz and commented that Gastil "has been and should be an asset to the Navy."

Judge Lincoln S. Church referred the matter to the youth correction authority. Gastil said he had committed the robbery because an allotment to his divorced wife left him only $5 a month.

Thompson's report said Gastil dived into the Bay to bring out the Admiral and three navy companions who were trapped in the wrecked seaplane. His report was based on information from the police department.

The Navy Department in Washington announced July 10, 1942, that Admiral Nimitz was in a crash in an unidentified West Coast port.)

Allied Losses Indicate Aerial Might

By WILLIAM FRYE

Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—(AP). — The mounting losses of Allied heavy bombers over Europe, the United States Army Air Forces said yesterday, are—paradoxically—a sign of increasing Allied air might.

They mean, said officers, that Britain Canada and America are sending ever greater aerial armadas to blast Germany and German-occupied Europe. Numerical losses are higher, but the rate of losses is not.

The comment was apropos of reports large numbers of planes failed to return from recent raids. For instance, the R.A.F. reported 41 bombers, 13 of them Canadian, and one fighter lost in Tuesday night's swoop against Berlin and Peenemuende; the United States 8th Air Force reported 36 heavy bombers, one fighter-bomber and five fighters missing in its attacks on Regensburg and Schweinfurt.

Do these figures mean Allied losses are approaching the "allowable" rate at which bombing operations cease to be "profitable?" Do they mean German opposition is increasing or becoming more effective? The answer, Air Force officers said emphatically, was "no!"

Allowable Rate.

"Look," said one officer "what is an 'allowable' rate of loss? Some experts have said it's 10 per cent. of the planes sent on a mission, others say 5 per cent. In either case, it's just a lot of stuff.

"Statistically, there is only one way to figure allowable loss: You can afford to lose as many planes and crews as you can replace, provided you get through to your target.

"If you need 1,000 planes to accomplish your job, and your production is 1,000 planes a day then you can lose 1,000 planes to reach the objective.

"Are Britain and America able to replace their losses? The answer to that is obvious—they are replacing them, and also increasing the size of their forces."

And in London, R.A.F. spokesman backed this up, scouting any idea that the cost of the mounting bomb offensive might be outrunning its benefits. He disclosed that in July the British bomber command lost half as many planes and men a ton of bombs dropped as it lost in July 1942.

Employees affected are being absorbed in other necessary war production.

Casualty List Shows 62 Missing

OTTAWA, Aug. 20—(CP)—The issuance by defence headquarters last night of the third list of Canadian (Active) Army casualties resulting from the fighting in Sicily brings to 199 the total of casualties officially reported from that theatre of war so far.

It has been announced officially that Canadian casualties in the Sicilian campaign from July 10 to Aug. 4 totalled 1,895—made up of 385 dead, 1,200 wounded and 310 missing. Another list of Sicilian casualties will be issued tonight, and further ones are expected to be released daily next week, each containing about the same number of names—50 to 75.

Last night's list—the 342nd army casualty list of the war — named three men as dangerously wounded, one man seriously wounded, 24 severely wounded, 28 wounded and 10 slightly wounded. No dead or missing were reported in the list, and the unofficial total of army dead reported in casualty lists since the outbreak of war now stands at 1,221, with 874 men missing.

No unofficial tabulation of those wounded since the start of the war is available.

On its statement on total Sicilian casualties, defence headquarters said they were considered "quite moderate" in view of the fact that fighting had been "particularly heavy" and in proportion to the number of troops engaged in the campaign.

Reported Missing

Pte. Lloyd Spinks is the second Peterborough boy to have been reported missing in the Sicilian campaign. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Spinks Lansdowne avenue and his wife lives at 17 High street. He was employed at the Dominion Woollens for a time before he enlisted.

Knights Take First

At Memorial Park Wednesday night K. of C. took a 20-10 win over the battling Cubs in the first game of the Catholic League semi-finals. The game loked like a Cub win until the sixth when the K. of C. opened a hitting barrage which swung the fixture in their favor.

For the losers McCormick pitched puzzling ball until the sixth when he weakened and was relieved by R. Garvey who finishd the game.

For the winners J. Collins twirled steady ball being well supported by his mates.

For the winners E. Johnston was tops with three for five, two doubles and a single, being followed by Ernie Wolff having a double and two singles.

For the losers McCormick again lead the Cubs with a triple, double and single along with Hubert Kennedy with two doubles and a pair of singles.

Next game will be played tonight. Players of both clubs are requested to be on time as the game is slated to begin at 6:45 sharp.

SPORTS – DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

It is taking a long time to get the Military Training Centre and the 4th Battery out of the trenches in this softball war. Already they have played five games in the best-of-five series and the round needs at least one more game and may need two to settle it. Last night, for the second time since the playoffs started the rivals battled each other to a standstill, the score being 5-5 when the game was called for darkness at the end of the eighth. Two of the five games have been draws, the Soldiers have won two and the other battle went to the Gunners. Neither of the two outfits wanted to play tonight, the Soldiers because some of their players were to have a long week-end leave and the Battery because Dave Wilson will have to go back again without a rest. However the league executive refused to listen to either of them and ordered the game to be played tonight. With the time for declaring a winner rapidly being exhausted and Genelecs waiting for the final round the league moguls say there was nothing else to be done. They did not want to run foul of the girls' playoff game but the situation did not seem to offer any alternative.

* * * * * *

And so the two rivals will tussle again tonight and another thriller should be the result. There is considerable feeling between the battlers now and every game is a real contest. With elimination facing the Battery if they lose and the Soldiers having a chance to have their lead taken away from them this tilt looms up as about the most exciting of the whole campaign. As for the pitching Dave Wilson will probably go right back at the Soldiers but the latter's choice is not so apparent. It probably will be Jack Wilson who fire-balled a three-hitter against the Gunners last week. At all events it should be a wow of a ball game.

Girls Battle Again

Another of those sizzling girls' softball games is on the cards for tonight when Aircraft clash with the Westclox team in the fifth game of their best-of-seven senior playoff series. A win for the Big Bens ends all arguments. The league leaders have captured three games and need only one more to take it all. Aircraft came home in front once in the final round and they can remain in the running if they can knock off the Westclockers on this occasion. The girls from the C.G.E. plant will certainly be in there trying. They have made every game a battle and they are not going down and out for the season without making a real effort to keep the series alive. Westclox will be without the services of Eunice Armstrong who is out for the season with a badly injured knee but otherwise the two clubs expect to be at full strength. This all-important game is billed to start at 6.45 o'clock, and everybody concerned is asked to be on hand early. The playing time these evenings is steadily getting shorter and it is imperative that fixtures should get away promptly at the advertised hour, if trouble in the latter innings is to be avoided.

Third baseman Howe Dalton of the Soldiers was tossed out of last night's game in the seventh inning by Umpire Dormer and most of the fans seemed to be at a loss to know how come. The explanation is that at the beginning of the frame the Soldiers tried to change the ball in play for another more to their liking but the umps refused to allow them to switch. Immediately after Dalton tossed the ball in play high over Morgan's head and Umpire Dormer waved him out of the game on the ground that he had deliberately made the bad throw in order to get rid of the ball the Soldiers did not like. The Camp team kicked at the decision but it stood and Dalton had to retire to the bench, his place at third being taken by Pat Lanahan. The incident, and another at first base when Bob Crowe was injured in a clash with First baseman Morgan added a lot of spice to the battle.

Colored Grappler Coming

It had been expected that Leo Numa, the unmasked Red Shadow would be here Monday night as a main bout attraction but the big fellow was not available for that occasion. However Promoter Frank Tunney is not letting the fans down any for he has succeeded in booking the famous negro wrestler Gentleman Jack Clayborne for the feature number on next week's card. Clayborne, known in the mat game as the Colored Comet, has built up a big reputation along the east coast as one of the fastest and cleverest grapplers in pro circles. He is big, speedy and artful and his courage has never been questioned. Opposed to the Comet will be Palermo John Katan and that dour battler who still says that he was the victim of an official mistake when he was disqualified in his bout with Earl McCready here Monday night is anxious to show Peterborough fans that he really has the goods. Besides he wants a crack at Clayborne for the colored boy was born in South Africa and thus qualified as a contender for the British Empire title so the Panther figures that his quest for the championship will be helped considerably if he brushes the Comet out of the path. Incidentally Clayborne will be the first colored grappler to wrestle here since Godfrey appeared in Peterborough a few years ago. And he of course was not a real wrestler—merely a boxer who was trying to get by on his reputation.

The calibre of the professional golfers who have entered the Kawartha Club tourney here more than insures the artistic success of the big event. Some of the best-known shot-makers in the country will be doing their stuff this week-end over the well-groomed Kawartha course and every follower of golf and many other folk who know little or nothing about the game should be on hand for what promises to be the biggest tourney of its kind held here. Already entered are such outstanding golfers as Bob Gray, Bill Kerr, Dick Borthwick, Les Franks, Stan Horne, Bob Burns, Jules Proulx, the long-driving Montrealer and of course Kawartha's own Lex Robson. With players of that type competing the golf should be sparkling and it would not be surprising if the course record got kicked around a bit. The boys will certainly be in there punching.

Farmers Sent West

OTTAWA, Aug. 20.—(CP).— Selective Service Director Arthur MacNamara announced last night that the Dominion Government will transfer selected farmers and experienced farm workers from Ontario to Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta for the western harvest.

Exciting Game Attracts Record Crowd

This Military Training Centre-4th Battery feud is not settled yet. For the second time in this best-of-five City League semi-final series the rivals battled to a deadlock at Riverside Park Thursday night, the fifth fixture of the round ending in a 5-5 tie.

The League executive has ordered the two clubs to meet again tonight at 6:45 o'clock.

Last nights argument was one of the most exciting of the season. Both outfits took turns in leading, the score was tied four different times, and it wound up with a Soldier on every base in the eighth, only to have McKerrigan hit into a force play to end the game as it was too dark to play the ninth.

It was the second occasion during the playoffs that Johnny Walker for the Soldiers and Dave Wilson for the Battery hooked up in an exciting duel that wound up with everything even.

The Battery took an early lead on Les Burton's tow-run homer in the first but the Camp came back with a pair on Mason's double in the second half of the same frame. The Gunners went in front again with a run in the third, only to have the Soldiers tie it up in their end. Johnny Walker helped his own cause with a homer in the fourth but the Artillerymen evened that up scoring a counter in the fifth. Once again the Soldiers retaliated with a marker in the last of the fifth to go into the van 5 to 4 but Battery pulled up on even terms with a run in the seventh and the score remained that way until the game was called.

The rival pitchers each allowed nine hits in a godd exhibition of twirling. Eddie Starr led the hitters with three doubles in four times up and Bob Crowe had a triple and a double in two official appearances at the plate. Anderson and McKerrigan with 2 hits each led the Soldier batters.

Two Quick Runs

The Gunners picked up a pair of runs in a hurry in the first inning. Heal beat out a bunt and after Crowe had sacrificed him to second Les Burton laced a homer over Mason's head in left field, sending Heal in ahead of him. Eddie Starr lined a double to centre, Stewart drove a fly to Mason so deep in left that Starr ran to third after the catch. Ellie scratched a hit on a high bounder to the box, Starr holding third. Vitarelli fouled to Dalton.

Soldiers evened it up in their half. With one out McIlveen was safe on Crowe's fumble. McKerrigan singled to centre. The two moved up on a wild pitch. Dalton bounded to Ellis, the runners being held but Mason's roller took a high hop over Vitarelli's head and went for a double scoring McIlveen and McKerrigan. Heal made a fast play on Herrick's roller to retire the side.

The Battery took the lead again in the first of the third Bob Crowe opened with a triple to left centre and after Burton had whiffed Starr shot a double into centre scoring Crowe. Stewart again drove deep to Mason in left with Starr going to third after the catch. Ellis rolled to Anderson.

The Training Centre club evened it upin their half. Anderson looped a single into right and he went to second on McIlveen's sacrifice. Heal made a nice play on McKerrigan's roller, Anderson going to third. Dalton slammed a triple on the ground between Burton, scoring Anderson. Mason fanned.

Johnny Walker put his club ahead for the first time in the fourth when with two out he drove a homer between Stewart and Burton, just beating the relay to the plate. There was no one on at the time.

The Battery squared things in the first of the fifth. With one out Bob Crowe lified a double to right, Burton walked. Starr got his third successive double on a drive to centre, scoring Crowe and

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

As a preliminary to the victory national 72-hole tournament opening to-day over the Beverly Hills course at Chicago, top-ranking pros and amateurs combined in pairs for a best-ball tilt yesterday and the winners were Sam Byrd of Philadelphia and amateur Bob Cochran of St. Louis who turned 36 holes in 131, or 11 under par.

Byrd, who once played the outfield for the New York Yankees, and Cochran, runner-up in the recent Tam o'Shanter All-America joust, had 10 birdies, one eagle, and one bogey in the double-round. Byrd chipped a 45-foot shot into the seventh hole for the only two-under-par hole of the day. Jug McSpaden of Philadelphia, Tam o'Shanter champion, and Sgt. Jas. McHale, stationed at Baltimore, came through with an aggregate of 132 for runners-up honors. Mike Turnesa of White Plains and Jim Frisini of Taylorville, Ill., were third with 133.

The victory national tourney gets under way with a chosen field of 42 golfing greats who will battle in 72 holes of medal play.

Madison Square Garden, New York, will be flush with boxing tonight when Promoter Mike Jacobs stages a card which includes no less than three 10-round bouts. The main go is between Clea Shans, Los Angeles negro, and Bobby Ruffin, New York lightweight.

Cancel Racing.

Fall racing on the half-mile tracks of Maryland has been cancelled by the State Racing Commission, applications from three of the ovals for autumn dates having been denied unanimously.

President Will Harridge of the American League has notified manager Jim Dykes of the Chicago White Sox that the protest against the umpire's decision in a game at New York July 25 has not been allowed. The Umps had called a balk against Pitcher Orval Grove with the bases loaded, sending a run across the plate to break a 3-3 tie.

Female Coach

With male teachers scarce, Miss Pauline Rugh, former Penn State Co-ed, has been appointed football catch for the High School at Salina, Pa. She declared her playing system would be a surprise to everyone, "even myself."

R.C.A.F. No. 4 Wireless School, Guelph, eliminated Hagersville 10-0 at Hamilton last night in the O.A.S.A. Intermediate "B" playdowns, earning the right to meet Jarvis Air Station, the latter disposing of Tillsonburg Pandrieds 5-2. The winner will play No. 1 Training Command at Toronto.

Wins Silver Trophy

Charles Cassels of Hamilton proved to be the winned of the International Silver Trophy, emblematic of the golfing championship of the Hamilton Advertising and Sales Club when he turned in a low gross score of 79. William Robertson toured the Glendale course to take the Ken Brown cup with a low net of 64.

Only 28 batters faced Bruce Moore when Sarnia copped the Midget title of the Western Counties Baseball Association 4-1 from London at Sarnia Athletic Park last night. The Sarnia twirler struck out 10, although Halliday for the losers fanned 12.

Baby Olympic Program Goes Saturday

TORONTO, Aug. 20. — (CP).—With an entry list of more than 400 competitors from all parts of the British Commonwealth, United States, Port of Spain and with every province of Canada represented, the annual No. 1 Training Command, Royal Canadian Air Force track and field championships here Saturday will resemble a small-scale Olympic games.

Three of last year's winners will be on hand to defend their laurels in the men's events and one in the women's division events.

LAC. Sandy of Leeds, England, a member of the Royal Air Force, will defend his 440-yards title. His time last year was 55 5/10 seconds FO. Maynard of Los Angeles, will try to top his 11-foot pole vault mark set last year and LAC. James Truelove of Cambridge, England, will be the defending champion in the 120-yard hurdles which he won in 15.5 seconds last year.

Leading Airwoman Winnifred Rudge of St. Catharines, stationed at No. 16 Service Flying Training School, Hagersville, is hoping to hod her record of 10 2/10 seconds for the 75 yards.

In addition, AC2 Eric Coy, Winnipeg, also stationed at Hagersville and holder of the Canadian and British Empire championships in the 16 pound shot put and the Canadian record in the 12-pound shot put, will be entered in these events.

A crack team from No. 5 Service Training School at Brantford, led by FO. Jim Worrall who represented Canada in the hurdles at the Olympic games in 1936 and at the British Empire games in 1938, will be hunting for the team trophy.

You probably have TIRE DESTROYERS like these in your tires

● Motorists who thought their tires were in perfect shape have been amazed at the collection of sharp objects we have found in them when we jacked up their car and went to work. It's astonishing what a tire can pick up on streets, roads, lanes and parking lots. And tacks, nails and pieces of glass imbedded in a tire, sooner or later cause trouble : : : through inconveniences because of tire injury, and loss of mileage through shortening the life of the tire.

Every month your car should be jacked up and the tires examined carefully by an expert. Foreign matter should be removed to prevent the development of serious tire injury. Cuts should be repaired. Next to a complete inside and out examination this is a mighty important service. We can do this for you. And while your tires are off the rims, we'll check your tubes for slow leaks and weak spots, scrape your rims and fix your tires up for another long siege of extra tire mileage. Don't put this off... get it done now before tire destroyers impair the life of your tires. We will give you fast, prompt, careful tire service.

The Sports Round-Up

NEW YORK, Aug. 20 (AP)—Latest tip is it'll be a one-trip world series this fall....First three games in Yankee Stadium, next four (or less) in St. Loo....Ol' Jedge Landis is giving all questioners the mummy-dummy routine, however.... Fritzie Zivic, who took the welterweight title from Henry Armstrong, will also take Hennery's tip and retire at the end of the year.

Guest Star:

Cy Kritzer, Buffalo (N.Y.) Evening News: The jovial Mr. James Aloysius (Wish) Egan, who scouts exclusively for the Detroit Tigers, was asked, "Why are so many normally good ball players hitting far below their usual averages, and why is there such a scarcity of .300 hitters?"....Egan thought the answer is on the front page instead of the sports pages: "For one thing, with all this labor trouble, strikes and walkouts, there is a different atmosphere in the dressing room of a ball club. There's a shortage of labor and a shortage of ball players. Players know today that you can't replace them. They know there is no youngster down on the farm to come up. They have no competition to keep them on their toes."

Race Trouble

PAWTUCKET, R.I. — (AP). — For the second time in two days, officials of Narragansett race track had a strike on their hands when track workers quit work in a demand for better pay. The usual scraping between races was not done during the card. On the previous day, the stable boys who bring out the horses held up the first race for half an hour but finally got busy.

Black Comet Coming For Next Bout

One of the finest athletes ever developed in the colored race, Gentleman ack Clayborne, will wrestle here next Monday night at the Brock St. Arena.

Clayborne started out as a great track and field star but besides great speed the colored boy developed terrific strength as well. Combining the two qualities with a natural fighting viewpoint led the dusky ahlete quickly up to the top rungs of the wrestling ladder.

In recent months Clayborne has been gaining increased prestige by reason of his successes on the East Atlantic coast from Halifax to Florida. In fact as matters stand today there are a good many of the better-known white matmen who are assiduously avoiding a clash with the Colored Comet as he has come to be known.

When Promoter Frank Tunney however looked around for an opponent for the Gentleman there was one man who positively pleaded for the match. And that man was Palermo John Katan. Big Katan has his own reasons for particularly wanting this match, but one of them is quite obvious. Gentleman Jack Clayborne was born in South Africa, in Capetown, and therefore is eligible for the British Empire championship. Katan knows if he can eliminate the Dusky Flash it will bring him one step nearer a match with Champion Whipper Watson.

Kliemán Wins 21st This Year

By The Associated Press

Ed. Klieman, Baltimore Oriole pitcher, won his 21st game of the season in the International League by beating Rochester, 5-4, last night. It was his second straight victory since Cleveland Indians announced they would claim him under a working agreement with the Orioles.

Klieman's six-hit performance gave the Orioles a sweep of a double-header since Paul Calvert blanked the Red Wings, 4-0, in the opener.

The first-place Toronto Maple Leafs turned back the second-place Newark Bears, 2-0, on the neat five-hit twirling of Jim Hopper. Harry Davis drove in both runs with a fourth-inning single.

Aide by six Montreal errors, Syracuse beat the Royals, 5-2, to tie for third place. Syracuse scored four unearned runs.

The last-place Jersey City Giants walloped Buffalo, 1-2, in a weird game marked by six Bison misplays and 17 Jersey City hits.

A's Have Lost 13 In Row Nobody Excited

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Losing streaks cause excitement, apparently, in proportion to who is doing the losing.

When Brooklyn Dodgers dropped 10 in a row recently the frantic Flatbush fans wanted to run Branch Rickey into the Gowanus Canal and when Philadelphia Phillies tossed off 17 out of 27 Stanley Raymond (Bucky) Harris, a manager of proven ability, was fired.

But Philadelphia Athletics now have lost 13 consecutive games and 19 of their last 22 and all the attention they are getting is a broad yawn.

One reason for this, of course, is that losing streaks for the Athletics are common.

Mostly, however, the calm reaction is in deference to Connie Mack, the grand old man of baseball. Every other major league team is considered the community property of the fans but the A's belong to Mr. Mack.

The A's latest loss was another shutout 4-0 on four-hit pitching by Dennis Galehouse of St. Louis Browns last night.

Overtime Tilt

At the top of the American League New York Yankees squeezed back into the victory column with 2-1, 13-inning decision over Cleveland Indians in a night game.

Rookie Allie Reynolds held the Yanks to six hits in going the route, but was beaten when Joe Gordon doubled and eventually scored on a fly.

The defeat dropped Cleveland back into a tie for third place as Washington whipped Chicago White Sox 4-3. Dutch Leonard pitched four-hit ball and singled home the deciding run himself.

Detroit divided a doubleheader with Boston Red Sox, losing the first 4-3 through Joe Cronin's two-run pinch double and winning the second 10-0 on Virgil Trucks' four hit hurling and the hitting of Rudy York, who collected his 24th homer and altogether batted in six runs.

In the National League St. Louis Cardinals were upset by Philadelphia Phillies 6-5 in a night game.

Two home runs by Jim Russell and one by Vince DiMaggio, his 14th, accounted for seven runs as Pittsburg Pirates plastered New York Giants 8-1.

Curt Davis held Chicago Cubs to eight hits and scoreless after Bill Nicholson hit a two-run homer in the first inning to give Brooklyn a 9-2 triumph over Chicago.

Cincinnati clustered three runs in the sixth to beat Boston Braves 7-5.

Yesterday's Stars

By The Associated Press

Vince DiMaggio and Jim Russell, Pirates—They drove in seven runs on three homers to overwhelm Giants.

Ray Mueller, Reds—Drove in two runs with triple for margin of victory over Braves.

Joe Cronin, Red Sox, and Rudy York and Virgil Trucks, Tigers — Cronin drove in two runs with pinch double to help win first game while Trucks pitched four-hit shutout in nightcap as York hit his 24th home run and drove in six tallies.

Dutch Leonard, Senators—Pitched four-hit ball and singled home deciding run against White Sox.

Denny Galehouse, Browns—Shutout Athletics on four hits.

Dee Moore, Phillies—Made three hits, including a triple, to drive in three runs in victory over Cardinals.

Chatham Wins

CHATHAM — (CP). — Gerry Gouin of Windsor pitched Chatham Shermans to a 7 to 0 victory against No. 12 Basic Training Centre in a Kent County baseball fixture, the twirler fanning 14 men in seven innings. The Soldiers will not meet Dresden in the league semi-finals, the winners to oppose Shermans who finished in top place.

Bagnato Loses

VANCOUVER, Aug. 20 — (CP). — Kenny Lindsay of the Royal Canadian Air Force scored a fourth round technical knockout over Charley Bagnato of the army here last night in a bout billed as for the featherweight boxing championship of Canada's armed forces and scheduled for 10 rounds About 5,000 fans attended. Lindsay weighed 125, and Bagnato 124.

TORONTO, Aug. 20 — (CP). — Favorite pastime of Bas (Montreal Star) O'Meara since the death of Frank Calder last winter has been guessing who will fall heir to the National Hockey League presidency. Baz' latest guess is J. P. Ebbs, the Ottawa lawyer named as liaison man between the N.H.L. and National Selective Service on the question of cutting professional hockey in on the nation's manpower. Ebbs, comments O'Meara, may be "the man who will be the one to eventually wear the mantle of Frank Calder."

Of course, Red Dutton is in the driver's seat at present, acting as managing director of the N.H.L., but Dutton doesn't want the job permanently. O'Meara quotes Dutton as saying: "This is a job for a lawyer, one who can unravel a lot of knotty problems, who has a legal approach." Ebbs fills the bill on that count and he has an athletic background. Years ago he was a replacement with the famous Ottawa Silver Seven, one of the greatest hockey teams of all time. Ebbs also has a football background. He was president of the Ottawa Rough Riders in some of their palmiest days.

Grid gossip:

Jimmy Simpson, one of Canada's greatest outside wings as a member of Hamilton Tigers, is trying a football comeback after four years of inactivity. Simpson fractured a jaw 4 years ago and retired from the gridiron on advice of his physician. Now he figures his recovery is complete and that he can risk a return....Toronto R.C.A.F. Hurricanes, Canadian champions, have only six members of the 1942 team remaining—backfielders Fred Kijek, Jack Alexander and Art West, outside wing Jack Buckmaster and linemen Paul McGarry and Mike Ozarko. They have a good replacement for snapback Jake Gaudaur in Bob Cosgrove, the former Calgary and Toronto Balmy Beach star....Bill Stukus, star quarterback, is on the east coast. Al Lenard, Hamilton halfback who led the O.R.F.U. in scoring last year, is headed eastward for a Navy officer's course.

Montreal's hopes of matching the Canadian lightweight champion, LAC Dave Castilloux, with Cleo Shans of New York have collapsed ....Edith Skitch, 15-year-old Edmonton girl only 4 feet 11 inches tall, stood a Vancouver track meet on its beam ends by tying the B.C. women's record for 75 yards at 9 seconds flat and missing the senior high jump mark by only ¾ inch with a leap of 4 feet 8 inches.

Cattle Prices Down 25 to 50 Cents

TORONTO, Aug. 20—(CP)—Cattle prices dropped 25 to 50 cents a hundredweight; veal calves, hogs and sheep were steady and lamb prices dipped 50 cents a hundredweight in trade on the livestock market here this week.

The cattle supply was close to 6,000 head with about 2,000 stockers included. Trade was draggy from the opening with early bids lower. Some Monday sales were steady but the heldover cattle, principally butchers and weighty steers moved on Tuesday at price reductions. Weighty steers were down 25 to 35 cents at $12 and $12.40 for plain and choice quality with plain down to $11.

Butcher steers and heifers closed around $11.65 for tops with most heifers $11.50 and downward. Butcher cows were $7.75 to $8.50 with some canners as low as $4. Bologna bulls $7.50 and $9 and butcher bulls up to $10.

Fed yearlings were $12 to $13.25. Stockers dropped 50 cents after the opening and closed $9 to $11.50 for plain to medium with stock calves up to $12.50. Early sales on stock calves were as high at $13.25. Good milkers and springers $130 to $160 each.

Choice calves firm on light run at $15 to $15.50 with few closing tops $16. Common vealers downward to $10 and grassers mostly $9.

Hogs steady at $16.85 to $16.90 dressed with sows $14.50 to $15 dressed.

Lambs opened 50 cents lower and held for the week at $15.50 for good ewes and wethers with a few off cars $15.75. Bucks $1 a hundredweight discount. Sheep steady from $5 for culls up to $9.50 a hundredweight for best light ewes.

unsuccessfully at the Soviet communication lines. From dawn to dusk, the Russians said, German bombers accompanied by fighters made thrust after thrust only to be repelled by Soviet airmen.

2,400 Huns Killed

At Kharkov, some 2,400 Germans were wiped out and 30 villages captured as the Red Army smashed forward on the west, northwest and southeast sides of the city, a Soviet communique said.

One escape route—to the southwest along the line of the Krasnodar railway—remained open to the defence garrison, but a Pravda dispatch said the German high command had ordered a fight to the death within the city.

The communique, recorded in London by the Soviet Radio Monitor, reported yesterday's heaviest fighting centred northwest of the city. Russian detachments there, the bulletin said, overwhelmed several enemy counter-attacks and successfully advanced, killing 1,500 Germans, knocking out 30 enemy tanks, and capturnig large quantities of war material.

would take over punishment of Danish saboteurs.

Disorders Mount.

Meanwhile disorders were reported mounting, travellers bringing word of clashes between partiots and German soldiers in Odense. They said that a railroad line transporting German war supplies for shipment to Norway had been dynamited at several places between Flensburg, Germany, and Aarhus, Denmark.

Reports reaching Malo said that 15 German soldiers were killed in riots which forced the authorities to clamp down an 8 p.m. curfew on most of the Funen Island district. Danish soldiers have been stationed in that area.

Railway sabotage has become so intensive, reports stated, that the crew of one train carrying German soldiers was forced to change locomotives five times as the result of damage from exploding bombs placed between the rails.

Spreading stribes, minor violence, increased sabotage and underground activity during the past week has spurred the Germans to demand that the guilty be punished under Nazi law in the German courts, these reports said. It is these demands, coupled with rising political unrest, that may result in a government upset.

Weather Favors Big Potato Crop

TORONTO, Aug. 20 — (CP). — The Ontario Department of Agriculture, in a statement to-day said that although this year's provincial potato crop is considerably below the five-year average, weather conditions to date have been favorable for the growing crop.

"This fact, together with the increased attention being given by way of caring for the crop by specialized potato growers may account for the 10 per cent increase in production over last year."

R. E. Godin of the Crops, Seeds and Weeds Branch of the Agriculture Department said it is early yet to predict final yields and warned growers to guard against disease among potatoes.

less sweeps over Southern Italy as far north as Catanzaro, two-thirds of the way to the mainland heel.

(Radio France in Algiers said in a midday broadcast recorded by the Associated Press that "for 24 hours now Allied artillery, air forces and naval units have been plastering Southern Italy in one of the most formidable combined attacks ever seen."

Thirty-four enemy fighters were shot down a communique said, in the Foggia action, one of the greatest raids of the Mediterranean war. Five more Axis planes were destroyed over Southern Italy, and another was bagged on Wednesday night.

Seventeen Allied planes were lost during all operations.

The Allied mass bombing tactics that had knocked out every important target in Sicily were applied to Foggia — 20 miles inland from the Adriatic Sea — by R.A.F. Wellingtons after dark and heavy U. S. bombers during the day. Foggia, a large industrial city and railway junction lies 160 miles southeast of Rome.

British cruisers and destroyers steaming up the west coast of the Calabrian peninsula Tuesday night bombarded Scalea, some 25 miles south of Cape Palinuro where the railway runs close to the sea.

Navies Active

"Naval activity continues on both coasts of the Calabrian peninsula and on the eastern shore of the Straits of Messina," the naval communique added.

The air communique declared that "many bombs" blasted the target area at Foggia, hitting railway yards, the electrical station and on installations and buildings.

A "large force" from the Middle East joined in the assault. "A heavy weight of bombs covered the entire yards and direct hits were scored on an overhead railway bridge, railway carriage repair shops, warehouses and military barracks near the railway," Cairo announced in supplying details.

Fires were set in locomotive repair shops and near the main railway station. Four enemy fighters were downed.

Medium bombers of the Northwest Africa command pounded railway yards at Sapri and at Salyerno, south of Naples, and target areas "were well covered by bomb bursts."

Keene News

The new ration books will be issued at Keene Town Hall on Wednesday, August 25, from 1 to 5 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. It is hoped all in this community will avail themselves of this opportunity to get their books then, otherwise they will have to go to Peterborough. As many as possible are asked to come in the afternoon. Ration book holders are asked to have card at back of the book filled in with block letters.

Sgt. Donald Murray of Ottawa spent last week-end at his home, and Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Wakeling of Kingston were visitors at the United Church parsonage.

OBITUARIES

W. J. GRANT.

The passing away of the late W. J. Grant is to many a strong link broken in the chain of friendship. William Grant was the eldest son of pioneer parents, the late Andrew Grant and Catherine Fowler, who bought the Grant homestead as Crown property. His father was a successful farmer for many years and at his retirement his son William carried on farming as his career. He was a great lover of nature and animals. He was a neighbor far and wide, always willing to give a helping hand, and his kindly spirit was greatly appreciated in homes of sickness or troubles..

He is mourned by two daughters and three sons. His home was always a haven to many and his hospitality was widely appreciated. He was a Presbyterian and a regular attendant of St. Paul's church, Peterborough.

The funeral was held from his late residence, Chemong Road, this week. The bearers were William Telford, Sidney Blewett, Ira Robson, Melville Sanderson. Norman Lillico and Allan Mann.

BAILIEBORO

Rev. Morgan Rowland Enlists With R.C.A.F.

BAILIEBORO, Aug. 20.—(ENS). —Rev. Morgan Rowland, minister of the United church, and son of Rev. and Mrs. E. W. Rowland, of Peterborough, has been called to serve as chaplain in the Army and will report at Three Rivers, Que., on August 25 for the first month's training. He will deliver his farewell sermon on August 22nd.

A meeting of the Official Boards of Bensfort, Fraserville and Bailieboro churches was held in Bailieboro United church on Tuesday evening to deal with the matter. It was voted to grant Rev. Morgan Rowland leave of absence during his service of chaplaincy in the army. A committee of six, two from each charge, namely, Frank Buckham and Frank Morrison, Stewart Hogg and Ray Findlay, Alex Watt and W. H. Barnard were appointed to interview Rev. Mr. McConnachie, of Peterborough, as a supply minister on the circuit during Rev. M. Rowland's absence.

Fathers May Join Up

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20—(AP)—War Manpower Commission officials, disclosing that October's draft quota will approximate 312,000, said last night that there was a "strong possibility" that among men who were fathers before the U.S. entered the war, the only ones to be taken would be those in non-deferrable jobs.

Safe In Sicily

Gnr. George Cheel (Bud) has cabled his parents that he is safe and well in Sicily. He enlisted in October 1941 in Peterborough and went overseas in May 1942. Gnr. Cheels is the second son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Cheel, 176 Sherbrooke street, and he has a brother Tom overseas with the Engineers.

Aerial Attacks Bags 50 German Planes

LONDON, Aug. 20.—(CP).—Fast R.A.F. Mosquito bombers again attacked targets in Berlin while fighters struck at airfields and railway targets on the continent, it was announced to-day.

The night raids followed blows by Allied planes, including an R.C.A.F. fighter wing, at four of Germany's most important air bases in Holland and France yesterday. A joint Anglo-American communique disclosed 50 enemy aircraft were shot down yesterday.

Intruders last night attacked railway and airfield targets in France and Belgium.

Flushing and Gilze-Rijen in Holland were battered by American heavy bombers late yesterday afternoon and 34 enemy planes were shot down by the bombers and their escorts of R.A.F., R.C.A.F., and American fighters.

The bombers accounted for 16 enemy fighters while their escorts knocked down 18, two of them falling before the guns of Canadian Spitfires. Good bombing results were reported.

Four bombers and two fighters were lost in these raids but the pilot of one was saved.

Earlier in the day R. A. F. and American medium bombers had blasted Nazi air fields at Poix and Amiens - Clissy in France. The Americans flew on the first attack while the R.A.F. planes flowed in for a second smash.

R.C.A.F. fighters provided protection on both attacks, shooting down an ME109 over Northern France. On other sweeps Typhoons and Spitfires of the R.A.F. knocked down 14 German fighters, while another fell to a bombers.

Six Fighters Lost

Six Allied fighters, one of them a Canadian, were reported lost.

Gilze-Rijen, one of the two targets in the raids on Holland, is an important operational base while Flushing is a big base used for German transport aircraft and for housing fighter planes protecting German coastal shipping. Both are on the Dutch coast near the Belgian border.

Belated reports on the July 17 raid by heavy bombers on the ball bearing works at Schmeinfurt in Germany, indicated the big bombers had shot down at least 95 enemy fighters.

Official figures still were unavailable on the number of planes shot down by the bombers which raided Regensburg the same day and then flew on to North Africa, but the London Telegraph said it understood the day's bag of enemy fighters was 175.

A view of the railroad yards in Messina, last Axis foothold in Sicily which has been captured by the Allies to end the campaign on this island bastion. Allied bombers gave Messina an unmerciful pounding during the last days of the campaign while the Axis was evacuating the remnants of the beaten German and Italian armies.

C.C.F. Plans Action

TORONTO, Aug. 20 — (CP). — E. B. Jolliffe, Ontario C C. F. leader, said last night the Party would strive to serve the people of legislature with constructive criticism, by aggressive representation, of the needs of labor and agriculture and by continuing to press for adequate preparation to provide full employment after the war.

Old Chaplain Dies

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 20 (CP).—Hon. Col. Rev. William Beattie, 70 who was chaplain of the 2nd Canadian infantry battalion in the first Great War, died last night. He was a native of Fergus, Ont.

Strange Noises Plague Submarine Men

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 (AP).—Allied submarines turning corners at 10 fathoms or so have pulled up in surprise and wonderment at hearing such raucous sounds as "honk, honk! — beep, beep! — g-r-rrr!"

The men with the earphones who listen to what goes on while their craft is slithering through the briny often confuse these noises with the hum of enemy propellers and signal for a qui[ck] stop, look, listen.

But, as it turned out today, the eerie underwater traffic noises often are caused by fish.

"Fish," said the Fish and Wildlife Service of the United States in a formal report, "actually grunt, purr, drum, grind their teeth and make a medley of other sounds that create strong under vibrations even when inaudible on the surface."

The F. and W. Service has made a series of recording of fish noises which are being drummed into the ears of submarine "listeners" so that they will know the difference between an ichtyological burp and the U-boat propeller.

"The experts," said the report to Mr. Ickes, "obtained their most surprising results with the toadfish, a common species of the Atlantic coast known for its ugliness and its bad temper. Although advised by fish and wildlife service biologists that the toadfish is an important sound - producers, the investigators were unprepared for the volume of its voice, which they said compared in intensity with a steamboat whistle."

... to those who live in the City

The farm front needs your help:

Right in your own district there are farms that need your help this summer and fall.

The crops are coming in — crops needed for the Armed Forces, for the Empire, for our Allies and for our people at home. The farmers cannot get them in alone. They're relying on you to help them do it.

Make arrangements now to spend at least part of this harvest season in the healthful, congenial surroundings of a farm. The change will be good for you. You will be paid regular wages for your time. If you are not in essential work, try to spend as much time as possible this harvest season on Canada's farms.

Canada's farms need YOU!

WHAT TO DO:

Consult any special local committee or office established to deal with farm labour placements in your town or city

ARRIVES IN ENGLAND

Dr. and Mrs. D. W. Clarke have received a cable announcing the safe arrival overseas of their son, Sgt. Pilot Grant Clarke.

SAFE ARRIVAL.

Mr. and Mrs. William Robertson of Marmora, have received a cable from their son Ray, announcing his safe arrival overseas with a Canadian contingent.

USE THE BORDEAUX

For the crop of late potatoes, the Ontario Department of Agriculture suggests a spraying or dusting with Bordeaux mixture as cheap insurance against late blight. Victory gardeners probably have some remnant Bordeaux which should be used as a protection in the final stage of maturing of the late crop.

LEFT CANADA.

Gnr. John David O'Brien, son of Mr. and Mrs. Pat O'Brien, 51 Wolsley Street, who is yith an anti-aircraft unit, is in Sicily. He arrived in England in January of 1943 and prior to that was employed for three years at Chown's Hardware Store. A brother, AB Edward M. O'Brien of the R.C.N.V.R., is home on leave.

CITY HALL PLANNING

The members of the city council's committee appointed to consider properties suitable as site of Peterborough's city hall which is to be built from the funds provided by the late W. George Morrow, are Aldermen Bradburn and Sullivan and City Treasurer Shaver.

The council last night decided to enquire from the Utilities Commission, Board of Education and Separate School Board whether they wished to have accommodation in the proposed city hall.

WOUNDED.

Pte. R. Donald Stapely, 22, son of Cpl. and Mrs. Oliver Stapely of Stirling, has been wounded in Sicily, according to word received by his parents. He enlisted with the Hastings-Prince Edward Regiment, early in 1940.

FIRE REPORT.

Firemen had an opportunity after a week's lay-off, to practise their technique this morning, when at 11.30 an alarm called out the fire truck to East City. It was a case of overheated pipes at 283 Armour Road, residence of Mrs. W. C. Peters, and no damage was done.

TAKES MONTH IN JAIL

Manson Lindsay pleaded guilty before Magistrate E. A. Gee in police court this morning to a charge of having been drunk. He also admitted a previous conviction for the same offence and was fined $50 with the alternative of a month in jail. He intimated that he would not be able to raise the money for the fine. "So you will have to board it out or work it out," commented the Magistrate.

GASOLINE RATIONS BOOKS STOLEN

A St. Thomas man, the representative of a Toronto nursery firm, found himself in a jam here this morning when he discovered that sneak thieves had stolen his two gasoline ration coupon books from his parked car. He reported the theft to the police department and the co-operation of W. E. Foley, head of the local Wartime Prices and Trade Board was sought. Mr. Foley authorized the issuing of enough gasoline to the traveller to get him back to Toronto.

Fewer Recruits Turned Down In Navy List

OTTAWA, Aug. 20 — (CP). — Navy Minister Macdonald said in a statement to-day that fewer candidates for entry into the Royal Canadian Navy are being rejected on medical grounds than any time since the war began, although requirements have been kept at a high standard.

The Minister said that of the prospective recruits examined during May, June and July of this year only 9.6 per cent failed to meet the required standard and the percentage of medical rejects has shown a consistent downward trend since the naval service took over the conduct of medical examinations for its recruits.

Before May, 1941, medical examinations were conducted under various auspices, including private physicians, and no statistics covering medical rejections are available. In the period immediately following May, 1941, 11.8 per cent of candidates were rejected—more than two per cent above the rate shown by the latest figures.

Mr. Macdonald, quoting a report of Surgeon Capt. A. McCallum, Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve, Medical Director General of the R.C.N. said that for the entire period between May 1, 1941 and July 1, 1943, the percentage of candidates rejected on medical grounds was 10.2 per cent.

Defective vision is the greatest single cause of rejection among candidates for entry into the R.C.N., and nearly 25 per cent of the total rejected are turned down for that reason.

Taxi-Operator Faces Charge

John Drummond, local taxi-operator, was charged in police court this morning with a breach of the transport regulations, the indictment alleging that he had operated his taxi at a greater distance than 15 miles from Peterborough.

Drummond entered a plea of not guilty and W. F. Huycke, K.C., who is prosecuting the case informed the court that a necessary witness was out of the city and that he would be unable to proceed this morning.

"Try and not make it the week of the Lindsay Fair," the Magistrate warned.

By consent the case was adjourned until September 13.

No Snooker, Girls

GANANOQUE, Aug. 20. — (CP). — Two Gananoque girls, not content to wear male-style slacks and take ougr machines in factories, have attempted to invade the sole remaining masculine outpost — the town's pool room. The two girls sauntered nonchalantly into the room, selected cues and prepared for a game of snooker. However, the manager managed to steer the women out by raising the price to prohibitive levels.

Resort Owners Report Bumper Season

It is no surprise to anybody in this part of the country that American tourist traffic has probably established something of a record low. In fact, the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce says, the influx of good neighbors from south of the border is barely half the volume of last year. But there are some people who have had their big surprise—and a pleasant one it was—at the way things have turned out nonetheless. They are the folks most directly concerned with the prosperity of the tourist trade, the owners of resort hotels, of cottages and camp sites.

Looking over the shape of things to come, many proprietors in the spring were undecided whether to open at all, the Board of Commerce tells us. They knew there would be few Americans. Gasoline rationing, restrictions on pleasure driving in the Eastern States, and the urgent tempo of war-work were going to take care of that. And if the Americans didn't come, who would come to take their place? Well, now they have found out.

Canadians came. They came and kept coming, they took up the slack caused by the conspicuous absence of the American trade, and the same hotels and lodges that weren't going to open up because of lack of business are now fuller than they ever were before. Many Canadians are looking over the lake district for the first time, and finding out about many of its beauties and its secret attractions that veteran travellers from afar have been acquainted with for years.

Business Aplenty

The last two months have meant big business for resort proprietors, hotels and lodges are well filled, private cottages are well rented, and at present it is difficult to make reservations, the Chamber of Commerce says. Owners of some places are planning on staying open till late in September.

As the surprise of seeing their doleful expectations scattered to the winds wore off, resort managers began to encounter troubles of another kind. It was the help situation, which the Chamber of Commerce describes as "terrible." Manpower requirements for essential industries and agriculture have not left much for hotel operators to staff their resorts with, and consequently they a·› having quite a time of it keeping their busy establishments on a going basis. But all of them are going to stay open.

Bglr. Buddy Runions Reported Wounded

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 20 (ENS) —Mrs. Carmi Runions has been advised that her son, Bugler Buddy Edward Runions, has been wounded in action.

Bugler Runions went overseas with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment in February, 1940, and prior to that he worked in Campbellford. His injury is believed to have occurred while he was serving in Sicily but the message received by Mrs. Runions did not state this.

When he enlisted in 1940 he was placed in the same regiment as his father, Pte. Carmi Runions, who had signed up as soon as war was declared and had already arrived overseas. Pte. Carmi Runions returned to Canada in January, 1941, and is at present with the District Depot Band at Kingston. Both Bugler Buddy and a brother, Pte. Bill, were in France in 1940 and now they are together again in Sicily.

Council Agrees To $24-$30 Housing Terms

"We are here to get as reasonable terms as we can for the city," said Alderman Gordon in presenting a motion, which Alderman Bradburn seconded, at last night's special meeting of the council, asking Wartime Housing Limited to increase by $10 a house the amounts which the company proposed to pay annually instead of levied taxes, for the services supplied by the city.

The company offered $24 on each of its smaller houses and $30 on each of its larger houses containing more than two bedrooms. The Gordon-Bradburn rates would, therefore, be moved up to $34 and $40 respectively.

The motion was defeated on a 6-4 division on a Dutton-Swanston amendment to accept the company's terms.

Those voting for the amendment were Alderman Dutton, Swanston, Sullivan, Cotton, Glover and Sands; and opposing were Alderman Bradburn, Gordon, Curtis and Mark.

"We ought to get more, but I don't see how we can," was Alderman Dutton's comment.

Mayor Hamilton said that Wartime Housing Limited was a temporary housing agency, acting for the Dominion government in the emergency of providing accommodation for war workers, and they did not expect to pay for municipal capital charges. One of the members jokingly but also correctly remarked that capital charges would include payment of the debenture charges on the Hunter street bridge.

"While we are arguing about what we are willing to ccept from Wartime Housing," said Alderman Dutton, "some other cities have got their money. At this rate things may end, and Peterborough might not get as much as we are holding out for."

Not Being Fair

When Mayor Hamilton declared the motion lost, Alderman Bradburn said "I don't think we are being fair to the taxpayers of Peterborough."

An element in his objection was that while Wartime Housing could build a lot of houses and set their terms of payment to the municipality, private citizens had to pay the full amount of taxes on the houses they construct in the same period.

The council was deliberating on a proposed agreement with the company, and finally passed it with several amendments.

One of the clauses provides a dollar a year for each house to pay for street lighting. Its text is—"The Company agrees to pay to the municipality in each year the sum of one dollar in respect of each house in consideration of the municipality supplying the necessary street lighting to the reasonable satisfaction of His Majesty or the Company."

The council inserted a period after the word "lighting," leaving the qualifying phrase at "necessary street lighting."

Another clause provides for termination of the agreement "upon three months' notice in writing sent to the municipality by registered mail," and shall in any event terminate as to all of the living accommodation six months after the date of the publication in The Canada Gazette of a proclamation by the Governor-General in Council that the hostilities in which His Majesty is presently engaged have ceased.

A New Angle

Alderman Bradburn said there might be an armistice extending two or three years, "and there would be no war production and the houses would remain standing there."

Another clause provides that "except with the consent of the municipality, His Majesty will not sell or convey (except by lease for a term which does not exceed the term of this agreement) any of the buildings comprising the living accommodation while the same is situated on the said lands."

Adoption of the agreement with the several amendments was moved by Alderman Gordon, seconded by Alderman Glover, and was recommended for execution.

Double Hanging Completed Today

MONTREAL, Aug. 20—(CP)—In a dougle hanging at the Montreal jail early today, Lucien Valiquette, 25, and Roger Beaudoin, 21, paid for the murder last Nov. 25 of a nightwatchman, robbed of his $20 pay envelope by his attackers.

The murdered man was Francois Mingan, 62-year-old employee of the east-end plant of the Guaranteed Pure Milk Company.

Police testified in court that Valiquette had been picked up in a stolen car an hour and a half before the slaying was actually reported while Beaudoin was taken prisoner several hours later.

Each accused the other of the killing but both were found guilty of the crime at separate trials; Valiquette in February and Beaudoin in May.

Exciting Game

sending Burton to third. Stewart bounded to Dalton, the runners being held and Ellie lined a hot one right at Anderson.

The Soldiers got a soft one in their half to take the lead again. Anderson hoisted an easy fly to left centre but Stewart and Burton got their signals crossed and allowed the ball to drop between them, the play going for a triple. McIlveen rolled to Crowe and Anderson scored on the out. McKerrigan scratched a hit to short and Dalton hit to Ellis who threw to second for a force play on McKerrigan and Heal dropped the ball. Wilson got out of the hole, however, by fanning Mason and getting Herrick on a pop-up.

The Battery came back to tie it up in the seventh. At the beginning of the inning Dalton was tossed out of the game because Umpire Dormer declared that he had purposely thrown the ball away. Lanahan replaced him on third. Heal beat out a bunt. Crowe bunted for a sacrifice and was safe when the throw to first got away from Morgan, Heal going to third. Burton bounded to Lanahan, Heal going home on the play. Starr fouled to McIlveen and Stewart rolled to Lanahan.

That was the last scoring of the game although the Soldiers threatened in the last of the eighth when they filled the bases on Mortimer's single to right and passes to Anderson and McIlveen but with two out McKerrigan rolled one to Vitarelli who touched third to force Anderson and saved the round for the Battery.

Beloved Cleric, Chaplain Dies In London

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 20 (CP) — The Rev. William Beattie, 70, C.M.G., distinguished churchman and soldier, whose humanitarianism brought help to thousands of unemployed in Ontario, died at his home here last night.

One of the city's best known and most beloved men, Col. Beattie served throughout World War One as chaplain of the Canadian Second Infantry Battalion, C.E.F. In 1915 he was promoted to the rank of senior chaplain of the 2nd Division and in 1917 he became assistant director of the Canadian chaplain service. The following year he became director, with the rank of honorary colonel. He was mentioned in dispatches twice and in 1916 was awarded the C.M.G.

Although the padre's good deeds were legion, his name will be remembered mostly among those who were his companions during 1914-18. When that war ended he became active in veterans' organizations and he has been padre of the London Originals' Club since its formation.

Col. Beattie was born in Fergus on April 11, 1873, a son of William and Georgina (Black) Beattie, and was educated at the University of Toronto, Knox College (D.D.) and the United Free Church College at Glasgow, Scotland. Following ordination he was minister for some years at St. Andrew's church, Cobourg, and then came to this city to First Presbyterian church.

Before coming here Col. Beattie was chaplain and honorary major of the 40th Regiment, Northumberland Rifles Canadian Militia. He became a familiar figure at various memorial services and parades and was proud to be known as "one of the boys."

City Decides To Discuss Annexation

Discussion of the proposed annexation by the city of a contiguous strip of North Monaghan entered another preliminary and tentative stage with the appointment of Aldermen Gordon, Sands and Swanston by Mayor Hamilton at a special meeting last night to confer with the township's representatives, Reeve M. H. Johnston, Deputy Reeve A. W. Archibald and Councillor James S. Roberts.

This was the second sitting of the city council within a week, presumably indicating its desire to facilitate negotiations with the township which in their next phase will be directed toward the further preliminaries of investigation into such involved matters as assessment, debenture obligations, school requirements, community services, boundaries and other questions pertaining to the suggested transfer of part of one municipality to the other.

Alderman Gordon's motion, authorizing Mayor Hamilton to name a committee to meet the representatives of the township, was seconded by Alderman Cotton, and unanimously adopted by the council.

Its duty, as generally prescribed by Alderman Gordon, is "to investigate and report back."

The constituent groups of the intermunicipal committee will report to their respective councils, thereby completing the detail of enquiry. It is expected that the next step would be assent by each council to the proposed annexation, and City Solicitor Huycke said that North Monaghan may have to submit the question of a vote of all the electors of the township, and also that as a further safeguard of individual rights the Ontario Municipal Board requires a public hearing of any persons who may be opposed to incorporation in the city of part of their township, especially residents of the area which has yet to be definitely agreed upon in the preliminaries of negotiation.

Council Not Bound

Alderman Bradburn said he was satisfied with the motion because present approval of conference did not prejudice future action by the council or any of its members. In undertaking to meet the Monaghan representatives the city council was not binding itself to any subsequent course and decision.

A letter from Bruce Johnston, clerk of North Monaghan, acknowledged receipt of City Clerk Outram's information to the effect that the city declined to begin further discussions without some more definite propposition of annexation coming from the township.

The city's action was followed by another meeting of the township council, according to Mr. Johnston's letter which removed last night the city council's objection to being placed in a position of seeming to initiate the consideration of annexation.

Township Letter

Mr. Johnston wrote to the effect that Wartime Housing Limited had forwarded to the township a cpoy of the company's request to the city to admit within its boundaries the Hatton property and also the smaller area on Monaghan Road on which the staff house has been erected. On the strength of that proposal the township asked the city for consideration of annexing a larger area which is presently outlined, as previously suggested from several sources, including a representative of the Department of Municipal Affairs, as follows, on the south by Highway No. 7, the extension of Lansdowne street; on the east by Monaghan Road to the Prince of Wales School (already in the city) Grandview avenue, Sherbrooke street, Monaghan Road to Charlotte street, Albertus avenue to Weller street.

On the west by Western avenue to Highway No. 28 to College street as far north as Weller street, and on the north by Weller street.

For a round table discussion of the township's letter, Alderman Gordon suggested that the council go into committee of the whole with Mayor Hamilton in the chair "to get rid of the rule limiting members to speaking on the subject."

Intricate Problem

Alderman Gordon said that the joint committee would be confronted with a probably complicated problem relating to assessments and property values, cost of education, some settlement of liability of the annexed area for township debentures, the essential matter of the limits of the area to be taken in by the city, and various other incidental matters of more or less importance. When this joint committee completed its work, it would then be up to the city council whether it wished to proceed, on its part, with the proposed annexation.

Alderman Dutton remarked that the council had first to decide whether it was willing to go ahead through the present stage. If that disposition did not exist, "then there is no use of us going any further." He said the residents of the western suburb worked in the city, did business in the city and were in many respects part of it. "They may in fact have a certain moral claim on us."

The township council felt that it could not provide the services which that western area should have, Alderman Dutton continued. "How long will it be before the township council finds itself in a similar position regarding its eastern section (south of Lansdowne street and west of the Otonabee River).

Alderman Curtis repeated his objection "that North Monaghan Wants to unload that western section on us." As far as the city was concerned, he added, it would be more advisable to be considering the annexation of the southeast district.

Alderman Swanston, Sands and Gordon accepted the assignment from Mayor Hamilton, but Alderman Gordon requested that he be relieved of the chairmanship of the fuel committee. Alderman Glover was appointed to the fuel post.

Vacant Farms Problem For Legislators

In Eastern Canada are between 12,000 and 13,000 farms, covering about one and one-half million acres, which have been abandoned and have been idle for some time. This condition exists despite the fact that many thousands of acres of new wooded land have been cleared and settled in some parts of Eastern Canada during the last ten years, states P. C. Stobbe, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

Should this abandoned land, which to a large extent has already been cleared of its forest, be used for land settlement purposes instead of clearing new land of its original forest cover? In order to answer this question satisfactorily a very careful survey of each individual piece of abandoned property must be made and the reasons why it was abandoned studied.

Many farms were abandoned because the land was originally submarginal for agricultural purposes and no farmer could be expected to make a satisfactory living on such land after the forest resources were exhausted. On other farms the land, although originally of fair quality, has been gradually exhausted by unsound farm practices. Some farms had to be vacated because the acreage of suitable farm land was too small to provide a livelihood for the farmer.

The farms which have been abandoned for the reasons given are almost invariably poor prospects for future settlers. Such land, in most cases, if of greater value to the state and the individual if it is left to revert to forest. In some cases it may even be advisable to assist nature by planting young tree seedlings.

It should be observed that many farms located on good soils have been abandoned for various personal, social and economic reasons. The right type settler could make a good home and build up a sound, economic enterprise on such land if he had the opportunity, and so it would be very much easier to become established on some of these farms than to clear new forest land and bring it under cultivation.

Can't Change Contract

TORONTO, Aug. 20.—(CP).—Rt. Rev. James C. McGuigan, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Toronto, last night in a statement to the Toronto Trades and Labor Council, said contract for construction of a Separate school in York township now was underway and couldn't be changed. Recently the council had protested to the Archbishop over letting of the contract to a company employing union labor.

City Purchases Fuelwood At Close Price

In accepting a place on the North Monaghan joint committee, Alderman Gordon requested Mayor Hamilton last night to relieve him of the work of the recently appointed Fuel Committee.

Mayor Hamilton asked for volunteers, and after several of the members had protested that they were too busy to assume the worries of the fuel campaign, Alderman Glover agreed to fill the gap, saying that he had already been trying to assist Mr. Metheral.

Alderman Gordon's committee report was adopted with his comment and commendation that "I have really been surprised at the progress Mr. Metheral has made. He has been rustling up more wood than I thought was in the north country. He is purchasing at the best price he can get, and close to the prices paid by the dealers. As we said before, we are not going into the wood business, but the Council is anxious to be of help to citizens who are going to need wood.

On some of the wood we may have to take a little loss. We have to pay for it and the handling and hauling. We would like to get the figure to the point where there would be no loss. I have written for advice as to how far we can go. In reporting to the Council, I may say that Mr. Metheral has done exceptionally well, and it would have been a far different story if we had got into this work early in the year. However, the committee set out to do the best it could."

The Council approved the committee recommendation that Mr. Metheral "be authorized to buy wood at the best prices he can in view of the present trend of the market."

Other suggestions which the Council endorsed designated the Rink and George Street lot for a municipal wood yard, and that Garfield Torrance, clerk of the Board of Works yard, be responsible for measuring the wood as it is delivered, and to issue receipts for the correct measurement; and that City Treasurer Shaver be authorized to issue cheques in payment for the wood on the certificate of Mr. Torrance.

Several other ideas related to subsidy and application for it.

Hockey Moguls Block Transfers

PORT ARTHUR, Aug. 20 (CP)—Restrictions on the movement of Canada's younger hockey players were announced today by Frank Sargent, president of the C.A.H.A., as a result of conferences held recently at Toronto.

No branch to branch transfers will be granted to juveniles, bantams, or midgets, unless a player can qualify for a transfer as follows:

(a) Player whose parents and family change their residence and the player continues to reside with his family;

(b) Bona fide students in attendance at any recognized preparatory school, university or college, provided that they be in residence at such institution by January 6.

No transfer, however, will be granted a student if there should be a school, of equal status in the town or city in which he now resides to the one which he plans to attend.

All transfers must be approved by the registration committee of the C.A.H.A. before being granted, and if a player should have obtained his release from his former club, it does not necessarily mean a transfer will be granted.

War Veteran Dies

TORONTO, Aug. 20—(CP)—Funeral services will be held tomorrow for Percy C. West, veteran of the First Great War and member of the Passenger Traffic Department of the Canadian National Railways for the past 16 years, who died in hospital after a lengthy illness.

Recently he was appointed passenger traffic representative at Barriefield military camp, Kingston.

He is survived by his widow and a daughter, Jean Margaret.

Parents Take Queer Attitude Toward Children Marrying—Some Think They Have Nothing To Do Toward Aiding Youths to Happy Wedded Life.

There is nothing more curious and inexplicable than the attitude that most parents take towards their children's marriages. They know that nearly all young people fall in love and get married. They know tht marriage is the turning point of a man and woman and that it either makes them or mars them. They know that the whole happiness and well-being of their sons and daughters depends upon the kind of wives and husbands they get.

Yet they act as if this momentous thing could never happen to their children and that if it does, it is a mysterious dispensation of Providence, like being struck by lightning, with which they have nothing to do.

Parents Shirk Their Duty

They accept no responsibility about it. They wash their hands of the whole matter and seem to consider that they have nothing to do with helping their children to make good marriages, or preventing them from making bad ones. This is a cowardly shirking of a most important duty, for parents are under as much obligation to help their children get well setted in matrimony as they are to help them get well settled in business.

Apparently the whole subject of their children's marriage throws fathers and mothers into a panic in which they take leave of their senses and do the stupidest things imaginable. They forget, for instance, that propinquity is the great match-maker, and that if you throw any girl and boy together constantly it is almost certain that they will fall in love with each other. Oh, at any rate, that they will think they are in love with each other long enough to get married.

Yet, ignoring this almost basic matrimonial fact, mothers will invite pretty girl relatives, or girls of different social strata, or girls of different religious faith, to pay them long visits, though they would rather see their sons dead than married to them. Of they will give some handsome. hopeless derelict the run of the house, and then be perfectly horrified when John and Sally, or Mary and Bob appear before them and ask for their blessing.

Mother Seldom Realizes True Situation

The mother's alibi when John wants to marry the pretty chamber-maid, or aMry elopes with the stunning chauffeur, or Sally casts in her lot with the impecunious student to whom father is giving board to help him through college, is that she never dreamed they would fall in love with each other. But they nearly always do, and the safe thing is never to allow any young person in your home that you wouldn't be willing to have your child marry.

There are the equally stupid parents who want their children to marry, and who especially want their daughters to marry, but who never give them a chance. They never give their girls any pretty clothes and never take them any place where they will have a chance of meeting desirable men. And then they wonder that they are old maids.

And can you think of a more criminal thing than that half of the fathers don't even know the young men by sight whom their daughters are going to marry until Mary or Sally appears holding a sheeplish youth by the hand, and says: "Father, here is your future son-in-law." Why, father ought to be on the job from the time Mary or Sally has her first date and have an accurate line on the morals and manners and business ability of every lad who comes to the house.

Father Could Prevent Bad Matches

If he did this before the girls fell in love, he would get in his work and tell them just what boys were petticoat-chasers, which drank too much, which played the races, and which were shiftless and lazy, and many a miserable match would be prevented.

But father doesn't do it. Oh, dear, no. Very often he doesn't even taken the trouble to make a single inquiry as to who or what the young man is, or whether there are any mortgages on his past or not. He wouldn't sell a man a hundred-dollar bill of goods without finding out his rating, but he will let his daughter marry a man without knowing a singe thing about him.

And when parents try to break off a amtch, look how stupidly they do it, with what lack of finesse! Their only weapon seems to be violent oppostiion, which serves only to hurry up the wedding, whereas by the use of a little diplomacy they could break off every marriage that isn't a real love marriage, and that should be broken off.

Of course, in this country we scorn match-making parents, but, believe me, we need them.

C.W.A.C. Brass Band to Parade in Peterborough

The Pipe and Brass bands of the C.W.A.C. will arrive in Peterborough Thursday, August 26th, on their province-wide tour celebrating the second anniversary of the Corps' foundation. Only all-girl active service band of its kind, the organization is touring the country in the interests of recruiting.

The bands, whose personnel numbers 28, are coming to the city from Kingston and they will march from the Armouries at 7.30 p.m. Thursday, parading down George street to Charlotte, out Charlotte to Aylmer, then north on Aylmer to Hunter and over Hunter to Riverside Park.

The arrival of the C.W.A.C. bands coincides with the opening night of the Kiwanis Carnival, which will be held in Riverside Park. Parading with the bands through the business district and out to the park there will be some 175 Kiwanis-sponsored Sea Cadets, dressed in their whites and fresh from two weeks healthy outdoor training on Minnicog Island.

At the Carnival, the band will play an hour's concert, from 8 to 9, and Friday will go to Lindsay for a parade which will take place at noon. In the afternoon a concert will be played in Lindsay from the bandstand in front of the Armouries, and in the evening the C.W.A.C. bands will return to Peterborough to entrain for Kingston.

This Weeks Wartime Recipe

Contributed By Mary Moore Readers

DEAR MARY MOORE: I was one of eleven children and was bought up in the Midlands of England. Over there tripe and brains are well-thought of foods and over here they are overlooked to say the least. I like to think I have taught two or three families to like them thus conserve their meat coupons and money, so I am sending 2 recipes on to you and hope you will print them so that other people can try them.

Beef Brains and Scrambled Eggs

(Contributed by Mrs. O. Moyer)

One and one-half cups cut up beef brains (very fresh), 1 tablespoon butter or drippings, 2 tablespoons minced parsley, 1 teaspoon grated onion, 3 eggs, 2 teaspoons salt, 4 slices toast. Soak brains in cold salted water ½ hour. Skin and remove the fibre. Cut or chop into small pieces. Put in frying pan in which butter or drippings, onion and parsley have been heated. Stir until brains are cooked 10 minutes. Add eggs beaten with 2 tablespoons cold water. Cook over moderate fire and stir until set. Season and serve on toast garished with parsley and paprika.

Tripe Oysters

(Contributed by Mrs. Omar Moyer)

One pound fresh well washed beef tripe, salt and pepper. Fine cracker or bread crumbs, 1 egg beaten, 2 tablespoons cold water. Clean tripe should be bought and simmered 1½ hours in water to cover. Drain Sprinkle with salt and pepper and cut into pieces size of an oyster. Dip in crumbs, then in beaten egg to which add cold water, dip in crumbs again. Fry in hot lard at 350 deg. Fahr. until golden.

Thanks Mrs. Moyer, don't wait so long to write next time.

HAVELOCK

Showers Given Mary Thomas

HAVELOCK, Aug. 20 (ENS) — Two pre-nuptial showers were held this week in honor of Miss Mary Thomas, prior to her marriage on Saturday in Toronto.

On Tuesday evening Mrs. Ross Brown was hostess at a miscellaneous shower when about 35 guests attended. The rooms were attractively decorated with pink and white streamers and cut flowers. Court-whist was enjoyed, with Mrs. R. Jones winning the first prize and Miss Winnie Williams second, after which several games of Bingo were played with Mrs. Herb Williams winning the prize.

During the playing of the bridal chorus, a mock bride entered the room, followed by two little flower girls, Lois Wilde and Sandra Vansickle, who presented the bride-to-be with a decorated basket of assorted gifts. Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. T. Page, Mrs. E. Williams and Mrs. J. Wilde.

Mrs. Randall Vansickle also entertained for Miss Thomas, when 22 guests attended. During the evening progressive Bingo was played, with Miss Violet Scott and Mrs. James Wilde the winners. A contest, the "Bride's Fortune" was won by Miss Doris Archer of Timmins.

Miss Thomas was later presented with a beautiful crystal-base table lamp. A delicious lunch was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. D. Archer and Mrs. E. Williams.

Visitor Presents Magic Show

GORE'S LANDING, Aug. 20 — (ENS)—"A Magic Show" was put on by Mr. T. D. McGaw of "Kittiwake" on Wednesday evening in the United Church Hall. Misses Shirley Drope and Merle Kelly of Harwood sang two numbers. Mr. Milton Ames was chairman.

Mr. McGaw's gift of producing flags and large bouquets of flowers from nowhere delighted the large audience. A clever rope trick with a supposedly solid block of wood was one of the first items on his program followed by a tin box with wooden blocks and numbers which miraculously changed in another person's hands; snipping a paper strip in two and when unfolded it still remained intact; with four assistants from the audience ribbon streamers tied with handkerchiefs magically became untied; card tricks and finally a Hitler and Churchill paper trick were excellently done and quite enjoyed.

Bonarlaw News

Archie Lyons of Lac Vert, Sask., left on Monday evening of this week for his home in Saskatchewan after spending the summer assisting Ronald Brown with the farm work here.

Miss Emma McInroy of Oshawa is visiting her grandfather, Peter Quackenbush for a couple of weeks.

Mr. Jesse Barlow of Crowe Lake was in Bonarlaw recently.

Dinner guests at Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Barlow's on Friday evening last were Mrs. Fred Barnum, Mrs. Percy Oddie, and Mrs. Allan Watson of Campbellford and Mrs. John S. McKeown of 12th line Rawdon.

LOOSE TALK.

"There is much loose thinking and loose talking about the hardships and inconveniences of war restrictions or shortages. We cannot afford in wartime to be sentimental and soft-headed," Donald Gordon, Prices Board chairman, told the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association.

The topper topped two-piece frock or suit is going to be the favorite outdoors outfit of girls all over the land judging from store sales and expressed preferences of shoppers. Pretty Joan Leslie subscribes to this type of costume and here she is photographed in her new early autumn outfit. The suit consists of a black skirt and a striped black and white jacket with a white collar. The topper is a short box coat of mustard colored wool geared to go with any color. A black felt diadem hat and black suede shoes complete the costume.

THE STARS SAY ....

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, August 21

WHILE THERE are conflicting configurations in this day's lunar aspect yet there are excellent opportunities for success, happiness and many private satisfactions. The chief joys may be found in heart interests, social or artistic achievements or recognition, or other creative expression attracting attention of sudden and surprising force. However, there is a proclivity to undue extravagance, excess or turbulent demonstrations of temper which might negate the fullest measure of gratification and enjoyment.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is have excellent promise for success and happiness, with a surprising opportunity for a lucrative and uncommon expression of creative art or scientific invention. However, there are hints of some public or group lack of endorsement or co-operation, which a display of temper would but aggravate. Refrain from all sorts of excess and extravagance in word and deed. Romantic, social, domestic and affectional associations should culminate happily. Artistic or literary efforts are encouraged.

A child born on this day may have artistic or literary talent of real worth, being original and uncommon. It may also be musical. An inclination to impetuosity, extravagance and excesses should be given early discipline.

Campbell-Grice

The chapel of St. George's Anglican church was the scene of a pretty wedding recently, when Phyllis, daughter of Mrs. Bruce and the late John Bruce of Oshawa, become the bride of Charles Harry Campbell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Campbell of Harwood. Rev. David Rose performed the ceremony amid a setting of pale pink and white gladioli.

Given in marriage by her mother, the bride wore a becoming two-piece ensemble of heavenly blue crepe, white hat and accessories, and carried a nosegay of roses and sweet peas. Mrs. Ray Stevenson was her attendant and was attired in a two-piece frock of light navy blue with white accessories, and a nosegay of roses and sweet peas. Mr. Ross E. Mosley was groomsman.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, 36 Division street, which was decorated with gladioli and sweet peas. Mrs. Grice wore a gown of pearl grey with mauve accessories and a corsage of roses and sweet peas.

Mrs. C. Campbell, mother of the groom, wore a navy and white gown with blue accessories and a corsage of roses and sweet peas. During the toast to the bride and groom, two cables of congratulations were received from the bride's brothers, Peter and Harold Grice, now overseas.

Mr. and Mrs. Campbell left later on a wedding trip to Tally-Ho Inn, Huntsville. For travelling the bride wore a navy corded silk suit, white accessories and a corsage of roses. On their return they will live at 277 William street, Oshawa.

Norwegian Ways Shown to Brides OF R.N.A.F. Men

By ERIC SANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

TORONTO, Aug. 20 — (CP). — School days have become a reality again for a number of Toronto brides. They and several other young women are learning the way of life, manner, customs, and geography of Norway — the country they hope will be their home after the war.

The pupils, mostly working girls, married or engaged to members of the Royal Norwegian Air Force, attend informal classes at the home of Mrs. E. Frank Hinch, daughter of Carl J. Printz, former Norwegian Consul, Toronto. The "school" held indoors in inclement weather but otherwise in the garden, began a little over a year ago "quite unscheduled," says Mrs. Hinch.

"I had been arranging dances for the boys from Little Norway, the Norwegian Air Force training camp near Toronto, getting them girls for partners as well as darning their socks," she said. "The girls could not speak Norwegian, but took an interest in their boy friends and wanted to learn their language. About 10 of them approached officials at the University of Toronto on the prospects of starting a course there, but were told that at least 20 were necessary before classes could be arranged.

Eager to Learn.

"The girls told me of their plight and I realized there was a need so started my first lessons last winter. I told the girls I was not a teacher but that I would do my best. I prepared my lessons and 13 girls began the first class. They were all eager to learn about Norway, including the food, customs, sport, and everything I knew....

"Well, as that class advanced, other girls became interested, and soon I had another class of 10 started. Altogether 35 girls completed my course last winter." Most of them now are engaged or married to Norwegian airmen.

A new class of 10 began an 18-week course August 11, meeting for the first time in the garden and another clas of 10 starts August 28.

"I don't take too many at one time," Mrs. Hinch said, "as it is much easier to train them in the smaller groups."

The girls are told to ask any questions they wish, and Mrs. Hinch said she does her best to answer them. On top of this she has drawn up lessons and some pamphlets about the history and geography of Norway which the girls are given to read. Classes are held one evening a week, although one group of six at present meets in the afternoon.

An Apt Pupil.

Mrs. Hinch said Barbara Gibson of Toronto learned very quickly, and now helps her teach others "especially with the pronunciation." Another girl, Phyllis Cox, also of Toronto, now is working at the Norwegian Air Force headquarters here, where she is required to speak the language.

Mrs. Hinch was born in Oslo, and came to Canada 30 years ago, but has since made several trips to Europe. She speaks six languages fluently—German, French, Norwegian, Swedish, Danish, and English. Her husband is an electrical engineer with the Ontario Hydro Commission and her two sons are in the Air Force, one is chief navigational officer at the Hagersville, Ont., R.C.A.F. school and the other is training to be a pilot at Little Norway.

MEN! IT'S A SELLERS' MARKET. Here is your chance to cash in. If you're aggressive, are military exempt and have a car or other means of transportation, you can make real money as a Watkins Dealer. Due to scarcity of materials and containers, many established concerns are going out of business to-dy, but WATKINS MEN are setting all-time highs in sales and profits. That's because of this Company's international buying power which makes it possible for Watkins representatives to offer a wide range of Everyday Home and Farm Necessities and such outstanding values as a pound of Prepared Mustard for 10c and 11 ounces of Menthol Camphor Liniment for a dime! Don't pass up this big opportunity. Established rural routes available. For full particulars write to-day to The J. R. Watkins Company, Dept. O-P-2A, Montreal, Que.

PRETTY SHABBY REWARD

SOMETIMES the most beautiful kind of play meets the shabbiest reward, in that it is only for the sake of limiting a foreordained loss. Just as fine work is done by declarers in hopeless contracts as in those which they manage to make. But it does not stand out so spectacularly, and often goes unnoticed by all except very keen students of what is being done. Superlative play in such a doomed cause, however, is one of the marks of a real bridge player

You couldn't ask a better example of the importance of distribution. South had six top cards in clubs, but could get only three tricks with them, also five in diamonds, but could score only three there. Additional little cards in either suit in declarer's or dummy's hand could have made the grand slam easy. As it was, however, only 11 tricks were in sight. There was a play for 12, but none whatever for 13 unless the defenders would revoke.

Winning the spade Q lead with the K, South took three high hearts, but they didn't break. Now he would have gone down two tricks if he hadn't figured out a play in spades which would limit the loss to one. Three clubs and three diamonds were played to strip out those suits and then the spade 5 was led. West came in with the 10, and—now for the nice little play in this deal—the spade 9 was played from dummy.

West had to play now from his J-7 into the A-8, so that South got the last two tricks. If on the throw-in play, the spade 6 had had been played from dummy, and West returned the 7, the 9 could have won it in dummy, but then the heart 3 would have lost the final trick to East's J. If South had overtaken that 9 with his A, he then would have had to give up the 8 to West's J on the last trick. So the unblocking play of that 9 was the key to limiting the loss to down one.

How should South play for 5-Diamonds on this deal after West, who had made a spade overcall during the auction, leads the K of his suit?

HAVELOCK

WomenTeachers Given Salary Raise

HAVELOCK, Aug. 20 (ENS). — The matter of increasing salaries was the chief subject of discussion at the School Board meeting on Monday night.

The new teacher hired on the Public School staff to replace Mrs. Gordon Miles, who resigned last month, is Miss Vivian McDermaid, Colborne, at a salary of $1,000. It was generally felt that the other lady teachers on the staff who had more experience to their credit, should have a raise in salary. Trustees Young and Sarginson moved that all the lady teachers on the staff have their salaries increased to $1,000.

The secretary, Mrs. Dorothy McMillan requested an increase in her salary, and on motion by Trustees Miller and Plunkett the secretary's salary was raised $25.

Caretaker Robert Buchanan stated he was not satisfied with his salary and asked for an increase. On motion by Trustees Sarginson and Young, an increase of $50 was granted.

More About Cadets

Chairman Smith reported for Mr. Goheen that the matter of the school adopting the air cadets was not settled yet, since this training would have to be conducted outside of school hours, and Mr. Goheen is to make further inquiries and report at next meeting.

The property committee reported they had inspected the furnace and a new side was needed, and the chairman was to interview Mr. George Hubble regarding the necessary repair; the eave troughing had not been fixed and several panes of glass were broken, all of which are to be attended to before school opens.

More Students

Regarding increasing the attendance in the high school, it was learned there were 10 pupils from around Trent River, and living in West Seymour and Belmont Townships who are desirous of attending school nere if transportation could be arranged, and the secretary was asked to write the Department for full information.

Inspector Copp said he would attend the September meeting, regarding the special classes to be arranged, and secure the proper equipment.

Accounts Paid

The following accounts were ordered paid for month of July: Hydro Commission, $24.41; Principal Jones, postage, $1.12; Principal Goheen, express, 69 cents; Globe and Mail, advertising, $9.24; Paul Dewey, repai'rs, $18.05; J. A. C. Allan, $4.47; Caretaker Buchanan, $70.83; Secretary salary, $6.25; B. Smith, telephone calls, $2.33; Miss McDermad, $1.45; eighteen feet of lead pipe, $4.

August Accounts

Caretaker Buchanan, $70.83; secretary salary, $6.25.

Adjourned to meet September 20.

H.P.E. Regiment Adds To Battle Laurels

By MAJOR BERT S. WEMP, D.F.C.
Telegram War Correspondent
With the Front Line Troops in Sicily

VIA MALTA, Aug. 20—Set the cutters to work! Here are the names to carve in stone and adorn the memorial shafts which some day will rise in Eastern Ontario towns to honor the victors:

GRAMMICHELE
VALGUARNERA
ASSORO
NISSORIA
REGALBUTO
ADRANO

Those names belong, forever, to the heroes of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment of Ontario, for there they won battle honors and glory in the Sicilian campaign.

Over mountains rising three thousand feet in the sky and cliff after cliff five times the height of the Niagara Gorge these lads mercilessly drove the enemy before them and killed or captured those who stood their ground.

Like other Canadian units they had an enemy to conquer and they conquered him.

Recommendations for decorations have gone forward, including the D.S.O., M.C.'s, D.S.M.'s and M.M.'s. Every citation is a case of outstanding heroism.

Test at Grammichele

It was at Grammichele, perched on a 2,000-foot peak, that the regiment met the first German position.

"The Ities had been no resistance," said the C.O. "We simply rolled them up as fast as we could.

"Marching on Grammichele we had no transport, so we literally hitch-hiked on tanks, anti-tank guns, asses and what not. Our B Company Major, W. K. Stockclosser, of Madoc, went to the right of the town as the Germans opened up on us. We cleaned out a thousand Ities and the Germans fled.

"Valguarnera was a stiff fight, up two thousand feet to the peak," said the colonel.

"At nine p.m., just as it became dark, we marched cross country for seven miles through the vilest type of gorges God ever made. We hit fields of cactus 10 and 12 feet high. A Company, led by Captain Alex Campbell, got separated from C Company, under Captain R. O. Cleworth of Oakville. A Company followed a goat path to a farmhouse where they found a farmer and his wife. Their terrific shrieks, thinking they were going to be shot, brought C Company on the run. The lamentations of these wretched people were terrible. The man dressed and led the regiment to a hill overlooking the Hun artillery.

Ambushed Nazis

"Through the shrieks and bringing the unit together detailed information was secured. A and C companies dug in on the mountainside, six hundred yards from the Huns B and C companies attacked. The Germans broke under the assault and with guns and trucks ran smack bang into the A and C ambush.

"Six truck loads of Huns overflowing with men from the infantry and two guns were wiped out.

"Captain Alex Campbell, Perth, charged one truck filled with forty men in it and only three were left. From the engagement seventeen prisoners were taken.

"Privates H. A. Mountenay, Trenton; Lemieux of Cornwall and H. E. Brant, a Trenton Indian, took their machine guns, went down the other side of the hill and wiped out the enemy there. When the field was cleared there were sixty-five dead Germans and twelve wounded."

Sergeant W. J. R. McKnight of Bowmanville, and Cpl. R. W. Lawson of Trenton, under terrific fire, took two gunposts.

Lieut. Roy Burns spent a night among the Germans and came out unscathed on the following morning.

At Assoro it was battery for battery. Major Kennedy of Owen Sound, directing the RCA fire, completely smashed the Huns after three corrections.

Hand-to-Hand Battle

Lieut. Yearwood of Madoc took a German in a hand-to-hand wrestling fight. His pistol was knocked out of his hand but he recovered it in time to dispose of his enemy.

R.S.M. Duffie and C.S.M. Ponsford travelled thirty-two miles on foot, in difficult country, to inform the unit of a German position. The information was correct and the Huns were knocked out.

Corporal Ross Bullied of Bancroft and a section of eight men were cut off near Nissoria for a day and night, only forty yards from the Germans. They hid in crevices and under bushes and endured our counter barrage. Lance-Corporal H. E. Maxwell of Bancroft, a pal, got out with the information under cover of darkness. The German position was taken by reinforcements and the section of men all rescued intact.

Captain Long, a doctor from Port Hope, attended the wounded, disregarding the heavy shell fire.

East of Regalbuto the unit worked by the stars and a compass and carried mortars and ammunition on their back three miles. "Our mortars kept the enemy down and the R.C.A. opened up. Two companies charged and rolled up the Huns. We had no casualties," an officer said.

Slept On Mine Field

Crossing a mine field and on which the M.O. slept, the unit headed on for the lava road, north from Adrano to Mount Etna, but the Hun withdrew before the regiment had another crack at him.

During all the actions Captain George Hepburn had rations up on time. Capt. R. W. Lane of Brantford had the honor of being in every engagement.

The services of thanksgiving for victories on Sunday morning was held on ground not far from Mount Etna and overlooking fields of victory.

Ladies Adore Royal Marines

QUEBEC, Aug. 20—British Royal Marines are "unfair."

It is not a nice attitude from the standpoint of international relations, but as Gunner "X" of the censored battery mourned today.

"What the hell when the girls fall for a uniform."

As a matter of fact, the boys of the marines who came over with the United Kingdom party are doing not bad—not bad at all, in those evening parades on Dufferin Terrace under the Citadel southeast bastion overlooking the St. Lawrence.

Their dark blue uniforms, set off by a web belt, and their heads crowned by a cap banded with scarlet and covered with summer white, are conspicuous on the terrace and their wearers are seldom alone.

Battle-dressed soldiers—even men in the R.C.A.F., are prone to be critical and a little bit envious. There was a little spate of cat-calling on the terrace the other night, mixed with noises indicating derision in its most expressive form.

Young Briton took it in his stride, and with the knowledge gained from a new amity between peoples, popped back a Lancashire-flavored "fermez la bouche."

Board May Retain Jams And Jellies

OTTAWA, Aug. 20 — A Prices Board spokesman said last night that the rationing of jams and jellies has been "under consideration" by the Board, and that the trade has voluntarily rationed the commodities for some time.

He was commenting upon an Ottawa dispatch to a Vancouver newspaper (Province) saying that the Board was considering rationing jams, preserves, jellies and other commodities, but "no final decision may be reached for some days."

One Bottle At A Time Newest Wine Limit

TORONTO, Aug. 20 (CP).— Officials of the Ontario Liquor Control Board to-day announced that purchasers of wine in this province now are allowed only two 26-ounce bottles of Ontario-made wine a week compared with the previous quota of three 26-ounce bottles. The order went into effect Aug. 16.

The previous quota of imported wines remains the same—four 26-ounce bottles a month. Purchasers are not permitted to purchase more than one bottle of imported wine in a day.

Quotas for other beverages are unchanged. Each person is allowed 36 pints or 18 quarts, of beer a month and 53 ounces of spirits.

Entry In Liars' Club Tells Odd Wartime Tale Says Whale Downed Bomber Off Africa

BURLINGTON, Wis., Aug. 20 AP)—At last it has happened—O. C. Hulett, boss prevaricator of the Burlington Liars' Club, has a yarn he would like to enter in the 1943 lying contest but is reluctant because he thinks it might be true.

"I got the story in a letter from Flying Officer Ralph W. Ritchie, stationed in the Middle East with an R.A.F. squadron," Hulett reported. "Ritchie s : he is an American, born at ..umwa, Ia., and is trying to transfer to the American Ai- Forces.

"Ritchie says his story is more true than he cares to state. If it is true, this is the first time I ever was kidded with a bona fide tale. But it could be the oddest thing that has come out of this war."

Ritchie's story:

"My plane was badly holed during a recent operational flight—I had to fly low over the sea—only had one motor working. Two hours later I sighted what appeared to be an enemy submarine. I decided to shoot it up, so I went down to within five feet of the water.

"Just as I approahced I noticed it was a whale and I had to laugh as my front gunner was blazing away. But I didn't laugh long.

"As I passed over the whale, he blew and the water he spouted drowned out my remaining motor and I had to land in the sea—the only pilot in this war, I think, to be shot down by a whale."

Housewives Needed For Canning Tomatoes

Again this year Canada Packers are appealing to the patriotic sense of the Peterborough housewife and are asking for assistance in the canning of tomatoes. This year more than ever will the packers have to rely on housewives and young girls.

Eighty workers are required and thirty have so far been employed. The work is not difficult and altogether the regular hours are 7.00 a.m. until 5.00 p.m. Arrangements could be made for part-time employment, either a morning or afternoon shift.

The Canadian Armed Forces have to be properly fed on the battle line, and Canadian homes want to have sufficient vegetables this winter so the woman of Canada are being asked to lend a hand in Canadian canning factories.

It is not necessary to consult the National Selective Service for this work. Just apply at the Employment Office at Canada Packers and further instructions will be given.

Italians Try To Keep Rome An Open City

BERNE, Aug. 20 (AP)—Steps by the Italian government to make Rome an open city were reported today in a Rome dispatch to the Petit Dauphinois of Grenoble, which said troops were being evacuated from the capital.

Archives of the War Ministry also are being removed, the dispatch said.

It reported the Italian government had submitted a new proposition to the Allies to make Rome an open city but that no reply had yet been received.

French Commander Killed In Action

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 20 (AP).—Gen. Louis-Marie Koeltz, commander of the French 19th Corps, has been killed in action, it was disclosed today.

The death of the general, whose troops fought alongside the British 1st Army in the Tunisian campaign, was disclosed with announcement of a posthumous Legion of Merit award.

Besides Gen. Koeltz, Gen. Henri Giraud, Gen. Sir Harold Alexander, Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery and 60 other British and French officers who played major roles in the North African landings and the subsequent Tunisian campaign were awarded Legion of Merit medals.

Britain Cancels Bomb Orders

WOODSTOCK, Ont., Aug. 20 — (CP). — Operation of the bomb division of the Massey-Harris Limited plant here will be abandoned as soon as work now on hand is completed, it was announced today by J. J. Linton, general manager.

Between 240 and 250 employees about 75 of them women will be involved, he said. A few are being transferred to other branches of the company and the balance are being absorbed by Selective Service for other employment in Woodstock.

Mr. Linton said the move was made necessary by the cancellation "without warning" of orders by Great Britain. "The local firm is not alone in this situation," he added, "all other Canadian firms making this type of bomb received similar cancellations."

The Woodstock plant will continue to produce war truck bodies and wagons with a staff of more than 200 employees.

GANANOQUE, Aug. 20. — (CP).—Workers of the town of Gananoque are preparing for a fish dinner to follow a periodic cleaning of the town's water storage tank. The fish are drawn through the screened intake pipe as minnows and grow to large size—sometimes as much as three or four pounds—inside the standpipe.

Sicily People Lived In Huge Caves

By RELMAN MORIN
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS North Africa, Aug. 20 (AP).— Dispatches from Sicily said terrified civilians began emerging to-day from caves cut into the rock of Messina's first raiads hit Sicilp.

The Allied victory permitted them to return to the sunlight.

One cave measured 600 yards in length and 30 feet in width. It was found in tunnelling the hillside nearly a year ago when the first raiads hit Sicily.

Whole families made this their home through the past six months. Toward the end of the Sicilian campaign, they seldom left its dark recesses. They told of pain, disease and misery.

But the cruelty of the German troops and their callous disregard for all human considerations made the people pray for even heavier raids they said, because it meant quicker deliverance.

During the time when the tunnel was packed tight with families, 30 babies were born there, an Italian doctor said.

He worked in the flickering light of kerosene lamps, often dimmed by the haze of rock and dust from bombs and shells hitting the escarpment overhead. There was no disinfectant, little material for bandaging and few surgical instruments.

The doctor told R.A.F. officers that the Germans refused all professional assistance, confiscated all medical equipment and supplies, kept the single ambulance themselves and even prevented Italian hospital workers from lending their efforts to alleviate the suffering of the dirty, horror-crazed people in the cave.

People died in there—women in child birth, new-born infants, men from shock, hunger and disease. The doctor was his own sanitary inspector. Sometimes he had to remove corpses himself. Others were too weak or too stunned to help.

Not all died from these causes. Some were shot by the Germans.

The people said that even the battle-tough Nazi officers and soldiers began losing their nerve as the raids continued day and night. When the Allied field artillery began shelling the town too, they fought like wild animals for places in the rocky shelters.

KISKA TAKEN WITHOUT OPPOSITION

Ships Evacuate Japs In Fog; Conscripted Canadians Reach Island With Americans

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21 — (AP).—American and Canadian troops have occupied Kiska without opposition at that once-strong Japanese sea plane and submarine base in the Aleutians. In reporting this victory to-day, the U.S. Navy said landings on the narrow beaches of the rocky island were made on August 15 and "no Japanese were found." Indications were, the Navy said, that the Japanese only recently had fled from their positions laboriously built in the rocky terrain and along the beaches.

"Presumably," the Navy's communique said, "the heavy bombardments by our ships and planes that have been carried on for some time and the danger to their supply lines by our capture of Attu made the enemy positions on Kiska untenable."

Those bombardments, unreported in the last three weeks, were among the heaviest ever made on enemy positions in the Pacific.

Army and navy bombing planes during the period from Aug. 1 to Aug. 14, the Navy said, struck 106 times, dropping ton after ton of bombs on the Japanese at Kiska.

Had 10,000 Men.

Surface units joined in the pounding of the enemy garrison, standing off shore and hurling shells from their big guns on to the island in 15 separate bombardments.

How the Japanese escaped from Kiska under the heavy bombings and bombardments was not explained. The Navy said, however, that it was possible that enemy surface ships, taking advantage of the heavy fogs of the North Pacific, slipped in to evacuate remnants of the garrison estimated at one time to have included 10,000 Japanese troops.

Landed Aug. 15

A communique issued at Quebec at the same time by the United States Navy indicated the rocky, fog-bound island was taken without fighting, the Japanese having slipped away before the landing which started Aug. 15.

The size and make-up of the Canadian force was not made known

Reds Driving Deeper Into Ukraine

Lebedin Captured Several Large Centres Menaced

LONDON, Aug. 21.—(CP).—Pointing apparently for Konotop, key junction on the Kiev-Bryansk railway 170 miles northwest of Kharkov, Russian troops to-day were on the march deep into the heart of the Ukraine.

They stormed into Lebedin, 100 miles northwest of Kharkov and midway between captured Akhtryka and Sumy, in a series of smashing tank and infantry attacks, Moscow announced in a special communique. Konotop lies 70 miles to the northwest of Lebedin and its capture would menace the whole Nazi supply set-up in the Ukrainian theatre.

London reports, meanwhile, indicated Soviet troops had encircled all but 13 miles of Kharkov itself.

(A Berlin broadcast, quoted by BBC, said the Russians "are attacking furiously at six widely separated points along a 1,000-mile front" between Leningrad and Murmansk, along the Finnish border. The report, if true, means the Russians are opening a new offensive in the north.

6,100 Nazis Killed.

A total of 6,100 Nazi troops were killed in Friday's fighting on all fronts, according to a Moscow communiue.

On the Bryansk front, the Germans were throwing strong forces against the steadily advancing Soviet columns, but the Russian war bulletin said they were forced to fall back to "well- prepared" positions after abandoning valuable war dumps. In the Spas Demensk offensive where the Russians were striking out for Smolensk, they pressed on despite fierce counter-attacks by fresh German reserves. This advance threatened a whole segment of German defences between Bryansk and Smolensk.

Northwest of Kharkov a fierce battle of tanks resulted in 45 German units being knocked out by accurate Soviet fire, and the enemy gave way before the slashing Red drive which occupied more than 20 towns and villages.

Franco Receives British Envoy

LA CORUNA, Spain, Aug. 20 — (Delayed) — (AP). —Gen. Francisco Franco and Foreign Minister Count Francisco Gomez Jordana received Sir Samuel Hoare, British ambassador, at 6 p.m. to-day at El Caudillo's villa in Pazo de Leiras near here.

Later this evening no communique had been issued, either by the British Embassy in Madrid or by the Spanish foreign office.

It is possible no communique will be issued at all, other than a brief note saying the ambassador called on the Spanish chief of state.

Sir Samuel is returning to Britain next week. It is at about this time that he has made similar visits to Britain in previous years. It seemed likely his talk with El Caudillo and his foreign minister was concerned mainly with a routine review of Anglo-Spanish affairs.

(London dispatches quoted The Evening News as as declaring that "one thing we shall demand of him (Franco) is that Spain shall at least exhibit complete and careful neutrality from now on and not harbor any Axis war criminals, and we are in a position at least to make these demands.")

Laud Medical Corps In Sicily

By ROSS MUNRO, Canadian Press Staff Writer

WITH THE CANADIANS IN SICILY, Aug. 9.—(Delayed).—(CP).—From Pachino beaches to Mount Etna Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps units moved forward with the infantry, gunners and tank men, tending the wounded in the front line under fire and evacuating them for treatment behind the line. They saved hundreds of lives.

In every front line unit you heard praise for stretcher-bearers and medical officers for the way in which they have carried on during battles. Behind these forward medical sections there were large and competent organizations to care for the wounded.

Operating with the Canadian force were three field ambulances, two field dressing stations, two surgical units and one field transfusion unit. At a Sicilian base there is a Canadian General Hospital and a British Clearing Station is an intermediate point between the Field Ambulances and the General Hospital.

Move Rapidly.

A feature of the Canadian medical organization in the field was the employment of surgical units close to the front line, enabling badly wounded to be treated more rapidly than normally. The head of the Canadian medical services with the field formations, a Colonel from Hamilton, Ont., developed the advance surgical centres, established 10 or 15 miles from the front and sometimes even ahead of a brigade headquarters.

A centre includes a field ambulance, a field dressing station, at least one field dressing station, and a transfusion unit. These units are concentrated together and casulaties coming down from regimental first aid posts on the front receive the quickest possible treatment.

At Divisional Headquarters handling the administration and direction of all medical units, is the Hamilton colonel. With him is Major J. K. Bell, Sarnia, Ont.

One field ambulance which handled casualties in some of the heaviest fighting is commanded by a lieutenant-colonel from Hamilton, Ont., with Major Don Young of Montreal and Ottawa, former McGill football star, second in command.

Other doctors include Capt. W. T. McFadzen, Brantford, Ont., and Capt. G. H. Midgley, Galt, Ont., the adjutant.

Plan Post-War Air Corps Throughout British Empire

LONDON, Aug. 21.—(CP).—A proposal for establishment after the war of a British Empire air corps has been submitted to the Secretary of State for Air, Sir Archibald Sinclair, the aim being to organize in three divisions all those young men and youths of the Empire who wish to devote themselves to flying in peace.

The proposal was contained in a memorandum from Sir Bertram Jones, chairman of the chairmen's advisory committee of the air training crops, and W. J. Taylor, chairman of the Yorkshire A.T.C. Association.

In the senior division air crew members who had served in the war would be organized and this division is described as "providing a gateway to peacetime careers in aviation."

The junior division is foreseen as a peacetime equivalent of the air training corps to afford "pre-entry training for civil aviation careers" and a preparatory division is also proposed "allied to and working with the existing Air Scouts organization."

Although the emphasis is laid on preparation for careers in commercial flying the authors of the memorandum give as one of the objects of the corps to "have always available large numbers of skilled air personnel to man an air police force, marine air patrols and an air territorial force."

The promoters expressed a hope that a system of interchange of cadets between Britain and other countries could form part of the scheme and suggested the organization should be financed partly by annual grants from the government, other funds to come from aviation, aircraft and shipping industries.

Bombers Halt Vienna Flight

BERNE, Aug. 21 (AP)—The Gazette de Lausanne said today that transfer of government bureaus to Vienna had ceased after the bombing of the nearby city of Wiener Neustadt, Aug. 13 and that the principal ministries now are installed in Plauen, Saxony, 150 miles southwest of Berlin.

The German ministries of Foreign Affairs, Economy and Interior, as well as the administrative organizations of major industries were reported moved to Plauen. Members of the diplomatic corps were said to have taken quarters in the suburbs.

In a dispatch datelined "At the German frontier," the newspaper quoted eyewitnesses as saying the Wiener Neustadt attack (by bombers of the Middle East command) caused consternation among the people of the Danubian city 27 miles to the north.

Fires and smoke were reported still rising the following morning.

Full Scale Air Attack Blasts Italy

American Warships Pump Shells Into Port Facilities

By RELMAN MORIN
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, Aug. 21 (AP)—The sky battle for southern Italy has fully begun, with the Allies shifting the focus of their overwhelming bomber power to the objective of knocking out the strategic railway connections in the north.

While American warships, moving along the Italian toe, poured concentrated fire into the left side of the "hells triangle" of the lower peninsula, Allied Headquarters announced today that heavy new blows were struck by day and night bombers at already battered railway lifelines of the defenders in the Naples area.

The American naval units again hammered fortified points and railway targets at Gioia Tauro on the Gulf Gioia, 20 miles northeast of Messina, in a blasting of the mainland while British sea forces sank seven landing craft off Scalea in a night action.

3 Cities Hit

Aversa, Benevento and Villa Literno—all in the Naples area—were swept by waves of medium bombers and fighters in day assaults and by R.A.F. and Canadian Wellingtons striking at night.

In another operation American fighters, in a slash at the enemy's air stroke, bombed the vicinity of Monserrato airdrome in southeastern Sardinia.

Meanwhile fighter-bombers and intruders held their dominant position in the sky over the Italian toe, attacking trains and small boats off the coast.

The naval announcement said that after capitulation of the Lipari Prison Islands north of Sicily to an American naval expedition on Aug. 17 it was found that the islands "had been used by the Germans for military purposes.

All German military personnel had departed a few days before the surrender, however.

The American ships, hurling their shells into targets at Gioia Tauro, added their weight to the daily pounding of that place by Allied aircraft.

Aversa and Benevento railway Junctions, 20 and 40 miles respectively northeast of Naples, were hit by a medium bomber raiding force with fighter escort. Strong opposition was met and 14 enemy fighters were shot down. The Villa Literno railway yards north of Naples was left to night bombers.

He has taken a job with a gang of workers repaving the Raleigh-Tilbury Town Line. His boss reports the octogenarian is doing as good a job as many a younger man could do.

Danish King Wins Round With Overlords Refuses To Turn Saboteurs Over To Nazis

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 21 (AP)—The Danish Government and King Christian X appealed jointly to the Danes today to cease sabotaging German war production and transoprt lines, warning that the nation would face a loss of Nazi-supplied food and coal if disorders continued.

The appeal said continuation of demonstrations and sabotage, resulting in the slaying of both German soldiers and Danes, would have "a devastating result on Danish life."

"The government will do everything to create more stable conditions in Denmark," it was said.

The appeal, similar to a proclamation issued by the King last spring, was viewed here as a triumphant compromise for Danish officials, who apparently resisted successfully a Nazi demand that prosecution of saboteurs be turned over to the Germans.

Greek Navy Fights Again 6 Ships Ply Mediterranean

By DANIEL DELUCE, Associated Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, Aug. 21.—(AP).—The Greek Navy, destroyed 28 months ago when blitzkrieg swept the little country, has been revived.

The Greek flag flies today from a force of some half-dozen daredevil destroyers that are in the vanguard of the Allied sea offensive against Italy and Axis outposts elsewhere in the Mediterranean.

Greek surface raiders have run the gauntlet of the massive guns lining the Strait of Messina.

A Greek naval vessel participated in the recent British Commando operation against Crete, an island that is certain to be Greek again, possibly before the last of its grapes are harvested this fall.

The Greeks are not only great sailors but great soldiers and, at home, Greek resistance is flaming to new heights.

Two key towns deep in the interior, Kalabaka and Servia, are officially reported by the Hellenic government to have been occupied by two Greek brigades and to be strongly held.

German troop commanders have been disinclined to keep forces stationed in isolated sections of the interior, especially if the population is violently hostile. When violence occurs, the Germans carry out reprisals and then withdraw completely.

The conquest of Greece in the spring of 1941 was a hollow victory for the Nazis. Subsequent events have proved Greece strategically useless in the absence of a drive for the Middle East.

All ships of the little Greek navy were built by Britain.

A year ago, the Greek colors were raised for the first time on one of these. On her first anniversary, she routed three Italian E-boats in enemy waters, sinking one and damaging a second.

Another ship helped Allied forces land in Sicily, sank an enemy submarine and shot down a German bomber.

Peterboro Girl Gets Autograph

KITCHENER, Ont., Aug. 21 (CP)—Mary Churchill's enthusiasm and eager interest in the work of the Canadian Women's Army Corps was the topic of conversation today among the more than 1,000 girls in training at No. 3 Basic Training Centre she visited here yesterday.

The 20-year-old daughter of the British Prime Minister spent an informal afternoon inspecting the camp. Friendly and cheerful, she put groups quickly and completely at their ease and within 15 minutes of her arrival had 47 A.T.S. girls here from the British West Indies singing native Calypso songs, joining with gusto in the choruses.

Tawny-haired and blue-eyed, she wore the uniform of a subaltern in the Auxiliary Territorial Services. She expressed delight with her stay in Canada. "I'm trying to get in as much as I possibly can. I love it," she declared enthusiastically.

The C.D.A.C. she termed "absolutely terrific."

"I met many Canadian service men and women when they first came over to England. Now, of course, they're rather busy elsewhere—to say the least."

Takes Picture

She stopped obligingly to have her picture snapped by Sgt. Pauline Morse of Providence, R.I., and to give a left-handed autograph to Joyce Spencely of Peterborough, Ont.

Miss Churchill answered without hesitation when asked what had impressed her first on her arrival in Canada. "Mounties," she confessed. "First their red coats, then their fine physical stature. I didn't realise they wore red coats except in the movies."

Being her father's aide-de-camp she finds great fun. "I'm used to being in a rush constantly so I don't find it too hard to keep up with

Floating Dock Defends Itself

By HAROLD V. BOYLE
Associated Press Staff Writer

SOMEWHERE IN THE MEDITERRANEAN, Aug. 21 (AP) — A 17,000-ton "floating navy yard" that can repair everything from the mainspring of a watch to a battleship is keeping British and American ships in the Mediterranean fit for combat.

She is 600 feet long, 75 feet wide, and the 1,000 crewmen she shelters have been trained to fix almost everything that operates by bolt, nut, screw, wheel or electricity. She is unique. There is nothing like her afloat but there are more like her abuilding.

"She can generate enough electricity for a city of 50,000 people and she can distill 60,000 gallons of fresh water a day from the sea," said Lieut. John H. Hart, chief engineer.

The ship is armed and could take care of herself in most emergencies with her deck and anti-aircraft guns, but she was built to service and repair other fighting ships rather than fight herself.

Her equipment includes two 50-ton deck cranes that can lower damaged equipment directly into the machine shops or foundry quarters in the bowels of the ship.

Hitler Initiates Defensive Action

Mass Production Of Fighter Planes Replaces Striking Bombers

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Just before I sat down to write this column a New York banker stopped me in Rockfeller Plaza and asked the question which seems to be fairly seething in every mind.

"Do you believe the western Allies will be able to get ahead with the big job—the invasion of France—this year?" he said.

I took that jump cautiously, for it's one of those spots where you can have a nasty spill.

"The indications are that it's possible," was my reply. "One might make it a bit stronger and say it's even probable, but there's nobody outside the Allied high command who can give a definite answer to that right now."

So that's precisely the way this momentous issue stands. We must wait and see, but I believe we shall get fair advance warning of any invasion of Western Europe.

Heavy Bombings

That will be in a terrific bombardment of the invasion coast from the air, and perhaps from the sea as well. The German coastal defence will have to be paralyzed before we can drive the noses of our barges up on the beaches.

When that moment arrives we are likely to get a solution of the mystery of where the Nazi bomber force—if any—has been hiding out these many moons. Many observers incline to the idea that Hitler has been holding his depleted air fleet in reserve for just this great emergency upon which hang the immediate fortunes of Germany.

Making Fighters

That strikes me as a logical assumption. While we don't know the exact condition of the Nazi air force, we do know that some time ago the Nazis cut their bomber production down to a skeleton in order to permit the manufacture of more fighter planes. This means, of course, that the Nazis have gone on the defensive, since fighters are a defensive weapon.

Pending the time of invasion, the Anglo-American Allies are going ahead with their job of softening up Germany by bombing of an intensity and destructive power never before seen. We thought the Hitlerian Blitz over England in 1940-41 was terrible—and it was—but it was mild as compared with what the Boche are getting now.

U.S. Building 2,000 Ships

Staff Chiefs Approve Maritime Expansion

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21 (AP).—The combined chiefs of staff of Britain, Canada and the United States have final approval to a United States merchant ship construction program calling for more than 20,000,000 deadweight tons of shipping in 1944.

Although no public announcement was made, informed officials said today the chiefs of staff put the seal of approval on the Maritime Commission's new program last week.

How much higher than 20,000,000 tons the 1944 program was set has not been disclosed. Next year's schedule would produce around 2,000 vessels.

As disclosed by the commission the 1944 schedule calls for delivery of 319 of the speedy, new-type "Victory" cargo ships and about 200 of the superior fast merchantmen of the C-type. Most of the other vessels will be the familiar mass-built Liberty ships.

Much of the credit for making available the powerful geared turbines needed to propel the new Victory ships, which will run 15 knots or faster compared with 11 knots of the slow moving Liberties was accorded by officials to a quietly functioning British-Canadian - American committee set up by the combined chiefs of staff.

Allies Deny Delaying Envoy

Eisenhower Approves Russians' Visit

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, Aug. 20.—(Delayed)—(AP).—Allied spokesmen said to-day a representative of the Russian government is now en route to Algiers from Moscow via London to contact the French Committee of National Liberation.

In authoritative quarters it was stated that if the envoy's arrival in Algiers has been delayed, as charged by the Russian labor magazine, "War and the Working Class," it is the result of opposition outside the North African theatre of war.

"War and the Working Classes" said the Russian envoy was unable to go to Algiers because he "met objections from Anglo-American authorities for supposedly military reasons."

Allied quarters here said that because Russia has not yet recognized the Liberation commmittee, a six week's discussion of the envoy's status had taken place before arrangements for his visit were completed.

There has been no opposition here to the envoy's arrival on military or any other grounds, it was stated, and it was understood that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Allied commander-in-chief, had endorsed that position when notified of the proposed visit.

JAPANESE SALAMAUA DEFENCES CRUMBLE AFTER LONG BATTLE

Headlong Retreat Underway 350 Japs Are Killed Artillery, Shells Abandoned

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, the Southwest Pacific, Aug. 21 — (AP). — The Japanese are in headlong retreat before bomb-battered Salamaua. Their mountain front line cracked wide open, they have abandoned heavy guns in precipitous flight toward the last defences barring the Allies from that highly-prized air base on New Guinea's northeast coast. Bombed almost daily for months by Allied planes, shelled by accurate mountain artillery and under relentless pressure of Australian and American jungle troops, the enemy at last has been routed from long-held ridge positions as near as two miles from the coveted air field.

Heretofore, the Allies have inched forward. Yesterday, they surged ahead in a general advance.

The enemy, poorly supplied and in dire need of reinforcement, is "in full retreat to his inner citadel of defences at Salamaua itself," said today's communqiue from Allied headquarters.

"Machine-guns and artillery were abandoned along with more than 350 buried dead. Our troops are mopping up," the communique added.

Built On Isthmus

The town of Salamaua, in Japanese hands since January, 1942, is built out on an isthmus. Its airdrome is two miles south near the point where the Francisco River empties into Bayern Bay.

The solid line now held by the Australians and Americans below Salamaua roughly forms the letter "V." It is anchored on the coast at Buiambum where the Roosevelt ridge begins. The easternmost end of this ridge is three miles from the southwestern end of the air strip.

The Allied line then dips down to the Mount Tambu region which is 4¼ miles south and slightly west of the strip's south-west end. From there, the positions run north to Komatum, about four miles below and slightly west of th strip, and to Orodubi, about the same distance from the strip but more to the west.

From Orodubi, the Allied line ex-

Nazis Demand Hungarian Reinforcements To Bolster Hun Armies On Russian Front

ISTANBUL, Aug. 19—(Delayed)—(AP). — Reports reaching Turkey from the Balkans said to-day Germany was bringing heavy pressure against Hungary for immediate help either on the Eastern Front against Russia or in South-eastern Europe.

The German demand, the reports said, was for eight Hungarian divisions. If the help is forthcoming for use against Russia the Nazis would withdraw a corresponding force from the East to use in South-eastern Europe.

The German-controlled Paris radio in a broadcast recorded by the Associated Press in Londón said Col. Gen Ludwig von Osata, Hungarian Minister of War, had arrived at Hitler's headquarters, and that Assil Mitakov, Bulgarian Minister of Justice, will leave Sophia for Berlin to-night to conclude what were discribed as "Judicial agreements" with the German Government.

The German radio, in a broadcast heard by the British Ministry of Information, reported the Bulgarian Minister to Berlin had returned to Sofia and was received in audience by King Boris.

Conference To Study Effect Of Call-ups

OTTAWA, Aug. 21 — (CP). — A conference of Selective Service officials and Canadian university heads will be held here on August 30 to consider the position of 18-year-old students affected by last week-end's extension of the military callup, it was announced on Friday.

The extension dropped from 19 to 18 the age of those eligible for compulsory military training, although the announcement said 18-year-olds would not receive their medical-order papers until they reach the age of 18 years and six months.

Labor Minister Mitchell said on Thursday that the position of the youths was under consideration by his department.

Man Shortage Cripples Pulp Industry

By GARETH MUCHMORE
Associated Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC, Aug. 21.—(AP).— Five American Congressmen, completing inspection of newsprint mills of Quebec province, turned to-day to the Dominion's capital at Ottawa for a solution to the manpower shortage that threatens sharper curtailment of paper supplies.

From visits to paper-producing areas the Americans, members of a House of Representatives sub-committee appointed to investigate newsprint, learned that the only obstacle to meeting paper requirements of American newspapers is lack of wood at mills.

Much of their findings indicate that more men were needed to cut pulpwood for the paper process, that paper restrictions were hampering the free flow of information to the American public required for an efficient war effort.

Woodsmen suggested pulpwood cutting should be declared essential since it is a necessary part of production of pulpwood for eventual war purposes and the manufacture of newsprint paper for equally essential consumption. United States pulpwood cutters now are classed with other essential workers.

Finnish Demands For Peace Grow

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 21 —(AP)— Another cabinet shakeup is being discussed informally in Finland as the demand intensifies for some steps to make a separate peace with Russia.

Juhu Paasikivi, 75-year-old former minister to Moscow, is being mentioned as a successor to Prime Minister Edwin Linkomies, former Latin professor, who does not have the pro-Allied outlook of Paasikivi. Foreign Minister Sir Henrik Ramsay who entered the cabinet in a shakeup five months ago with Linkomies also may be a target for the group pressing a peace offensive.

A week ago Paasikivi offered his services to President Risto Ryti and it is now disclosed that a committee representing various Finnish political parties delivered a petition signed by 50 prominent persons requesting a formal investigation into the opportunities for a separate peace with Soviet Russia.

Visits Cobourg American Held

ROCHESTER, N.Y., Aug. 21—(AP) —Mrs. Marie Steffan was back home with her three children today after a picnic excursion to Canada that resulted in her temporary detention by United States immigration authorities.

She left home Thursday morning for a boat trip to Cobourg, Ont., promising her children she would be back by their bedtime.

On the return trip, United States immigration service inspector requested the Hungarian-born woman to produce a passport.

Friends of Mrs. Steffan explained that later because of her marriage to an American 17 years ago, she thought she was an American citizen.

The Rochester woman was sent back to Cobourg and her case was reported presented to the American consul at Toronto.

Late last night she was paroled by United States immigration service inspectors when the Cobourg ferry docked on the American side of the border.

Japan May Exchange Canadian Civilians

OTTAWA, Aug. 21 (CP)—External Affairs Department spokesmen said Friday it was expected Canadians would be returning home with the United States civilians being repatriated on the next voyage of the exchange ship Gripsholm, but they emphasized that no official word has been received here as yet.

The spokesmen were commenting on a Washington announcement by Sumner Wells, Undersecretary of State, that the United States has requested safe conduct for the liner and that there is "good reason for hope" that an exchange of Americans for Japanese civilian internees will be carried out by Oct. 15.

There were indications that an official statement might be released later.

Last year the Gripsholm, a Swedish liner, brought more than 1,500 Canadians and Americans from Japanese-occupied areas.

Dr. Wm. Phelps Author Dies In States

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 21 — (AP)—Dr. William Lyon Phelps, 78, for years an author, lecturer, and a man of letters, also formerly professor of English at Yale University, died today at his home after a long illness.

A little more than a year ago, in an interview in which he surveyed the world scene of conflict, Phelps declared a belief that if the Allied Nations remained on as friendly terms with one another through choice as they now are through necessity the war would be the world's last large-scale conflict.

He had been in ill health since June 21 when he suffered a stroke.

Known as Yale's unofficial "ambassador-at-large"—and recognized as perennial "most popular" member of the faculty, Phelps retired in 1933 at the age of 68.

Born in New Haven, Jan. 2, 1865, Phelps entered Yale in 1883, was editor of the Yale literary magazine in his junior year and was elected to Phi Beta Kappa in his senior year. He joined the Yale faculty in 1892, after having taught one year at Harvard.

Yale Career

At the outset of his Yale career he was assailed as an "academic radical" because he inaugurated a course on the modern novel, but he stood by his guns and soon saw the course adopted at virtually every American college.

Active as a writer and lecturer until the time of his fatal illness, Phelps had won a country-wide audience during the years he was at Yale and held it in the 10 years of his retirement.

Gifted with a keen wit and memory which was a veritable treasure-house of quotations, Prof. Phelps lectured to crowded classrooms throughout his career.

His fame spread rapidly beyond the campus. Magazine and syndicated newspaper articles, lectures and radio broadcasts, made thousands familiar with the witty Yale professor's "incurably optimistic" views on life and letters.

Prof. Phelps was the author of almost two-score books.

He married the former Annabel Hubbard of Huron City, Mich., in 1892. She died March 22, 1939 after a stroke.

Market Buyers Get Bargain

Tomatoes at 30c and 35c for six quart basket and at 60 cents for 11 quart basket in the market Saturday morning were the feature of a big vegetable market. Canneries do not open until next week, and meanwhile the market is glutted with tomatoes selling at bargain prices. Buyers were well aware of the situation, and lost not time in profiting from it.

Potatoes sold at $2.25 a bag, unchanged from last week, chickens were 35c to 38c, while eggs were priced around 40c to 45c a dozen.

A tremendous quantity of flowers graced the market grounds, so many that a person approaching the square might have been forgiven for supposing that he was walking into the middle of a flower show. Gladiolas sold for from 75c to $1 a dozen.

Veterans Are Given Help With Homes

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 21—(CP)— When veterans of this war return to Canada, the staffs of the Veterans' Land Act offices in Canada will be ready to go into action to provide them with homes on small suburban lots or with farms in the rural districts, C. M. Nixon, district supervisor of the Toronto distaict office, said in an interview on Friday.

Already regional offices in the Ontario district have been opened to handle applications from veterans asking for financial assistance in obtaining a home. As the demand increases, offices will be opened in Eastern and Northern parts of the province.

Teams of London, Ont., had dropped the bantam and midget baseball titles to Sarnia in the Western Counties Association tournament at Sarnia but the Forest City juveniles last night saved the situation for their home city by defeating Sarnia 4-1 to gain the honors.

The death occurred at Edmonton yesterday of Mrs. S. H. Starky, formerly widely known in tennis and badminton circles. In 1925 she was a member of the doubles team which won the Dominion ladies' tennis championship and was also western Canadian singles champion. She held the Alberta provincial singles badminton title in 1927.

The wounded were brought down from regimental aid posts at the front in ambulances or jeeps fitted with special racks to carry stretchers. Frequently car outposts were established in forward areas to aid the evacuation of medical centres.

The ambulance-jeeps were a great success and carried scores of wounded out of places where no vehicle could get through. Some patients get complete treatment at the field ambulance and return to their unit while the more serious are sent back to a casualty clearing station or the general hospital.

Cases which require resuscitation, transfusion or emergency surgery are turned over to a field dressing station a couple of rooms down the hall. Surgical terms are right here, too, and major operations are performed by skilled surgeons. There are dentists at the medical centre to deal with jaw wounds and normal dental treatment.

A rest centre has been established behind the lines with Major A. M. Doyle, Kingston, Ont., neuro-psychiatrist, in charge. Here nerve shocked soldiers regain their health.

Genelco Union Awaits Board's Answer

Neville Hamblin, president Local 524 of United Electrical Radio and Machine Workers of America, has sent the following telegram to Hon. Mr. King, Prime Minister:—

"Present labor laws cause of greatest concern among workers in this district, and increasingly aggravated by crisis in McTague enquiry and wage freezing. We urge your government to provide immediate adequate labor legislation and that you personally prevent interference in drawing up McTague commission report."

And to Justice C. P. McTague:— Fifteen hundred workers employed by Genelco gun plant urgently await recommendation by your board. We expect federal labor laws to take care of collective bargaining, 50 cents minimum hourly wage rates for both sexes, no taxation on over-time earnings or cost of living bonus; also full labor representation on all national boards. We urge you to collaborate closer with J. L. Cohen for joint report."

In regard to the Electrical Workers' message expressing approval of the withdrawal of Mr. Cohen from the Labor Board, the public generally seems unable to understand why he found it necessary to take this seemingly precipitate action now after carrying along with the Board since last February.

Athletics Trim Brampton Team

ST. CATHARINES, Aug. 21— St. Catharines Athletics kept within forcible striking distance of second place in senior O.L.A. competition when they defeated M.-B. Combines 12-8 here tonight before over 1,100 fans. Both squads dressed their best rosters, and indication of the power was proved in a first goal netted only after 13 minutes. A's went on top with three goals in the first period, with the Mann Cuppers sniping the next three in the second and Saints netting one to make it 4-3 for half-time. A's forged ahead to 7-3 at one time in the third, but Chuck Davidson's Red Blacks tallied to whittle it back to 8-6 at the gong.

The Garden City boys outscored the visitors 4-2 in the final period, with submarine shots taking severe toll on opposing netminders.

Mimico-Brampton—Goal, Harrison; defense, Mush Thompson and Arthurs; rover, B. Mullis; centre, Prosser; wings, Graham and Bryans; subs, J. Mullis, Hayes, Masters, Isaacs, Needham and Gimblett.

here but President Roosevelt said he was gratified that American troops worked side by side with splendidly-trained and equipped Canadians.

This is the first time that Canadian and American soldiers have been on operations together in the long history of the two nations that they have combined to repel an invasion of North American soil.

The Canadian troops used in the Kiska operation were drawn from the Pacific command, Prime Minister King announced.

A large proportion were soldiers called up for service under Canada's National Resources Mobilization Act, giving them the distinction of being the first conscripted troops to move against the enemy for Canada in this war.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King's statement also said that Canadian air and naval units participated in the long softening-up process which preceded the occupation of the last Aleutian held by the Japanes.

Coast Well Manned

"From the outbreak of the war with Japan," the Prime Minister reported, "all three Canadian services have shared with United States forces in the defence of Alaska and the Pacific coast.

"The operation just completed is the first in which units of the Canadian army have participated in the Aleutians.

"The R.C.A.F. has continued to share with the United States Air Force in the increasing defence of the Alaskan area. Canadian airmen had a part in the heavy bombardment of Kiska which preceded the present operations.

"The Royal Canadian Navy, within the limitations imposed by heavy commitments in the North Atlantic, has also co-operated in the defence of the northern Pacific area.

"Canadian naval ships had a part in the operations which culminated in the successful occupation of Attu island by the United States forces."

Radio Speech Tonight

The Prime Minister will speak to the Canadian people by radio tonight at 10:15 p.m. on the Kiska operation.

It was apparent from the U.S. Navy communique that Kiska—the biggest and most important of the Aleutian islands captured by the Japanese while the United States Navy was recovering from the heavy blows inflicted on it at Pearl Harbor—was retaken without firing a shot.

The enemy evacuation represented the first time officially reported in the war that the Japanese have given up a major base without a fight. Previously on Attu they had fought almost to the last man, and in the final organized resistance on Attu some enemy soldiers had battled with bayonets tied to sticks.

The last resistance reported on Kiska was on Aug. 13 when light anti-aircraft fire was encountered by bombers and fighters which that afternoon carried out nine bombing and strafing attacks on the island, destroying buildings at Gertrude Cove and North Head by direct hits and setting others afire.

That bombing was light, however, compared with other attacks during the Aug. 1-14 period. On Aug. 10, the bombings reached a peak with 24 separate assaults on the enemy's installations. The bombers carrying out those missions encountered light anti-aircraft fire and started many fires.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 21 — (CP). — Wheat futures eased fractionally, while rye posted slight gains yesterday in trading on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange. Wheat lost ⅜ to ⅞ cent a bushel.

Fair mill buying was reported in the wheat pit, with three amounts purchased totalling 500,000 bushels. No further business with the United States Commodity Credit Corporation was indicated, although there were inquiries from that source.

Outright buying for American account was traced in rye along with resting orders from the same source. Strength at Chicago boosted values.

Hun Reserves In North Italy

ON THE SWISS-ITALIAN FRONTIER, Aug. 21.—(AP).— Northern Italy was described as "more chaotic than ever" in a dispatch yesterday to the Zurich newspaper Die Tat which told of the arrival of German reinforcements as Italian army guards patrolled city streets to prevent civilian peace demonstrations.

Intensification of military preparations was reported at Como where a military government reigned.

The newspaper added the Italian people were wondering what "negotiations certainly in progress in Rome" can accomplish toward peace while the Germans were "constantly reinforcing their position in Italy."

If the Italian government seeks peace the Germans would certainly occupy a northern defence line, the report said, and Italy would be caught between two armies fighting on its soil.

Allied Heads Start Final Talks

Roosevelt Goes To Ottawa Next Wednesday

By C. R. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC, Aug. 21 (CP) — Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt today had completed their consideration of at least some stages of the military problems which brought them together here, and were deep into the political and economic considerations which follow inevitably in the wake of victory at arms.

Last night at dinner Mr. Churchill, Mr. Roosevelt, Anthony Eden, British Foreign Secretary, and Cordell Hull, United States Secretary of State, met at dinner and talked far into the night.

Presumably the political and economic aspects of the war situation were given their first innings at that meeting.

Obviously the military problems facing these leaders, wherever they may be, are endless. But the assumption here is that the larger questions of strategy are settled and the rest remains with the general staffs who have already been together here for a week.

The Facts

These assumptions are based on the following facts:—

1. Yesterday morning at 10.30 Mr. Churchill and President Roosevelt, who had been together all the previous evening and until 2.30 yesterday morning, left for a picnic and fishing expedition at a lake some 50 miles from Quebec, feeling they could take a holiday. Their immediate business was cleaned up.

2. Mr. Hull arrived in Quebec at about 1.45 p.m. E.D.T. to enter the conference which had been joined Wednesday by the British Foreign Secretary, Mr Hull's opposite number in the British cabinet. The two met with Mr. Churchill and the President at dinner last night.

Previously Mr. Churchill and Mr. Roosevelt had the benefit of reports from their chiefs of staff who have been together since a week ago yesterday.

Presumably it was those reports upon which they had been busy through Thursday night and early Friday morning.

The leaders, before they separate, probably on Tuesday, are expected to meet the press correspondents and tell them what they may send to their newspapers through the

LAWN BOWLING

Notices are now posted for our big open tournament. The date is Wednesday, Sept. 1st. It is for men's rinks and the entry is limited to 32. Now think it over boys.

Already five rinks have made their entry for Port Hope's big tournament, dated Labor Day. The rinks are being skipped by R. Downey, G. Gimblett, H. Freeman, E. Wall and C. Renaud.

If there are any other bowlers who would like to enter, please get in touch with R. F. Downey. The limit is 18.

Our local ladies' culb will be represented at the 'Globe Doubles' to be played up in Toronto next week, by Mrs. N. Killingbeck and Mrs. J. Arnold and Mrs. R. Burns and Mrs. H. Beatty.

There was only a fair sized crowd out at last night's jitney. It seems too bad that more bowlers do not avail themselves of the opportunity to bowl. The season is on the way out.

The winning skips were R. Burns and L. Loftus.

God Gives Commandments While Jews In Desert

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Aug. 22, is Exodus 19-24; Deut. 11:18-21; Gal. 3:23-28; 5:13, 14, the Golden Text being Luke 10:27, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul and with all thy mind; and thy neighbor as thyself."

THE LESSON today is so long that we can comment upon only a small portion of it, leaving out many interesting parts. The older classes, especially, should be urged to read all the lesson and to realize how fundamental are these laws laid down for the Children of Israel —laws relating to the relations of man to God, and of man to man.

The Israelites left Rephidim and, led by the cloud, traveled slowly to the desert of Sinai, where they pitched their tents before Mount Sinai, which is 1,200 to 1,500 feet high. The huge cliff resembles a colossal pulpit, and from this pulpit, on which the great cloud brooded, the Almighty spoke to the people, giving them the ten commandments and also the other laws which were to guide them in their future life.

Moses went up first and God called to him out of the mountain, telling him what he should say to the people. He was to remind them how He had brought them out of Egypt, destroying their enemies. If they obeyed His voice they should be "a peculiar treasure unto Me above all people: for all the earth is Mine."

Calls Elders

Moses called the elders of the people and told them what the Lord had said. The people answered, "All that the Lord hath spoken we will do." And Moses returned the words of the people unto the Lord.

The Lord told Moses that He would appear in a thick cloud that the people might hear His voice on the third day, after they were cleansed and sanctified. They were not to come too near or touch the mount or they would die. On the third morning there were thunders and lightnings and a thick cloud upon the mount and the voice of the trumpet very loud, so that all the people were frightened and trembled.

"And Mount Sinai was altogether on a smoke, because the Lord descended upon it in fire and the smoke thereof ascended as the smoke of a furnace, and the whole mount quaked greatly."

The "trumpet sounded long and waxed louder and louder. Moses spake and God answered him by a voice." The Lord then told Moses to go down to the people and speak to them, which he did.

"God spake all these words, beginning, I am the Lord thy God, which have brought thee out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of bondage."

Then the Lord gave them the Ten Commandments, and after that "all the people saw the thunderings, and the lightnings and the noise of the trumpet, and the mountain smoking: and when the people saw it, they removed and stood afar off." Moses told them to "fear not: for God is come to prove you, and that His fear may be before your faces, that ye sin not." The first of the laws God gave related to relations with Him, the second section man's relationship to his fellow men.

The first lays after the Ten were concerning the erection of altars; the next the relationship of master and servant; then injuries inflicted upon others, the rights of property. Next sex crimes and the prohibition of all forms of oppression.

Offering of Firstborn

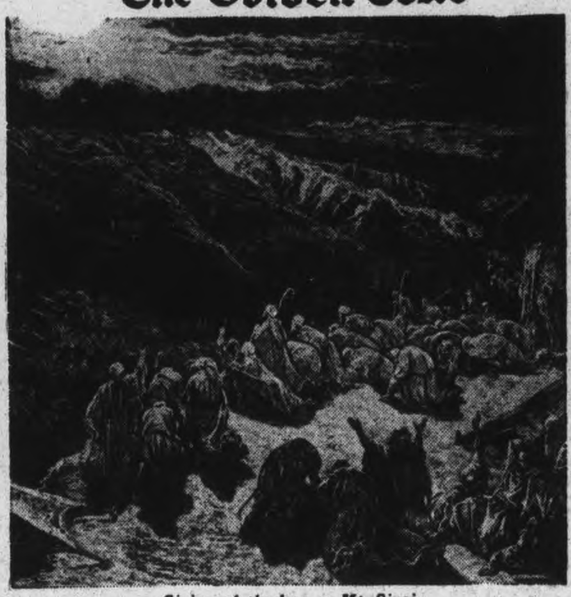
The seventh division was the offering of the firstborn and first fruits to the Lord. Next laws prohibiting falsity—"Thou shalt not take up a false report: put not thy hand with the wicked to be an unrighteous witness." They were not to oppress strangers or harm them, "for ye know the heart of a stranger, seeing ye were strangers in the land of Egypt."

They were instructed exactly how they should keep the Sabbath, and concerning the three great feasts of Israel.

Lastly, rules were given for their conduct when engaged in conquering Palestine, and Moses wrote down all the words of Jehovah, so that the Israelites could keep the laws always before them.

Love was to be the fulfilling of the law, however, "For ye, brethren, were called for freedom; only use not your freedom for an occasion to the flesh, but through love to be servants one to another. For the whole law is fulfilled in one word, even in this: Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." Gal. 5:13, 14.

The Golden Text



Giving of the law on Mt. Sinai.

"Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind; and thy neighbor as thyself."—Luke 1-27.

God's Prophets Not Seers Holy Word Is Inspiration

By E. R. JAMES

An Appeal to Divination

Let Us Go To The Seer.— 1 Sam. 9:9.

We read in this ancient Scripture that "the asses of Kish, the father of Saul were lost. The straying asses were the outward means of the meeting of Samuel, the Seer, and Saul, who was to be the first king of Israel. The suggestion of a servant is accepted. Many years later a little captive maid said unto her mistress:—"Would God, my lord Naaman were with the prophet that is in Samaria, for he would recover him of his leprosy." Often God uses very humble instruments for the working out of His plans.

Naturally Saul knew that money must be given to the Seer to persuade him to give the necessary information. This twentieth century is one of advance in science and invention. Yet have we advanced far from the day of Saul visiting the Seer? Tea cup reading fortune telling and astrology are very popular to-day. Multitudes believe in them.

Divination is an ancient craft and was at the root of all primitive religions. These seers apparently had the gift of looking into the future by means of trance, drugs or the inhaling of certain vapours. From this wild root sprang that most noble and influential class of men called the Hebrew prophets, the men of God.

The Hebrews were closely related to the Moabites, Edomites and Assyrians. These also practiced divinations and gradually became degraded nature worshippers, sensual and cruel — the outstanding traits of the Syrians. Why did not the Jewish prophets become degraded? Primarily the prophet of those early days was a man of emotional temperament. He went into a state of frenzy by dancing or singing. Such were the four hundred prophets of Baal, who whirled around the altar on Mount Carmel and cut themselves with knives. Elijah was not such a character. He stood on a higher plane.

Saul, the first King of Israel, comes into contact with similar men. Thus arose the proverb: — 'Is Saul also among the prophets?' Saul's action surprised thoughtful men and that as leader of the nation he should associate with such temperamental, exciteable men. We have to-day the intensely emotional preacher making his appeal to certain types of people.

Through God's guidance from this crude, passionate, dangerous beginning there grew and developed that most influential group of men called the prophets, the prophets of Holy Scripture.

Even in these days many look upon the prophet as a Seer, one who foretells the future. This was not the highest work of the ancient prophet. The man who left the deepest mark upon every generation was a FORTH - TELLER. He was a man who a deep sense of the Presence and the nearness of God to him. Through deep meditation and thought he realised some truth of God's. This often filled his heart with dismay. Jeremiah describes his experience: — "The Word of the Lord was in my mouth as a burning fire shut up in my bones. I could not contain." Jer. 20:9.

Amos, living about 750 B.C., impressed upon his hearers that he was not a prophet, nor the son of a prophet. He was not a man moved by emotion. Yet he has heard the Voice of Jehovah and he must speak. He had the similar experience of Elijah:—"The still small Voice of God."

What was the gulf between the prophet and the diviner, suave sooth sayer? It was CHARACTER. It was PERSONALITY. The prophet was a man from God, a man who had a deep sense of his call from God.

You have a son. Would you be willing to say over him the ancient familar words:— "Thou child shalt be called the prophet of the Highest." This age needs the prophet, the man from God. The man who strives to deepen his knowledge of the mind and character of God as revealed in the Holy Scriptures. He is to tell forth the thoughts of God for his generation. What a glorious ideal for your boy: "To give light to them that sit in darkness — the true work of the Seer; and to guide their feet into the way of peace—without money and without price."

I H[illegible]RD THE VOICE OF THE LORD SAYING UNTO ME: WHOM SHALL I SEND AND WHO WILL GO FOR US? THEN SAID I: SEND ME.

Peterborough Bishop To Be Consecrated Next Tuesday

Rev. John R. MacDonald, rector of St. Ninian's Roman Catholic Cathedral, Antigonish, N.S., nephew of the late Archbishop Neil MacNeil of Toronto, will be consecrated to the Bishopric of Peterborough, Ontario, at a solemn service in St. Ninian's on August 24.

The Bishop-elect is a son of the late Daniel A. MacDonald and Mrs. Christina MacDonald, born at Port Hood, July 9, 1891. Since his early day he has been associated with the cathedral in which he will be consecrated, serving first as altar boy, later he was ordained to the priesthood there, and 11 years ago became rector of the parish of St. Ninian's.

Father MacDonald was educated at St. Francis Xavier University, N.S., and at St. Augustine Seminary here. His ordination took place in 1916, following which he served as assistant at St. Ninian's until 1922, when he went on loan to the Diocese of Edmonton. For some time following his graduation from St. Francis in 1910 the Bishop-elect served as Director of St. Louis College, New Westminster.

The new Bishop's years in the priesthood have been marked by zeal in spiritual matters and by a wide interest in the temporal welfare of his people and in community affairs in general. While stationed at St. Andrew's in Antigonish County, he was instrumental in having hydro-electric service extended to the parish. He has taken a keen interest in group hospitalization, and as chairman of the Maritime Hospital Association dealing with the topic was largely responsible for he adoption of group hospitalization in the Maritimes.

Bishop-elect MacDonald will be installed at St. Peter's Cathedral, Peterborough, on September 7 by His Grace Archbishop McGuigan. The installation sermon will be preached by Bishop Brodeur of Alexandria.

The Stars Say

For Sunday, August 22,

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

Sunday's horoscope holds good encouragement for all spiritual, mystical, and idealistic activities and aspirations, but more material objectives may not enjoy desired progress. This could be due too only to erratic, peculiar or impulsive conduct, but those in influence and authority may withhold their support.

Those whose birthday it is may be confronted by a year in which the outcome depends upon individual integrity, cleverness and self-control. With restraint of erratic, crafty and curious outbursts, offensive to superiors and those who might give solid support, there might be excellent results.

For Monday, August 23

Monday's astrological forecast shows a sudden and exciting burst of enterprise and initiative by the unexpected turn of events, promising progress and rich adventure. Impulses and ambitions may be spurred to high tension by a surprising advent of opportunity, which may involve radical change and new environs.

Those whose birthday it is are encouraged to grasp with ardor, enthusiasm, enterprise and ingenuity a sudden opportunity, promising adventure, romance, expansive financial and credit stability, with many private as well as public acts of approval and appreciation.

God Gives Laws for His People — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON — By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Exodus 19-24; Deut. 11:18-21; Galatians 3:23-28; 5:13, 14

The children of Israel came to the wilderness of Sinai, and Moses went into the mountain to talk with God.

After the Lord had given His commands to Moses he called the elders and told them what the Lord had said.

On the third day, after the people had cleansed themselves they waited to hear the trumpet sound.

Amid thunderings and lightnings and from a great cloud the Lord gave His commandments.

The Next Blow

The Sicilian campaign is now complete, and it is unlikely that the United Nations will give the enemy a long pause in which to recover from that loss. The troops which fought in Sicily will have to be rested and re-equipped, but there are thousands of men in North Africa who were not in that campaign, and the Fighting French forces have still to be called on. Before the autumn we may expect to see another vigorous blow struck at the Axis, though no one can say how this will be done or from what quarter the blow will come.

Rumours and reports of troop movements and the clearing of coastal regions in Great Britain give weight to the opinion that an assault across the Channel may be brewing. Certainly the Germans are not discounting such a possibility. But it is also a fact that Italy is in a very shaky condition, and a bold attack now might knock her right out of the war, and probably a group of the weaker Axis satellites with her. It begins to look more and more as though Italy's government were a direct mouthpiece for German opinions, and as though that country were a military prisoner of her former ally. The Germans are not prepared to fight for the whole of Italy, and it may be that the greater part of the peninsula could be taken cheaply. The military gain would be comparatively little, but the political gain would be great. And the war has now reached a point where political considerations are quite as important as military ones, and must be used to the fullest advantage as possible means of victory.

The big attack on Italy may not be far away. Bombardment of Southern Italy from the sea has been carried on vigorously, and has had good results. If Italy were to fall, it would not be long before Germany found herself isolated, for victory in Italy would make it a fairly simple matter to rouse the fiery Balkans, where guerillas in great numbers wait only for a call to action.

As always, speculation on these matters is fruitless. All that can safely be said is that another powerful offensive is not far off, and that Italy looks like the place for a victory of both military and political value.

While The Going Is Good

A despatch from a usually reliable source in Switzerland says that the German Government is being moved from Berlin to Vienna. The Germans may well fear that their capital will suffer the fate of Hamburg. If government buildings in Berlin were to be bombed, records and documents would be destroyed which would seriously hinder the conduct of the war.

But why move to Vienna? That city is by no means out of bombing range. Can it be that this is a characteristic German dirty trick, and that an attempt will be made to declare Berlin an "open city", while the capital of Austria is bombed? If Berlin wants to become an open city it will be necessary to do more than remove the government departments from it; Berlin has many factories and railway junctions which are necessary to the war effort. If this report is true, we do not see what the Germans hope to gain from their move. The British and Americans, we are sure, are as ready to bomb Vienna as Berlin, though they would have some regret at destroying the lovely Austrian capital instead of the ugly Prussian one. The likelihood is that they would destroy both if it were necessary.

Hermann Goering's wife, also, has decided to go while the going is good, and has fled to Switzerland. This, we think, gives the measure of German leadership as well as anything which has happened in recent months. When London was bombed King George and Queen Elizabeth never once left it, except to pay hurried visits to other bombed areas. They flatly refused to send their children to Canada, and when their people were having hard luck they shared it; they upheld the tradition of leadership by the Royal House in a way which won them the undying gratitude and love of Londoners, and of the whole Empire. The Royal Family, the Prime Minister and the Cabinet stuck to the capital when things were at their worst.

But Emma Goering has fled to the safety of Switzerland. Hitler being unmarried, the wife of his chief aide is presumably the first lady of the Reich. What an example she has given! What confidence her action will inspire in the German people when they hear of her flight! Who will doubt that the ineffable Hermann will rush to join her when things look really black? Germany, a nation which has many elements of greatness, has fallen into poor hands indeed.

Mr. Cohen's One-Man Strike

Mr. J. L. Cohen, one of the three members of the National War Labour Board, has gone on a one-man strike; he has said that he "does not propose to take any active part in controversial cases" which may come before the board until the Government has given its opinion of a report which was submitted by Mr. C. P. McTague, the chairman of the board, and Leon Lalande, the other member of the board, and upon the independent report of Mr. Cohen himself.

In taking this action Mr. Cohen seems to be putting pressure on the Ministry of Labour. The reports which are involved in this matter were only yesterday given to the Hon. Mr. Mitchell, the Minister concerned, by Mr. Justice McTague, the chairman of the War Labour Board. What Mr. Cohen has said, in effect, is: "Act on these reports, or you'll have trouble with me". Such action from Mr. Cohen is not wholly unaccountable. He was formerly a legal advisor to the C.I.O., and the principle of striking for what he wants is familiar to him; it must be said, however, that the C.I.O. strikes after its demands have been refused, and not before they have been considered.

No attempt is made to defend present labour legislation, which is faulty in many respects. It was with a view to mending matters that the Government invited the War Labour Board to make its reports. Mr. Cohen's strike—which he announced in a very discourteous and bumptious manner—looks like an attempt to dictate Government labour policy from below. We do not think that the time has yet arrived when this can happen, and if Mr. Cohen puts himself in a position where he has to resign to save his face, he will have thrown away an opportunity to do much good for labour.

The War In The Air

Britain is now dropping fifty bombs on Germany for every bomb which Germany drops on Britain. It has been many months since the Luftwaffe has shown anything like its former strength in the west; on the east the Russians have inflicted very heavy losses on it. The chief industrial cities of Germany and Italy lie in ruins.

Major Alexander de Seversky has long maintained that the war could be brought to an end by intensive and thoroughly co-ordinated use of air power. So far nothing has been done on the scale which he suggests, but our air assaults on the Fortress of Europe have grown in strength, frequency and ferocity until we have now the upper hand in that sphere of warfare, and we shall not lose it. When Mr. Churchill spoke to the U.S. Congress last May he referred to suggestions that Germany be bombed out of the war in this comment: "The experiment is well worth trying, so long as other means are not excluded". The experiment is now in full swing.

German civilians can no longer count on adequate defence of their cities against air attack; German troops have to fight without that umbrella which is an essential of modern war. The bombing of the Ploesti oil fields in Rumania has reduced the supply of fuel oil from that source by 75 per cent., and it will not rise above 50 per cent. of its former production for at least a year. Now, when oil supplies are vital to Germany, this is a blow indeed.

We print herewith a table compiled in the offices of the New York Times which gives the weight of bombs dropped by British planes on Germany, and the weight of bombs dropped by German flyers on Britain. Bombing of Occupied Europe or Italy is not included, nor is any bombing carried out by American flyers in Britain. It is merely a record of the British-German air fight. The weight of bombs is expressed in tons:

	British Bombs	German Bombs
Third quarter, 1940	2,750	18,900
Fourth quarter, 1940	2,500	17,000
First quarter, 1941	2,700	8,000
Second quarter, 1941	7,200	11,600
Third quarter, 1941	8,800	1,600
Fourth quarter, 1941	4,200	600
First quarter, 1942	3,500	250
Second quarter, 1942	12,300	1,700
Third quarter, 1942	15,600	600
Fourth quarter, 1942	5,600	250
First quarter, 1943	17,400	800
Second quarter, 1943	36,700	700

This tells its own story. Britain is giving the Germans twice what they gave Britain in their proudest days, and is increasing the dose.

The Future of Taxation

NO. 2

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

THIS is a continuation of a discussion of the Beveridge Report which was begun on Wednesday.... We in Canada may well attend to the Beveridge Report, for it is the father of our Marsh Report, and the differences in detail do not invalidate general objections to both. And these objections are many. To begin with, precisely how can any Government undertake to provide Social Security in the complete Beveridge sense, and bind its successors to do the same? And if it makes the attempt, how can it do the job without a certain measure of tyranny? Suppose, for instance, that there is unemployment in Ontario and a demand for workers in Alberta; is the Government going to provide unemployment benefit in Ontario, or is it going to order a transfer of workers from Ontario to Alberta, just as it does in wartime? If it orders the transfer it makes serious inroads on the freedom of the people; and if it pays the benefits it subsidizes unemployment when logically there is no need for unemployment to exist. All nursemaids are tyrants, and the government which assumes one role must play the other as well.

◇ ◇ ◇

IT has also been argued that the adoption of a Social Security Plan will lower the general standard of living. The money with which such a plan is kept going has to come from somewhere, and Sir William Beveridge and Dr. Marsh plan to get it by "contributory" systems of national insurance. This contributory system boils down to a tax on wages, and we have discovered during this war that taxes on wages are deeply resented by the majority of workers. Salary earners are used to taxation; wage-earners, as a group, are not. Their demand is that a certain sum be in the pay envelope each week, or else they will strike. Theirs not to reason why their wages are taxed; it is enough for them that their wages are not as much as they expect. Many employers remember how the impost of the National Defence tax brought demands from their workers for a raise in pay—a demand, in short, that the employers should pay the tax. Collective bargaining puts workers in a strong position to make similar demands if a Social Security scheme demands "contributions" from them. A raise in the wage-scale brings a raise in the price of the finished goods; up goes the cost of living, and inflation is well on its way.

◇ ◇ ◇

IN this connection it must also be pointed out that the Beveridge scheme for contributory old-age pensions appears to overlook the fact that the value of money changes with the times. A man who wants an old-age allowance of any size must begin building it up when he is twenty-five or so. If he lived through two disastrous wars, as many people have done since the turn of the century, he would find that his contributions, so ample in 1905, looked very slim in 1945. A Social Security scheme looks much like another millstone round the neck of the nation which is struggling in a most insecure world.

◇ ◇ ◇

THERE are objections, also, to such a State Medical Scheme as Sir William sees in the future. Promises are made of great freedom under such a scheme, but bureaucrats have a way of simplifying their tasks by arbitarary measures. Doctoring is a very personal business, and no one wants a doctor attending him whom he cannot like or respect personally. Such a scheme would also, one feels, attract into the medical profession the sort of men who now seek posts in the minor branches of the Civil Service—those who want an easy life, without worry or responsibility, and with a pension at the end of it. Competitive medicine has its evils, but it attracts a better type of man than "State doctors," who would have no incentive to learn anything new or take more pains than were sufficient to keep them out of trouble. Doctors, like other professional men, want a chance to better themselves, a recognized social status, and rewards for exceptional ability; that is what attracts good men to the profession.

◇ ◇ ◇

THIS article already nears its limit, and a score of points arising from Social Security have not been touched. But the real problem is: does a country like Canada want "security" or does it want rewards for individual effort, individual self-reliance, and individual talent? Our ancestors did not come here to seek security; they came for freedom and a fair chance. Have we so declined in virility and enterprise that our chief desire is security, come hell or high water? If so we must prepare now to fall a victim to the first invader who cares to storm our shores.

An Herb Garden Gives Lasting Pleasure

In the garden of flowers, for weeks the whole interest lies in the anticipation of bloom which, unhappily, is gone in a few days, but in the herb garden, you will find more lasting interest. Here our interest is held from day to day in the unfolding of fragrant leaves, the grouping of plants, the gradual changes that take place from seed time to harvest. Herbs do not depend on their flowers for their beauty; yet they may be very colourful, as are the orange calendula, red bergamot, blue chicory, the characteristic lavender flowers; and when they bloom it is not for a day or a week, but frequently for week after week.

We find an ever new delight in the texture of the leaves, from furry to smooth; in the colour of the leaves, varying from a bright yellow green or the light grays to rich dark greens; in their fragrances, from the pungent santolina, clovelike basil, penetrating lavender to piny rosemary. In the house at all times, beautiful aromatic bouquets are lasting, and refresh the mind and spirit.... The culinary herbs, basil, savory, thyme, marjoram, and a dozen others, lift many a commonplace dish to gastronomic heights. A whiff of lemon verbena, of rosemary, of lavender can carry us back to childhood....

Many a doubting Thomas has asked, "How can you make an herb garden attractive?" That reveals a lack of fundamental garden knowledge, for most of the elaborate garden designs which have come down to us from the sixteenth century have been planted with herbs as, for example, the much reproduced knot gardens. Only the herbs permit of complicated garden patterns that stir one's admiration, and some of the most strikingly beautiful herb gardens are those designed in the English tradition with simple, orderly, rectangular plots. Herbs give permanence and form, low soft borders, neatly trimmed hedges, soft green or flowering carpets, tropical backgrounds, ground covers, massive clumps of prim little individual settings.—From "Herbs: Their Culture and Uses," by Rosetta E. Clarkson, (New York: Macmillan.)

Talking "Isn't Cricket" In Britain

(CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR)

ENGLAND does have a secret weapon, after all. You can see it sometimes in one of those squarish packs that the home guardsmen carry. It's too big to go clear inside and the end sticks out, looking rather like the handle of a tennis racquet.

An R.A.F. pilot officer obviously and purposefully returning from leave, may carry one. You can tell by the handle. And occasionally one protrudes from the kit of a naval officer with as many as four gold stripes upon his sleeve.

It was the captain, R.N., who demonstrates how it works. Exactly like a tennis racquet. It is a tennis racquet. And the point is that it's about the only secret you can learn in Britain these days.

For though there may be a lot of lessons the British haven't learned, like how to win the first battle and what to do about cabbage, they've learned about secrets. They know how to keep them.

The method is almost too simple. In the last war, if you had a good friend, the "thing to do" was to take him into your confidence. He was offended if you didn't.

But not in this war. The way you prove to a friend that he is a good friend is to let him know that you know he knows you know you mustn't talk. It isn't done.

Of course, there are posters—the charming drawings by Fougasse, art editor of Punch, showing Hitler listening in on the street car conversation. There are others; but they are few in comparison to the "Keep mum, Chum" campaign that has blossomed in the States.

The reason is that the British have been so close to the fires of Erebus that they need but little admonition. No one can quite tell you how it has developed; but somehow there is an atmosphere in which you would go down in the esteem of your best friend if you told him something he shouldn't know.

There are three tales:

A prominent minister of one of the governments-in-exile told it on himself. He had known about the plans of invading Africa. Last month, a member of the British war cabinet asked him:

"Would you like to know where the invasion will strike this time?"

"Certainly not. I had all I could do to keep quiet for three months last time!"

"You shouldn't have known last time. What I was going to tell you was that I wouldn't tell you."

And then there were the two friends, walking through St. James' Park after lunch. They came to Bird Cage Walk.

"I'll leave you here," said the official employee, turning at right angles, "I don't want you to see where I go."

And the story of the returning American. Back in London he met a young lady in the W.A.A.F. Before the war she did a great deal of work for him of a highly confidential nature. Now she has a job that has something to do with codes. He talked with her for an hour but that's all he knows.

So if the invasion comes, and if the details surprise Hitler, one of the reasons will be that you just don't talk. It isn't cricket.

Capital Closeups

By JAMES McCOOK, Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Aug. 21 (CP)—Diplomatic row in Ottawa, sometimes slender in years gone by, has become definitely imposing.

The increasing representation of nations at the Canadian capital has been taken by officials here as a demonstration of the growing stature of the Dominion in the family of nations.

Legations in Ottawa are maintained by Belgium, China, Poland, Norway, Yugoslavia, Greece, Czecho-Slovakia, Brazil, Chile, the United States, Sweden, Argentina, the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics and the Netherlands.

There are five representatives of governments of the British Commonwealth of Nations—Rt. Hon. Malcolm MacDonald, High Commissioner for the United Kingdom; Maj.-Gen. the Hon. Sir William Glasgow, High Commissioner for Australia; D. de Waal Meyer, accredited representative of South Africa; John J. Hearne, High Commissioner for Ireland, and R. M. Firth, Acting High Commissioner for New Zealand.

Peru and Cuba have consuls-general in Ottawa and representatives of the Fighting French have offices in the city.

There was a slight question of procedure at the opening of a sitting of the National War Labour Board the other day.

A labour representative said cheerfully that the request of himself and his colleagues was "so minor" that it would not delay the board for long.

"A diplomatic opening, anyway," said Mr. Justice C. P. McTague, board chairman, as he nodded for the hearing to proceed.

"The early Wren gets the worm," is the latest quip in these parts.

It developed from the decision of the Women's Royal Canadian Naval Service (composed of Wrens) to observe its first anniversary on Aug. 29 with a dance at the H.M.C.S. Bytown station in Ottawa. When the question arose about partners, it appeared the average When wanted a navy man as her escort. This led on to the further question of the plight of a navy man invited by a Wren rating who later received an invitation from a Wren officer. Or if a Wren officer asked the man the Wren rating was going to ask, what should he do? What should she do? What should they all do?

"Apparently commissioned rank is no advantage at this time," said a final authority. "The early Wren gets the worm."

Augustine's Chair

(London Letter, Ottawa Journal)

The comic story of St. Augustine's chair is enough to set on edge the teeth of all souvenir hunters.

This chair, which had been in Stanford Bishop Church from time immemorial, attracted the attention of masons who were carrying out church repairs about 100 years ago, and so unfavorably were they impressed by the venerable relic that they proposed to chop it up for firewood. But the sexton, who must have been a philosopher after Sir Walter Raleigh's own heart, begged the workmen to let him take it for a garden seat in which he might "sit and smoke his pipe on evenings under the old apple tree." What a charming picture is thus conjured up—the old sexton, with his gloaming pipe, smoking under his old apple tree while seated in the chair in which, according to well-authenticated history, the first Archbishop of Canterbury sat when he received the Welsh Bishops about 313 A.D.

This priceless souvenir remained in the sexton's garden until a doctor, who identified it, presented it to Canterbury about 1900. The Canterbury city fathers have now, while retaining their ownership handed it over to Stanford Bishop Church again.

"Yes," said the loquacious young man in the train, "I travel in underwear."

"Dear me," said the old gentleman opposite; "that must be very cold in winter."

A Bible Message

Blessed is the man that walketh not in the counsel of the ungodly, nor standeth in the way of sinners, nor sitteth in the seat of the scornful. But his delight is in the law of the Lord: and in his law doth he mediate day and night.

And he shall be like a tree planted by the rivers of water, that bringeth forth his fruit in his season; his leaf also shall not wither, and whatsoever he doeth shall prosper. (Ps. 1: 1-3.)

The law of the Lord is perfect, converting the soul: the testimony of the Lord is sure, making wise the simple. The statutes of the Lord are right, rejoicing the heart: the commandment of the Lord is pure, enlightening the eyes....

Who can understand his errors? cleanse thou me from secret faults. Keep back thy servant also from presumptuous sins; let them not have dominion over me: then shall I be upright, and I shall be innocent from the great transgression.

Let the words of my mouth, and the meditation of my heart, be acceptable in thy sight, O Lord, my strength, and my redeemer. (Ps. 19: 7, 8, 12-14.)

Unconsidered Trifles

"What's that building?" asked the stranger.

"That's the asylum for the blind," said the native.

"Go on, you can't fool me," said the stranger. "What's all them windows for?"

The Boston man, careful of his and other folk's grammar, asked the clerk for a man's comb.

"Do you want a narrow man's comb?" the clerk asked.

"No," said the man. "I want a comb for a stout man with rubber teeth."

"How are you getting on in your new place, Norah?"

"I think I'm going to like it. Yesterday I overheard the mistress say I performed my duties in a very perfunctory manner. That's the first praise I've had from her."

A solicitor's clerk, walking along the street with his employer, saw a ten-shilling note lying on the pavement and pounced upon it.

"What do you think?" he said to the solicitor, after examining it carefully. "It's a good one, isn't it?"

The solicitor took it and examined it in turn.

"Perfectly good," he pronounced, handing his clerk three shillings and fourpence change.

A man bought a canary from an animal dealer.

"You're sure this bird can sing?" he said, suspiciously.

"He's a grand singer."

The customer left. A week later he reappeared.

"Say! This bird you sold me is lame."

"Well, what did you want — a singer or a dancer?"

◇ ◇ ◇

"Did you notice any suspicious characters in the neighbourhood?" the magistrate inquired.

"Sure," replied the new Irish policeman. "I saw but one man and I asked him what he was doing there at that time o' night. Sez he: 'I have no business here just now, but I expect to open a bank in the vicinity later on.'"

"Yes," replied the magistrate, "and he did open a bank in the vicinity later on and stole £20,000."

"Begorra!" answered the policeman. "The man may have been a thafe, but he was no liar."

DOROTHY DIX

FOOLHARDY TO MARRY IN TEENS FOR TASTES CHANGE EVERY DAY

Playtime of Life Cut Off Just as Girl Wants to Dance, Be Admired by Many Boys

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: Recently a girl in our class, who is 17, ran away and got married. This has brought about a lot of discussion about early marriages in our group, as we are all between the ages of 16 and 18. We would like to know what you think of it. Will you please give the reasons for and against early marriages?

TEEN-AGE GIRLS

Girl Immature At 17

ANSWER: If a girl had no parents, no relatives or friends who would give her a shelter, no skill by which she could support herself, a marriage while she was still in her early teens might save her from starving to death, but it would not assure her of a happy life. But for girls who are normally situated and who do not have to marry for a meal ticket, no argument can be adduced in favor of an early marriage. It is too big a gamble and, Heavens knows, there are enough dangers in marriage, anyway, without taking any foolhardy risks.

The main reason why no girl should marry at 16 or 17 is because she is still a child in many ways. She is immature. Her tastes are unformed. She does not know what she is going to be herself when she is adult, and still less does she know what she is going to want in a husband.

You school girls know well enough that your tastes your ideas and ideals are changing every day. You have outgrown your likes just as you have outgrown your clothes. The gooey soft drinks that you couldn't get enough of last summer nauseate you now. The hat you were crazy about six months ago you won't put on your head now. The boy you thought tops two weeks ago bores you stiff to-day.

That is just growth, and it is a fine thing to happen to you now, but just suppose you had married Tommy or Dickie or Harry, whose every move gets on your nerves and whom you are so sick of now you can't bear him? And suppose now that you met some fine chap whom you could look up to and who could give you a nice home and security and be somebody you wou[illegible] be proud to belong to, but you are tied down to that foolish child-marriage? Can you think of any worse tragedy than that?

Another reason for not marrying when you are young is that it cuts you off from all the playtime of life. You may think that you are so in love with Johnny that you won't care about parties nor having good times, and that just sitting at home with him will be all the amusement you desire. But that isn't true. When you are young, you are going to want to dance and step out and be admired and have pretty clothes and have men tell you how beautiful and wonderful you are. But if you are married you will have to cut out all of that. Especially if you marry a boy who is not much older than yourself and who hasn't had time to get settled in business nor to command more than a very small salary.

Then instead of being carefree and having a good time, you will be cooking and washing and baby tending and pinching pennies, and you will be envying every one of your school mates who had sense enough to wait until they were ready for marriage.

Statistics show that by far the greater number of divorces are gotten by young people. So that shows how early marriages turn out. And among the thousands and thousands of letters that I get from unhappily married men and women, nearly every one starts off "I married when I was very young."

Of course, occasionally a young marriage does turn out happily, but it is an accident when it does for the happiness of a marriage depends upon the congeniality of the husband and wife and it is seldom, indeed, when a boy and girl who marry develop equally. Nearly always one outgrows the other one, then that means misery for both.

There is a lot of time to be married, girls, so take it easy. Don't be in a hurry about it. Wait until you are adult yourself and have seen a lot of men before you make your pick.

DEAR MISS DIX: A married man, 25 years old, has fallen in love with me. We both work in a defense plant. He has two children a boy 3½ years old and a girl not quite one. His wife must be splendid as she worked to help buy him a car. She takes fine care of the children and he loves them and cares for her, too, but runs after me. He takes me out in his car and give me a nice time. But there are his wife and his children.

I would give him up, only reluctantly. Would a single girl find happiness with a married man who leaves a family behind?

WAND.

Heavy Price Attached To Immorality

ANSWER: Not unless she has a heart as hard as a rock. For if she had a particle of conscience she would always be bound to remember the forsaken wife and the fatherless children. It is modern to think that all the old moral laws have gone into the discard, and that sinners no longer have to pay the price of their wrongdoing.

But this is not true. What we sow, we have to reap. The fool has to suffer for his folly. We can't hurt others without hurting ourselves, and the only real happiness we ever know is that we take with clean hands. So I doubt if any woman who breaks up another woman's home doesn't regret it.

My advice to you is to let this man, who has a fine wife to whom he has not been faithful for even five years, alone. He would probably tire of you just as soon, for evidently faithfulness and a sense of responsibility are not in him, and the chances are that you would soon be joining the list of wives he has had and left.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I have been going with a man who is very nice to me, takes me to shows, dinners, night clubs, dances and so forth, but he has never mentioned marriage. About three months ago a friend of mine told me that he was being seen at different places with a girl who is very attractive and about three years younger than I am. I mentioned it to him one night, but he denied it. He has only broken one date with me, but I am not sure of what he does on the nights he is not with me.

I am very fond of him and don't want to lose him. What do you think I had better do? Shall I tell this other girl to lay off? Or shall I break some dates with him and see how he likes it?

ANXIOUS.

ANSWER: By all means have other dates yourself. As long as he knows that you are sitting up waiting for him he will think he can take you, or leave you, as he pleases. But, as you are not engaged to him and he has never mentioned marriage to you, what right have you to dictate to him about going out with other girls? Don't humiliate yourself by telling the other girl to "lay off." You will just make yourself ridiculous.

Burns-Moher

The wedding took place at St. Peter's on Monday with Rev. Fr. J. T. Finn officiating, of Margaret May Moher, daughter of James J. Moher of St. Louis, Missouri, and the late Mary Elizabeth Moher, to LAC. James Gordon Burns, R.C.A.F. of Montreal, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Burns of Marmora. Miss Marion Best, A.T.C.M., was at the organ and Miss Phyllis Cowie sang.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a portrait gown of white corded satin with a finger-tip tulle veil sung from a heart-shaped headdress caught with orange blossoms, and carried a cascade of Dream roses and bouvardia. Miss Margaret Lonergan of Toronto, was bridesmaid, wearing a torso frock of orchid sheer over taffeta. Miss Blanche Allen was maid of honor in cornflower blue taffeta. Both wore matching veils and carried Butterfly roses.

Mr. Frank Burns of Toronto, was his brother's best man and the ushers were Mr. C. A. Burns, brother of the groom, and Mr. Robert Moher of Belleville, brother of the bride.

Sixty guests were entertained at a reception at the Kawartha Club where the bride's aunt received in a gown of blue flowered crepe with a corsage of talisman roses. Mr. Burns, the groom's mother, also received, wearing black sheer and a corsage of Johanna Hill roses.

When the couple left on a motor trip the bride wore a chocolate brown coat dress with matching accessories and a corsage of gladiolus petals.

Social Workers Give Aid To War Victims

One of the encouraging features connected with the administration of the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund, and the raising of money for the objects the fund seeks to assist, is the marked manner in which time and again those who have given on previous occasion have come back with more help in a practical way, demonstrating that they too, in common with those responsible for the fund's progressiveness, have not lost that vision which is so necessary in all things pertaining to the war, to keep on the go until the day of victory has arrived.

The Peterborough Workers and Unemployed Association have been represented in the receipt list for the fund on a number of occasions, their previous givings in the aggregate amounting to the nice sum of $100.00, and once again they are back with a further contribution of $25.00, to repeat their former acts on behalf of those requiring aid in Britain.

Original Boxes

Two penny box collections are listed, one of them coming from Bert McLeod's Drug Store, which incidentally happens to be the spot where the penny box in relation to the fund originated, since which time it has kept steadily on the job in accumulating help for the purposes it started out to assist, and the other comes from the local branch of the Royal Bank of Canada.

Among these, the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund has played no inconsiderable part through the raising of close on to $62,000, all of which has gone to help back up the excellent morale exhibited by the people in the front line of Britain, besides giving a practical helping hand to help restore many of those who have suffered through enemy air raid attacks, with the consequent loss of their homes by reason of these.

Mary E. Vasey Weds Donald Kinch

The marriage took place in St. Peter's Cathedral on Thursday of Mary Evelyn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Vasey of Patterson street to Donald Frederick Kinch, son of Mrs. Alice Kinch and the late William Kinch of Niagara Falls, New York. Rev. Fr. G. Wolff performed the ceremony and said the nuptial mass.

The church was beautifully decorated with pink gladioli and white phlox. Miss Marion Best, A.T.C.M. was at the organ and Mr. George Daly sang the "Ave Maria" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gracefully attired in a floor length gown of white embossed satin made on princess lines with a sweetheart neckline and slight train. Her veil of embroidered net fell from a shirred headdress caught with a cluster of white flowers and she carried a cascade bouquet of white gladioli.

The maid of honor, Miss Anne Mahoney, wore a floor-length gown of pink net and satin and a hat of matching ribbon. Miss Margaret McMurray, cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid in a gown of powder blue sheer with matching hat. Both carried nosegays of pink gladioli and blue cornflowers. The best man was Mr. Ernest Gilbert and Mr. Frank Vasey, brother of the bride, was the usher.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where the bride's mother received wearing a gown of navy blue sheer with a corsage of red roses. She was assisted by the groom's mother, who wore a black and white ensemble with a corsage of pink roses.

Later the bride and groom left for a trip to Toronto, the bride travelling in a dress of blue silk jersey with brown accessories.

They will live at 413 Sixth street, Niagara Falls, New York.

Ethel Sluggett Is Married To E. J. Simpson

George Street United Church was decorated with ferns and gladioli to-day for the wedding of Ethel Marie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley John Sluggett to Edward John Simpson, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Simpson. Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe performed the ceremony and Miss Lenore Skitch played the wedding music.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a gown of white brocaded satin with a white silk net veil caught with orange blossoms. She wore single strand pearl necklace and carried red Bettertime roses. Phyllis Griffith, bridesmaid, and Maxine Sluggett, sister of the bride, maid of honor, wore street-length frocks of blue silk jersey with veils of matching silk net, and carried nosegays of mixed flowers. Mr. Harold Deyell was best man, and the ushers were Mr. Eric Wilson and Mr. Donald Robinson.

A reception was held in Hooper's Palm Room, where the bride's mother received in a gown of flowered sheer with a white leghorn hat, assisted by the groom's mother, who wore navy sheer with matching hat. Both wore corsages of pink roses.

When the bride and groom left on a wedding trip, the bride was wearing a navy crepe frock with white trim and navy accessories, and carried a beige polo coat.

Goselin-Dionne Nuptials At Sacred Heart

The wedding took place today in Sacred Heart Church of Beatrice Aleene Dionne, daughter of Mr. J. Dionne and the late Mrs. J. Dionne to John Joseph Goselin, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. Goselin, Ware street. Rev. Fr. J. J. O'Brien performed the ceremony and the wedding music was played by Mr. J. Armstrong. Mrs W. Prindible sang during the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a charming floor-length gown fashioned with a white embroidered bodice and a full skirt of sheer net over taffeta. Her veil of white net was caught to her head with a wreath of orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of roses. Miss Agnes Dionne, sister of the bride, attended her, wearing a lovely frock of pale blue taffeta, a matching veil caught with a coronet of roses, and she carried a bouquet of roses. Mr. Gerald Goselin, brother of the groom, was best man and the ushers were Mr. Claire Dionne, brother of the bride, and Mr. Francis Lucano.

A reception was held at the May-fair cafe, where guests were received by the groom's mother, who wore a frock of powder blue silk jersey with matching hat.

When they left on their short wedding trip the bride wore a tailored suit of brown pin-stripe with beige accessories. They will live in Peterborough.

JOE KIRKWOOD — WALTER HAGEN

Golf feud between Joe Kirkwood, well-known trick shot artist, and Walter Hagen, colorful veteran of many tournaments, continues to simmer with Kirkwood now announcing his resignation from the Professional Golfers' Association because of treatment received in the Ryder Cup matches in Detroit. Kirkwood claims he was invited to play on Hagen's team but was left off. Hagen has been quoted as saying that Kirkwood had no place on the squad because he (Hagen) beat him in a practice round. Kirkwood now has challenged Hagen to a match with a $2,000 side bet on the results.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By CHARLES EDWARDS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Aug. 21 — (CP). — Death of Wes Champ in Regina this week recalled the Prairies' greatest hockey era—1921-25 when the Western Canada Hockey League functioned with teams from Calgary, Edmonton, Saskatoon and Regina forming a major professional circuit. Champ was owner and manager of the Regina Caps. His players included some of the greatest names of hockey: Dick Irvin, Geo. Hay, Art Gagne, Ed Shore, Charlie McVeigh, Spunk Sparrow, Duke Dutkowski, Amby Moran, Puss Traub, Red McCusker. One of Champ's most prized possessions was Shore's first professional contract. It was Wes who induced Shore to leave an amateur team in Melville, Sask., and sign with the Caps in the 1924-25 season. The contract provided a salary of $1,500 for the season. After selling the Caps to Portland, Ore., in 1925 when the Western Canada League folded, Champ dropped out of professional hockey, but he sponsored amateur teams in Regina. Champ was born in Galt, Ont., 57 years ago. He moved to Regina in 1914 and became a prominent hotelman there.

Hey Frank.
Bill Walshe, sports editor of the Kingston Whig-Standard, fishing in the St. Lawrence off Kingston last week-end, landed a giant maskinonge 57 inches long and weighing somewhere between 20 and 120 pounds depending, as Bill put it, "on the strength of the lifter or his imagination." This catch inspired Walshe to pen an open letter: "Dear Mr. Roosevelt,—You still made a major mistake in your fishing trip to the Manitoulin. We repeat you should have visited Frontenac County."

Incidentally:
George Mackintosh of the Edmonton Journal says that contrary to reports that Neil Colville is being posted to Alberta, the former New York Rangers hockey star will go to Camp Borden along with Ken Reardon as soon as he ends a furlough in Edmonton. Mackintosh confirms that Mac Colville, Eddie Slowinski, and Jim Henry are being posted to Alberta. Their destination is Red Deer, which had team in the Alberta Services League last winter. Jack McGill will accompany the four to Red Deer....Jim Coleman of the Toronto Globe and Mail reports that Pop Poplowski, Jim Partridge, Ed Sarvis and Jack Parry, stars of last season's Toronto R.C.A.F. football team, now are overseas.

New Talent Billed For Big Card

You can call him the Colored Comet or the Ebony Flash or even Dark Lightning, but most of the wrestling fans know him as Gentleman Jack Clayborne. He's the greatest colored wrestler in the world today and some say he is the greatest wrestler regardless of color, anywhere. Clayborne was born in Capetown, South Africa, and is eligible for the British Empire championship now held by Whipper Watson of Toronto. But first Gentleman Jack has to get past that other Jack, Palermo John Katan. And that is what Clayborne aims to do and do it right here in Peterborough on Monday night next. Katan and Clayborne should make a great match of it as the colored giant is reputed to be the fastest of all the big men. On top of that Gentleman Jack has demonstrated in many bouts that he has super wrestling ability.

Several new names will be on Monday night's program besides Gentleman Jack. In the semi-final Freddie Steele tackles Pat Flanagan and Johnny Gyroffy comes here against the Greek, George Tofalos.

Steele is a cousin of the great Ray Steele and aims to follow in the footsteps of his illustrious kinsman. Gyroffy is a rugged specimen who knows his way around a mat and intends to show it at the expense of the little Golden Greek.

Leads Lacrosse

CORNWALL — (CP). — Canadian Army team of Valleyfield took the lead in the Quebec Senior Lacrosse Loop by administering a 6-1 win over Cornwall-St. Regis last night, coming from behind to take the match. Charlie Phillips of Valleyfield was leading scorer with six goals.

Dark-Horse Golfer Takes Big Lead

CHICAGO, Aug. 21—(AP)—Sgt. Jim Turnesa of Staten Island, N.Y., carried the colors of the Army into the 18-hole lead of the Chicago Victory National golf meet yesterday, using a torrid putter to melt four strokes from the Beverly course par for a card of 35-32—67.

The stocky little sergeant, one of the youngest members of the famed Turnesa golfing tribe, thus began another dark-horse gallop through a chosen field of 41 top performers, reminiscent of his great ride in the 1942 P.G.A. tournament—when he knocked off Ben Hogan and Byron Nelson en route to the final championship round which he lost, 2 and 1, to Sammy Snead. Mike Turnesa of White Plains, N.Y., also was among the front runners with a 70, but brother Joe Turnesa of Rockville Center, N.Y., kited to a 78.

Sgt. Jim held a one-stroke advantage over Sam Byrd of Philadelphia, one-time understudy for Babe Ruth with New York Yankees, and Byron Nelson of Toledo.

Nelson, missing the greens only twice during his round, shot a two-under-par 34 on the front nine after sinking a 15-foot putt and chipping dead on two other holes for three birdies. Another 15-footer gave him a birdie on the 14th and 34 coming home after he had failed to clip three more strokes from par by missing a series of putts under eight feet.

Shoots Regulation 35

Byrd was out in 33 with birdie putts ranging from 12 to 25 feet, and came in with a regulation 35 after three-stroking for a bogey which he nullified by reaching the 527-yard 18th green in two for a bird.

Jim birdied the first hole with a two-foot putt, then parred the rest in order for a front nine of 35. His 32 on the home trip was decorated by three deuces, with two 12-foot putts and another of seven, and he grabbed a fourth birdie on the 18th with a 10-footer.

Grouped at 69 were Craig Wood, the 1941 United States Open champion from Mamaroneck, N. Y.; veteran Harry Cooper of Minneapolis, and colorful Jimmy Demaret of Detroit.

Another man in uniform, Sgt. Jim McHale, an ex-Philadelphia pro who turned amateur and now is stationed at Baltimore, posted a 70 along with Willie Goggin of White Plains, N.Y.

Lloyd Mangrum of Los Angeles, Ky Laffoon of Tulsa, Okla., and Pte. Chick Harbert of Camp Grant, Ill., registered even pars of 71, making up a list of 11 players who equalled or bettered the regulation count.

McHale's 70 topped the bracket of 11 amateurs. He was followed in this section by Steve Kovach of Tarentum, Pa.; Ray Billows of Poughkeepsie, N.Y., and Johnny Lehman of Chicago with 74 apiece, and Wilford Wehrle of Rachine, Wis. with 75.

SPORTS — DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

The Military Training Centre-4th Battery series is all tied up as a result of the Gunners' 7 to 4 win last night with each club having won two games and they will clash Monday night in the tussle that should settle the argument—unless they play another draw. They have already tied two battles in this hectic round. The Gunners who looked to be hopelessly out of it a week when the Soldiers beat them for the second time in succession and they had been held to a total of five hits in the two engagements have battled themselves right back into the middle of the contention again. This week they have met the Training Centre three times and have won two of the arguments and tied the other. Now it is anybody's round. Each club has won twice and two fixtures have been tied in the six game series and so evenly matched have been the teams that each of them has scored a total of 32 runs in the six games played. The final game scheduled for Riverside Park on Monday night should be the most thrilling struggle of the whole campaign for interest in the outcome is now at fever-heat.

Young Bob Crowe, upon whose youthful shoulders the responsibility of pitching the game in which a loss meant the end of the trail for the Battery was thrust came through like a champion last night, holding the Soldiers to six hits and pitching courageously and effectively. Even after his support wavered in the sixth and gave the Training Centre two unearned runs to put them in the lead Crowe refused to crack and he blanked the opposition on one scratch hit for the balance of the game. Then he walked up to the plate in the eighth with two out and the winning run on third and lashed a double to left that meant the ball game. It was a scrappy battle with arguments over four close decisions at the plate and with a number of casualties as well. Tony McIlveen was badly shaken up in blocking Crowe at the plate in the first inning, Jim Ellis was hit by a hot shot from Dalton's bat and wound up with a swollen leg, McKerrigan was spiked on the knee in retiring Jones at second in the fourth and finally Jones sprained his ankle badly in scoring the tieing run in the eighth. Jones was the only accident victim who had to leave the game.

Back In The Running

The Aircraft girls who faced elimination from the senior playoffs when they met Westclox last night came through handsomely to beat the Big Bens 9 to 5 and now they are back in the thick of the fight again. Westclox with three wins needed just another victory to take the title but it was not their night. In spite of the fact that Isobell Bullock who held the Aircraft to two runs Wednesday night was sent back at them, the girls from the C.G.E. had their batting togs on and they said it with home runs. Eleanor Craig's circuit smash with one on in the third gave them a lead that they never lost after that. Now the teams have to battle again and they will clash Monday night at the Bowl. A win for the Big Bens will settle the whole affair. On the other hand another triumph for Aircraft will tie up the series at three wins each and force a seventh game to decide the championship. It will probably be Norma Strickland against Isobel Bullock again Monday night and that should make it a battle all the way. The Aircraft win last night has renewed interest in the series and the next tussle should be a honey.

Promoter Frank Tunney is certainly dishing out a mess of new wrestling fare for Peterborough fans on Monday night with a fresh grappler in each of the three bouts. In addition to the Colored Comet, Gentleman Jack Clayborne who battles fiery John Katan in the main bout, the card includes Glendale Freddy Steele who is billed to clash with Pat Flanagan in the semi-final and a new bad man Johnny Gyroffy who is scheduled to make life miserable for the Little Golden Greek, George Tofalos in the opening bout. That shapes up as one of the most entertaining programs of the season. Clayborne, big and fast, should be real opposition for Katan if he can keep out of reach of those pulverizing chin locks the Panther favors. The colored boy comes with a great reputation but he'll need more than that to keep even with Katan who is strong and tough and likes the going hard. As for Freddie Steel who is a nephew of the famous Ray of the same ilk he too has been making quite a showing in the mat game and he and mule-kicking Pat Flanagan are not likely to do much loafing. The noisy Greek wrestler George Tofalos starts to grunt with the first bell and continues to puff and pant and growl all the way through will probably find a lot of excuses for making noises when he hooks up with Gyroffy whose idea of wrestling is to take the other fellow apart and neglect to put him together again.

Bob Elliott Hurt

Peterborough ball players and fans will be sorry to hear that Bob Elliott of the Kingston Ponies has been the victim of a painful accident in which he sustained a double fracture of his right thumb. Elliott, always one of the most popular of the Kingston ball squad played many games against the Petes, both with Deloro and with the Ponies. Bill Walshe has the following in his Kingston sport column about the accident: "Aluminums chances for the city baseball championship received several bad blows recently but the worst came last night at the Cricket Field when Catcher-leader Bob Elliott suffered a double fracture of the thumb on his pitching hand. Playing in semi-darkness, following a heavy shower, with the ball dark and slippery, a foul tip escaped the reliable receiver. Game to the core, Elliott wanted to finish the game and insisted that a player pull the injured thumb into place but further examination revealed the break. Dr. Bruce Hopkins, who was watching the game, took one look at the bleeding, broken diget and rushed Elliott to a hospital. For Bob Elliott, it may be the end of a remarkable career in team sports, or at least it should be, as the risk of playing body-contact games with only one eye is much too great. Elliott suffered the loss of an eye while playing football for Queen's, but it has not stopped him in the toughest of Canadian sports. He played on the secondary defence in football, as infielder and catcher in baseball and a guard position in basketball."

* * * * * *

"Elliott can be classed with Kingston's greatest athletes and best sportsmen," continues the tribute. "He puts everything into a game and likes to win but is always a good loser. A natural star as a player, he is also outstanding as a leader and a coach. He has made a careful study of his favorite sports and is always willing to give younger player advice, even though they may be opposing him. Elliott could probably hold his own with the best coaches in senior football. Appointed coach of Queen's football, a position he deserved on his ability and loyalty to his university and city, Elliott developed two great machines for the Tricolor in the last two years. Many of the players on his Queen's squads never played the game before but he taught them the tricks and he proved that Queen's will not have to look far for a senior coach when Intercollegiate play is resumed after the war."

3 Home Runs Feature Close Argument

Aircraft girls fought their way back into the running for the senior championship of the Girls' Softball League last night when they defeated Westclox 9 to 5 in the fifth game of their best-of-seven round. The series now stands three wins for the Big Bens and two for the Aircraft with the sixth argument coming up Monday night.

It was another good battle with Norma Strickland on the hill-top for the winners and Isobel Bullock going the route for the Westclockers.

The latter was hit harder than usual and the Aircrafters came through with three homers, Eleanor Craig and Audrey Patterson each hitting for the circuit with a runner on the bases and Marg. Selkirk coming through with nobody on. These long-distance raps won the argument for the Aircrafters.

Norma Strickland pitched steady ball and kept the Westclox hits well scattered.

Aircraft opened the scoring in the first when Phyllis Bigelow started with a single and eventually scored on an error.

Westclox tied it up in the second when Marg. Watson, Verna Patterson and Barbara Rome came through with hits.

After Marilyn Low had got on on an error in the third Eleanor Craig smashed out a homer to put Aircraft in front 3 to 1. The winners added two more in the fourth on a single by Phyllis Bigelow, a couple of walks and a single by Marg. Selkirk.

The Westcloxers got that pair back in their half of the inning on singles by Marg. Hawthorne, Marg. Watson and Beryl Dobbin and a couple of Aircraft misplays.

The league leaders cut down the lead to one run in the sixth when Marg. Hawthorne crossed the plate, but Aircraft came back with singles in the seventh and the eighth and Audrey Patterson's homer with one on was good for two in the ninth.

The best the Westclox could do was a solitary run in the ninth, on a triple by Doris Walker and Aggie Anderson's single.

Sport Shorts From Britain

By ALAN NICKLESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Aug. 21 — (CP). — Orestes and Fair Fame, the two best two-year-olds in Britain, carry the silks of two women famed for the thoroughbreds they have purchased in recent years.

The owners are the Hon. Dorothy Paget, internationally-known racing figure who has purchased an estimated $660,000 worth of blood stock in the last 15 years, and Mrs. Betty Lavington, a comparative newcomer to the sport—who resides in the spa town of Bath.

Miss Paget owns Orestes who, as winner of the Coventry Stakes at Newmarket, a semi-classic sprint for youngsters; rates as the outstanding two-year-old colt of the season so far.

Mrs. Lavington showed rare knowledge of bloodstock for a beginner. She purchased Fair Fame, a fast filly that didn't take kindly to a starting gate. That nervousness was cured before the animal went to the post in Mrs. Lavington's colors. Since then Fair Fame has galloped to three successive victories, including the strongly-contested Queen Mary Stakes, a 5-furlong event that held second-billing to the classic Oaks at a Newmarket meet last June.

Orestes won the Coventry for Miss Paget less than an hour after she took her first Derby triumph in years of trying. And just to refresh the memory, Straight Deal was the name of the Derby winner.

Probably the biggest individual owner of thoroughbreds in Britain, Miss Paget has shown interest in most sports throughout her career. Latest to catch her fancy is greyhound racing, and she took her first triumph at Dublin a few weeks ago when her dog, Valiant Lad, won a $30.00 stake race.

Several years ago Miss Paget owned a fleet of racing automobiles and had some of the best drivers in Britain under contract. Coursing also interested her and one of her greyhounds reached the semi-final of the International Cup last season.

In addition to her strong racing interests in England, Miss Paget has been one of the mainstays of wartime racing in neutral Eire during the last four years. Her large stable at Epsom is managed by a young trainer, Walter Nightingall.

Racing authorities called it prelude to a post-war boom in bloodstock when Britain and Eire shipped 30 racehorses to Spain and Portugal. All the horses or their sires are race winners.

The animals reached the two neutral countries by neutral ship from Eire to Lisbon. Commenting on the Spanish purchase, one authority said "our information is that the government in Spain want to replace bull-fighting by racing as the national sport."

Among the horses shipped were three three-year-olds, including Brehon Law, grey son of the Aga Khan's Bahram, a triple crown winner in England. Brehon Law was sent to Spain.

Cleo Shans Loses Ten Round Battle

NEW YORK, Aug. 21—(AP)—In spite of a lackadaisical performance Bobby Ruffin had too much reach and boxing skill for Cleo Shans, the stumpy Los Angeles Negro, and won an easy 10-round decision last night in Madison Square Garden. Ruffin scaled 133; Shans 134¾.

Although Shans, who was a late substitution for Sal Bartolo, was the aggressor virtually throughout, and Ruffin was on a back-pedalling bicycle most of the way, the Long Island lightweight was rarely in trouble and seemed to be fighting only when and as much as he had to in taking the feature event of the first Garden fight show since June 11.

Tempers Flare; Series Tied Two-All

Coming from behind with a four-run splurge in the last of the eighth, the 4th Battery club tied up their long-drawn-out series with Military Training Centre at Riverside Park last night by winning the scrappiest game of the season 7 to 4. The round is now all sewed up with each club having won two and the rivals will meet Monday night to settle the argument.

Manager Dormer sent young Bob Crowe in to do the pitching for the Battery as a surprise selection and the youngster justified the choice by coming through with a six-hitter and helping his own cause with a couple of timely hits. Crowe pitched fine ball. He did not allow a hit until parsons homered with two out in the fourth and although the Soldiers bunched a couple of doubles in the fifth for their second run, their scoring so far as the Battery pitcher was concerned should have ended there. Their other two runs in the sixth were unearned.

Jack Wilson, who held the Battery to three hits last Saturday found them a tougher bunch of batters last night and yielded 14 blows, six of them doubles. Four of these raps were bunched with a base on balls in the eighth to give the Gunners four runs and the ball game.

It was a game packed full of thrills and arguments. Umpire Pat Calladine had four close plays at the plate and every one of the quartette caused a storm. The Gunners kicked so hard at a decision on Ned Vitarelli in the eighth that Art Heal was tossed out. Earlier in the battle there was nearly a riot when First baseman Morgan jostled Vitarelli after the latter had been retired at first. Players and fans milled around for a while but peace was eventually restored.

The Battery took an early lead of 3 to 0. Then the Training Centre caught and passed them in the middle innings, only to have the Gunners come through with their big rally in the eighth to win the and tie up the series.

Les Burton with three doubles and Bill Jones with a double and two singles led the hitters for the winners, with Bob Crowe coming through with run-producing hits twice. Tom Parsons had a homer for the Soldiers with nobody on. Tony McIlveen with two singles was the only member of the losers to get more than one blow. In addition to his good hitting Jones snared five flies in right field and tossed out a runner at the plate. Soldiers' best fielding play was a double started by McKerrigan who tagged Burton on the line and threw Stewart out at first.

Battery Strike Early

Battery broke out in front in the first inning. Heal bunted safely with no play made on him to start the inning and went to second on a wild pitch. Crowe pushed a single over second to send the run in. Burton walked and Eddie Starr moved the pair along with a sacrifice bunt. Stewart bounded to Dalton and Crowe scored on the play when McIlveen dropped the ball in trying to tag the runner on Morgan's throw home. Ellis popped to Dalton.

The Gunners made it 3 to 0 in the third. With one away Burton doubled to right centre. Starr rolled to McKerrigan. Joe Stewart pasted a double into centre field to score Burton, Ellis rolled out.

Soldiers got their first hit off Crowe and their first run with two out in the fourth. Parsons drove a long one over Burton's head for a homer. A quick relay, Burton to Heal to Starr made it decidedly close at the plate but Umpire Calladine called the runner safe in spite of loud protests from the Gunners. Mortimer ended the inning with a fly to Jones in right.

There were two out in the fifth when the Training Centre team struck again. Morgan bounced a double over third and ran home when Ossie Anderson duplicated the feat. Tony McIlveen singled viciously to right field and Anderson was called out at the plate on Jones' good throw when he tried to score from second. This time it was the Soldiers who did the howling at the decision.

Gunners' only error of the night made a lot of trouble for Crowe in the sixth. He walked McKerrigan to start with. Dalton flied deep to Jones in right. Parsons rolled to short but the ball got away from Heal and McKerrigan ran to third and Parsons to second. Mortimer bounded to Heal who tagged Parsons on the line, McKerrigan scoring on the play. Mason batted for Herrick and lined to centre. When the ball took a bad hop past Stewart, Mortimer scored and the batter reached third. Wilson flied to Stewart to end the inning.

That was the last Soldier scoring. Crowe allowed them only one scratch single in the last three frames. The Gunners wasted hits by Vitarelli and Tompkins in the sixth and a double play started by McKerrigan killed their chances in the seventh when Burton doubled and Starr got on on a fielder's choice.

However they broke the game wide open in the eighth. Wilson started well by fanning Jim Ellis but Vitarelli singled and Bill Jones rapped a double over second, sending Vitarelli to third. Honey Tompkins rolled to Anderson who fired home and Umpire Calladine called Vitarelli out as he tried to score on the play. The Gunners swarmed around the official in protest against the decision but the only result of the uproar was the ejection of Heal from the game for kicking too vigorously. Tommy Miller batted for the shortstop and while he was at the plate Jones dashed in from third on a passed ball and tied the score. He was injured in the play and had to leave the game. Miller was eventually walked. Then Bob Crowe proceeded to win his own ball game by lacing a double into left, scoring Tompkins with the winning run. Les Burton put the thing on ice with a solid double, scoring Miller and Crowe. It was the left-fielder's third double of the night. Starr ended the big inning with a roller to Anderson.

Crowe shot the Soldiers down in order in the ninth and the series was all tied up.

Howard Krist Saves Cooper His 17th Win

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer.

With St. Louis Cardinals and the New York Yankees leaving so little to be said about the major league pennant races, baseball men already are turning to discussing the World Series and wondering where Mort Cooper will fit into Billy Southworth's strategy.

The ace of the world champions has failed four times against American League hitters—twice in the all-star games and twice in last year's World series.

This has caused a lot of observers to question whether or not he will be the chief of staff for the Cardinals in the forthcoming classic.

Last night the big righthander worked for the Cardinals against the Phillies and pitched five-hit ball that took him into the ninth inning leading 5-1. But when the Phillies loaded the bases against him with one out, Southworth quickly called in Howie Krist to relieve Cooper. Krist, who only needs to walk to the mound to beat the Phillies, made the next two batters pop up and saved Cooper's 17th victory.

Yanks Took Two.

The Yankees, who have not yet been able to draw as far ahead of the American League as the Cardinals have done in the senior circuit, looked like pennant-winners in conquering Cleveland Indians 105 with a 14-hit attack.

Washington Senators, however, trounced Chicago White Sox by the same score, 10-3, in a night game to maintain their distance behind the Yanks. The Senators made eight runs in the eighth inning.

In the only other American League game Detroit nosed out Boston Red Sox 1-0 on a single by Rudy York in the ninth inning.

Truett (Rip) Sewell, who has become famous for his parachute pitch," tumbled to defeat as the Pittsburg Pirates dropped two games to New York Giants 3-2 and 7-4.

Sewell's setback in the first game—his third in his last four starts—was the result of Mel Ott's 17th home run with one on in the sixth inning.

The second-place Cincinnati Reds were edged out 3-2 in 12 innings at Boston when Whitey Wietelmann singled home a run.

Whitlow Wyatt pitched six-hit ball as Brooklyn Dodgers curbed Chicago Cubs -3.

Lowly Giants Deep In Cellar

By The Associated Press

Despite their best efforts, Jersey City Giants are gradually approaching an International League record that has withstood all assaults for 36 years.

The Little Giants were shut out last night, the 23rd time they have finished a game this season without a run. The present mark, which Montreal was unfortunate enough to establish in 1907, is 26 blankings and the Giants have three weeks more of play remaining.

Jack Tising of Buffalo Bisons limited them to four hits in the opening of their twin bill last night and applied the brakes to all their scoring intentions, 5-0. George Harley hurled for the Bisons in the second contest and blanked Jersey City for five frames.

But then the dam burst. Before a single Grant was retired in the sixth, seven runs had scampered across the plate, Barley was under the showers and Tising was sent back on the mound. The Hartnettmen went on from there to win, 11-4.

Baltimore repeated its double victory of Thursday night at the expense of Rochester, young Al Heuser besting Blix (No-Hit) Donnelly in the opener, 4-0 and Clyde Smoll surviving a three-run assault in the first to win, 7-3. Jim Davis of Newark Bears, stopped Toronto, 4-0, and Millard Howell of Syracuse Chiefs bested Al Sherer, 1-0, in a 13-inning mound duel in the other games.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21—(AP)—Lightweight champ Bob Montgomery sent his manager, Franki Thomas, up from Philly last night to tell Mike Jacobs that unless Beau Jack signs a return match agreement, here'll be no title bout between the two Sept. 10... So the Beau is flying up from St. Petersburg this morning to make with the John Hancock... Seems Jack insisted on a 90-day return go clause for their first fuss, which Bob won... So the Bobcats want the same—on rye... Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Cooke probably will make her tennis "comeback" in the nationals next month.

Bashed Beak Bits

A Jimmy Bivins-Melio Bettina September scuffle and a Beau Jack-Lulu Constantino October outing are about sealed, signed and delivered for Cleveland... Izzy Mattes, the Louisiana commissioner, sent up an $1,806 cheque as the Boxing Service Athletic fund "cu" from the Terranova - Callura featherweight fuss in New Orleans this week... Jimmy Caesar, the pro speed-skater, and Bob Wright, who does the adagio dance in Sonja Henie's ice show, fight it out for three rounds in the cellar of the theatre before each performance... The other performers stopped sending for the cops when they discovered Jimmy is the former Oklahoma City amateur champ and Wright was a Michigan State college clouter—and they still like to mash a nose once in a while.

Post War Work Will Care For Old Employees

By ROBERT R. ROBINSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Aug. 21 (CP)—Canadian industries, other than those established for the sole purpose of making munitions, anticipate no serious, long-term problem in converting from war to peacetime production, a Dominion-wide survey recently conducted by the Canadian Chamber of Commerce reveals.

Most companies consider the probable level of employment one year after cessation of hostilities difficult to forecast without knowledge of government policy, particularly in regard to the availability of essential materials. One point on which all firms agree—post-war employment will be provided for ex-servicemen and women and for the physically handicapped.

Large Increase

Louis L. Lang, past-president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, in a brief submitted last session to the Canadian Senate Committee on postwar reconstruction, stated that Canadian Manufacturing plants then employed more than 1,250,000—nearly one-fourth of all Canadians gainfully employed, including those in the armed forces. This compared with a top prewar employment of 650,000. Goods manufactured in prewar Canada totalled $3,500,000,000, whereas midwar 1942 saw this boosted to $8,000,000,000.

C.M.A.'s Canadian trade index indicates that some 4,000 plants are on direct or indirect war work, and half of these report more than 50 per cent of their production for war use. More than 1,500 Canadian firms report over 75 per cent of their production on war orders.

"At the conclusion of the war," Mr. Lang's report stated, "most war orders will cease, and it is not probable that the manufacturing industry will be able to maintain such a high level of employment, unless the tremendous wartime expansion of Canada's foreign trade can be maintained."

War Production Booms

The Dominion's prewar export trade was slightly less than $1,000,000,000, about 70 per cent of which was in partially or fully manufactured goods. In 1942 Canadian exports had almost reached the $2,500,000,000 mark. The munitions department estimates 70 per cent of Canadian munitions production is shipped to the Allies.

Prospects for other chief Canadian industries as seen through the Chamber of Commerce survey follow:

Building: substantial expansion in the building trade is expected to arise from housing plans within Canada, and an important outlet for construction equipment and supplies is foreseen in the reconstruction of war-devastated countries.

Agricultural implements: It is believed prewar standards can be maintained in both domestic and foreign trade, with the qualification of dependence upon the economic position of the Canadian farmer and international trade agreements.

Steel: Steel industries find it difficult to forecast their postwar employment situation because of their indirect dependence upon consumer demand. They believe wartime shortages will make a substantial consumer demand in many lines. Retooling is not regarded as a problem.

Markets Answer

Mining: Postwar markets and the price of gold will have an important bearing on employment in Canadian Mines.

Automibile production: A short re-tooling period is expected to suffice in replacing wartime tools on the production line.

Hydro Electric Power: One electric power company has almost doubled its staff since the outbreak of war, and in order to maintain this increase it is considering ways of expanding normal activities by attracting electro-chemical and electro-metallurgical industries to its territories and by the extension of rural Hydro. War plants in certain power areas are now being studied with a view to their peacetime conversion.

Wholesale trade: Present staffs are estimated about 10 per cent below normal. The postwar labor situation here will depend upon the rapidity with which production swings from war to peace and, to a large extent, upon the manner in which government control is relaxed.

Missing At Sea

OTTAWA, Aug. 21 (CP).—Lieut. P. A. R. Thompson, D.S.O, R.C.N.V.R., of Oakville, Ont., has been reported missing on active service, Naval Headquarters announced today.

The announcement said Lieut. Thompson had a "brilliant" wartime record of service with the Light Coast Forces of the Royal Navy, having been mentioned in honors lists three times in little more than three years. He was born in Toronto in 1917.

R.C.A.F. Loses 17 Planes In Week

By GEORGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Aug. 21 (CP)—R.C.A.F. fighter and bomber squadrons based in Britain had one of their busiest periods of the war during the seven days ended at noon Thursday, it was indicated today in the regular weekly communique from R.C.A.F. headquarters here.

Fighters made numerous sweeps over enemy-occupied Europe while bomber squadrons accompanied the R.A.F. in crushing raids on Axis cities, including last week's heavy attack on Milan, where more than 1,000 tons of bombs were dropped within 30 minutes.

R.C.A.F. fighters on intruder patrol Sunday night destroyed an enemy aircraft, attacked a number of airfields and damaged many railway targets in France. On the way back from these operations, an R.C.A.F. Mosquito destroyed another enemy fighter off the south coast of England.

R.C.A.F. Halifaxes took part in the raid on Turin Monday night — another attack in bright moonlight—and "well-concentrated" bombing is reported.

Tuesday, U.S. heavy and medium bombers continued their attacks on enemy targets, going this time to Germany as well as France, with R.C.A.F. Spitfire squadrons supporting the operation.

Tuesday night, the first Canadian squadron to be equipped with Lancasters took part in a "heavy and concentrated" attack on the research and development establishment at Peenemunde, the largest and most important of its kind in Germany.

Sixteen R.C.A.F. bombers and one fighter are missing from the week's operations.

1834 Booklet Sought About Capt. G. Hill

In 1834 Captain George Arundel Hill, first Warden of the Colborne District (which included Peterborough County), published a 56-page pamphlet entitled "A Guide to Emigrants from the British Shores to the Woods of Canada." He was then living in Dummer Township, near Clear Lake.

Mr. Edwin C. Guillet, Juniper Island P.O., Stoney Lake, is anxious to locate a copy of this book. Anyone having a copy, or information concerning the life of Capt. Hill will confer a favour by writing to Mr. Guillet. After September 1 his address is 736 O'Connor Drive, Toronto. It will be appareciated if newspapers in other parts of the County will copy this announcement. Captain Hill was a veteran of Waterloo, and Mr. Guillet desires to have a reprint made of his pamphlet.

Fighter Pilots Had It Soft Flying In Sicily

By WILLIAM STEWART
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE R.C.A.F. IN SICILY, Aug. 17 (Delayed)—(CP Cable) — Allied air superiority was so overwhelming in the Battle of Sicily that Canadian fighter pilots of a famous squadron consider their part in the show was a disappointment.

The squadron is the only R.C.A.F. fighter unit in the Middle East and the only Canadian squadron operating from a Sicilian base where it forms part of a wing which has been serving as the 8th Army's fighter spearhead ever since the desert campaigns.

Other squadrons in the wing are British and South African.

The Canadian pilots have been intensely busy in Sicily and as Axis resistance collapsed they operated daily from dawn through skies full of Allied aircraft. But that was the reason their trips, mostly escort jobs, were dull.

Turner in Charge

The commanding officer, Sqdn. Ldr. Stan Turner of Toronto, a Battle-of-Britain veteran who has the D.F.C. and bar, scowled as he said: "We have not done much in Sicily. There has not been any Hun, that's why."

"Doing something" to the C.O. obviously meant fighting enemy aircraft.

Turner led a formation covering a fighter-bomber attack today (Tuesday) on a group of barges moving up the Messina Straits near San Giovanni on the Italian coast.

Two of the barges, filled with troops and tanks, were blown up and sank by the fighter-bombers while Canadian Spitfires circled overhead. Near misses fell beside two more. Presumably the barges were filled with remnants of Axis forces evacuated from Messina.

In the operations room at the edge of a road beside the air drome, intelligence officer FO. Jack Evans of Saskatoon explained that about the only thrill the campaign provided for the Canadian airmen was when they were called upon to escort bombers softening up the path for Canadian First Division ground forces along the Leonforte-Aderno ridge.

Bomber Escorts

"Our fellows escorted medium bombers which blitzed Regalbuto ahead of the Canadian troops and did the same kind of a job at Aderno," said Evans. Then Canadian Spitfires carried out similar escort work in the bombings of Bronte and Randazzo and raids on other enemy strongholds in northern Sicily. Randazzo was probably one of the most fiercely raided towns in the world in proportion to its size.

The ground crew of the squadron made a beach landing in Sicily early in the campaign.

Its flying personnel includes Flt. Lts. B. Houle of Massey, Ont.; flight commander; FO. Hedley Everard of Timmins, Ont., who fought earlier in the Far East.

LAC. George Flann of Campbellton, N.B., a member of the ground crew, found his brother, Byron Flann, a gunner with a Canadian artilerry unit in Sicily. The brothers had not seen each other for two years.

500 People And Crew Aboard Stalled Boat

CLEVELAND, Aug. 21 — (AP).—The passenger steamship Eastern States bound from Detroit to Buffalo with approximately 500 passengers and crew to-day was disabled by engine trouble about 45 miles northeast of Cleveland harbor.

The Great Lakes Towing Company said the tugs California and Louisiana had been sent to the aid of the lake steamer, operated by the Detroit and Cleveland Navigation Company. The vessel will be towed into Cleveland, arriving late to-day.

James McMillan, D. and C. general manager, said at Detroit a broken crank pin bolt caused the engine trouble.

Mess Room Chatter

By ALAN RANDAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WITH THE R.C.A.F. SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Aug. 21—(CP). — Once you get into heavy flak there can be no turning back. It's a matter of going on and weaving about as much as possible, but Warrant Officer R. J. Walters of Edmonton didn't intend to do quite so much weaving as he did.

Flying a Stirling, Walters was making a run-up to lay mines and came out of a bank of haze right over an escort vessel in a large enemy convoy. "I saw five or six warships on each side of me," he said.

It became a question of going back and becoming a sitting target in the course of the manoeuvre or weaving violently through while the warships threw up flak. Walters chose the latter and the flak was so intense it turned the Stirling upside down but got it through all right.

"I didn't realize how far over we had gone until I looked up—only it was looking down—and saw the sea above my head," said Walters. "When we got back into control I saw that we had cut through the convoy, so we laid our mines in what we hoped would be its path."

In French Squadron.

Flt.-Lt. Ronnie Oldham, 29-year-old R.A.F. navigator from Vancouver, was the only non-Frenchman in the Fighting French Lorraine Squadron when it took off on its first bombing sortie from Britain. The attack was on the Fokker factory at Amsterdam, and Oldham said he saw the bombs from their Bostons go down into the target area.

Oldham, squadron leader who flies with the squadron commander, used to teach mathematics in a private school in West Vancouver.

An addition to the R.C.A.F. roster of British wives is pretty Jean Doris Lytton of Ruislip in Middlesex who married PO. Norman Norbie McDermid, Toronto-born staff officer at R.C.A.F. overseas headquarters in London. The bride works in a war factory and met McDermid at a dance about a year ago.

Listen to this from Wing Cmdr. Guy Gibson, the man with the V. C., D.C.O. and Bar, and D.F.C. and Bar, who led the dam-busting raid on the Ruhr: "Bombing raids to us are not frightening things at all. They are just our job, a job being done every night by young men from all kinds of peace-time jobs who have learned to pilot a bomber."

PO. Bill Gaudet of Montague, P.E.I., 22-year-old airgunner, has added to his souvenirs the Iron Cross of the Third Reich. He picked it up at Bardia from a German prisoner, trading a pack of cigarettes for it.

Convey Brothers Meet

Pte. Joseph Convey, brother of Miss Eileen Convey, Stewart street, arrived in England recently. He is serving with the R.C.A.S.C. and during the first week he was there he met his brother Philip who went overseas early this year.

Mary Churchill Visits Kitchener

KITCHENER, Aug. 21—(CP). — Mary Churchill, daughter of the British Prime Minister stopped at Brantford for lunch today as the guest of No. 5 Service Flying Training School enroute to Kitchener where she is to inspect No. 3 Canadian Women's Army Corps, Basic Training Centre.

Accompanied by Capt. Marcelle Paul, staff officer of military district No. 5 at Quebec, Miss Churchill arrived here about noon by plane from Quebec. She will proceed by car to Kitchener early this afternoon.

In Kitchener Lieut. E. Adams, officer in charge of the girls said they were "dying to see her."

"They've had her picture up for the past week," she said.

Col. Mary J. Dover of Calgary, C.W.A.C. officer commanding said Miss Churchill's visit to the camp would mean no change in camp routine.

Large Crowd Present At Annual Dance

HASTINGS, Aug. 21 — (ENS)—Despite the cool weather Wednesday, 2,000 people from the nearby towns and district, gathered in Hastings to enjoy the Softball Club's annual street dance.

Bingo, wheel of fortune and other games to attract the older people, while the younger crowd enjoyed dancing to the music supplied by the Melody Boys, Hastings. The floor show was conducted by Mr. Frank Stephens, of Hastings. Little Maureen Fletcher, 7 years old, Peterborough, gave a tap dance number followed by a Scottish dance.

Jimmie Mackie, Marie Mackie, Dorrine Beavis, Lovella Lee, Floyd Tripp, Velda Roberts, Clayton Hughey and Mary Summerville all sang cowboy songs. George Bartley, from Hilton, was the only old-time fiddler.

There was a draw on a load of wood and James Calbery, Hastings, was the winner. Gate receipts amounted to around $700 for war purposes.

No Pet, Just Pork

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 21. — (AP). — Soui, a cheerful and companionable pig, spent most of her life aboard a transport ship in the South Pacific as crew mascot. "But the last few times we hit port," Deck Stewart Jack Abramson said, "many persons seemed to look on her more as red ration points on the hoof than as a pet." So Abramson gave her a last ride in the ship's elevator—her favorite recreation—and then turned her over to the butcher.

Young Officer

Sub.-Lieut. W. H. Howe, R.C.N., is the youngest officer in H.M.C.S. Huron, but he is certainly old in sea experience. He spent 30 hours clinging to wreckage in the Indian Ocean when H.M.S. Dorsetshire, a R.N. cruiser, was sunk. He was then serving as a midshipman. Sub.-Lieut. Howe, who is only 20 years of age, is a son of Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Munitions and Supply in the Dominion Government.

American Units Perform Amazing Feats

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN SICILY, Aug. 21 — (CP).— Gen. Sir Harold Alexander, Commander of the 15th Allied Army group in Sicily, to-day said the Canadian forces had done "extremely well" in the fighting that ended with the complete occupation of the Italian Island.

He also praised the American conquest of Northern Sicily as "magnificent," saying that during the fighting the Americans had performed engineering feats which "I would have never imagined possible."

"It was a wonderful feat," he continued. "The Americans went all the way from Palermo to Messina in a fortnight. Why, you would not hike that distance in a fortnight in peacetime. They built many miles of road overnight. In one instance 15 bridges were blown up in 20 miles, but it delayed the Americans only a matter of hours."

The Allied victory in Sicily has put Germany "in a jam," Gen. Alexanxder said, referring particularly to the problem of defending the Italian mainland— "Germany does not dare to entrust the key defence points to the Italians, but must depend upon the Italians to help man the coasts. We are closing in on them from all directions."

At the same time, however, the General cautioned that the Germans could be expected to fight hard against severe odds even when they realized that the air supremacy such as they enjoyed in 1939 and 1940 is gone.

He cautioned also against expectations of an early end of the war in Europe, but added, "Germany is fighting on two fronts—in Russia and the Mediterranean, and she is having to use a very great deal of men while in the Mediterranean. The luftwaffe is fighting on three fronts. So, in fact, you've already got your second front."

Song Appropriate

ONTARIO, Calif., Aug. 21. — (AP). — Three guesses what song Civilian Flight Instructor T. M. Shriner might have been singing: The propeller flew off. The engine fell out. Cadet D. R. Hooton jumped. Shriner stayed with the remainder of plane, and landed within a few yards of where the engine struck.

Sgt. Morris Hurt

Sgt. William E. Morris, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Morris of Bancroft was among those wounded in the recent Sicilian campaign. He has been serving with an anti-tank unit, and had been overseas since 1939 with the Hastings Prince Edward Regiment.

Australia Asks Representation

SYDNEY, Australia, Aug. 21 — (CP Cable.) — The Sydney Daily Telegraph asserted to-day Australia should be represented at the Quebec conference and urged Gen. Douglas MacArthur, commander-in-chief of Allied forces in the South Pacific, to fly to Quebec.

"The Australian government should insist immediately upon representation at the conferences," said the Daily Telegraph editoria.

"So far there has been no Dominion representation at the conference except Canada. The conference is taking such shape that it will have a vital influence on the final stages on the war in the Pacific."

The editorial suggested that if Gen. MacArthur were unable to go to Canada "then two or three military and political experts should be sent."

KINGSTON, Ont., Aug. 21 (CP).—Major Percy Hannaford of Ottawa has been appointed officer commanding the 2nd Battalion, Governor-General's Foot Guards (R), and has been promoted to the rank of Lieut.-Colonel, it was announced to-day.

Reporters Get Luxurious Care On Red Front

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Aug. 21 (AP).—When you read stories under the dateline, "With the Red Army," don't feel sorry for the correspondents over any hardships you may imagine they are undergoing.

We take it in the neck—and various other parts of us—going to and from the front but, while there, we loll in luxury.

I have just been on a trip which reached a new high point in the Soviet organization of visits to the front. New York had nothing on the Russian front for comfort.

We stayed in a camp which could well serve as a rest resort for the tired businessman. It rose as though by miracle on a bank of the Oka river opposite the ruins of Orel.

The roomy tents had four iron cots, each with snowy white sheets and khaki blankets. These super-special tents with double flaps at the door had sliding windows.

On the river bank was the bath tent providing hot showers.

A special mess tent had service provided by a squad of white-robed girls who heaped the tables twice daily with cold sausage, salmon, cheese, tomatoes, cucumbers, radishes, hot hamburger steak, potatoes, rice, vodka and hot milk.

There was also a "master barber" who entered the tent in the morning. An accordionist played Red Army marching songs and selections from the Opera Aida while the barber worked.

Prize attendant of all was medical corps lieutenant Dora, who acted as orderly, kept the tents neat in the day, tucked in the correspondents at night and, saluting briskly, left them to slumber.

Whirling Woodsaw Kills Young Woman

SUDBURY, Aug. 21 — (CP). — Caught in a whirling woodsaw this morning at nearby Markstay, Mrs. Ellen M. Tugby, 25, suffered multiple injuries which resulted in her death after being brought to St. Joseph's hospital here, 40 minutes later.

The young woman, whose husband, Marcus Charles Tugby, is a prisoner of war in Japan, had gone to Markstay with her uncle, Tony Cieslicki, of Sudbury, in his truck. Her clothing evidently became tangled in the saw in some unkown manner, drawing her in to her death.

Lieut.-Commander Rayner is one of the youngest officers having such a command. He won the D.S.C. in February, 1941, "for enterprising action against the enemy."

Cohen Files Special Report

OTTAWA, Aug. 21 (CP)— J. L. Cohen, K.C., of Toronto, National War Labor Board member, announced today he had filed with Labor Minister Mitchell a copy of an independent report containing recommendations on labor policy resulting from an inquiry conducted by the Board.

In a letter to Mr. Justice McTague, Board chairman, yesterday, Mr. Cohen said that presentation of the board report should be made immediately, he said that delay in presenting the report meant delay in the national interest, as "a proper labor policy" was hoped for.

Mr. Justice McTague and Leo Lalande, the third Board member, are expected to present joint recommendations to the government, with their report being presented almost immediately.

Mr. Cohen announced Wednesday he would no longer sit as a Board member on controversial cases until general government policy is clarified.

In a letter to Mr. Mitchell today, Mr. Cohen said that in view of "insistent representations" being made publicly that the Board recommendations be filed and released at once he had decided he could wait no longer for his colleagues to present their report.

TODAY a new science, the science of electronics, is helping to change your world. Electrons, tiny particles of pure electricity, are playing a big part in shaping the world's destiny. Through the medium of electron tubes—brothers to the familiar radio tube—they are today directing the course of mighty warships, carrying the voices of fighting men through space, aiming guns at targets hidden from sight by darkness, fog or distance.

Some day victory will be won. Then the big peacetime job of electronics will begin. You will have a radio that knows no static. You will have a new protection from fire and other dangers. Your doctor will learn new facts about the human body that may help him save your life.

To answer your questions regarding the nature and scope of the new science of electronics, Canadian General Electric offers you a wonderful booklet, "Electronics—a New Science for a New World"—authoritative, illustrated in full color. Mail the coupon now.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

WAGON UPSET

In a gallop this morning through the Waterford-Dublin streets area, a Silverwood's delivery wagon hit the Harvey street curb and, in the bouncing, upset a little further on.

TWO MEN FINED.

This morning's session of the Police Court, with Magistrate E. A. Gee presiding, was brief. Two local men, James Neary and George Cuthbert, charged with being drunk entered pleas of guilty, and each was fined $10.00, and $2.50 costs.

TAKING TRAINING COURSE.

President Mort Riddle and Rotarians Jack Hamilton and Bill Hamilton will be at the Trenton R.C.A.F. Airport for the next two weeks taking Air Cadet officers' training courses.

TO ADDRESS ROTARY.

Rev. Canon J. Douglas Paterson, formerly rector of All Saints' Church here, will be the guest speaker at Monday's luncheon of the Peterborough Rotary Club. Canon Paterson, now a resident of Toronto, will speak on the subject "The Background of Social Progress."

THREE FOR ONE.

Mrs. Joseph Dunkerley, Sr., out at her cottage at Stoney Lake, broke an egg into the frying pan and out came three yolks. The egg was an ordinary-looking egg from the outside, though a trifle oversize, and the three yolks themselves were perfectly formed. They made good eating, too.

R.C.A.F. GRADUATE.

D. W. Douglas of Peterborough received his wings from Group Captain V. H. Patriarche at No. 6 Service Flying Training School at Dunnville on Friday. At the same time he was awarded his commission. PO. Douglas is the son of Mr. Daniel Douglas, 603 Water street.

BICYCLE HIKE

Canadian Youth Hostels has planned a bicycle hike to Chemong and Lakefield on Sunday, leaving from the Public Library at 9:30 a. m. and arriving back in town sometime in the afternoon. Those who plan to go should bring a picnic lunch along with them.

AIR FORCE GRADUATES.

Two boys of this district, S. J. Sullivan of Peterborough, and H. L. Shepherd of Keene, graduated Friday in a group of navigators and air bombers at the R.C.A.F.'s No. 9 Air Observers' School at St. Johns, Que. The former graduated as an air bomber and the latter as a navigator.

SELLING STAMPS

Taking a cue from the success of the old fire truck in stimulating sales of War Savings stamps last month, the August Variety Stores Stampede for Victory has received the loan of a Bren Gun Carrier from the Prince of Wales Rangers, and it was on exhibition in the streets of the business district this morning. Miss Canada girls were selling the stamps

City Exhibition Century Old If War Had Not Enveloped Site

If it were not for the war and the fact that the grounds are now in military occupation the Peterborough Exhibition could this year have celebrated its centenary.

In the Peterborough Gazette of Sept. 14, 1845, there appeared a modest advertisement informing all and sundry that the third annual fair or exhibition of stock of the Colborne District Agricultural Society would take place in Peterborough on October 17, 1845. That indicated that the Society was formed in 1943, a hundred years ago and ever since we have had continuously until 1940 its direct descendant the Peterborough Exhibition, though under various titles.

The years have brought many changes. In those pioneer days it was a purely local affair of agricultural interest only. Farmers of the district showed their stock in friendly rivalry with their neighbors out to give the community a rarely existent opportunity for meeting in social intercourse. Now, though the spirit of the fair is the same it is vastly different in its nature.

Colborne District

Peterborough was then in the District of Colborne. When districts disappeared from the scheme of local government and Peterborough, instead of being part of the District of Colborne, became a separate entity we find the West Peterborough Agricultural Society in existence and it received a grant in aid from the government. It later became known as the Midland Central Fair and has since developed, with many vicissitudes into the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition as we know it—directly descended from the small Colborne district show in 1843.

To show the great changes that a century have wrought a few facts and figures may be interesting. Peterborough was incorporated as a town in 1850; it was never a village but had municipally part of the township of North Monaghan and in 1841 the population of Peterborough and the township was 1,620. In 1852 the population of the then town of Peterborogh was 2,191 and in 1861 it had risen to 3,836.

In striking contrast the attendance at the last exhibition held August 14, 15, 16 and 17, 1940, was 43,581.

The Exhibition was first held in Central Park but in September 1884 R. A. Morrow rented to the Society the eastern portion of the present grounds for four years at an annual rental of $100, and for the following five years at $150 with an option to purchase at $500 an acre.

There have been in the past various schemes mooted for the organization of the society and the ownership of its home. In 1889 a meeting of the West Riding of Peterborough Agricultural Society proposed to form a joint stock company to manage and run the exhibition with a capital of 500 shares at $10. This apparently fell through for on Oct. 3, 1902, another meeting was held with the object of organizing the Central Fair as a joint stock comany. Again in April, 1912, a meeting proposed that the people of Peterborough should be asked to sanction the borrowing of $30,000 to purchase the fair grounds.

Morrow Gives Land

However all anxiety as to Society's future home has been removed by the generous action of the owner of the Exhibition grounds, W. H. A. Morrow. He has executed a deed of trust transferring the proprety to trustees upon trust to allow the Society the free use of the grounds so long as the exhibition was held and they were used for the purposes of agriculture. If and when this user should cease they were to be transferred to the city for the use of the people of Peterborough.

When the military authorities took the Exhibition Park in 1940 it was mutually agreed that the exhibition should not be deemed to have ceased to exist but at the termination of the war the Park should still be available for the exhibition according to the terms of the trust.

For many years past until 1935 the name of the late Roland Denne has been intimately associated with the exhibition as president, an offcie he held for eighteen years. He had succeeded another long time holder of that office, J. H. Garbutt of Smith. Roland Denne was succeeded as president by Thomas Brown, the present head of the Exhibition Board of Directors, drawn from the city and county who have given freely of their time and services for the purpose of the exhibition without fee or reward and in addition incur a contingent financial responsibility.

Cut Age Limit For R.C.A.F. Recruits

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 21—(CP)—Minimum age limit for enlistment in the Royal Canadian Air Force will be reduced to 17 years, Wing Cmdr. B. F. Wood, director of manning for the R.C.A.F., said here today. The new regulation, which does not apply to women's division of the R.C.A.F. goes into effect immediately.

Wing Cmdr. Wood said that under the new ruling recruits mav apply for enlistment on and after their 17th birthday, but written parental consent must be submitted. After enlistment the recruit is put on leave without pay until he has reached the age of 17½, at which time he is called for posting to a manning depot.

Doctors Back Home

STELLARTON, N.S., Aug. 21—(CP). — Spokesmen for miners of four Pictou collieries, who walked out yesterday because two of the town's three doctors were out of town, announced last night the men would return to work to-day. The doctors had returned from military camp at Charlottetown.

Dr. W. Graham Advises Grain Buying

To the voices of advice which have been heard from time to time during the summer urging farmers to buy as soon as possible the feed grain they will require for the coming year, was added the warning of Dr. W. R. Graham, Burlington, at the poultry conference here Wednesday.

"It is a question whether there is enough feed on the North American continent for all its animals," Dr. Graham said.

The number of animals on the continent has increased 30 per cent since 1938, and "there is not enough protein to feed the animals the way we used to."

A year ago, said Dr. Graham, there was some prospect of a supply of soy bean oil meal from the United States, "but they won't produce enough for themselves."

Chicken men have learned to waste feed. They ought to know they will need 50 pounds of feed for each chick during the next six months.

"You know now what crop you are going to have for this season, and how long it will last. The question arises whether enough cars are available to carry from the west the coarse grain the east is going to need. You should not wait until winter to find out.

We don't want our farmers to be forced into the position of being short of grain and having to kill chickens, hogs, beef cattle and reduce the quality and quantity of milk. We have enough hay, but it is doubtful about the rest of the feed we will need."

Lack Publicity

"Brethen are you going to have enough," Dr. Graham asked, directing his question to G. A. Brethen of Norwood, in the audience.

Mr. Brethen replied that he had, and Dr. Graham humorously replied: "Well, they say the wise men come out of the east. Mr. Brethen has been raising Holstein cattle and chickens for quite a long time, and I guess that explains it."

Dr. Graham told the poultrymen they had not publicized their industry as efficiently as had the producers of the leafy vegetables, especially head lettuce.

Fifteen cents a head, two to the foot, figure out what that means to the acre, the former Professor of O.A.C. suggested.

"Are there any good farmers not making money today? If you could have for the next five years the market you have today, how would you keep people from going into farming?" Dr. Graham asked with a note of humor and whimsy that ran through his talk to the conference. He said he knew a dairy farmer, with a herd of Ayrshire cattle and raising chickens, who had actually complained recently that he was making too much money, and his son likewise. "I never expected to live to the time when I would hear any farmer say he was making more money than he knew what to do with. Don't holler too much about prices. There is a mean streak in some of us. The other day I bought a basket of apples, six quarts; nice big ones on the top, and beneath them were some no bigger than walnuts. Fifty-five cents for that basket. A few years back they were getting 15 cents for the same basket, and there were no little ones in it either."

Dr. Graham related that he was recently with four poultrymen in Chicago whose combined incomes exceeded $150,000 a year. One of them had 62,000 hens. "Get your mind on volume, but be sure you can handle it. Don't waste any feed. Use your head and save your heels."

Council Extends Its Condolences

The condolence of the city council for two more Peterborough families bereaved by war was expressed in a recorded resolution by Aldermen Gordon and Cotton at the Thursday meeting to the parents of Arnold Burfield and Victor William Kaban, both of whom were killed in the Sicilian campaign.

The names of the local men who die in the war are listed at the city hall, and the council extends its sympathy to each family.

Victor William Kaban was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Kaban, 543 Park street; and Arnold Burfield was the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Burfield, 371 Bethune street.

Judge Dismisses Case Against Ex-Warden

LINDSAY, Aug. 21.—(ENS).— A charge of parking on the highway laid against George Martin, ex-Warden of Victoria county, was dismissed by Magistrate Baxter in police court here to-day. Traffic Officer C. Siple alleged that Martin had left his car aprked on a county road facing into traffic although could have taken advantage on a nearby laneway.

C. G. Frost, counsel for the accused, proved in court that there was a clear view of 1,200 feet on both sides of the parked vehicle If Martin had driven the car into the laneway and was then forced to back it out into traffic it would have presented a much greater traffic hazard, he claimed.

AUGUST 22, 1918—The British attacking between the Ancre and the Somme captured Albert. The French made rapid progress in the Lassigny sector and reached the Divette River. The Allies took 100,000 prisoners since July 18, 1918.

Pte. Fairbairn Enjoys Sicily

PTE. E. FAIRBAIRN

Mr. and Mrs. C. Fairbairn R.R. No. 1, Peterborough, received an airgraph letter from their son, Pte. Ernie Fairbairn, who is serving with an ambulance unit in Sicily.

His letter, written July 29, stated that he was fine and that they need not worry, and he expressed the hope that he would be in Italy before long. Pte. Fairbairn said that he was getting good food and the soldiers had all kinds of fruit such as oranges, lemons and other better known varieties of tropical fruits and nuts.

Before enlisting, he was employed at the Ellis Mattress Factory and he was in England in December of 1942.

Tomatoes Don't Grow On Potato Plants

The Examiner has received several enquiries about the appearance of "tomatoes growing on our potato plants." This is almost an annual reference to the news department, and the comment of Major R. T. Hounsell yesterday should supply the information desired.

"They are not tomatoes, but are the seed of the potato," Major Hounsell said. "The thing to do with them is to remove them at once, because they are of no value and probably draw some of the nourishment from the ground that should go into the potatoes. I understand that if the potato seed from this source is handled in the proper way you would get a crop of potatoes from them in something like three years.

New species of potatoes are obtained by propagation through these seeds."

So, there is nothing phenomenal about the potato seeds, and local gardeners who are noticing them for the first time are receiving a little primary lesson in the culture of the spud.

Recount Adjourned

TORONTO, Aug. 21 — (CP) — Judge Denton yesterday adjourned until Aug. 25 the recount of votes cast in the Toronto Beaches riding in the Aug. 4 Ontario election The request was sought by Gordon Ferguson, C.C.F. candidate, who lost by 42 votes to T. A. Murphy, Progressive Conservative.

More Meetings Of Council Are Proposed

Peterborough's municipal custom of the monthly meeting of the council seems to some of its members a practice extending from the "horse and buggy days" that should be changed to two meetings monthly.

By this system, correspondence and other matters reaching the council after the monthly meeting might have to wait until the session in the following month until it comes before the council's attention.

Actually that is not the precise procedure. Mayor Hamilton visits the city hall daily, often twice a day, and City Clerk Outram submits to him the letters that are received and acquaints him of other business which may arrive through other channels. And from that information, Mayor Hamilton is always in a position to call a special meeting of the council when he considers it necessary.

Some of the correspondence may be referred to committees at their meetings during the week prior to the approaching session of the session of the council, and generally the business of the city is attended to promptly.

However, routine matters at the monthly meetings require time, and often it happens that this detail work encroaches upon the session to an extent that some of the business arising during the meeting does not receive the fulness of attention which the members would like to devote to it. The special meetings which have been held recently to dispose of the question of appointing a committee to confer with North Monaghan on the proposed annexation of part of the township have tended to manifest the advantage of the idea of bi-monthly meetings as an established change in practice.

Not Discussed

The council has not as a body discussed the subject, but it is evident from some personal expressions of opinion that it is looked upon with considerable favor as an innovation that would enable the council to devote more attention to the general business of the city. The impression is deepening that Peterborough has outgrown the monthly meeting system, which was adequate through the long years of expansion, but that it is not geared to the civic requirements of to-day and especially of to-morrow.

The council is aware that in quite a number of other cities in Ontario the bi-monthly meeting plan has been adopted. Another factor supporting this proposal is appearing in the increased work which is developing, slowly at present, with the problem of providing for the post-war period of transition to peace time economy and its problems.

The simple fact is that the city council's duties and work are enlarging, and are imposing a demand for increased sessional time beyond the old fashioned monthly custom. Members of the council believe that the public would endorse the change because the ratepayers must themselves realize that the increased population and the preparations for the post war period are attended with an expansion of civic business much beyond th[illegible] of the years when the number of residents was only half the present total.

LINDSAY

15-Year-Old Drowns While At Drag Lake

LINDSAY, Aug. 21.— (ENS). — Robert Wheeler, aged 15, son of Mr and Mrs. Robert Wheeler, of 52 Glengowan Road, Toronto, was drowned in Drag Lake, Dudley Township, while swimming in front of Haliburton Lodge. It is the 4th drowning in the Haliburton district in the last three weeks.

The young lad, along with a friend was out on a raft with their canoe tied to it when they noticed the boat had become unfastened. Wheeler dove in to get the drifting canoe and when his friend saw that he did not reappear he swam ashore and gave the alarm. Dragging operations were supervised by Provincial Constable W. Hendren, of Minden and the body was found in deep water yesterday afternoon.

O.V.C. Selected To Police Fair

Peterborough Company of the Ontario Volunteer Constabulary has been selected for the job of providing all police protection at the Lindsay Fair, Sept. 15, 16, 17, 18. At the request of the Fair Board about 25 men of the local company under command of Capt. Colin H. Althouse, who was simultaneously appointed Chief of Police for the exhibition, will be on duty during the four-day period. An attendance touching upwards of 25,000 is expected every day the fair is running.

For three years past the Volunteer Constabularly has assisted, with the regular Provincial Police of which it is an auxiliary, in this job of policing the Lindsay Fair, but the forthcoming show marks the first occasion on which the volunteers will handle the entire task themselves.

Permanent Force

Important adjunct and good right hand of the Provincial Police, the Ontario Volunteer Constabulary numbers nearly a thousand men throughout the Province, and the Peterborough company, whose bailiwick includes the Belleville area, has 45 men enrolled in its ranks. This appointment to patrol the Fair is not only a feather in the cap of the local branch, but a measure of commendation for the organization as a whole and a bright tribute to the significance of its work and its reliability. Established in 1939, before the war, the Volunteers are on a permanent footing and are not to be considered an emergency group thrown together merely for the duration of the conflict.

The Peterborough Company has recently returned from the camp of the Ontario Athletic Commission at Lake Couchiching and its annual two weeks' period of training. While in camp this year the company provided active co-operation with Provincial Police and despatched details to assist the Veterans' Guard of Canada in the search for the elusive German prisoner of war, Lieut. Peter Krug. Though it was not their luck to be in at the kill, their efforts won them commendation in a letter from William H. Stringer, Commissioner of Police, Ontario.

Less Than $100 Needed To Pass $62,000

Peterborough and District's own particular fund to give assistance to those whom the misfortunes of war has afflicted through enemy air raids over the motherland, keeps ever on with its humanitarian work, and when one considers just what has been raised by the fund to this date, it is a real tribute to all who have supported and worked to make this result possible.

Organized in December of 1940, not one business day has passed but what this column has appeared on behalf of the fund, with never a blank in the list of receipts until now it has rolled up within less than $100 of crossing the $62,000 mark.

Its support has come from the young and old, of all classes and creeds, either as individuals or groups in all walks of life, demonstrating a united purpose by the citizenry to be of some real help in supporting the war effort on behalf of the Empire in general.

Already the sum of £13,100 has been sent direct to the Lord Mayor of London, and at the moment there is about $1000 on hand in the bank towards the next donation of £500.

Capitol Theatre Box

One of the best penny box appeals is made through the one located at the Capitol Theatre, every collection that has come from it being much larger than the average for this type of fund activity, and once again it stretches out a helping hand across the seas, with a further contribution of $10.40 which is listed in today's receipts at the foot of this column.

Another good box is the one located in the Bell Telephone Co., Ltd., office on Hunter street, which also is listed to-day in an amount of $4.10, which makes a total of $99.08 that this one box has brought in practical help to the victims of air raids in Britain.

Then to make it a day in which 100 per cent credit goes to the penny boxes, the one located in Hoopers' Centre Store adds a further $1.16 to continue its good work done on behalf of the fund.

Assisting the fund to maintain the position it took when the fund was first organized, that every cent which came in would be sent dircet to London, the penny box activity was made possible through the help of Sam Whitehouse of the Canadian Sealright Co., Ltd., and D. D. C. Dawe, printers, on George street, who supplied the boxes and the various labels for them respectively.

MEN! IT'S A SELLERS' MARKET. Here is your chance to cash in. If you're aggressive, are military exempt and have a car or other means of transportation, you can make real money as a Watkins Dealer. Due to scarcity of materials and containers, many established concerns are going out of business to-dy, but WATKINS MEN are setting all-time highs in sales and profits That's because of this Company's international buying power which makes it possible for Watkins representatives to offer a wide range of Everyday Home and Farm Necessities and such outstanding values as a pound of Prepared Mustard for 10c and 11 ounces of Menthol Camphor Liniment for a dime! Don't pass up this big opportunity Established rural routes available. For full particulars write to-day to The J. R. Watkins Company, Dept. O-P-2A, Montreal, Que.

Yesterday's Stars

By The Associated Press

Mel Ott and Sid Gordon, Giants—Ott hit his 17th homer with one out to beat Rip Sewell and Pirates in first game and Gordon batted in five runs to spark victory in nightcap.

Whitey Wietelmann, Braves — Singled home winning run in 12th inning against Reds.

Frank Overmire and Rudy York, Tigers—Overmire pitched five-hit shutout against Red Sox and York singled home only run of game in ninth inning.

Whitlow Wyatt, Dodgers — Beat Cubs with six-hit hurling.

Johnny Lindell, Yankees—Made two doubles and drove in three runs in triumph over Indians.

Lou Klein and Martin Marion, Cardinals—Each made three hits to lead attack on Phillies.

Brintons Victors Over Watercraft

Watercraft Sailors, playing their last schedule game in the City Industrial League at the Brinton Field, were defeated by the Brintons 6 to 5.

The game, a seven inning affair, was good softball all the way. The Paddle boys started the scoring in the first, but the Brintons soon evened the score ,and many times the score was tied. It was a tie, 5 all going into the seventh but the Carpet Makers slid the million dollar run across to take the game. The slab artists, Killingbeck and Rose, did stellar work on the mound for their respective clubs. The clever fielding of the Watercrafts' garden men, Miller, Pawl and Batten, who speared the long, hard drives from the Brintons' bats, kept the score down.

"Jerry" Corbet, Brintons' rightfielder, payed a great game all through and incidentally his last game with his team mates as "Jerry" has joined the R.C.A.F. and reports very soon to his depot.

The umpiring of D. Drummond at the plate and Jimmy McMartin on the bases was well handled by the two officials. Teams:

Brintons—Kingdon cf, Darrell 2b, C. Corbett 3b, Byrers c, Weese ss, Rose p, J. Corbett rf, Goodwin lf, Phillips 1b.

Watercraft—Paul cf, H. Boyd 2b, Walker 3b, Hewie 1b, Killingbeck p, Johnson c, Thompson ss, Batten lf, Miller rf.

when McIlveen dropped the ball but the others caused plenty of argument....Aircraft had a clean cut win over Westclox last night and the girls' league is far from over yet, although the Big Bens still have an edge with three wins as against two....The double play started by McKerrigan came a moment after the shortstop had nearly pulled off another one. With Burton on second Eddie Starr drilled a low liner at McKerrigan who came up with the ball and tried to tag Burton scrambling back. ....The umps called Burton safe and then ruled that the shortstop had trapped the drive so that no one was out on the play....However Joe Stewart drove another roller at him and this time the double killing was reeled off....There promises to be a real crowd at Kawartha tomorrow to see the golf stars do their stuff....With the P.G.A. annual meeting here today and the best of the professionals competing in the 54-hole tourney Peterborough is really on the golf map.

[Is] Dancing Tricky? No, Says Diagram

Easy Way To Learn Any Step

If you're dazzled by the trickier dance steps—don't be! You can Conga as well as anybody else!

Our dance diagrams show you simply and clearly WHERE to put your feet WHEN. You can teach yourself.

The Conga? The diagram in our sketch shows how "UN-tricky" it is! The rhythm is 1, 2, 3, 4—a full beat for each step and the fourth [beat] strongly accented.

You can be graceful, too, if you learn the "tricks" of grace—like holding your hips under your upper body.

Our 32-page dance booklet tells how to dance gracefully, to learn body control, to lead, follow effortlessly. Gives diagrams and instructions for Conga, rumba, tango, Samba, fox-trot, waltz, Westchester, Peabody, shag, Lindy.

For your copy of "HOW TO DO THE NEWEST DANCE STEPS AND VARIATIONS" send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

Press Officer In Crash Landing

By LOUIS V. HUNTER
Canadian Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, Aug. 21 (CP Cable) —Lt.-Col. Cliff Wallace, press relations officer of Canadian Army Overseas, escaped uninjured when the aircraft in which he was returning to North Africa from Sicily crash-landed recently at an airfield at Licata, it was announced today.

The aircraft struck a barrage balloon cable and part of its port wing was torn off.

The P.R.O. who revealed the crash only today said the experience "is not one to be recommended as a hobby."

Col. Wallace insisted when he saw the crash was inevitable that his batman, Pte. Harry Beck of Bridgewater, N.S., take his seat so the batman could use the safety belt.

Beck, a blond youngster, said Col. Wallace "simply insisted I take it—that's all there was to it."

The aircraft, "Speckled Hen," had been in the air half an hour when it struck the cable. The pilots, Lieuts. George Tan of Lima, Ohio, and Lloyd Bethune of Grand Rapids, Mich., made the successful crash-landing on a fighter-dotted airfield where an ambulance greeted them. No one was hurt.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

"The Authority on Authorities"

JUST THINK A MOMENT

IT TAKES just a moment of thinking to decide some of the simple but vital problems which come up during the play of an ordinary hand. In many cases, that thinking should carry you back to the bidding, which can often guide you almost infallibly. That is the case time after time in deciding what card to play on the first lead toward a king-jack combination. If the bidding indicates that the ace is in the hand which plays after you do, then the J is nearly always the best chance. But if it is fairly well marked as being in the hand which plays first, then the king is a better play.

North: ♠ 9 6 5 ♥ K Q J 9 ♦ 7 4 3 2 ♣ A 6

West: ♠ K Q J 10 ♥ 10 6 5 ♦ A 6 ♣ Q 10 7 2

East: ♠ 7 3 2 ♥ 7 4 3 2 ♦ Q 10 ♣ J 9 8 4

South: ♠ A 8 4 ♥ A 8 ♦ K J 9 8 5 ♣ K 5 3

South is of course licked if he immediately tries to clear trumps after winning the spade K lead, as the defenders then will be bound to score two spades and a trump. So South ran four hearts, discarding two spades as West trumped the last one with the diamond 6. The spade 10 was returned for a ruff by South, who then went to dummy with the club A in order to lead diamonds toward his own holding.

After East put the diamond 10 on the 2, South, almost without any hesitation, played the K, and the A won it. Later the diamond Q scored the setting trick.

"What on earth caused you to play the K on that diamond lead?" asked North.

"Well, I knew where 10 trumps were, and there were only three out," answered South, who said he had been taught that, when there were three missing trumps including the A and Q, the K was the best play on the first lead, after one opponent had followed with a lower card.

"To begin with, that is just the reverse of right, as the J is the best play when you have no guidance," commented North. "But more important, West almost surely had the A, since he had made a bid, whereas East might very well hold the Q." Of course, the J play would have made this contract.

School Boards May Set Opening Date

TORONTO, Aug. 21.— The official opening of all schools will be September 7, but School Boards will have authority to defer the opening of their schools two weeks to permit students to finish farm duties, Premier George A. Drew, Minister of Education, said yesterday. The Premier consulted with officials of the Department before issuing a statement.

If any School Board feels its school should be closed for a period longer than two weeks, authority for this may be obtained upon direct application to the Department of Education.

'It is of the utmost importance that pupils engaged in farm work should be permitted to continue that work during the present month," said the Premier. "An order will be made by the Department that all pupils engaged in this work will be protected in their status in their schools and that special instruction will be arranged to make up for lost time upon their return to school.

"It is to be understood that the pupils will not only be permitted but will be urged to continue their work on the farm, whether their schools are closed or not," continued the Premier. "Many requests have been made that the opening of all schools should be deferred for at least two weeks. I believe that is impracticable because in many places only a very small percentage of the pupils are affected and it would seem unreasonable that thousands of teachers and scores of thousands of pupils should be idle to meet a situation which, I believe, can be effectively met if the School Boards will take appropriate action in accordance with the local situation."

Toronto schools will open September 7 unless a special meeting of the Board of Education is held next week to order otherwise. The next scheduled meeting of the Board is September 9, and up to last night no special meeting had been ordered.

According to official spokesmen of four municipalities surrounding Toronto a meeting will be held by Etobicoke Township High School Board on August 25, the Board of Education of Mimico on August 24, the York Township Board of Education on August 30, and the Long Branch School Board on August 31 that will decide the question for them. Spokesmen of the eight other municipalities in the vicinity of Toronto stated they had received no notice contrary to the official opening date.

Chinese Army Receives Bren Souvenir

TORONTO, Aug. 21 — Slim as a rattlesnake and a thousand times more deadly, a Bren machine gun was yesterday presented, in a symbolical ceremony, to the Chinese Army. It was Bren Gun No. 100,000, and it bore on one side of its butt a silver plate commemorating the achievement of the John Inglis Company. The company had an original contract for 12,000 Brens—a contract which it was expected, would have taken five years to fill. Actually, the plant can now turn out that number in five weeks.

All traffic in the plant, considered one of the largest machine gun factories in the world, was stopped briefly yesterday while dignitaries spoke from a flag-draped stand over a frise of Bren guns. There were Brens everywhere. The much-prized 100,000th occupied the place of honour on the stand, but on the ground near by were half a dozen others which were handled by the visitors. And surrounding the enclosure in which the ceremonies were held were thousands of employees, men in their working togs and gay bandannaed girls. They climbed on railway cranes and cars near by, lined every window and were on all available roofs. It meant something to them, this presentation—for they cheered every reference to China and her gallant stand, and one of their representatives, Miss May Dryborough, pledged all the employees to keep turning out Brens at record speed.

Scores "Strategists"

They cheered Dr. Liu Shih Shun, Chinese Minister to Canada, when he accepted the gun, and when he criticized 'typewriter strategists' who have "endeavored to belittle the role of China in the global conflict." "Occasionally," he said, "jarring notes of unwarranted mistrust have been sounded by one or two typewriter strategists and irresponsible commentators who have endeavored to belittle our role. Fortunately for our common cause, the most emphatic and categorical refutation of the gross misconceptions and misrepresentation of these men has been provided by the considered opinion of their own military leaders either in China or in their own country, who have consistently attached great importance to the China front and to the potentialities of manpower and the Chinese spirit. No amount therefore, of disparagement or fault finding, intentional or unintentional, can either alter this authoritative opinion a whit or do actual damage except to the reputation of the commentators themselves.

"We still recall that at the outset of our war of resistance," he continued, "it was the boast of the Japanese militarists that they could beat China to her knees within three months. Now, after more than six years, and not three months, of bitter fighting, China is still carying on and ironically enough during all this period it is the Japanese, and not the Chinese, who have repeatedly sued for peace. surely the fact that the Chinese people have been able to withstand and hold in check one of the mightiest war machines in the whole world and have not yielded to its overwhelming pressure is not to be lightly passed over and dubbed as a mere accident. Surely it is not Japanese leniency or Japanese clemency which has kept China from bowing her knees and which has restrained the Japanese from overrunning the whole of our realm.

"However hard the fight ahead of us may be, we have implicit faith in our cause. China's leaders, from the Generalissimo down, will under no circumstances consider any peace offers from Japan. The Chinese people will continue to stand by our allies until the unconditional surrender of our common enemy is secured," he pledged.

President Roosevelt is going to Ottawa, arriving there early next Wednesday modning to spend a day as guest of the Governor-General, and the Princess Alice, and of Prime Minister Mackenzie King who will take the President on a motor tour Wednesday afternoon.

President Roosevelt will deliver an address which will be broadcast from a stand at the foot of the Peace Tower of the Parliament Buildings at 12 noon Wednesday and it is understood members of both houses of Canada's parliament have been invited to go to Ottawa for that occasion.

After the Ottawa visit—probably late Wednesday evening—Mr. Roosevelt's train will move off toward the United States, in the "direction of Washington."

Prime Minister Churchill will not go to Ottawa on that occasion and probably not during the present visit, but he is expected to see other parts of Canada before he leaves this continent.

Australia Voters Decide Saturday

MELBOURNE, Aug. 21 — (CP). —Australia's electors vote to-day to determine the fate of Prime Minister John Curtin's Labor administration which has held office for the last 22 months.

Observers hesitated to forecast the outcome. Three things can happen—return of power of Curtin, a majority for the joint United Australia Party - United Country Party Opposition led by Arthur Fadden, or a stalemate.

There are 346 candidates for the 756 House of Representatives seats and 70 for the 10 out of 36 seats in the Senate which are being contested.

At dissolution Labor held 3 seats in the Lower House. The U.A.P. and U.C.P. between them held 36. The balance of power remained with two Independents, who have supported the Curtin administration and thus enabled it to remain in office. The 75th member represents the northern territory and has no vote except when issues affecting his district are under discussion.

Wolf Squadron Flew Over Dieppe Furnace

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Aug. 20 — (CP). — The story of one of the R.C.A.F. fighter squadrons in Britain — which a few months ago decided on the name "Wolf" Squadron for itself — is closely linked with the name of Wing Cmdr. Leslie Sydney Ford, D.F.C. and Bar, of Liverpool, N. S.—a brilliant commander who now is missing, said Flt. Lt. Basil Dean in an R.C.A.F. overseas press dispatch yesterday.

Before Ford was shot down while attacking enemy E-boats from low level over the North Sea he had left the "Wolf" Squadron, but his imprint was so strongly upon the formation which he once commanded that his name will be associated with it for the duration of the present war.

When the first of a series of Canadian squadrons was formed from R.C.A.F. personnel serving in England, it started with American-built Tomahawk fighters. Soon afterwards it switched to the Spitfire Mark VB — then the finest singleseater aircraft in the world.

The Battle of Britain was long over by then, and consequently all the air fighting that this squadron's pilots have done ever since has been carried out in enemy territory. Early this summer the squadron had been credited with 46½ confirmed victories—all won over the airfields of occupied Europe.

The "Wolf" Squadron got little chance to knock down Huns until August 19, 1941—just a year before the attack upon Dieppe, France. That day, four enemy fighters were destroyed. Another three were shot down September 27.

Ford assumed command August 12, 1942. A week later he led his squadron into the furnace over Dieppe, and in the action his pilots destroyed six enemy aircraft for certain. Ford himself shot down two, and many "probables" and damaged aircraft were credited to the guns of his fellow-fliers.

British Newspaper Editorials Demanding Clear Plan For Europe

By SCOTT YOUNG
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Aug. 20—(CP)—British parliament is in recess, likely to be called back only if Italy surrenders, but the question of what will happen politically to Italy when she capitulates or is beaten finally in the field of battle by the Allies is provoking strong comment, particularly from critics of the government.

Every day editorial columns of many of the nation's newspapers are given to statement and conjecture about British and American political plans, and lack of an Anglo-American-Russian plan, for liberated Europe.

It is generally assumed the European political course for the next two decades may be guided or set entirely by the political policies the Allies follow in countries they have occupied, or will occupy within the next few weeks or months. The question generally raised is this: should not Britain, the United States and Russia be combining on formation of this political policy before the necessity for its application arises?

The Anglo-American conference in Quebec was given by some observers as likely to provide the answer. Such political questions are considered likely to come second only to the immediate military plans.

The Situation

The present war-front political situation is this:

1. Britain and the United States continue to operate Amgot, which is non-political and has instructions to suppress all political activity, antagonistic or otherwise.

2. A body recently set up in Russia, the National Committee of Free Germany, may be the organization to which Russia will entrust civil administration if and when its armies enter Germany from the east. Its policies are not known, but it has no American or British representatives, just as Amgot has no Russian representative.

3. Canada, and others among the smaller nations are taking preliminary steps to train occupation personnel. The Canadian army has a short course for officers designed to fit them to meet preliminary problems of military occupation. A recent part of this course was concentrated on France, her political background, beliefs and problems.

Heated dissent comes from Aneurin Bevan's radical Socialist Tribune, a national weekly, and similar political journals, their demands are for an immediate united policy, one which will allow the liberated peoples an immediate opportunity to create their own governments by election.

Pointing out that war "cannot be won by military means alone," the middle-left Daily Mirror of London said the Allies need not only unity of military command, but "a resolute determination to stand together politically for the settlement that may not be very far off."

Late comment from the Liberal News-Chronicle was that Russia is "anxiously waiting to see what sort of government will come into being in Italy," and "without previous consultations have begun to forg[e] the political instrument by whic[h] they plan to prise out the remnant[s] of Hitlerism after Germany's mili[tary] defeat."

The authoritative London Time[s] and Manchester Guardian also hav[e] swelled the rising tide of comment[.] The Times said that if Premier Sta[lin] finds it impossible to leave hi[s] country while the enemy is still o[n] his soil "other means of persona[l] consultation exist or must be found for the magnitude of the issues pre[]cludes any thought of allowing them to go by default."

BY VIRTUE OF A WARRANT made under the hand of the Warden and Seal of the County of Peterborough and to me directed bearing date the 8th Day of June, in the year of our Lord, One Thousand Nine Hundred and Forty-three. I am commanded under the authority of the Statutes in that behalf to levy on the land hereinafter mentioned and described, for the arrears of taxes due thereon, with the costs as hereinafter directed by the said Act. Therefore, I give notice that unless the said arrears and costs are sooner paid I will proceed to Sell, by Public Auction, at the Court House, in the City of Peterborough, on the Fifth Day of October, 1943, at the hour of Ten o'clock (D.S.T.) in the Forenoon, the said Lands or so much thereof as may be necessary for the Taxes, and all lawful charges incurred, in and about such Sales, and the collection of the Taxes.

A List of the Lands for Sale for Arrears of Taxes will be published in The Ontario Gazette on Saturday, July 3rd, 1943. Copies of the List of Lands for Sale may be had in my Office.

Nazi Troops Abandon Kharkov City

Russians Advance 3½ Miles In Northern Sector

By WILLIAM SMITH WHITE
Associated Press Staff Writer.

LONDON, Aug. 23—(CP)—A Russian communique tonight announced the Russian Army had captured Kharkov by assault.

(The German high command had previously claimed the Ukrainian steel centre was evacuated "in the course of planned detaching movements.)

The Russian triumph in Kharkov, the greatest position in the German lines in all South Russia, was announced in a broadcast recorded here by the Soviet Monitor.

It quoted Premier Stalin as declaring in a special order of the day that Russian troops "as a result of fierce engagements broke the resistance of the enemy and took by storm the town of Kharkov."

Fall of the city was presented by DNB, German news agency, as an "orderly" evacuation in which Russian presure had no part. In a broadcast announcing withdrawal from the base, DNB said Kharkov was no longer a "valuable centre of traffic and supply" and declared all important installations there had been destroyed before the Nazis pulled out.

It represented the major Nazi position east of the Dnieper River and has been for the base of a salient from which the Germans could thrust out to menace the Russians anywhere from Moscow to the Caucasus.

Bitter Fighting.

Russian broadcasts and reports from the Germans themselves indicated violent fighting west of the city now rising toward perhaps some fateful conclusions.

The Russians have declared German commanders were so hard-pressed they were throwing new formations into the battle line at the moment of their arrival and without rest.

Kharkov was added to the lengthening list of Russian triumphs—the list including Orel and Belgorod—won by the same slashing flank attacks which relieved Stalingrad. Two Russian armies enveloped Kharkov from north and south.

The German announcement that Kharkov was again in Russian hands was broadcast in the overseas service report, but not to Nazis at home. They were told "There is

Sleeping Quarters A Bit Cramped

Sleeping quarters were a bit cramped, but these Canadian troops, bound for high adventure in the Aleutians, took it all as part of the show as they awaited the sailing of their transport vessel northward toward Kiska, as shown in TOP picture. Typical of Canadian nonchalance is the scene in LOWER photo as Canadian infantrymen relaxed while awaiting their call aboard. They now form part of a United States tank force on Kiska Island.

Bombers Hit Plants At Leverkusen

Week-End Raids Devastate Many Strong Points

LONDON, Aug. 23—(CP)—R.A.F. and Canadian bombers returned to their crushing attacks on Germany last night after an interval of two nights and the Air Ministry announced that the chemical works at Leverkusen, six miles north of Cologne, were the special target.

The German radio said that Duesseldorf in the Rhineland also was attacked and that 11 British fighters and "number" of bombers were shot down in "random" attacks on other objectives in the western Reich. The Air Ministry described these as intruder patrols over railway targets and airfields.

The Air Ministry said five bombers were lost in the night's activities.

Heavy clouds made it difficult to see results, the communique said.

Leverkusen was bombed twice in 1940, but has not been a specific target since.

Hardly had the night raiders returned that light bombers and fighters sped out by daylight today to resume the assaults.

Lull Since Thursday

The night attack ended a lull that had lasted since Thursday night when Mosquitoes struck at Berlin.

During this night operations, it was learned today, Sqdn.-Ldr. G. W. Northcott of Minnedosa, Man., was credited with shooting down an enemy aircraft over France.

Enemy raiders scattered bombs in East Anglia and also rumbled over southeast England last night. At least two were shot down. An alarm sounded in London soon after midnight, but no incidents were reported.

Late yesterday Marauder medium bombers of the United States 8th Air Force attacked an enemy airfield at Beaumont le Roger in occupied France. Escorting R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. Spitfires and the bombers knocked down nine enemy fighters. One bomber and eight Allied fighters were listed as missing, but all the Canadian aircraft returned safely.

During Sunday, British and Canadian Intruders attacked enemy shipping, airfields transport and communications, continuing the Saturday night train-busting expedition that saw R.C.A.F. pilot smash up a number of engines and enemy aircraft.

Blame The Worry

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23.—(AP). — Henry Bresler, worried about losing his $1,170, sat down on a street corner and took off a shoe, intending to put the money in it. A woman snatched the cash and ran, he told police. Bresler, with one shoe off and one shoe on, couldn't catch her.

Tim Buck Heads New Leftist Political Party

TORONTO, Aug. 23.—(CP).—Tim Buck, former leader of the now-disbanded Communist Party of Canada, last night was unanimously elected national leader of the Labor-Progressive party, new left-wing Labor party here at a convention during the week-end.

Delegates from Communist and Labor groups throughout Canada were present during the sessions at which a national committee of 75 was selected with Evariste Dube, of Montreal, as chairman.

In an address of acceptance, Mr. Buck said the Labor-Progressive was "the party of national unity, of youth and of future in Canada and the party of Socialism." He added that members of the party "on record for nine years as seeking unity with the C.C.F." would seek to avoid the danger of election conflict with C.C.F. candidates, but would run candidates in every constituency, both Provincial and Federal, where a labor representative seemed the logical choice of the electors.

The Labor-Progressive party would "demand of the Mackenzie King Government" that it go on public record as favouring an invasion of the European continent this year, Mr. Buck said.

Help C.C.F.

Mrs. Dorise Nielsen, Unity Member of the House of Commons for North Battleford, Sask., who announced she would align herself with the new party, appealed for it to reach out "the hand of friendship to the C.C.F. to give us the right to voice our desire for unity with the masses who are in the ranks of the C.C.F."

The convention passed a resolution declaring the readiness of the party "to affiliate with the C.C.F.." and that as an affiliate of the C.C.F., it would promise "to adhere loyally to its decisions and constitution."

Another resolution called for the dismissal of Hon. Humphrey Mitchell, Minister of Labor.

Saturday Mr. Buck announced a 14-point post war policy which would be followed by the party. It included: Legislation to provide full employment; social security legislation; re-establishment of service men and women; curbing of monopoly practices; tax reforms; a national minimum wage and the guaranteeing of full rights of citizenship to all Canadians.

The 75-member National committee has the following representation by provinces: Ontario, 36, Quebec 20, Alberta five, British Columbia five, Saskatchewan three, Manitoba three, Nova Scotia two, and New Brunswick one.

Massive Raid Fires Salerno On Italian Coast; Fighter Opposition Heavy

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, Aug. 23 — (AP). — The mighty Allied aerial juggernaut rolled over Salerno, another important point in the Italian mainland railroad system, virtually smashing the city in day and night raids and leaving freight yards a sea of flame, Headquarters announced to-day. Salerno is on the coast south of Naples, around which Allied heavy and medium bombers left a trail of ruin in railway centres in raids Friday and Saturday.

The Germans, determined to defend the key points of their lifeline, threw in about 100 fighters to battle the marauders and their escort.

Although today's Allied Headquarters communique said 28 of the enemy fighters were shot down at Salerno, later reports placed the number at 33. Altogether 34 enemy planes were shot down yesterday for a total of five Allied aircraft lost.

In the heavy air fighting of the past four days 114 enemy planes have been downed, it was stated here. The Marauder Squadrons in their Sunday raid destroyed 31 fighters, topping the 22 shot down by these bombers in the Naples area on Saturday.

Crotone Hit Again

While the Northwest African forces were slashing at Salerno, R.A.F. heavyweights from the Middle East bombed Italian rail switching yards Saturday at Crotone, a port on the arch of the Italian boot

The British fliers observed explosions and fires, some near a chemical factory, a Cairo announcement said.

Seven Allied aircraft were reported missing from the Saturday night and Sunday raids, two of them from the Middle East force.

British Wellingtons gave Salerno its initial going over Saturday night and the American medium bombers returned to the same targets in daylight yesterday.

Big fleets of bombers returned Saturday to important communication centres near the west coast Italian port and concentrated their explosives on some of the targets first given a thorough going over on Friday.

Allied communiques said the attacks were carried out successfully despite increasing enemy fighter

Russia Saved Britain From Invasion Pravda Says Demanding Second Front

MOSCOW, Aug. 23.— (AP).—Pravda, the Communist party newspaper, said to-day the British Isles should be "the main base for invasion of the continent."

"A crushing blow upon Germany is almost impossible to conceive without utilizing the enormous strategic advantage of the Brtish Isles," Pravda asserted.

Invasion from England, the newspaper said, could be supported by a strong aerial fighter force as well as army and navy bombers. It estimated 20 times fewer ships would be required to land and supply forces in Western Europe than would be needed for an invasion from the Mediterranean.

Reviewing Britain's wartime economy, Pravda said:

"Absence of a second front on the European continent has created a disproportion between the armament industry and the size of the operations being waged. The very logic of military economics requires the use of the equipment produced."

Pravda estimated Britain has 7,000,000 men in her armed forces and a similar number in war industries, producing 3,000 planes and 2,000 tanks a month to surpass German production. A further increase in 1943 is possible only through higher efficiency," the newspaper said.

Pravda asserted at one point that the Soviet Union had saved Britain from invasion.

Capt. R. Yelland Peterboro With Sicily Tank Corps

By ROSS MUNRO, Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIANS IN SICILY, Aug. 23.—(CP Cable).—During the entire Canadian campaign in Sicily, a tank force operated with the Canadian 1st Division, fighting along winding roads, in towns and climaxing its actions with a big success in front of Aderno.

Its Sherman tanks with cannons and machine-guns were constantly with the infantry, prodding away at enemy defences and giving the infantry every support they could. Several times they clashed with enemy tanks at close range but generally in the narrow confines of this mountainous terrtiory they concentrated on staunch support for the Canadian infantry.

The tanks fought at Grammichelle, Piazza Armerina, Leonforte, Nissoria and Agira, played a part in the capture of Regalbuto and finally went down the plains to the Simeto River Valley with the Seaforth Highlanders of Canada to sweep the Germans back at Aderno.

In All Battles

The Aderno fight was the force's biggest job but on the slopes outside Nissoria the tanks saw some of the wildest times of all.

A squadron commanded by Maj. Pat Mills of Toronto was in the thick of the attacks there.

One night it went in with the Princess Patricia's Canadian light infantry and reached the objective to find the enemy also was there with some tanks. The Canadians spent the entire night with the enemy infantry sometimes only 12 yards away and the enemy tanks not more than 100 yards away.

The Canadians kept blazing away with machine-guns and even cannons at everything that moved.

GermanPressure Blocking Peace

BERNE, Aug. 23 — (CP). — An open admission that Italian efforts to withdraw from the war are being blocked by German pressure on the Badoglio government was contained in the Italian press for the first time during the weekend.

A Swiss telegraph agency dispatch from Chiasso on the Italian frontier said that the Italian press is "clearly stating that the first aim of the Badoglio Government is to remove the country from war but Rome is seeking to prevent the peninsula from becoming the theatre of a gigantic battle among the Germans there and the Anglo-Saxons threatening to enter."

The clamor for peace was echoed by the Corriere Della Sera at Milan, which urged the government "not to let even the least favorable chance to take the country out of war escape."

The Swiss telegraph agency dispatch, which reported German troops flooding into Italy through the Brenner Pass, added that the Italian press "has now admitted that Italy considers herself an element in submitting to war, rather than waging it."

(From Madrid came word that Rome dispatches indicated that the Italians do not intend to resist Allied invasion but will not oppose German resistance because they feel that conflict with the Germans would result in larger loss of life and property than remaining aloof.

Finland Seeks Separate Peace

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 23 — (CP). — Trouble for the Germans was reported in various Scandinavian countries to-day.

Finland apparently sent out another peace feeler when Eero Yuori, chief of the Finnish Trade Union, came to Stockholm yesterday to seek to ascertain from Arthur Deakin, an official of the British Transport Workers' Union, whether Britain would act as intermediary to learn what peace terms Russia wanted from the Finns. Yuori's visit presumably was authorized by the Finnish Government.

Deakin, visiting here, suggested Finland's best chance would be to get in touch with Russia directly. The Russians have insisted that the Finns outline their terms first.

Meanwhile, the newspaper Svenska Dagbladet said to-day two factories had been blown up in Denmark during the week-end despite a joint appeal from King Christian and the Government for a cessation of attacks on German war activities.

Several District Soldiers Included In Casualty List

OTTAWA, Aug. 23.—(CP).—The Defence Department issued today the fifth official list of Canadian (Active) Army casualties in the Sicilian campaign, reporting the names of an additional 144 men.

The list brought to 470 the total of Sicily casualties made public to date. It has been announced that Canadian casualties in the period July 10 to Aug. 4 totalled 1,895.

Today's list—the 344th army casualty list of the war—carried the names of four officers and 27 other ranks who were killed in action and two officers and five other ranks who died of wounds. It listed as wounded 16 officers and 87 other ranks and showed two officers missing in action and one dangerously ill.

Listed as seriously wounded is Capt. Francis William Ingersoll Merritt, brother of Lt.-Col. Cecil Merritt, V.C., the hero of Dieppe. Capt. Merritt, with a British Columbia regiment, was born in Vancouver, B.C., in 1913. His wife, Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Merritt, resides at Vancouver, B.C.

Following is the fifth official list, containing 144 names of Canadian (Active) Army casualties in the Sicily campaign, with next-of kin:

3 Midget Subs Found At Kiska

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23 (AP) — Spreading out from recaptured Kiska, Canadian and American troops have seized the little island of Segula and are consolidating positions on Kiska and in the adjacent Aleutian area. Segula, 20 miles east of Kiska, could have been used by the Japanese as an outpost for their main base, but the only information available the Navy said today, was that the landings had been made "with no Japanese being found."

A communique telling of the landings also reported that three Japanese midget, submarines which the enemy apparently had attempted to destroy with bombs before fleeing from Kiska, had been found on the marine railway at the submarine base there.

Litvinoff's Recall Puzzles Allies

Interpreted As Positive Sign Stalin Putting Cards On Table

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

It would be easy to set a lot of mischievous little hobgoblins to dancing by speculation over the mysterious replacement of Maxim Litvinoff as Soviet ambassador to the United States, but at the same time it would be a mistake to brush aside such an important development for fear of examining it.

The very fact the unexplained shift of Litvinoff has put in motion a storm of speculation not only in the United Nations but in Germany is in itself proof the event has some peculiar significance. This thought is supported by the circumstance of Litvinoff's transfer coming on the heels of similar action in respect to Ivan Maisky, Russian ambassador in London, called back to Moscow without explanation.

Disquieting Turn.

Allied newspapers and observers, looking at the puzzle from every angle, have found the event disquieting. The Hitlerites, trying to squeeze as much juice out of this turnip as possible, have bragged about a row in the enemy camp.

There is no row in the Allied camp, and the Russians are out to crush Hitlerism. However, the widespread speculation and uneasiness in Britain and the United States would seem to point clearly to one thing: There is lack of complete understanding between the Soviet Union and the wetsern Allies.

Observers generally seem to feel that one of the most likely explanations of the Russians' move is that Moscow is taking this means of expressing resentment at the fact that the Anglo-American Allies have not yet opened up that second land-front in Western Europe.

Dominant Power.

This column has pointed out the probability the Soviet Union will emerge from this war as the dominant power in Europe, and maybe in the Far East as well. Daily she is emphasizing this likelihood by the power of her drive against the tremendous weight of the Hun armies.

To-day Berlin admits the abandonment of Kharkov, one of the vital pivotal bases in the southern wing of the great German battle line. Hitler's whole eastern front is threatened. The Reds are slogging on towards Berlin.

That picture certainly calls for an understanding among the big three. What more likely than that this is the main reason for Stalin's blunt gesture? He is asking for a tabling of cards.

Curtin Wins In Australia

Will Have Working Majority Of 30 Seats

MELBOURNE, Aug. 23 — (CP). — Prime Minister John Curtin's government will face the 17th Australian Parliament to be convened in late September with a working majority of about 30 votes in the House of Representatives as the result of elections held Saturday which recorded an unprecedented landslide in favor of his Labor party.

Although the final count of the votes cast may not be known for several days official figures available late today indicated that Labor will win from 48 to 51 seats in the Lower House. The combined opposition parties will have between 21 and 24 seats.

It also was indicated Labor had won Senate victories in all the states, but final results of the contests for the Upper House will not be known for several days. In any case the opposition will retain a majority of two seats in the Senate until June 30 next year when the terms expire for 19 Senatorships contested in Saturday's election, the remaining 17 Senate seats were not up for contest this year.

Mr. Curtin himself was re-elected in Freemantle, Western Australia, with an indicated majority of almost 20,000. Arthur Fadden, opposition leader and head of the Country Party, was in danger in Queensland but it was believed votes from country districts might pull him through.

Pearkes Leads Kiska Unit

Tight-Lipped Veteran Makes No Statement

By The Canadian Press

Maj-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, only Canadian General who wears the maroon ribbon of the Victoria Cross, to-day is also the only Canadian commander whose forces have operated in two hemispheres — in the Arctic and Pacific Oceans.

From his 1st Canadian Division two years ago, a crack brigade went to bleak Spitsbergen in the Arctic Ocean to wreck Nazi-controlled coal mines and radio installations. This month a slightly larger force from his Pacific command joined wtih United States forces in occupying Kiska. Not a shot was fired in either operation.

Fifty-five-year-old Gen. Pearkes was rated the finest "training General" of the Canadian Army in England during the early war years when the growing Canadian garrison force in Britain worked into form for the test so long in coming. He returned to Canada in 1942 to become General Officer Commanding in Chief, Pacific Command.

Commander of the 1st Brigade in the first contingent of Canadians sent to Britain in 1939, he succeeded Maj.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton as commander of the 1st Canadian Division when the 1st Canadians Corps was formed late in 1940. His division went to Sicily and sucess last month under Maj.-Gen. G. R. Simonds.

Least-quoted of Canadian commanders, Gen. Pearkes made no statement about Kiska as he made none about Spitsbergen.

SOLDIERS FROM ALL PARTS OF CANADA MADE UP INVASION FORCE

5 Famous Units Took Part In Kiska Raid

OTTAWA, Aug. 23—(CP)—Five famous Canadian regiments, with artillery, medical corps and engineer units, are represented in the Canadian force whose landing on the Aleutian Island of Kiska, in conjunction with United States forces, was anonunced yesterday.

The units participating in the occupation, as announced by Prime Minister Mackenzie King Saturday night, are:

The Canadian Fusiliers of London, Ont.; Winnipeg Grenadiers; Rocky Mountain Rangers, and Le Regiment De Hull, with a company of the Saint John Fusiliers.

With them were the 24th Field Regiment, Royal Canadian Artillery; the 46th Light Anti-Aircraft Battery; the 24th Field Company, Royal Canadian Engineers; and the 25th Field Ambulance, Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps.

Army authorities said that the Canadian units represented "a compact, self-contained and fully equipped formation.

Brinton Carpet Makes 61st Donation

The help that the Brinton-Peterborough Carpet Co. Ltd. employees have given to help the sufferers through air raid attacks over Britain through the local and district fund which operates for that purpose keeps extending as the weeks and months progress for they have a definite purpose for good before them, to which star they have rigidly attached themselves ever since the first appeal was made on behalf of the victims of air raids over that country.

In the realm of continunity they take a lead in number of donations made, to-days report crediting them with the 61st time their name has appeared in this daily column, and from a per capita standpoint, they are among the leaders with a figure which reaches nearly to the $3.00 mark.

There is no better example than this of what can be accomplished with steady work in which each takes even a little part, for their total to date of $813.90 has for the main part been collected through the workers giving the smallest of change from their pay envelopes every Friday, giving a wonderful demonstration of fidelity to the cause which is worthy of emulation.

Not very far west of the city limits on Highway No. 28, there is a penny box located at Whiddon's Service Station which to-day is credited, with its best contribution of $5.000, the amount being a little short of that when opened, so the deficiency was made up by Mrs. Whiddon, and a little odd change left in the new box to sow some seed with hope for a richer harvest once again at a later date.

The penny box at the Examiner Office, another old timer in steady help to the fund was also emptied to add another $1.05 to the day's receipts.

The fund is now reaching out to the half-way mark for the next donation of £500, which requires some $2,240 in all to make possible which, with your and your help, will be accomplished in due course, and sent over to assist in the humanitarian work for which it was intended.

Sabotage also continued against railways transporting troops and supplies to Danish ports for movement to Norway, the Stockholm Tidningen reported.

Despite a new Quisling decree making death the penalty for sabotage in Norway, freight cars containing food were wrecked at Bergen, the Tidningen said.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 23 — (CP). — Wheat futures worked into lower ground on Saturday on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange when selling outweighed buying. The close was ¼ to ½ cent lower, with October at $1.09⅝.

Trading in the pit was light, liquidation credited to Southern interests. Some buying by shippers was reported.

No overseas export business in Canadian wheat or flour was reported.

Trade in cash wheat was limited to the top three Northern grades.

Scarcity of offerings restricted trade in cash coarse grains.

Rye was the only grain future active, but dealings were minor. Oats and barley futures remained at ceiling levels.

Capt. R. Yelland

Frequently the crews got out of the tanks or lifted the turret tops to lob grenades at the Germans. The enemy fired on the tanks for hours from five or six angles but their infantry never rushed them.

Throughout the nightmare the Canadians clung firmly to their objective, near the top of a slope over which the Royal Canadian Regiment and the 48th Highlanders of Canada had fought bloody actions during the two previous nights with some tank support.

Huns Were Nervous.

Everyone was keyed up to fever pitch when the dawn came for they knew they would be tangling with enemy tanks. As the first glimmer of light showed, they could dimly see the enemy tanks. The Germans, apparently nervous, opened fire first, giving away their positions. Then the Canadians went after them.

A tank carrying Capt. Ed. Smith of North Bay, Ont., knocked out the first one at 80 yards. A tank with Lieut. Art Waldron of Lloydminster, Sask., followed by knocking out two German tanks at ranges of 700 and 1,500 yards. Waldron also knocked out an 88-millimeter gun on a tractor and some machine-gun posts.

The German infantry were beginning to pull out at this stage because of the tank pressure as well as advances by the Princess Pats and the Seaforths.

In addition to these three German tanks knocked out at Nissoria, the force also got three at Leonforte, and two at Gramichele as well as a pom-pom half-track, probably accounting for more enemy tanks than any other tank unit of the 8th Army.

Other officers in Maj. Mills' squadron included Capt. Reg. Yelland, Peterborough, Ont., son of Dr. Max Yelland and Mrs. Yelland; Lieuts. Jack Wallace, Barrie, Ont.; Bill Armstrong, London, Ont., and Donald Gordon, Chatham, Ont. Second in command was Maj. Frank Schmidlin, Kingston, Ont. Others on the Headquarters Staff were Capt. Orval Roberts, Hamilton, Ont., and Lieut. Ted Steinbycki, Chatham, Ont.

Pacific Strategy Engages Chiefs At Quebec Session

By J. F. SANDERSON, Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC, Aug. 23. — (CP). — Plans to intensify the war against Japan in the Pacific were under review here today when President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill conferred with Dr. T. V. Soong, Foreign Minister and No. 2 man of the Chinese Republic.

The Chinese diplomat, brother-in-law of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, flew in from Washington yesterday a few hours after the arrival of the American Secretary of State for War, Henry L. Stimson. Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox is expected here today, the third member of the Roosevelt Cabinet to attend the Quebec Conference.

Steve Early, White House press secretary, revealed last night that Pacific strategy was under close study by military leaders.

Boost Air Force

This led to unofficial suggestion that one of the first steps that might be taken by the Allies would be the creation of a strategic air force in China to co-operate with submarines and surface vessels in patrolling the China Sea, to Japan's sea link with her outlying garrisons and source of raw materials.

At present a few American planes were in China, used as a tactical force on occasional bombing raids against Japanese-held cities like Canton.

If the Allies decided to step up the pace of the air war against Japan from Chinese bases, in line with a promise made months ago by President Roosevelt, it will be one of the greatest tests of logistics ever attempted because all supplies will have to be flown from India.

It has been apparent to military observers in Washington for some time that Japan's supply line through the China Sea, connecting her factories with the raw materials required to keep her war machine running, would be extremely vulnerable to land based, long-range planes operating from Chinese fields in sufficient numbers to constitute a blockade when combined with submarines.

It is no secret that an Allied attack on Burma, with the object of regaining use of the highway there is scheduled for this fall, after the Monsoon season but it may be a long, tough battle before Burma is recaptured and months after that before the highway can be rendered serviceable.

Ottawa Wednesday

The world soon may know some of the military and political decisions of the Quebec Conference, tentatively scheduled to end tomorrow, with President Roosevelt then travelling to Ottawa, where he will address at noon on Wednesday crowds assembled on Par-

Dr. Bruce Whyte Dies In Michigan

MILLBROOK, Aug. 23—(ENS).— The death of Dr. Bruce Whyte, which took place on Tuesday at Battle Creek, Michigan, in his 64th year, following an extended period of ill-health, removed a citizen whose early years up to young manhood had been spent at Millbrook, and who had reached a place of prominence and success in his chosen profession. Dr. Whyte was born at Lindsay, Ontario, and was the only son of the late George Whyte, and his wife Eliza J. Sloan, the latter a member of the Deyell family, outstanding in the history of Cavan and Millbrook from pioneer days.

He attended the former Trinity College, now a part of the Universiy of Toronto, graduating in medicine in 1904, after which he spent two years in connection with the Sick Children's Hospital, Toronto, and for the following two years was ship's surgeon on the Empress of India sailing from Vancouver to China and Japan and other points

Ludwig Optimistic

MONTREAL, Aug. 23 — (CP)— Emil Ludwig, German-born writer and lecturer, said yesterday in an interview that Germany may "fold up tomorrow—any day." The Nazis cannot go through another winter campaign and the war will end this autumn, he added.

MOVING IN THE RIGHT DIRECTION

CANADA'S steady march of progress is nowhere better reflected than in her vast transportation industry. The fast-developing ease and speed of transport has made mass production an economic possibility, with all its attendant benefits of nation-wide distribution, higher living standards, reduced costs and bigger payrolls. This Bank has long recognized the importance of transportation in all its phases and has been privileged to help finance its development through 87 years of banking service.

Oddfellows Hold Decoration Day

HAVELOCK, Aug. 23 (ENE) — Annual decoration ceremonies of Royal Lodge No. 286, I.O.O.F., and Dorcas Rebekah Lodge No. 98 were carried out on Sunday afternoon, with a large attendance of members and visitors.

Led by the Campbellford Band the parade assembled at the Lodge rooms and marched to Maple Grove cemetery, where beautiful bouquets of cut flowers were placed on the graves of 80 brethren and 20 sisters, whose names were read aloud by Noble Grand Harry Ferguson and Past Noble Grand Jessie Green.

A suitable address was delivered by Rev. J. W. Wilkinson, pastor of the United church, and Past Noble Grand Carman Coon gave the Memorial address, with prayer offered by the Chaplain, E. J. Leeson.

The band rendered appropriate music and three hymns were sung, "O God our Help in Ages Past," "Fight the Good Fight," and "Now the Day is Over." Other plot holders in the cemetery responded to a request and decorated the graves of departed relatives.

Manvers Friends Honor Couple

LIFFORD, Aug. 23 — (ENS). — About one hundred and seventy-five guests from the surrounding community gathered at Lifford Community Hall on Thursday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Shea, who were recently married in Lindsay. Norman is a Fleetwood youth who for some time has held a responsible position in the Lindsay Arsenal. His bride, formerly Miss Leona Farrety, was also a war worker in the same place.

When the crowd had assembled, the bride and groom were called to a prominent place on the platform of the hall and Ed. Hart read a suitable address expressing appreciation of the groom's genial companionship and extending hearty good wishes for a long and happy married life. The committee in Horace Heaslip, Howard Leslie, Don. Emery, and Jack Davidson, then presented handsome gifts, including an electric clock and lamp as well as a living-room table and a smoker's stand.

The groom made suitably reply on behalf of himself and his wife.

Lunch was served by a group of ladies, including Mrs. George Shea, Miss Irene Leslie and Mrs. Thomas E. Shea, the latter cutting the handsome wedding cake to be served to the guests along with sandwiches and other cake.

Round and square dancing was enjoyed by the young people for many hours, music being provided by Mrs. Horace Heaslip on the piano and two violinists, Arthur Pogue of Reaboro and Herman Wilson of Janetville. Morton Davis of Brunswick and Don Emery of Fleetwood called off for the square dancing.

Beside the large representation of friends from Lifford and Fleetwood, there were also present guests from Lindsay, Mount Pleasant, Reaboro, and Omemee.

27-Pound Lunge Is Caught In Mud Lake

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 23. — (ENS).—A visitor to Canada for the past twenty-three years A. J. DeSeve of Youngstown, Ohio, got the big one that he has been angling for last week while fishing in what is known as Mud Lake above Healey Falls. He and Mrs. DeSeve, who have been spending the past week at Mrs. M. Dunham's, engaged Sanford Keller to guide them through the hazardous waters of the lake and it was during the early afternoon he tangled with the fish that turned out to be the biggest reported from this favourite fishing ground during the present season. The monster weighed 27 pounds and measured 44 inches in length. Mr. DeSeve was using a river runt for bait and he landed the fish within thirty minutes of the time it struck. Though it was the largest he had caught in the years he has been coming to Canada Mr. DeSeve recalled that three years ago while fishing in the same part of the river he landed a 16½ pounder.

Wanted In Cobourg

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 23 (CP) — William Greenly, 27, no fixed address, was arrested Sunday at a local hotel by city police and charged with car theft here. Detectives later said they held a warrant for the arrest of Greenly, which had been sworn late in July in Cobourg and listed car theft and house breaking in that district.

Drunken Driver Gets 15 Days

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 23 (ENS) —Fifteen days in jail and his car impounded for six months was the sentence handed to Earl Emery 30, of Hastings, who appeared before Magistrate Gee on a drunk driving charge here Friday afternoon The accused was charged by Chief Constable William Wellman following an accident in Hastings when the accused's car allegedly collided with one driven, police said, by Ward Martin of Peterborough. The evidence disclosed both cars had been reduced to junk and that Mrs. Ward Martin of Peterborough and Mrs. William Martin of Hastings, both occupants of the Martin car, received injuries. Accused's counsel, W. J. A. Fair, suggested to the court that the blow his client received on the nose when the accident occurred might well have caused him to act as though he were drunk. He described the condition as similar to a fighter who was punch drunk and declared no medical evidence had been submitted to prove his client was intoxicated. Magistrate Gee thought differently and found Emery guilty.

William Morton, 23, of Stirling, was charged with illegal possession of liquor following a disturbance in a local restaurant, pleaded guilty and paid $15.00 and $2.50 costs. The charge was laid by Chief Constable George Hardy of Campbellford.

Three Youths Go For Buggy Ride Horse Is Stolen

COBOURG, Aug. 23—(ENS)—During his 24 years in police work, Chief W. J. Carey has participated in every kind of case from common assault to murder but never had he an investigation into horse rustling until Saturday. On that date Chief Carey received word that somebody had stolen a horse and buggy belonging to James McEllenborough from the market square. Later Chief Carey captured the culprits on their way to Port Hope with the stolen transporation. The horse thieves were three juveniles. They gave varied reasons for stealing the horse and buggy, including the explanation given by one of the lads that he had to take a letter up to Port Hope. They will appear in court.

Found Guilty

William Hall, Grafton resident, was found guilty on ten charges when he appeared before Judge J. C. M. German in county court and remanded in custody for sentence until September 7. Hall's arrest last March climaxed a series of break-ins of summer cottages in Haldimand township over a period of 1941 to 1943, during the absence of the cottage owners in the winter. Nine of the charges were breaking and entering and theft and the tenth charge was possession of firearms without a permit. Hall was arrested in a swamp by Provincial Constable David Adair.

The charges were possessing a rifle and shotgun without a permit; theft of a shotgun from the summer cottage of R. Heenan; breaking and entering and theft from the cottages of A. Williams, J. Larivie, Mrs. Bertha Wright Knapp, H. Harsnant, G. Clumpus, Mrs. H. Brewer. Mrs. Knapp's cottage and the cottage of G. Clumpus were broken into on two occasions.

With Hall's arrest police recovered bedding, dresser-set, hammers, saws, shovels, an axe and other household articles.

Decoration Day

Annual I.O.O.F. Decoration Day was held yesterday afternoon when graves of the departed brethren in the Union and St. Peter's cemeteries were decorated. The lodge members, headed by Cobourg Kilties Band, paraded to the cemetery. The service was held in the Union Cemetery, the music for the hymns being provided by the band. Rev. D. A. McKenzie of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church recited the opening prayer and the address was given by Rev. M. Smith, supply-minister at Cobourg Baptist Church. After the decoration of the graves, the service closed with benediction said by Rev. McKenzie.

Softball Standing

Final standing in the girls' softball league has Campbells in first place with seven won and no games lost. The C.Y.O. is in second place with five won and three lost: Dye Works, three won and four lost; Ontario Hospital, 2 won and six lost; Cooey's, two won and six lost. Ontario Hospital and Cooey's played the final game to decide fourth place position, the Hospital defeating Cooey's by the score of 17-11.

One Sure Way of GETTING MORE TIRE MILEAGE

● Correct tire inflation : : : one of the simplest, yet one of the most important ways of getting maximum mileage from tires . : : is often neglected. Experts agree that the average motorist loses up to 25% of his tires' life through under-inflation alone.

Many outside air standards vary by 10% or more. Tire inflation is too important to be handled carelessly. Tire inflation should be maintained and checked every week with an accurate hand gauge.

We can perform this service for you. We will look over your tires, too, for small cuts, bruises, breaks . . . and tell you just what needs to be done to fix any damage before it can develop into serious trouble.

Our tire men are Goodyear factory-trained. They can quickly spot and adjust tire faults . . . give you the advantage of the many extra miles that can be saved for your tires by keeping them in constant repair. Let us check your inflation today.

A Prolonged "Emergency"

Things which are done as "emergency measures" have a way of dragging out their existence until public opinion becomes strong enough to alter them. During the last war a hospital for wounded soldiers was needed, and as an emergency measure a factory building in an industrial district of Toronto was taken over by the Government of the day for that purpose. The hospital, known as the Christie Street Hospital, is still in the same unsuitable building in the same unsuitable district. And now the Government has called for tenders on building a $500,000 extension to it.

It is generally agreed that the hospital is unsatisfactory. And it seems certain that if half a million dollars is spent on adding to it, it will never be moved until we are all under the sod. What is wanted is not patching, and the continuance of a bad situation, but a new hospital. We shall need hospitals for disabled soldiers after this war. Are we going to put them in a building which was taken as an emergency measure a quarter of a century ago?

It is unfair to lay all the blame for this situation on the present Government. Every Government which has been in power since the last war has had its chance to take the Christie Street Hospital in hand and deal with its wants. To most of us it seems clear that a hospital for disabled soldiers ought to be in a suburb, where it can have a quiet and retired site, with plenty of gardens and lawns, but which is not too far from the city for frequent visiting. A factory district is the last place for a hospital, and especially one in which disabled men are to wear out their lives.

The Minister of Pensions has announced the Government's willingness to help in choosing a new site for a military hospital to replace the Christie Street makeshift. But we predict that if an extension costing half a million dollars is built on the present fabric the new hospital will be very slow in coming. Is it out of the question to start on a new hospital now, with a view to vacating the old hospital as soon as possible? We feel that this is a matter of the deepest concern to every citizen of this province.

About Voters' Lists

The voters' lists used in the provincial election have caused a good deal of dissatisfaction all over the province. Great numbers of names were left off the lists, and many people were inconvenienced when they went to vote.

Certainly it is annoying for people who have been living in one place for many years to be passed over by the enumerators, and the only conclusion which can be reached is that the latter did their work with a fine disregard of accuracy and completeness. We must point out, however, that anyone who goes to a polling booth without having first looked to see if his name is on the voters' list is doing a rather silly thing. Enough publicity was given to the sittings of the revision boards to warn everyone who was really anxious to vote that he should check with the lists which were available in a number of easily accessible places.

But we must not have such another mix-up in the future. Many suggestions have been made as to how the lists should be prepared; the London Free Press points out that in New Zealand each citizen is responsible for his own registration as a voter, with a fine as the penalty for failure; in Australia voting is compulsory, with a penalty for neglect of this duty. In Canada we have never taken our duties as citizens so seriously as this, though this newspaper has suggested that we should think of doing so.

The Ottawa Journal suggests that registration of voters should be put in the hands of municipal clerks, who are used to enumeration work because they do it at municipal elections. Just how well this would work out we cannot say, but it could not be as bad as the result of the job which was undertaken and carried out in a hurry last month. Perhaps Premier Drew's Government will have a satisfactory plan; if they have, they will have made a most useful contribution to provincial government.

Franco Must Behave Himself

The British Ambassador to Spain, Sir Samuel Hoare, served notice upon General Francisco Franco last Friday that he must either comport himself as a neutral, or accept the consequences. Franco has not been a neutral in this war; he has been a non-belligerent with a bias toward the Axis, which is a very different thing. The power which he enjoys he gained with German and Italian aid; the regime of which he is dictator is modelled upon the Nazi and Fascist rule. Spain has supplied troops to fight against Russia, a member of the United Nations; Spain has relayed reports on the passage of Allied convoys through the Straits of Gibraltar; Spain has allowed German planes to fly over her territory to attack British convoys. Spain, in fact, has done all she dares to help the Axis and to make things hard for the Allies.

But now Spain is in a difficulty. Or perhaps it would be more correct to say that Spain is recovering her true self, and the Franco regime is in a difficulty. Franco is reported to have asked Britain and the U.S. to supply him with arms to save him from an internal rebellion. Presumably such arms would be Italian and German materiel, captured and refitted. The fall of Mussolini has given heart to the anti-Franco elements in Spain; when one tyrant falls, the rest tremble.

Britain, with the full concurrence of the United States, has sent her Ambassador to read the riot act to Franco. For many months his covert aid to the Axis, and his derogations of democracy have been ignored. Now he must adopt a neutral position or suffer the consequences. We do not believe for a moment that the Allies will give him anything with which to uphold his regime. But if he refuses to be neutral in deed as well as in name it would not be difficult to give his regime a push which would unseat him.

Grass Over The Scaffold

We have received a letter from a lady living in Ottawa who has lost her son in this war, and who is anxious to start a Canadian society which will have the punishment of war criminals as its object. As the letter is mimeographed, we assume that it has been sent to a number of newspapers. We do not intend to publish the letter, for we feel that such a society, if organized, might do great harm, and would be quite powerless to do good. Societies based upon hatred and desire for vengeance cannot, we feel, add anything to our national war effort. Everyone feels the deepest sympathy with those whose relatives have died in battle, but we believe that our own armed forces can be trusted to settle those scores.

There is much talk these days of punishing the criminals who began this war. If anyone desires to know how difficult it is to do that, let him look in the first volume of Lloyd George's Truth About The Peace Treaties, where he will find a full account of the Cabinet discussion as to the feasibility of hanging the Kaiser. And the question arises: if we mean to punish those who brought this war about, shall we punish them all, or only those who belong to the defeated nations? There are men in Great Britain, and in the United States, and in France, Holland and Belgium—yes, and in Canada too—who had no small part in bringing this war upon us. Hitler and Mussolini could not have reached the point where war was a possibility if stupidity, timidity and unworthy motives on the side of the democracies had not aided them. Begin hanging war criminals and—like a stone thrown in a pool—the guilt will extend wider and wider, taking in many whom we respected during their time of office.

Some sort of international justice will have to be done, but we do not expect too much of the bold professions which are being made now. The best thing that we can hope for is that the enraged people of Germany and Italy will take justice in their own hands and kill their own tyrants. For, remember, a leader who is slain by an enemy people tends to become a martyr, however villainous he may have been during his life. As Winston Churchill has very wisely said, "Grass grows quickly over the battlefield; over the scaffold, never".

NOTE AND COMMENT

In some people's method of measurement, two pints make one cavort.

If it wasn't for man's inhumanity to man what would become of lawyers?

Now that the great vacation month of August is in full swing, home, as usual, is considered as a last resort.

It is foolish to think of our enemies as friends. They are very human. And they prove it by their extreme reluctance to reap the whirlwind after they have so assiduously sown the wind.

Farming News and Views

By
HON. DUNCAN MARSHALL

DONALD GORDON, who is in charge of the Price Ceiling Board, issued a warning a few days ago to the effect that the Price Ceiling was in danger of seriously breaking with disastrous results. Those who have lived through the war of 1914-18 and made sales and purchases at that time, and are doing the same today, have at least some idea of what the Price Ceilings have saved Canada from, and can make some comparisons between conditions here and in the United States where price ceilings were not fixed soon enough, and then quite ineffectually elforced.

There are very few of us who have not voiced complaints against some features of price ceilings, and it is a common habit with people when they meet to exchange grievances. If we stop, however, to consider the vast number of commodities upon which prices had to be fixed we will be led to wonder how it was done as successfully as it was. We have only to take a few commodities of which people are common purchasers to see how speculation will run riot at the slightest opportunity. Take sugar, for instance. It reached a price, in the last war, just about three times what it is at the present time. Butter, in places, then reached 75c per pound and oleomargarine sold for 50c per lb. We have escaped oleo in this war, and butter is a moderate price retail of 36c to 39c. Flour is less than half the price it was at that time. Anyone who wanted a thousand feet of lumber in 1917 and 1918 was almost afraid to ask the price. The price of meat in butcher shops is about half what it was then and a good price is being paid for the animals for slaughter.

The hungry profiteers endeavored to lay in good stocks when the war began and I am afraid many of their actions did not impress people with the value of "private enterprise," when it gets a chance at the public. It is up to all fair minded citizens to support the price ceilings at every posible opportunity, and to eschew black markets wherever they meet them. In times like these we must put up with some inconveniences and at the worst these are only slight. Donald Gordon has done a good job — he has had to be arbitrary at times because he is up against the speculator, and how the latter does object to having his particular line of speculation curtailed, but we have been saved from a good deal of profiteering, and farmers have been reasonably fair in the whole matter. We must also remember that until Hitler is completely defeated we may have more ceilings, but so far it has not been hard to bear.

NEW Zealand is further restricting the home consumption of pork as there has been a decline in the pig population of that Dominion. The New Zealand Food Controller is prohibiting, for a time, the sale of fresh, frozen, pickled or cooked pork. For some years New Zealand has been a substantial exporter of pork to Britain. This pork has usually gone in the form of frozen carcasses and was cured in Britain upon its arrival there or was sold as fresh pork. The rationing of eggs is likely to be established in New Zealand during the coming winter. Food is likely to become more difficult to get as the war proceeds.

I notice that heifers are bringing a price nearer to that of steers on the Toronto market than has been frequently the case. Buyers often discount the value of heifers for beef, evidently for no other reason than to buy them for less money. In ordinary times the best market in the world for beef animals is Scotland. Prime Scotch beef brings the top price, yet it is often the case that heifers sell for prices slightly above that of steers. When Wm. Watson, of Balcairn, in Aberdeenshire, came to the International Show at Chicago in 1921, to judge the fat beef classes, he finished up by making a heifer grand champion of the show. This placing aroused a good deal of discussion among buyers as they were not paying as much for heifers as for steers to kill. Mr. Watson, however, stuck to his guns that he had selected the best beast at the show. This heifer was a blue-grey Shorthorn-Angus cross, bred and fitted by the Faculty of Agriculture of the University of California. In commenting on the decision the Breeders Gazette said: "In England and Scotland heifers not infrequently beat bullocks in the fat stock competitions, and since men of experience from the British Isles have awarded all the grand championships in this division of the International it was probably inevitable that some day a heifer should win on this side of the water. It remained for Mr. Watson to establich the precedent here. He did it confidently and without hesitation, regardless of sex, breed or color."

THERE will be more discrimination against over-fat beef cattle on the market, and in favor of those with thick flesh, from now on. The red meat, flesh or the muscle of beef animals, is what we want. It is well to fatten them enough so the globules of fat will marble the flesh and make it sweeter and more edible, but heavy layers of tallow are mostly waste. Now since carcasses are de-fatted before being sold the killers will not be looking for over-finished beasts as extra tallow cannot be sold at beef prices. Cattle breeders have not put enough emphasis on fleshing as against fat in the past. Amos Cruickshank, the original breeder of Scotch Shorthorns, wanted cows with heavy muscles, as they not only made more edible beef when fattened, but he claimed that they were much better milkers than those filled with fat and with bunches of tallow about their hindquarters.

Farmers who are breeding cattle for beef must carefully distinguish flesh from fat and must breed their animals from dams and sires with smooth thick fleshing and the result will be larger yields of good meat from the beasts we send to the abattoirs.

The harvest in Western Canada is fully two weeks later than usual, even later than last year, so the yield of grain may yet be affected by the weather between now and the end of September. Last year's harvesting had to be finished this spring and weather was not favourable to getting on the land early. There is a good deal hanging in the balance just now. The whole world is endeavoring to improve its yield of bread grains as they want it all home grown if possible, to save shipping. Almost every country is finding this a fairly catchy year for crops but that is hardly unusual. Farmers have for years feared the full moon in August for frost in the west, and there were doubtless a good few anxious people waiting for that particular period to pass, but before this is in print it will be over.

The crops this year were at a very dangerous stage at that time and I will wait hopeful that it has passed without too low temperatures. Parts of the west need rain just now to fill the late grain properly.

The British Minister of Agriculture is planning now for a peak year of tillage in 1944. It is expected to exceed that of even the present year. A good many acres have been seeded to grass and clover this year to restore its fertility, but enough grass will be broken this autumn to offset what has been seeded, and it is expected more derelict land will be reclaimed. This is a costly business but the need for food is so acute that costs do not matter much when some extra acres can be got under production. A good deal of this year's winter wheat in England was delivered ready for milling before the first of August. Weather has been quite good for harvesting in England.

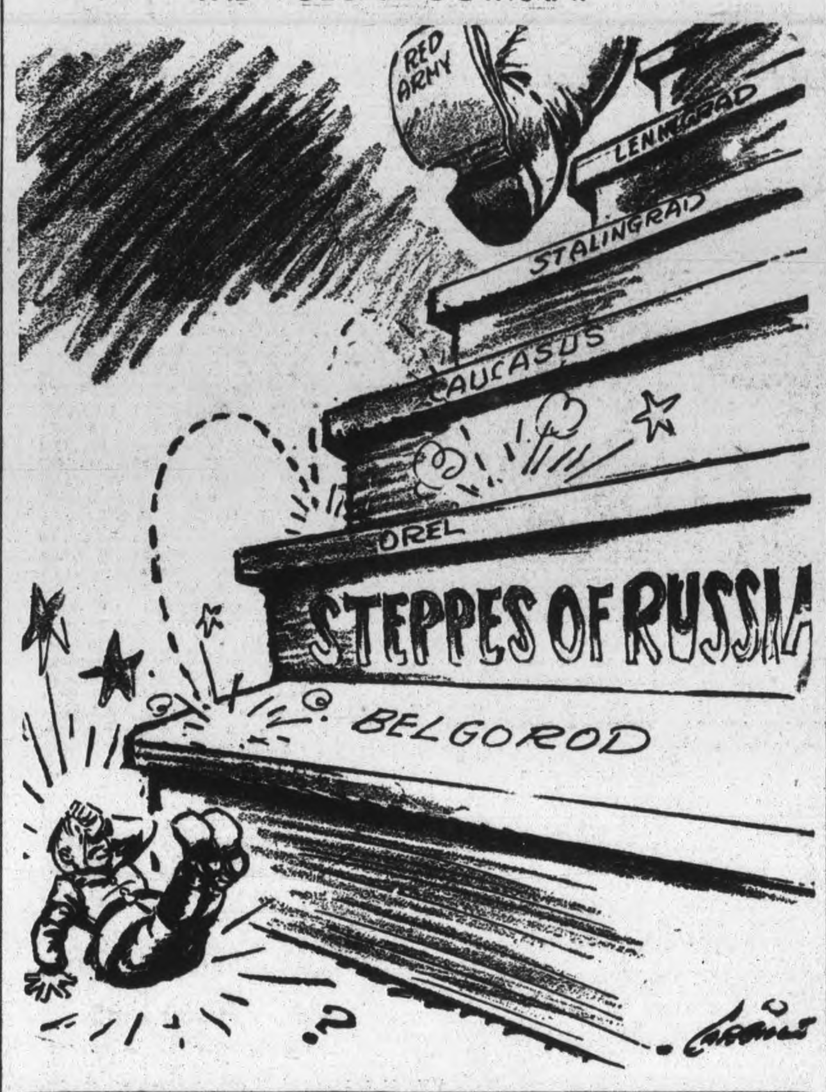
From lack of labour timber and other building materials, farm buildings in England are falling into a very delapidated condition. If lumber can be secured it is proposed to use Italian prisoners for some of the very necessary repairs which will have to be made at once if at all possible.

THE VOLGA BOOTMAN!



Colours Of The Sea

TIME after time I have come out of the water with my mind crowded with colour impressions—but never primary, harsh reds or blues or greens. Now too, I realize the importance to an author of the ultimate connection between colours and their mangiven names. Striving to fix and identify remembered hues of a coral grove, I lose faith in my memory when, in my colour book, I find them listed as Russian blue or onion-skin pink. I know the exact shade of a certain feathery sea plume, but resent having to refer to it as zinc orange. Yet I am always pleased when I detect salmon, or pale-gray, or ultramarine. How I wish that the inventors of the names of colours had been imbued with the simplicity and the imagination of those who, through all the years, have acted as little Adams to the flowers.

Some day, when I can carry a colour book in my helmet, I will be able to enumerate an exact colour code of distance. Even in our colder, thinner atmospere the green of mountain slopes softens to purple a long way off, but on the bottom of the sea, still greater changes take place within a few feet or yards. I have walked backward and seen a feathery-crowned sea-worm of dragon's blood alter, in my vision, within a few seconds and steps, to the palest of coral pink, while a sea-weed, deep olive-green when within reach, comes gently to the eye, when five yards away, as faintest glaucous.

An artist of great skill and patience can approximate the oxydized royal purple of a Gordonia, even the pink and ivory sunset of a conch shell—but the vanishing point of distance beneath the water, where the coral reef ends and the mysterious of the unknown deeps begin—the illusion, too subtle for colour, of submarine visual infinity—this is not to be whelmed by manmade brushes or imprisoned on any terrestrial dimension.—From "Beneath Tropic Seas" by William Beebe. (New York: Putnam.)

America's Treaty Making

(NEW YORK TIMES)

OVER the prospect for a workable post-war settlement hangs the shadow of our constitutional requirement that treaties must be ratified by two thirds of the Senate. This requirement, as the nation has learned so many times, and as it learned to its greatest cost after the last World War, places the power of indefinitely prolonged obstruction in the hands of a minority. The very knowledge that a minority has this inordinate power, in fact, determines the nature of the treaties which the President dares to negotiate or that foreign nations will consent to negotiate with him. For after the fate of the League of Nations and the Treaty of Versailles, the American Executive and the leaders of foreign nations will bear constantly in mind, until the constitutional requirement is changed, the fact that all their negotiations may be in vain, because they may all be thrown out by minority opposition.

It is gratifying to learn that a statesmanlike spirit of conciliation now exists between Administration and Senate leaders on this vital subject. It is being applied to the proposed United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Convention. It may well be that revision of this particular convention can properly be achieved through a majority vote of both houses of Congress without violating the Constitution. This is a question that must be decided on its own merits. The question is whether this convention is or is not a "treaty." But all such questions must be answered honestly. The wording of the Constitution is clear and unambiguous. It would be the most dangerous possible precedent to try to violate or by-pass the Constitution by the expedient of conspiring to call future treaties mere "agreements." It is one thing for a constitution provision to be honestly interpreted; it is quite another thing for it to be disingenuously interpreted away. And the attempt might in any case prove worse than futile. If the courts were later to hold that a treaty already in effect was invalid because it had been adopted by unconstitutional means, the result might be more harmful than if the treaty had never been ratified in the first place.

It is of the first importance that the power to obstruct or prevent treaties should be taken out of the hands of a Senate minority. There are the strongest reasons why the same majorities that are authorized to declare war—a majority of the Senate—should be also authorized to accept the peace. But why can this not be done by constitutional means? After all, there is a constitutional process for changing the constitutional process. Why not use it? Why seek to do badly by deviousness what we can do well straightforwardly? It is true that the power of treaty ratification cannot be taken away from a minority of the Senate without its own consent. But the attitude of Senator Vandenberg, for one, raises hopes that there is now a fair prospect of this consent's being obtained. Nothing could be more reassuring regarding America's participation in the peace and in the post-war settlement than a proposal originating in the Senate, and in the Senate minority, to amend the Constitution by transferring the power of ratification from two-thirds of the Senate to a simple majority of the Senate and House. Once the Senate itself proposed such an amendment there is not the slightest question but that it would be adopted by the House and the country promptly and overwhelmingly.

There have been excessive fears regarding the length of time that such an amendment would require. It could be submitted to "conventions" of the States, which, as repeal of the prohibition amendment showed, means in effect to a direct popular referendum. And if Congress directed (or, to be on the safer constitutional side, strongly "recommended") that elections to such a convention be held simultaneously throughout the country on, say, Nov. 2, of this year, two great results could be achieved. The Constitution would be so amended that the obstacles to future participation of America in international co-operation and a stable peace would be enormously reduced. And the vote of the whole people ratifying such an amendment would be itself an immediate notification to the world, stronger even than any Congressional resolution, of America's determination this time to assume the great responsibilities which its strength and interests impose upon it.

Sharp received from his friend McGreen a letter which bore no stamp, and he had to pay double postage. The letter concluded:

"You will be delighted to hear that I am enjoying the best of health, old chap. Yours, McGreen."

Sharp wrapped up a large stone and, without paying postage, sent it ot McGreen with the following reply:

"This great weight rolled off my mind when I heard the good news."

A Bible Message

And, behold, men brought in a bed a man which was taken with a palsy: and they sought means to bring him in, and to lay him before him. And when they could not find by what way they might bring him in because of the multitude, they went upon the housetop, and let him down through the tiling with his couch into the midst before Jesus.

And when he saw their faith, he said unto him, Man, thy sins are forgiven thee. And the scribes and the Pharisees began to reason, saying, Who is this which speaketh blasphemies? Who can forgive sins, but God alone?

But when Jesus perceived their thoughts, he answering said unto them, What reason ye in your hearts? Whether is easier, to say, Thy sins be forgiven thee; or to say, Rise up and walk?

But that ye may know that the Son of man hath power upon earth to forgive sins, (he said unto the sick of palsy,) I say unto thee, Arise, and take up thy couch, and go into thine house. And immediately he rose up before them, and took up that whereon he lay, and departed to his own house, glorifying God. (Luke 5: 18-25.)

50 Hun Seamen Now Employed

PORT COLBORNE, Ont., Aug. 23 (CP)—A.E. Dickie, manager of the Erie Peat Ltd., peat beds, three miles west of here, announced today that 50 German seamen will arrive Monday to work in the beds, stripping the moss which is processed at the company's plant.

The men are prisoners of war taken when their vessels were sunk or captured. There are no members of the army, navy or air force in the group.

Mr. Dickie said the men would be housed and fed on the company property and will be under guard of military and civilian police. The men are being brought to the beds because of a labor shortage in the area.

Erie Peat Ltd., was established shortly after the outbreak of war when peat moss, formerly imported almost entirely from Germanv and Czechoslovakia, became scarce. The moss is dried and processed here for the industrial market.

Princesses Go In For Victory Garden

Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret study the British Ministry of Agriculture cropping chart, to gain information for their victory garden. Ever since the outbreak of war these young daughters of the royal British house have been digging for victory on their garden allotments on the east terrace of Windsor castle.

Two Officers Made Generals

LONDON, Aug. 23 — (CP). — Sir Bernard Paget, Commander-in-Chief of British Home Forces, was promoted to the rank of General yesterday, the War Office announced. A similar promotion was given to Lt.-Gen. Sir William Platt, Commander-in-Chief of East Africa.

Some British sources predicted today the promotion for Gen. Paget meant that he will be Britain's invasion commander from the West.

He has commanded Home Forces since 1941. In 1940 he directed the evacuation of British troops from Andalsnes, at the conclusion of the brief campaign in Norway.

His duties in the last two years have thrown him much in contact with the Canadian Army in Britain and its commander, Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton.

Two-Party Fight In P.E.I. Election

CHARLOTTETOWN, Aug. 23 — (CP)—A general election has been called for Sept. 15 in Prince Edward Island, it was announced today Premier J. Walter Jones, sworn in as head of the Liberal Government only three months ago, will lead his party to the polls for the first time.

Premier Jones made the announcement of the election date late in the day after returning from Quebec, where he conferred with Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

The 65-year-old Premier, who took office in May when Premier Thane A. Campbell was elevated to the chief justiceship of the Province, leads a block of 23 House members. The Conservative opposition numbers four, and the remaining three seats of the 30-member Legislature are vacant.

The last Provincial election was held May 20, 1939, and the present Legislature could have continued in existence until May, 1944. At the last election, the Liberals elected 27 members against three Conservatives.

This sweeping majority constituted a loss of three seats for the Liberals in that contest, for from the general election of 1935 until 1939 the Legislature had been composed entirely of Liberals.

All indications point to a straight two-party contest this time. Prince Edward Island has never had a third-party candidate in the field since Confederation, and so far the C.C.F. organization in this Province has given no evidence that it is preparing to enter candidates.

Ex-Premier's Father Henry Nixon Dies

ST. GEORGE, August 23—(CP)—Henry R. Nixon, 89, father of Harry Nixon, ex-Premier of Ontario, died suddenly on Sunday at his Woodview Farm, St. George.

Born in Brant County, he had lived most of his life at Woodview Farm, where Harry C. Nixon now resides. Mr. Nixon received his early education at a school building on his father's farm and later attended Dr. Tassie's School at Galt. He had always been a leader in the community life of St. George and an active church worker.

In 1880 he married Margaret Gage of Ancaster, and they had four sons and four daughters. He is survived by a son, H. C. Nixon, and four daughters, Mrs. J. R. Hutchison, Fort William; Mrs. M. E. Nylin, Toronto; Mrs. G. F. Kingsmill, London; Mrs. W. Chisholm, Weston.

The funeral will be held on Wednesday at 2:30 p.m. from St. George United Church. Burial will be in St. George Cemetery.

200th Canadian 10,000-Ton Ships Sent Down Ways

The Fort ROMAINE, 200th 10,000-ton freighter built in Canada, is shown in the above centre photo as it slides down the ways of the Government-owned United Shipyards Limited at Montreal, setting a Canadian record of 38 days from keel-laying to launching. Same day, same yard became first in Canada to send three ships down the ways in a single day. Left is the Fort MOOSE, launched at 9.00 a.m., and right is the Fort COVINGTON, launched at 10.00 a.m. Thrice before, this yard has launched two ships in one day.

Conversion Unit Now Training Bomber Pilots

LONDON, Aug. 23 — (CP). — In peace time it was a rarity for a pilot to be allowed to fly a four engined transport aircraft before he had at least 2,000 hours of flying time on his log book, but at an R.C.A.F. conversion unit in the United Kingdom young Canadians are being taught to pilot multi-engined craft in a comparatively short time.

The students, said FO. Reg Moir in an R.C.A.F. overseas press release to-day, have been trained in the flying of twin-engined planes. Fresh from the training schools of Canada and the operational training schools of England, they learn to handle these monster "kites" with a full bomb load, and to deliver the Empire's four-ton calling cards to a pinpoint in Germany.

The story of their training is the story of their instructors—who only a few years ago were high school students in Canada. The Canadian conversion unit is only one of a number of such unts in bomber command of the R.C.A.F. but for the past two months it has turned out more aircrew and chalked up more flying hours than any of the purely R.A.F. conversion units.

Just Show Them

The record has been established moreover, without serious accident and with only a fraction of one per cent of rejects. Officer commanding the unit is Wing Cmdr. Robert S. Turnbull, 24, D. F. M., from Govan, Sask.

Of his staff, 11 wear decorations. Each is in his 20's, the youngest being Flt. Sgt. Fred Wood, 21, of Edmonton. All are veterans of the air war.

Bomb aimer leader of the unit is Flt. Lt. N. (Tubby) Grant, of 28 Hope street, London, Ont.

The young scientist - teachers fashion their own demonstration apparatus when they need it, for one of their difficulties is that knowledge of operation flying and military aircraft increases faster than the schools can get equipment to teach it.

"Not one of us was a teacher at any time,' said Wing Cmdr. Turnbull, "but we figure that if we can show them how it is done, they can learn. Show them, not tell them, is our system." Ground servicing is carried out by Canadians. One ground crew is in charge of Sgt. Ted Edwards of Winnipeg, with Cpl. M. J. Prince of Renfrew, Ont.

Amendments to the Unemployment Insurance Act

Notice to Interested Employers and Employees

AT ITS 1943 Session, the Parliament of Canada amended the Unemployment Insurance Act, 1940. The effect of these amendments is to require that additional workers be covered under unemployment insurance.

On and after September 1st, 1943, employers must make contributions in respect of the following employees:

★ (1) ALL PERSONS engaged in employment hitherto insurable, regardless of the amount of earnings, who may be paid on an hourly rate, on a daily rate, on a weekly rate, or a piece rate (including a mileage rate).

★ (2) ALL EMPLOYEES paid on a monthly or annual salary basis, whose salary, including any cost of living bonus which may be received, does not exceed $2,400 a year.

All employees, as above described, must pay their contributions as required by law.

The combined contribution for each employee earning $26 or more a week will be in Class 7—63c a week.

To Employers: Obtain unemployment insurance books from the nearest local office of the Unemployment Insurance Commission as soon as possible, for employees above described who will become insurable on September 1st, 1943.

To Employees: It is in your interest to see that your employer makes contributions on your behalf from September 1st, 1943, if you become insurable through this Amendment.

BOB GRAY WINS GOLF HONORS TOPPING 13 OTHER PROFESSIONALS

SPORTS – DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

All roads will lead to Riverside Park tonight when Military Training Centre and 4th Battery will clash in what should be the final game in their hectic City League semi-final series. Unless they manage to wind up in another draw, as they have done twice during the round, the rivals should end the close struggle tonight. It will be curtains for the loser; the winner will keep right on playing with the first game of the final series with Genelecs scheduled for Tuesday night. The final clash of one of the most exciting series in the history of the loop should be another thriller. The teams have staged a flock of tight battles and starting this final tussle they are on even terms so far as the playoffs are concerned with each club having won two games and two other tilts ending in draws and with the total runs in the six fixtures showing each club with 32 runs. Fans, players and officials are asked to note that this argument and all other playoff games in the City League, until further notice, will start sharp at 6.30 o'clock, the start having been advanced fifteen minutes because the days are shortening up rapidly.

* * * * * *

The Battery will be without the services of Billy Jones tonight as the result of a sprained ankle sustained when he slid into the plate with the tieing run in Friday night's game. Otherwise the rivals will be at full strength for this all-important contest. As for the pitching selection it looks like either Johnny Walker or Tom Parsons for the Soldiers and Dave Wilson to do the throwing for the Battery. Walker is the only one of the three Camp pitchers who has not been beaten in the final series. He pitched both of the tie games. Parsons held the Battery to two hits in the second game of the series but on his next start was hit hard and the Gunners went on to win 9 to 6. Wilson has pitched four games against the Training Centre during the series, winning one, losing one, and getting a draw in each of the other two fixtures. With everything at stake and crowd-interest mounting all the time, the final tussle between these two evenly matched clubs should be the most exciting softball fixture of the season.

* * * * * *

Here's A Battle

The 4th Battery-Soldier game is the only big softball attraction tonight. The girls' game between the Aircraft and Westclox girls scheduled for this evening has been postponed until Tuesday when the rivals will meet in the sixth game of their senior playoff series and it has all the earmarks of being a honey of an argument. Right now the Big Bens are in the van with three wins as against two for the Aircraft which means that the Clock-makers can grab off the title for the second year in succession by taking this important tilt. On the other hand the Aircrafters can tie up the round and force a seventh game for the championship by defeating the leaders in this vital engagement. Norma Strickland who has beaten the Westclockers in her last two starts will undoubtedly be sent in against them again with either Isobel Bullock or Marg Watson on the hilltop for the champs. Both teams are making sure their strongest possible lineups are on hand and the game should prove the most interesting girls' tussles of the whole campaign.

"Red" Eason, former Peterborough junior hockey player, who has been in the R.C.N.V.R. for some time writes this column from Calgary where he is taking a course as an engine-room artificer to say that on a trip to Banff recently he stopped in the mining town of Canmore and there ran across a former teammate of Ned Vitarelli in the person of Andy Chikowski. The latter played with Ned when both were members of the Baltimore club. He sends his regards to the Peterborough player. "Red" expects to be in Calgary for several months yet completing his course. Another former Peterborough junior hockey player and teammate of Red's is in the news. Bob Parnell who enlisted with the R.C.A.F. late last summer received his wings as a pilot at Camp Borden on Friday. Bob who played softball with the Royals in the City League last season is to go on instructional duty and has been posted to Trenton for an instructor's course.

It's A Good Card

Gentleman Jack Clayborne, the colored grappler who meets Killer John Katan here tonight in the feature attraction of the Tunney weekly card at the Brock Street Summer Gardens is noted for his speed and his ability to leap around the ring like a gazelle. Peterborough fans are of the opinion that he'll have to do a lot of leaping to keep away from those crushing Katan chin holds for when the Panther really applies that grip something has to give. He gave Earl McCready all kinds of trouble with it in both bouts here and the Moose is not one of the lads you can bother with ordinary holds. He knows them all. However it may be that the Colored Comet is fast and clever enough to prevent Katan from using his favorite weapon. Tonight will supply the answer to that question. The bout should be a lively exhibition between two good boys with widely different styles. The other two bouts promise plenty of action too. The fans here know what can be expected of Pat Flanagan and this Glendale Freddy Steele who meets him in the semi wind-up is a rough, ready and robust individual who will probably give the popular Pat many anxious moments. Still another new-comer makes his debut here in the opener. He is Johnny Gyroffy, a tough baby who will undoubtedly give the little Golden Greek George Tofalos something to grunt about. With three new faces on the program this should be one of the most entertaining cards Promoter Frank Tunney has dug up for the benefit of local fans.

The Kawartha Golf and Country Club and the Kinsmen under whose auspices the affair was held as a benefit for the Milk for Britain Fund are to be congratulated upon the splendid success of the golf tourney which gave Peterborough a chance to see some of the best professionals in the country in action and also brought here a field of crack amateurs including Phil Farley. Bobby Gray, this year's winner of the Millar Trophy, had not a great deal of difficulty winning the 54-hole professional competition. The Toronto coal salesman shot a neat 773, two above par, Saturday afternoon to take a lead and then cinched first place with a blazing 70 on Sunday morning, the best round of the tourney. The pressure was all off by that time and he coasted home with a 75 on the final 18-hole round to finish with 218, five shots better than his nearest opponent Dick Borthwick of Oakdale and incidentally five over par. Lex Robson of Kawartha and Gordie Brydson, of Mississauga wound up tied for third place. In the amateur division Phil Farley showed his mastery of the game by negotiating the Kawartha course on Saturday afternoon in 727, a better score than that of any of the professionals and only one above par. That of course gave him the low gross prize in the first amateur flight. The attendance was good and a neat sum will be raised for the Milk-for-Britain Fund.

Lex Robson Ties For Third

True to the form he has displayed in previous matches this summer, Bob Gray won the honors handily at the annual Kawartha Lakes Invitation Tournament, held Saturday and Sunday at the Kawartha Club. The lead he established in the initial round with a card of 73 was never seriously threatened thereafter, and successive cards of 70-75 gave him a total of 218, 5 strokes lower than the runner-up, Dick Borthwick of Oakdale.

Gray's score of 70 in the second round was the only performance turning in on the week-end's play by the pros that beat the course par, which is 71. Pay on the greens was a decided factor in preventing any phenomenal scores, the pros encountering not a little difficulty from the roll of the greens and the position of the cups.

In the amateur division Phil Farley did not let the public down, either sartorially or golf-wise. Winning honors with a low gross of 72, he burned the course up in a pair of flashy trousers of an indescribable hue.

The course was in fine shape for the matches and the weather, though for a time Sunday afternoon before the start of the final round a bit threatening, never managed to complicate the conditions of play or interfere with the enjoyment of the spectators. There was a large crowd on hand Sunday afternoon to watch the pros show their stuff on the last 18, and a great number followed Bob Gray, leading comfortably after 36 holes by 6 strokes and Lex Robson, Kawartha's own pro, who wound up eventually in a tie for third.

Kawartha continued to assert its supremacy over its sister club by winning the inter-club match from the Peterborough Golf Club, Messrs. Whiddon, Low, Gallon and Dunfield aggregating a gross of 322.

No Election

In an executive meeting of the P.G.A. held Saturday night, it was recommended that George Cummings, veteran golfer, be made a life member of the association. The annual meeting for the election of officers, originally scheduled to be held over the week-end, had to be postponed, as the absence of many members in service with the armed forces or engaged in war work did not leave sufficient to establish a quota.

Behind Bob Gray came Dick Borthwick of Oakdale, 76-74-73—223. In a tie for third were Lex Robson of Kawartha, 77-76-72—225, and Gord Brydson, 75-74-76—225. There was another tie between Bob Burns of Weston, 77-75-78—226, and Bill Kerr of Cedar Brae, 83-73-72—226. Following these came Willy Spittal, formerly of the Peterborough Club, 75-75-78—230; Jerry Proulx of Laval, Montreal, 77-80-74—231; Art Grimsditch, assistant at Cedar Brae, 76-75-80—231; Hugh Borthwick, 76-80-75—231; Gord Watson, formerly of Cobourg and now with the R.C.A.F. at Trenton, 84-78-76—238; Jimmy Patton of the Seignory Club, 84-78-78—240; and Will Little of the Bay of Quinte Club, Belleville, 89-83 84—256. Les Franks of Islington, who did not compete in the final round turned in scores of 81-77—158 for 36 holes.

In the first flight of amateurs 1st low net was posted by D. McKellar of Oakville, 77-10-67, and 2nd low net by Ernie Nerlich of Islington, 81-10-71. Winner of low gross in the second flight was J. Bergoult of St. Andrew's with an 83, while Fred Perry of Scarboro took 1st low net prize with 87-20-67 and J. A. Forrest of Thorn Hill 2nd low net with 86-17-69. In the third flight low gross was carded by Bill Latimer of Cedar Brae, a 95; 1st low net was won by H. McLean of Peterborough, 97-27-70, and second by Art Jones of Kawartha, 99-29-70.

RCAF And Army In Senior Final

TORONTO, Aug. 23—In the deciding game of a best two-in-three series for the West Toronto Senior Baseball Association title and the right to meet Army Invaders to decide who Toronto's senior "A" representative in the O.B.A. play-downs will be, Dick MacDowell's R.C.A.F. crew eliminated Mahers with a decisive 5-2 win at Earlscourt Park Saturday afternoon.

The R.C.A.F. and Army teams open their series at Earlscourt Park tonight at 6.30. It will be a best-three-in-five affair, with games alternating at Earlscourt and Viaduct Park.

The Airmen left little doubt in the minds of the Earlscourt Park fans as to who the better team was as they hit Mahers' ace hurler, Al Yarnell, freely, although he fanned no less than 14. Murray Allen scored his second pitching victory of the series, being master of the situation throughout.

Red Heron, who has sparked the Airmen at bat in the playoffs, came up with another good performance at the plate. Johnny McCarthy, Mahers' capable backstop, and Joe Lidka, third baseman, did the hitting for Mahers.

Waterloo Wins

HAMILTON—(CP)—In the first engagament of the initial junior round of the O.B.A. playdowns Saturday, Waterloo Cardinals trounced Hamilton Thurstons 7-4 with the locals allowing three gift runs in the 10th inning.

Harry Markson, Mike Jacob's tub-thumper, bumped into Long Sing Que, the old Chinese fighter at Stillman's gym the other day.

"What," he asked, "are you doing here, Sing Que. Are you planning a comeback?"

"Comeback? What for? — I never went no place."

Circuit Clouts Plentiful Over Week-end

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Sunday was home run day in the major leagues. A total of 23 roundtrippers, including two with the bases loaded, were clouted to boost the home-run production for the year to 678 — 340 in the American and 338 in the National League.

Twelve of the 23 circuit blows were made in the American loop and six of the 12 were hammered at Detroit where baseball's largest crowd of the year — 58,404 — chortled as the Tigers walloped the first-place New York Yankees twice, 12 to 0 and 8 to 3.

The Yanks committed the hard-to-believe total of 10 errors in the two games, seven in the opener.

One of Detroit's homers was Rudy York's 26th of the year and his 13th of the month. The big first sacker has only to connect six more times in his next nine game to set major league record of 19 homers for one month.

Gets 22nd Homer

Charley Keller socked his 22nd homer of the season and Bud Metheny his third against Tommy Bridges in the nightcap.

A grand slam homer in the ninth inning of the opener by Catcher Walker Cooper sparked St. Louis Cardinals to a double decision over Boston Braves, 6 to 1 and 5 to 1.

Vince DiMaggio of Pittsburg, also socked a grand slam homer at Brooklyn, but the Dodgers still took both ends of a twin bill from the Pirates, 6-1 and 8-6.

Tony Cuccinello socked a ninth-inning homer that sent Philadelphia Athletics down to their 17th straight defeat, only three short of the American League record. The poke gave Chicago White Sox a 3-2 victory in the afterpiece of a twin bill after Edgar Smith won the opener, 5-2.

Cincinnati tightened its hold on second place in the National League by beating the Phillies twice, 4-3 and 20-6.

New York Giants lost twice to Chicago Cubs, 6-2 and 4-3. Bill Nicholson's 20th homer of the year —with two on in the first—gave Claude Passeau his 13th victory in the opener.

Cleveland beat Boston Red Sox twice, 6-0 and 7-6, in 13 innings. Jack Salveson twirled a masterful two-hit shutout in opener. St. Louis Browns beat Washington 8-5 in the first game of a double-header but the Senators took the nightcap, 4-2, in 10 innings.

Saturday's games were featured by the 13-1 drubbing handed Brooklyn by Chicago Cubs. Close decisions prevailed in other games, the Phillies nosing out St. Louis 3-2, Boston beating Cincinnati by the same score and Pittsburg edging out New York 4-3.

In the American League, Chicago turned back Washington 5-4, Boston edged out Detroit 7-6, St. Louis took a pair from the Athletics, 5-3 and 4-1, and New York defeated Cleveland 8-3.

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

Prominently associated with physical trailing and youth recreation developments in British Columbia for some years, Capt. Ian Eisenhardt, 37, of Vancouver, yesterday was named sports officer at Defence Headquarters, Ottawa, where he has been engaged in formulating a physical fitness program since August, 1942.

Several times in recent months, Capt. Eisenhardt and A. A. Burridge, director of physical education at McMaster University, Hamilton, with other sponsors of a mass recreation movement have attended conferences in Ottawa with Hon. Ian Mackenzie, Minister of Pensions and National Health, and Hon. J. L. Ralston, Minister of National Defence, with a view to establishing a national fitness movement, on which two reports have already been submitted.

Capt. Eisenhardt was born in Hioerring, Denmark, and graduated from Copenhagen University in 1927, coming to Canada on a scholarship in 1929.

Classy Racing.

Reveler and Ben Hur divided honors with a heat each of the Tuckahoe trot, Saturday's feature in the harness racing card at Empire City track, New York. In the second dash Ben Hur covered the mile in 2:04¼, Hollywood Garnett being second in a photo finish.

Orville Burke, former quarterback of the Ottawa Rough Riders, played with Camp Borden in an exhibition double-header with London Army at London Saturday while LAC. James of Fingal, formerly in the Michigan-Ontario loop, figured at short for London. The Bordenites dropped both tilts, the scores being 11-5 and 10-2.

In a soccer match for war charities at Windsor yesterday, a Picton R.A.F. eleven, led by FO. Ian Campbell, decisively defeated the Detroit All-Stars 4-1. Campbell, formerly a starry Scottish League player, scored two goals and played brilliantly.

Princequillo, a bargain-counter colt, out-sprinted the favored Shut Out, one-famous Derby winner, in the last quarter-mile to capture the 41st Saratoga Handicap by six lengths at Belmont track Saturday to earn a $15,200 pay-check. The winner was claimed last year for $2,500 and has already won $31,365.

Terrier Pups Win

The Junior championship of the Inter County Baseball Association was won Saturday at Kitchener when the Galt Terrier Pups blanked Kitchener Ranger Cubs 6-0 in the deciding game of the five-tilt series. Bert McCrudden allowed the locals four hits.

Port Colborne Victorias eliminated St. Catharines 6-5 Saturday in the semi-finals of the Niagara Senior Baseball League on the losers' home diamond and will now meet the winner of the Welland-Niagara Falls series for the circuit title.

Baltimore Orioles Take 13 Wins In Last Fifteen

By The Associated Press

Baltimore Orioles right now are hotter than an August day on the prairie.

The club yesterday took both games from Jersey City to run its present victory string to seven straight and build a record of 13 triumphs in its last 15 starts.

Since the teams started on its present road trip on Aug. 8 it has bowled over 15 of its 19 opponents.

In Sunday's twin triumph Steve Gromek made his first appearance in two weeks and handed the Little Giants their 25th shutout of the season, 1-0. Ed Klieman came to the mound in the seventh frame of the opener and won out in the 13th, 3-2.

Montreal won a pair from Toronto, Newark divided a pair of close ones with Syracuse and Rochester spilled Buffalo Bisons twice, 8-0, with Ira Hutchinson on the mound, and 2-1.

10,000 Fans

More than 10,000 fans watched the Royals dump the Leafs twice and bid good-bye to Dixie Howell, Montreal catcher, who enters the army today. Lloyd Dietz was the victor in the first, 6-3, while Max Macon, playing first base, pounded out a homer to help win the second, 3-1.

Syracuse needed 12 innings to annext the opener from Newark, 8-7, a seven-hit, five-run rally in the ninth bringing the Chiefs even. They then scored the deciding run without benefit of a hit in the 12th.

In the second game the Bears produced the winning run in the first extra inning to win 6-5.

In Saturday's games, Toronto split a pair with Newark, winning the first game 1-0 and dropping the second 3-2. Baltimore shut out Rochester 3-0, Buffalo did the same with Jersey City, 5-0, and Montreal defeated Syracuse 3-2.

Biggest Market Of Season

Abundance of vegetables against a background of late August flowers presented Saturday the biggest local market of the season Saturray morning. Top price of eggs was 45 cents grading down to 30 cents for the pullet peewees. Broiler chickens were 35 cents pound and larger birds 37 cents, and butter was 40 cents a pound, with a brisk demand for everything in sight even for the gladioli. Named varieties sold up to 75c and $1.00 a dozen and the nondescript down to 25 cents.

Several of the lakeshore tomato growers cut their price to 30 cents for six quart baskets, but the bulk of the big offering from the district was 35 cents for six and 60c for eleven quart baskets. Corn was 30 cents a dozen and cauliflowers 15 to 25 cents each. Joe Chimenti had a lot of big green peppers at five cents each or three for ten cents. Yellow wax beans were three quarts for fifteen cents. Herb Doig quoted vegetable marrows down to 10 cents.

Norman Moncrief's Red Astrakan apples sold quickly at 90 cents a peck and Duchess at 70 cents. Blue berries were unchanged at 30 cents a quart. W. Saltern of Dummer said there was a fair crop of the high bush blues which he is planning to pick this week for next Saturday.

The market noted with regret the absence of Hilliard Laing of Cavan who died suddenly at his home during the week of a heart attack at the end of a day's work. Mr. Laing was a frequent attendant at the market, and he had many friends in the city as well as those of the district near Millbrook.

Gives Up Baby

Attractive psychiatrist Norma Schoener Kunstler, TOP, 25, obtained a decree in New York Supreme Court relieving her of the custody of her six-year-old son Stephen, so that she'd be free to join the U.S. Women's Army Corps. The child was turned over to her former husband, Charles Kunstler.

Mrs. M. Anglesey Passes At 94

Mrs. Margaret Gleason Anglesey a pioneer resident of this district, passed away Saturday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. William C. Young, West Half, Lot 37, 13th Concession, Smith. She was in her 94th year.

Born in Tipperary, Ireland, the daughter of William Gleason and Honorah Coleman, she came to Canada with her parents when she was three years old. Following closely after the Youngs at Youngs Point, her family bought a landsite on the Burleigh Road. Mrs. Anglesey could remember going to her first school, a log cabin affair whose roof was so low that you could stand up and touch the rafters with your hand. She could recall the days when went fishing through the ice and it was not unusual to catch 10 or 12 maskinonge in a day.

Nearly forty years ago Mrs. Anglesey moved into Peterborough and lived here a number of years. Her whole life was spent in the district. Her husband, Richard Anglesey, died some thirty years ago. She was a member of Saint Mary's Church and the Altar Society.

Surviving are three daughters and five sons: Mrs. Cyril Tarte, 96 Cameron Avenue, Hamilton; Mrs. Thomas Hoolihan, Clauson, Michigan; Mrs. William C. Young of Young's Point; Samuel and James of Toronto; Joachim of Detroit; William of Buffalo; and Frank of St. Paul, Minn.

The funeral will be held on Tuesday from the residence of her daughter, Mrs. William Young of Young's Point to St. Mary's Church for service conducted by the Rev. Dr. Masterson at 10 a.m. Interment will be at St. Mary's Cemetery, Young's Point.

Young's Point Woman Dies At 94

In the 24th Field Regiment of Artillery alone there were men from Kenora and Simcoe, Ont., and from Alberta and Saskatchewan. It is commanded by Lt.-Col. R. P. Drummond, 50, a native of Spencerville, Ont., whose home is in Montreal.

The 25th Field Ambulance was mobilized in Military District No. 2, with headquarters in Toronto. The commander is Lt.-Col. T. M. Brown, 40, who has served overseas in the present war. His wife lives in Montreal.

The Royal Canadian Engineers were represented by the 24th Field Company, which was formed and trained at Petawawa, Ont., and whose officers and men are representative of most parts of Canada. Major D. H. Rochester, 27, of Toronto, is officer commanding.

The 46th Light Anti-Aircraft Battery is commanded by Major J. A. Macdonald, 51, of Burlington, Ont., and also drew its men from various parts of Canada.

The Canadian Fusiliers of London are commanded by a native son of London, Lt.-Col. Russell H. Beattie, M.C., 48, who was awarded the Military Cross for valor in the first Great War, in which he was wounded and gassed. His home is in London.

The Rocky Mountain Rangers, one of British Columbia's oldest active service regiments, was formed in 1885 during the Northwest Rebellion. The Rangers at Kiska are commanded by Lt.-Col. D. B. Holman, M.C., 48, whose home is at Salmon Arm, B.C.

The Winnipeg Grenadiers went to Kiska, with a score to settle with the Japanese. The original Battalion of Grenadiers was sent to Hong Kong in 1941, and participated in the gallant defence of the Crown Colony against the Japanese in December of that year. All the Canadans were casualties, killed or prisoners.

A veteran of service with the R.A.F. in the first Great War, Lt.-Col. J. A. Wilson, 48, of Winnipeg, was appointed to command the reorganized Grenadier Regiment in 1942. He is the unit's commanding officer at Kiska.

Le Regine De Hull perpetuates a company of the 43rd Battalion, formed in 1884. Through the headquarters of the 70th Regiment, which succeeded the company organization, 2,108 officers and men were enlisted and sent to other units as reinforcements during the first Great War. Commander in the Kiska operations is Lt.-Col. Dollard Menard, D.S.O., 30, a hero of the Dieppe "reconnaissance in force' in 1924 when he was honored for bravery by the award of the Distinguished Service Order. Wounded at Dieppe, Col. Menard was given command of Le Regiment De Hull this year.

The company of the Saint John Fusiliers is commanded by Major G. P. Murphy, 27, of Saint John The Saint John Fusiliers first were organized in 1872 and the regiment to-day perpetuates the 7th Machinegun Battalion, Canadian Machinegun Corps.

opposition. At least 65 German fighters were knocked out of the skies during the two days—51 Saturday and 14 the day before. The Allies lost eight planes Saturday and 10 Friday.

The week-end raids, combined with the virtual knockout blow given the rail network around Foggia earlier in the week, were aimed at blocking enemy transportation to and from southern Italy.

Cripple Rail System

Naples and Foggia, located to the northeast across the peninsula near the east coast, form hubs for two of Italy's most important railway networks.

Headquarters announced yesterday that Allied bombers slammed heavily Saturday in daylight at the rail junctions of Villa Literno and Aversa north of Naples—both still in a state of chaos from attacks on Friday.

About 70 bombers from the Middle East also swept across the Mediterranean Saturday and dropped their explosives on the air depot and rail yards at Cancello northeast of Naples and the airdrome at Pomigliano d'Arco.

By night R.A.F. and Canadian Wellingtons blasted targets in Battipaglia on the coast south of Naples.

(A broadcast from the Axis-controlled "radio liberation" station, obviously a propaganda outlet, declared the Allies had landed on the east coast of the Italian toe and sent parachute troops into Crete, but Allied sources immediately discounted the reports, intended perhaps to force European patriots into the open prematurely.)

in the Far East. Dr. Whyte then settled at Port Hope, Ontario, for ten years, establishing a large and successful practice from 1911 to 1921. Leaving the lakeside town he spent two years at Saranac Lake, N.Y., and from there went to Battle Creek, Michigan, where he became a member of the Sanitarium medical staff. His professional duties were first in the chest department, and later he became the X-ray specialist, and at the Community Hospital was roentgenologist.

Failing health finally compelled resignation from his various professional positions, Dr. Whyte entering a city hospital at Battle Creek on May 10 of this year. At the Community Hospital he will be succeeded on September 1 by a fellow physician, Dr. W. O. Upson, who has been X-ray specialist at the Lenia Hospital. At the time of the opening of Community Hospital in September, 1938, Dr. Whyte was made head of its X-ray department. In religion he was an Anglican, a member of the Calhoun County Medical Society, and also of the Michigan State and the American Medical Associations.

In September, 1913, the marriage of Dr. Whyte and Gertrude Wood, youngest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Wood of Mill brook, took place, and besides his widow, the immediate surviving relatives include one son PO. Geoffrey Whyte, R.C.A.F., for over two years in England, and one daughter, Miss Nancy Whyte, who is secretary in the Health Service Department of the University of Michigan. The funeral took place on Thursday at Battle Creek, Michigan.

nothing new."

The announcement, made by the German news agency DNB, said:

"In the course of last night German troops have evacuated Kharkov after having destroyed all vital installations in the town and without being pressed by the enemy.

"Since the town has changed hands several times in the course of the fighting it does not represent any longer a valuable centre of traffic and supply.

German positions are being considerably shortened and improved by the evacuation."

Kharkov had been in the hands of the Germans since Oct. 24, 1941, with the exception of a brief period last winter when the Russians retook it only to be driven out almost immediately.

A Serious Loss

The city represented one of the most important German bases in Southern Russia and was the point from which they launched their 1942 summer drive on Stalingrad.

The German announcement of the evacuation was not immediately confirmed by the Russians.

The Soviet communique today announced that Russian troops had shoved the Nazis back 3½ miles and captured 30 villages north of Kharkov. The advance apparently brought the Red Army to within seven miles of the city in this sector.

The war bulletin said the Red Army also had pushed forward at Spas Demensk and Bryansk in the north as well as in the Donets basin, killing 9,500 Nazis, smashing 187 tanks and destroying 53 planes in aerial combat or by anti-aircraft fire.

Bombers Hits

Flt. Lt. Charles H. (Smokey) Stover of Sarnia, Ont., destroyed a Junkers 88 at Le Bourget, and later teamed up with another pilot to shoot up an enemy tug and four locomotives.

Sqdn. Ldr. Herbert P. Peters of Edmonton and FO. Bill Blakeney of Toronto each accounted for two engines, while Flt. Lt. R. T. Hutchinson of New Liskeard, Ont., and FO. J. C. Davison of Plaster Rock, N.B., got one apiece.

The week-end lull in the heavy bombing attacks—a period in which there was nothing to indicate the weather over the Continent was keeping the R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. at home, suggested that new and bigger air blows might be in preparation.

The possibility that some new targets, deeper in Europe, might have been placed on the bomb list was seen in the fact that the BBC warned Slovak workers to "get out of factories working for the Nazis or risk being bombed.

Farmer Loses Finger Changing Knives

WARSAW, Aug. 23—(ENS)—Alex Calder, Jr., a well-known Dummer township farmer, who lives on the second line, about a mile south of the village, lost the index finger of his left hand late Saturday when he was changing the knives on a binder in the fields.

The finger was almost completely severed when the knives slipped, and he was taken immediately to Dr. Atkinson at Norwood for treatment, subsequently being removed to hospital in Peterborough for final treatment.

The accident is unusual in that it is the second time that a mishap has robbed this farmer of a finger. About a decade ago, he was assisting in driving fence posts when the sledge hammer slipped smashing the index finger on his right hand and this finger had to be amputated as a result. Now he has no index finger on either hand.

AIRMAN GRADUATES.

R. D. Parnell, formerly a well-known hockey player in Peterborough, graduated recently from No. 1 Service Flying Training School, R.C.A.F., at Camp Borden. Before his enlistment he worked at Westclox. Now home on a two weeks' leave, he is staying with his wife and daughter at 455 Rogers Street.

WOUNDED IN SICILY

Mr. and Mrs. William Downer, 172 Lake st., have received an airgraph letter from their son, Pte. Clarence Downer, who was recently reported wounded in Sicily. He reported that he suffered shrapnel wounds in the neck and arms but was getting along fine and was able to walk around.

CARELESS DRIVING CHARGE.

Charles Frederick, Norwood, was charged wih careless driving, before Magistrate E. A. Gee in Police Court this morning. The charge originated in an accident near Norwood recently in which two persons were hurt. Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., said that he was not ready this morning, and the case was adjourned for a week.

SUBLIME TO RIDICULOUS.

Toiling beneath the sun of Sicily has been mentioned in recent dispatches about the campaign as the hottest spot Canadian troops have encountered during the war. Two other Canadians picked a perspiring job for themselves during the noon hour to-day as they pushed down Park Street a baby carriage piled high with empty beer bottles.

GETS THREE MONTHS.

William Hanrahan, Lakefield, entered a plea of guilty to a drunk charge before Magistrate E. A. Gee in Police Court this morning, and admitted two previous convictions, with the result that he was sentenced to three months in jail.

V FOR VICTORY

J. W. Crowe of 197 Brock street has made his contribution to be added to the mounting proof that Nature is on the side of an Allied Victory. He uncovered a cucumber which was formed in the shape of the symbolic V.

A NICE TROUT.

One of the nicest German brown trout of the season was hooked and landed in the Millbrook stream on Sunday by William Mitchell of Gray's Garage, who made his capture a mile and a half below the pond. The fish, caught with a spinner and worms, weighed 4¾ pounds.

HOLD PICNIC.

Saturday the stage was set for the Westclox picnic at Riverside Park, and a big crowd was on hand to enjoy the games, the contests and the weather, which incidentally was very good. Besides the races there was a tug-of-war, a horseshoe tournament and a ball game between Westclox Girls and the Foremen's Club, which the latter managed to win. On the grounds were a merry-go-round, a wheel of fortune and other amusement devices. Prize-winners in the contests held will be announced Tuesday.

VOL. LXXXVIII. No. 44 PETERBOROUGH, MONDAY, AUGUST 23, 1943

Stratford Man Is Bailed By Magistrate

William Locke, Stratford railwayman, was bailed for trial by Magistrate E. A. Gee this morning after four Crown witnesses had been heard in a preliminary inquiry in a charge of reckless driving arising out of an accident on the Hastings-Peterborough road in which Grover Kerr was injured and ten other persons hurt.

Crown Attorney McElderry asked that the case should be tried as an indictable offence.

Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., appeared for the accused who entered a plea of not guilty.

Cars Locked Together

William Wellman, Hastings constable, the first Crown witness, testified that he had been called to the scene of the accident early on the afternoon of Sunday, July 18. When he got there he had found two cars locked together on the south side of the road. The front wheel of the McQuade car he said was on top of the fender of the automobile driven by the accused. The witness identified photographs of the cars produced as exhibits.

Ralph McQuade, driver of one of the cars involved, said that on the day of the accident he was driving toward Hastings with six other persons in his car. He had seen another car in front of him driving toward Hastings as he approached the scene of the accident but did not see a west bound car until it was ten or fifteen feet in front of him.

"He was over on my side of the road when I saw him," the witness said. "I put on my brakes but there was no chance to do anyhing before the crash. After the accident the horns of the cars were blowing and the children were yelling."

Badly Injured

McQuade said that he and his wife were injured but they were able to get Grover Kerr out of the front seat of the other car. They could see that he was badly injured, witness said.

To Mr. Gordon, McQuade said that he and his wife had been in Peterborough on the day before the accident and between them had purchased 36 pints of beer, a 26-ounce bottle of whiskey and a bottle of wine. There was a party at his house near Hastings that night, he said, and all the alcoholic refreshment was consumed.

Mrs. McQuade corroborated her nusband's evidence as to the accident and was cross-examined by Mr. Gordon as to the liquor purchased on the Saturday.

There was not a drink left in the house Sunday morning," she said.

Provincial Constable Archie Grayling gave evidence as to measurements he took at the scene of the accident. He said that the impact had occurred on a straight piece of road between two parts of an "S" curve and that there was clear vision for 315 feet.

Mr. Gordon announced that he did not propose to call any evidence at this stage and bailment for trial followed.

(By The Canadian Press)

AUGUST 23, 1918—British advanced on 30-mile front and won a footing on Thiepval Ridge as Australians captured Bray, Chuignolles and Chuignes. French under Gen. Mangin seized the line of the Oise and the Ailette. British bombed Frankfurt and Cologne.

Lt. Earl Chase Reported Dead In Sicily

Official report of the death in action in the Sicilian campaign of Lieutenant John Earle Chase, 28, of Harvey township, has been received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Chase of Gannon's Narrows.

Lieut. Chase enlisted in the active service of the Royal Regiment of Canada in Toronto in February 1942 and immediately began training. Obtaining his commission in November, he went overseas arriving December 19.

Previously he had been in a reserve unit in Toronto, where he had been a public school teacher and musical supervisor in the Hartman-Jones Memorial School for several years.

LIEUT. JOHN EARLE CHASE

A younger brother Sgt. Carman H. Chase lately arrived overseas is doing operational flying from an advanced flying centre in Scotland.

Lieut. Chase was in his twenty-ninth year.

Lieut. Chase was born at Lakehurst in Harvey, studied for the teaching profession, and began his work at the Sandy Lake School in his own township. He is survived by his parents and by three brothers and three sisters,—Albert and Ralph at home, and Sergeant Carmer Chase with the R.C.A.F. in Scotland; and Marion of Peterborough and Audrey and Evelyn at home.

New Ration Book Given Out On Four Days

Arrangements have been completed by the Women's Voluntary Services in co-operation with the Peterborough Local Ration Board to handle the big task of issuing the No. 3 Ration Book. The Lyceum Hall, Simcoe street, opposite the City Hall, will be open this Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday from 9:30 o'clock in the morning to 8 o'clock in the evening in order to permit the citizens of Peterborough and district to secure their new books. Attention is drawn to the fact that the volunteer workers will be at the Lyceum Hall Wednesday afternoon and evening. This will afford store clerks a ready opportunity to get their books.

All across Canada, in every city, hamlet and throughout the countryside, distributing centres will be opened for issuing the No. 3 Ration Book. Persons on vacation anywhere in Canada are required to go to the nearest distributing centre in the area in which they are visitors. In filling out their application cards they must give their permanent residence as their address.

Arrangements have been completed by the reeves of the townships of Douro, Ennismore, Otonabee and North Monaghan for distributing centres located within these townships to serve their residents. The following are the times and places in these townships for the issuing of the books:—

Ennismore Township

A. Crough's Store and P. G. Sullivan's Store—August 25 and 26th—1 p.m. to 9:30 p.m.

Douro Township

P. G. Towns' Hall—August 25th and 26th—between 1 p.m. and 10 p.m.

Douro residents near Lakefield go to Lakefield. Those near Warsaw to Warsaw, and those near Peterborough to Peterborough.

North Monaghan Township

Confederation School—August 25 and 27 (Wednesday and Friday)—3 p.m. to 8 p.m.

May's School—August 26 and 28 (Thursday and Saturday)—3 p.m. to 8p.m.

Firemen Disturbed

GANANOQUE, Ont., Aug. 23 —(CP)—Volunteer firemen were recently awakened from their slumbers at 4 a.m. when the town's fire alarm clanged furiously in the night. But when they got to the fire station it was a false alarm. Heavy rains had short-circuited the alarm system causing it to sound. It was the second time recently that a short-circuit has caused a false alarm.

Kinmount Fair Season's First

B. L. McLean of Lindsay is going out on the end of the limb of prediction with bigger promises and claims than ever for the Lindsay fair, September 15 to the 18.

It is the main district event of the autumn season, and the way Lindsay has been going these war years it is likely they will have all the fair money coralled to their account. Mr. McLean himself will probably have more to say about the Lindsay show one of these days when he gets down to business over CHEX.

Lakefield fair is September 21 and 22, and with the right kind of weather should attract a crowd from the city and county.

Here are some other Central Ontario fair dates: Kinmount, Sept. 3 and 4; Apsley, Sept. 7 and 8; Orono, Sept. 10 and 11; Port Perry Sept. 4 to 6.

Wooler, Sept. 14 and 15; Belleville, Sept. 20 to 22; Blackstock, Sept. 21 and 22; Brighton, Sept. 23; Minden, Sept. 21.

Bobcaygeon, Sept. 28 and 29; Campbellford, Sept. 28 and 29; Picton, Oct. 1 and 2; Stirling, Sept. 27 and 28; Tweed, Sept. 30.

Madoc, Oct. 5 and 6; Marmora, Oct. 12 and 13; Port Hope, Oct. 8 and 9; Warkworth, Oct. 7 and 8; Roseneath, Oct. 14 and 15.

Leave It To Granny

SALMON, Idaho, Aug. 23.—(AP).—Mrs. Joe Bohney, a great-grandmother, appealed to police and to her husband when a porcupine invaded her garden. One policeman had appendicitis. The other said he didn't have his gun. Hubby was in his be - kind - to - animals mood. So Great - Grand mother Bohney whacked the animal with a shovel and threw it into the river herself.

Presumed Dead

Sergeant Douglas M. Brackenridge, son of Mrs. Gordon Brackenridge, Aylmer street, reported missing last February, is now for official purposes presumed dead. He had been overseas since May, 1942, and served first as a mechanic and later became mechanical engineer on a bomber, which failed to return from a raid over Lorient, France. He was twenty-one years of age. Besides his mother, he is survived by three sisters: Mrs. Owen Sundeen, of Niagara Falls; Mrs. Robert Stewart, of Hastings; Maxine, of Toronto; one brother, Donald, at home, and a foster brother, L.A.C. George Ruffe, with R.C.A.F. in Saskatoon.

Rev. C. Boyter Accepts Call

Rev. C. C. Boyter, minister of Park Street Baptist church for the last six years and four months, has resigned to accept a call to Calvary Baptish church, Brantford..

News of the impending loss of their highly esteemed pastor was received by the congregation Sunday morning in a letter read by Maurice Dunkley from Rev. C. C. Boyter, who is at present on vacation. His resignation was regretfully accepted, to become effective on September 21.

The congregation of Calvary Baptist church, Brantford, is composed of about three hundred and fifty members

Air Cadets' Officers Take Special Course

Three officers of the 164th Squadron of Air Cadets of Canada, Peterborough's Own, are leaving for Trenton to take a two weeks' course with the R.C.A.F. They are William Hamilton, M. H. Riddle, and J. D. Fanning.

This is a qualifying course in R.C.A.F. administration, and certificates are granted graduates which give them the rank of Pilot Officer, with the possibility of promotion to flying officer in 6 months.

One Air Cadet officer, Lewis Briggs, has already taken this course, and the remainder of the officers will go to Trenton in the spring of next year for their training. Four instructors of the local squadron have qualified at Jarvis airbase as R.C.A.F. instructors.

Plans for an all-out recruiting drive for the Air Cadets are being laid for late September, and the prospect is that important figures in the air world may visit the city during that time. There will be a wealth of displays, and every effort is going to be made to stimulate interest in an endeavor that ranks high among the vital programs of the Dominion. Details and arrangements are to be announced at a later date.

200 People Attend Church Circuit Picnic

WARSAW, Aug. 23 (ENS)—About a hundred people gathered during the afternoon and evening last Tuesday, in Ralph Hamilton's field, Brown's Landing, near McCracken's Landing, at the Warsaw United church circuit picnic. There was a good representation from each of the four churches, and a good time was had by all. During the afternoon races were run off under the direction of Harold Payne and Nona Whetung. A baseball game between the married men and young girls against the single men caused a great deal of merriment, as well as the tug of war between married and single men the latter losing. Supper was served under the direction of Mrs. Henry Little, Mrs. D. Tucker. After supper a football game was enjoyed between the men from Warsaw playing against the other three churches.

Arrangements have been completed for the distribution of Ration Books No. 3 at the school house next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons, from one o'clock till six, August 25, 26 and 27.

Rev. Mr. Snelgrove and family have returned from their vacation at Camborne and were accompanied home by a niece, Lois Snelgrove.

Mrs. E. McIlwraith and two children of Peterborough, are spending this week at the personage, the guests of Rev. and Mrs. Snelgrove. Mr. McIlwraith spent the week-end.

Carl Snelgrove is spending a two-week holiday at Queensboro.

Apsley Boy Is Wounded

Another county casualty from Sicily was reported from Apsley today conveying the information received a short time ago by Hubert James to the effect that his son, Edward Russell James was among the Canadian wounded in the campaign which cleared the Axis out of the Mediterranean island.

The family lives near Apsley and is composed of the father and two sons, Herbert and Robert, and one daughter, Margaret, at home. It was said that the soldier son had enlisted with a Toronto regiment.

5,393 Immigrants Arrived In 1847

The number of immigrants arriving at the port of Cobourg in 1847 was 5,393, according to a quotation from the Cobourg Star of April 26, 1848, in a recent issue of the Sentinel-Star.

Most of these nation builders from the Old Land made the trip from Kingston to Cobourg by steamboat; a few returned from Toronto and the others, only 48, entered the district by the Bay of Quinte and Belleville and the Trent.

Of that total immigration nearly a century ago, 2,641 were directed to Peterborough county, places on Rice Lake and to various other townships in the Colborne district, of which Peterborough was then a part.

Others to the number of 1,372 were sent to ports along Lake Ontario between Cobourg and Toronto; 20 went to Colborne and Grafton; and 516 remained in Cobourg. Seventy-six of the immigrants of that season of 1847 died.

MELVILLE WM. B. STEWART

Melville William B. Stewart of the 10th Concession, Cavan, died suddenly at his home Saturday morning at the age of 52.

Son of John Stewart and the late Mrs. Stewart, he had lived in Cavan all his life, and was a member and trustee of the Ebenezer United Church. He was a prosperous farmer and highly respected.

He leaves to mourn his loss his wife, the former Florence Magee; his father; a sister, Mrs. Harry Magee of Ida and a brother, Walter of Toronto.

The funeral will be held on Monday at 2:30 p.m. from the late residence, with service conducted by Rev. W. E. Honey. Interment will be in St. John's Cemetery, Ida.

JOSEPH CHARLES POOLMAN.

The funeral of Joseph Charles Poolman, founder of the J. C. Poolman Manufacturing Co. in this city 20 years ago, was held on Friday from the residence of his daughter, Mrs. W. Preston, 370 Monaghan Road. Rev. E. C. Moore, of St. George's Anglican church, conducted the service and spoke at the graveside. Interment was made in Little Lake cemetery.

Many floral tributes and letters of condolence were received by the family, and representatives of companies with which Mr. Poolman's firm had dealt for many years were present at the final rites. Among the tributes were flowers received from the employees of the Poolman Co., from W. W. Robins & Sons, Toronto, from the president and directors of the T. 11 Persons Die From Accidents

(By The Canadian Press)

Eleven persons died in Eastern Canada in week-end accident, five of which were drownings and four traffic fatalities. A man was killed when struck by a train and a boy died from injuries caused when he fell from a third-storey window.

Three Cornwall men were drowned Sunday night near Summerstown, Ont., when a boat in which they were returning from Hopkins Point, Que., capsized. The victims were identified as Louis Miron, Noe Mondoux and a man named Gallinger.

Peter Leonard, 11, of McMasterville, Que., drowned Saturday in the Richelieu River. At Hamilton, Mrs. Rex Forsythe, wife of a R.C.A.F. corporal stationed at Fingal, Ont., drowned when a canoe capsized as her husband stepped from the craft to the wharf.

Hugh Perkins, 42, of Garden City, Ont., was killed at a level crossing near Cornwall Saturday night when struck by a Canadian National Railways passenger train.

Falls From Window

Franklin Cox, 11, of Hamilton, died in hospital Saturday from injuries suffered when he fell from a third-storey window of his home trying to retrieve a toy airplane.

Romeyn B. Hough, 17, of Lowville, N.Y., died Saturday night while being taken to hospital at Mattawa, Ont., from a fractured skull suffered when he was thrown from an automobile following a tire blow-out. George Kobus, 13, of Toronto was killed Saturday when crushed beneath the wheels of a truck.

Andruu Palcet, 73, of Windsor, Ont., died Sunday in hospital from injuries suffered Saturday night when a car in which he was a passenger sideswiped second vehicle. In Montreal, J. N. Desrosiers, 42, died Saturday in hospital shortly after he had been struck by an automobile as he was crossing the street.

Use Women Drivers

THOROLD, Ont., Aug. 23 (CP)—The Niagara, St. Catharines and Thorold Railway, like many other transportation companies, has employed women drivers to relieve the manpower shortage. At least the N. S. & T. has employed one woman bus driver but it is indicated that more than might be employed. She will be assigned a regular route this week.

20 Young People Attend Music Camp

Twenty of the young people of the local corps of the Salvation Army left this morning to attend the territorial music camp at Jackson Point, Lake Simcoe. The week's program comprises subjects related to instrumental, vocal and choral work and the theory of music.

Band Leader Arthur Jones and Group Leader William Scott were in charge of the party which was confined to the age group from the juniors of eleven years to seniors of twenty-five.

Bandmaster Henry Merritt of Winnipeg, is the guest conductor, and the Army has drawn upon its personnel of musicians for the teachers required for a week of concentrated study.

Mrs. Stanley Richardson of Peterborough was one of the selected teaching staff, but a minor illness prevented her from keeping this engagement. Only seven of the members of the Peterborough Corps visited the camp last year, and the present increase of twenty is an indication of the interest this vacation study period has aroused.

The local group was composed of Wilfrid, Reginald and Gerald Jones, 561 Patterson street; Carlos Braund, 571 Chamberlain street; Gerald Rose, 593 Homewood avenue; Earl Cumming, 287 Bethune street; Ronald and Miriam Butcher, 583 Walnut street; Jack Alexander, 688 Park street.

Nancy and Marjorie Shadgett, 350 Aylmer street; Mildred Winterbottom, 501 Romaine street; Grace Lang, 693 Water street; Bill Scott, 215 Townsend street; Len Slaughter, 638 George street; Sheldon Richardson, 487 King street.

Murray Lindores, 462 Reid street; Catherine Craig, 199 Rubidge street; Peggy Parnell, 224 Rubidge street; Arthur F. Jones, 565 Douglas avenue.

Can't Use Schools

KINGSTON, Ont., Aug. 23 (CP)—The Prices Board will distribute No. 3 ration books at the courthouse, fire station and other civic buildings as a result of the refusal of the school board to permit the use of schools as distributing centres, after the board declined to pay a small fee for the caretakers.

Need Little Scrap

CLEVELAND, Aug. 23 —(AP)—Steel mills in important centres are depending more on pig iron than on scrap at present, the magazine Iron Age, said yesterday and demand for the latter has eased in numerous instances.

Truck Driver Is Given Ten Days

Pleading guilty to having driven a truck on the 9th line of Dummer while drunk, Joseph Frank Gerow, Norwood trucker, was sentenced by Magistrate E. A. Gee in police court today to ten days' imprisonment.

Magistrate Gee suspended the accused's driving license for three months.

The charge was laid by Provincial Traffic Officer Archie Grayling. There was no accident.

The truck was jointly owned by the accused and his partner and there was no no order for its impounding.

Victory Garden Tires

LA3UQUERQUE, N.M., Aug. 23 (AP)—A community victory garden is producing a harvest of automobile tires. Three good ones complete with tubes and wheels were found floating in a reservoir at the garden. The crop is being held by Sherif Ed. Donohue, who believes they were stolen.

Peterborough Soldier Wounded In Sicily Is In Britain Within Twenty-three Days

By W. T. CRANFIELD

LONDON, Aug. 23—I have just met some of the first eight Canadians evacuated from Sicily. They are in a hospital near London, doing well and surrounded by every resource of surgival and nursing skill.

Two are from Ontario, one is from Montreal. The story of their arrival in Britain within 23 days of the Pachino landing is a story of organization and good luck.

The journey was made in three stages. After receiving surgical attention at a field ambulance, they reached a small port in Tunisia by sea. Thence, after a short detention in hospital, they were flown by bomber 600 miles to Algiers.

When in Algiers hospital, they were told they would be in Britain in a few days. It was incredible. But a British hospital ship was on the point of sailing and they were put aboard her. And their dream came true.

Signaller Frank (Bill) Peters of Peterborough is only 24 and looks less, but he has a wife and child living at 428 Edison avenue.

It was about fifty miles inland on the fifth day after the landing that Peters was hit by fire from an enemy tank. His upper left arm and both legs were damaged, but not very seriously. He was in good spirits, chatting and laughing as if he had enjoyed the adventure.

"When they told us we were leaving next morning and would be in England next week, I couldn't believe it. I thought it a bad joke," he said.

"The Boche got me on July 15 and I was here on August 2. I cabled to my wife but have not heard from her yet. Sure, I am just watching for my mail."

For Frank's consolation, a letter from his brother was handed to him while we were talking. It was a coincidence that bucked him no end. I left him to enjoy the missive. Such moments are too sacred to be shared.

Charles H. M. Mackenzie hails from 14 Wrosley street, Barrie, but his uncle, his nearest relative, lives at 526 Rushton road, Toronto.

His nut brown torso bare, this big guy, Mackenzie, was sleeping. I should not have cared to wake him, but a comrade, knowing what was afoot, had no scruples. He rudely roused the speaker who turned on me kindly eyes.

Enveloped in plaster his right arm—his only wound—gives him no pain. The surgeons hope he will retain the use of it, though the elbow may be stiff.

"It was a Messerschmitt which got me," he said.

FEWER UNHAPPY MARRIAGES IF MATES TRY TO PRESERVE LOVE.

Nagging Wives, Neglectful Husbands Cause Home Breaks That Can't Be Repaired.

A woman who suffered from the delusion common to many wives, that once you have caught a man and dragged him to the altar and put your brand upon him that he is yours for keeps, and that there is no possible danger of his getting lost, strayed or stolen, tells me that her husband no longer loves her, and that he wants her to give him a divorce.

She says that she knows it is her own fault, because she made no effort to hold him, or to make marriage pleasant for him. She let herself slump and get fat and frowsy. She didn't think it worth while to dress up for a mere husband, or even to wash the cold cream off of her face, and she went about in sloppy clothes, looking like something that had been dragged out of the ash can.

Baby Took First Place.

After the first baby came she was all mother and no wife. She gave all of her time and attention and caresses to Junior, and plainly let her husband see that he was of no importance in the home, except as a purveyor of good things to the children.

"I don't wonder that my husband resented the way I treated him," the woman went on tearfully, "because I wasn't a good wife, I wasn't a good companion, I wasn't even a good housekeeper. But I never thought he would quit loving me. And now he has, and I want to know how I can win him back and make him love me as he did in the old days."

Many wives who are too dull and stupid, or too inert and lazy, or too self-centred and selfish to make the effort necessary to hold their husbands' hearts when they had them in the hollow of their hands, ask this same question. But no one can tell them how to get back the treasure they have thrown away, or how to retrieve the error they have made. Theirs is the case of locking the garage door after the husband has gone off joyriding in the car with another woman and

HERE'S HOW I MAKE COFFEE GO FURTHER

FIRST of all—buy coffee for flavor! I use super-rich Chase & Sanborn Coffee!
Then I make it a rule to keep coffee in an air-tight container. And to get the right strength, I always measure the coffee and water carefully. Of course, I keep the coffee-pot scoured clean, and make only the exact amount of coffee needed—never more. And I serve it as soon as possible.
But getting plenty of flavor in the first place is most important! So I say—be sure you get super-rich Chase & Sanborn Coffee. More flavor ounce for ounce. Remember—quality coffee goes further.
CHASE & SANBORN COFFEE

Jams, Jellies, Marmalade, Honey Rationed

OTTAWA, Aug. 23.—(CP).— The Prices Board announced last night that rationing of honey, jam, jellies and marmalades will go into effect Thursday, Sept. 2, and ordered suspension from midnight last night until the opening of business Sept. 2 of all sales or deliveries of those commodities to consumers. The announcement said details of the rationing plan will be announced within a week. The suspension order means that no further sales of these commodities, or deliveries on orders already accepted, may be made to householders, hotels, restaurants, institutions, industrial users, or others who buy these commodities for consumption. Hotels, restaurants, eating places and institutions which normally serve these commodities to their customers may continue to do so, but may not buy or accept delivery of supplies during the suspension period.

The only sales now permitted are those to wholesalers and retailers, or other persons who buy for resale. In other words, sales to the consuming public are halted, but the normal flow of these commodities to the distributive trades will be permitted, pending the announcement of the new rationing plan which will control all sales.

The announcement said that honey producers are "specially notified" that all sales of honey to consumer customers must cease during the period of suspension, and also that any orders they may have accepted for future delivery of honey may not be completed during that period. After Sept. 2 these sales will be governed by the new rationing plan.

Four Records Are Set As Fliers Vie For Laurels

TORONTO, Aug. 23 — (CP). — AC2 Eric Coy of Winnipeg paced No. 16 Service Flying Training School from Hagersville, Ont., to the team championship at the second annual No. 1 Training Command, R.C.A.F. track and field meet here Saturday. Four records were set at the meet.

Holder of the Canadian discus record and a member of the Canadian team at the 1938 British Empire games, Coy won the discus and the shot put contests to gain 10 points for the Hagersville station. Coy was not up to his championship from but in both contests edged Cpl. E. Zienciewicz from Poland who was a member of the Polish team in the 1936 Olympics at Berlin and that year finished in the first 10 in the discus.

Zienciewicz represented the No. 1 bombing and gunnery school at Jarvis, Ont. Sgt. Norman Blais of Ottawa entered for No 6 repair depot at Trenton, and holder of the Command records in both the discus and the shot put, finished third in both events.

Miss Rudge Again

LAW. Winnifred Rudge of Saint Catharines, and, LAW. Helen Holmes of Windsor, Ont., members of the R. C. A. F. women's division combined to gain the remaining 14 points in the Hagersville total. Rudge, well known Canadian girl athlete, clipped 5/10th of a second off her Command record of 10.2 for the 75 yard dash set at the meet last year.

Both girls were members of the Hagersville relay team that set a new Command record of 39 seconds flat in the 300 yards women's repay, 6/10ths of a second better than last year.

AC. 2 Ken Rock of Windsor, provided the biggest upset of the meet when he set a new Command record of 14.7 seconds to defeat F. O. Jim Worrall of Toronto in the 120-yard hurdles. Rock represented No. 6 initial training school at Toronto and Worrall, a Canadian hurdler in the 1936 Olympic games ran for No. 5 S.F.T.S. at Brantford.

Pole Vault Record

B. H. Maynard, Los Angeles, California, pole vault star now in training at No. 12 aircraft inspection depot at nearby Malton, went 11 feet two inches in the pole vault to up his own record two inches.

No. 1 Manning Depot at Toronto finished second to Hagersville with 15 points and No. 5 S.F.T.S. at Brantford, Ont., was third with nine.

Hagersville led the women's division standing with 14 points, six more than No. 2 technical training school, Toronto.

In the inter-service events, Sgt. A. Strand, F.C.A.F., edged Army Cpl. J. Oltscher of Timmins, Ont., representing No. 23 C.B.T.C. Newmarket, Ont. in the 400 yard event.

Allies Tighten Noose On Salamaua

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, the Southwest Pacific, Aug. 23 (AP)— Allied ground troops pressing inexorably on enemy holdings in northeastern New Guinea stood today on a ridge overlooking the Salamaua airdrome, and the fall of that important objective seemed almost within sight.

Capture of the airfield probably will not come without a bitter and perhaps costly battle. The Japanese, aware by now that the Allies' devastating air blows in this sector have cut them off from virtually all hope of reinforcement or relief, may be expected to fight to the finish.

But with Australian and Americans in possession of the ridge dominating the Salamaua airfield, only the forest-covered downward slopes and the tidewaters of the Francisco river still stand as barriers to the Allied frontal advance.

The ridge, stretching seaward perhaps two miles south of the air drome from Allied-held Komiatum was occupied yesterday morning, to-day's Allied communique announced.

Attacked From Air

Attack planes bombed and strafed enemy troops.

Under the pressure of these blows, said headquarters reports, the Japanese withdrew deeper within their last circle of defences, continuing the general retreat begun two days before. Allied troops moved up all along the semi-circular front to invest the enemy's evacuated positions.

On the Solomons prong of the Southwest Pacific offensive, American forces cleaned out an element of enemy resistance on Baanga Islet.

In the Solomons American light naval units sank or damaged all of a Japanese force of six barges in Kula Gulf. Bombers strafed barge hideouts along the coast of Vella Lavella island to the northwest and dropped 29 tons of explosives on two such harbors.

On Saturday fighters and bombers, returning to the Wewak area on the north coast of New Guinea for the fourth time in five days, destroyed 36 Japanese planes in air combat and set fire to 34 more aground. This brought the week's total of enemy aircraft knocked out in that sector to 309.

Kiska Falls To Combined U.S.-Canadian Force

These R.C.A.F. officers in the Aleutian Islands found it an easy task to dig foxholes in the volcanic ash which makes up the top soil of the islands. They may have had a share in the fall of Kiska.

Some E Category Men To Be Retained

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 23— (CP). —Plans are being made by the Canadian Army to retain in the service certain cases of category "E" personnel whose disabilities would not seriously hamper their work, it was announced to-day at District Military Headquarters.

The move is under way "in view of the manpower situation and the desirability of salvaging manpower to the greatest possible extent.

Instances have been noted where soldiers with many years' experience as such, who have been doing good work, and younger category "E" men with trade and technical qualifications, could safely be retained.

Retention of such category "E" personnel will be restricted to individual cases, aid will depend upon the duties performed as well as the physical condition of the soldier.

Whisky Recess

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23—(AP)— The chemical division of the U.S. War Production Board was disclosed last night to have laid before W.P.B. Chairman, Donald M. Nelson, a "whisky recess" plan under which distilleries could go back to liquor making for at least a brief time.

Boat Capsizes Three Are Lost

CORNWALL, Aug. 23 (CP)—Victims of a triple drowning fatality which occurred near Summerstown, eight miles from here late Sunday, were identified last night as Louis Miron, Noe Mondoux and a man named Gillinger, all of Cornwall.

Those drowned were returning in a small rowboat from Hopkins Point, Que., to Summerstown. Four others who had been aboard the rowboat were saved.

The tragedy occurred about a mile and a half across the St. Lawrence River from Summerstown, near the Quebec mainland. While still in sight of Hopkins Point, the rowboat filled with water and overturned, throwing its occupants into the river. The four men rescued were taken back to Hopkins Point.

WEEKLY WARTIME NUTRITION HINTS

Martha Logan, Swift's famed home economist, whose weekly, wartime cooking column is a regular feature of this page. Look for these valuable hints each Monday

by Martha Logan

Victory Round-up

A bunch of quick-and-easies to make more nutrition out of less meat

Now that we all want to make the most out of every scrap of meat we have, here are some useful and timely tips for housewives:—

1 You can make a meal of griddle cakes if you add a cup or so of chopped, dried or smoked meat to your favourite batter. Make the pancakes extra big. Serve with apple sauce if syrup's hard to come by.

2 An old-fashioned dish that tastes good to a hungry family is pork sausage links or patties served with fried corn meal mush. Cook the sausage this way: Place in cold frying pan, add a small amount of water. Cover and steam for five minutes. Drain. Brown over slow heat, turning frequently. This cooking method keeps in all the fine flavour and spices. Never prick skins!

3 A few frankfurts sliced crosswise into creamed potato soup is a luncheon or supper dish worth trying. Dress up each bowl with finely minced parsley sprinkled over the top just before serving.

4 Hard to get your family to eat liver? Liver sausage is just as valuable. Or make your own liver loaf this way. Scald pork, lamb or beef liver, grind and mix with usual meat loaf ingredients, well seasoned. Pack into pan. Brush with catsup. Bake in moderate oven about one hour. Serve hot or cold with salad.

GET ENOUGH VITAMIN B!
Liver, heart, pork, eggs, dried beans, peas, milk, wheat germ, whole wheat cereals, Canada Approved bread are the foods you should eat to get enough of the important B complex.

Send 10¢ for your copy of Martha Logan's famous handbook of meat cookery: "Meat Complete." Write to Swift Canadian Co. Limited Dept. OK32, Toronto.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By CHARLES EDWARDS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Aug. 23—(CP)—Professional hockey's future seems a trifle uncertain at the moment so we'll just unload our store of hockey gossip before the market collapses. . . . Joe Burns of the Windsor Star figures it's time Pittsburgh Hornets started looking for a new manager. Now that Larry Aurie is in a permanent job with the probation department of Detroit's juvenile court, he won't be able to continue in the Pittsburgh driver's seat. . . . Joe passes on another bit of rumor—that Ebbie Goodfellow, part-time player and coach of the Stanley Cup champions, Detroit Red Wings, will be missing from hockey next winter. . . . Vic Copps of the Timmins Press reports Toronto Maple Leafs and Boston Bruins may train at the McIntyre arena near Timmins next Autumn. . . . Owen Griffiths of the Montreal Gazette says the New York Rangers star, Phil Watson, may continue in his munitions job in Montreal during the hockey season and play with Montreal Canadiens. . . . Harry Eisen of the Sudbury Star says Eddie Shore is angling for two Sudbury Juniors, Louis Prete and Nick Evanshen. Prete is 17 and Evanshen 18 which means he's likely to be in the army before long. Shore's plan is to give the youngsters a trial at the Buffalo camp, then farm them to either Brantford or Port Colborne junior clubs if they don't click immediately.

Enterprise Unlimited

Johnny Petersen, manager of Winnipeg's Osborne Stadium, was approached outside the ball park by a small boy with two ice cream cones. "Hold these for me, mister," the youngster requested. Petersen obliged, "But what for?" . . . "Can't climb the fence with two ice cream cones," the kid explained, and with Petersen watching, dumbfounded, proceeded to scale the 10-foot wall.

Blue Monday

Sixty-five football players, mostly green, turned up for the first work-out of Toronto R.C.A.F. Hurricanes, national champions. "We'll be lucky to get 10 players of senior calibre from the whole lot," moaned Sqdn. Ldr. Spike Jackson, thinking of the vanished stars of yesteryear. Somebody doesn't believe Spike. "The busted-up Hurricanes will still wind up in first place," writes Annis Stukus, the one-man gang.

Incidentally:

Vancouver sports writers are crowding the armed forces. Former Vancouver Sun writers who have enlisted are Keith Matthews, Pat Slattery, Al Windsor, Ben Ford, Ralph Mackenzie and Norman Klenman. The Province has sent forth Stu Keate, Bill Dunford and Don Tyrell and the News-Herald Don McLean and Bob Falkner.

Shutout Hamlin

TORONTO, Aug. 23.—Luke Hamlin, the shut-out king of the International League, has allowed exactly one run in his last four starts on behalf of the Toronto Leafs.

Luke warmed up to his chores here Aug. 5 by blanking Syracuse Chiefs 1-0 in nine innings. He pitched a 4-1 win over Jersey City here Aug. 10. The lone run came in the seventh inning.

Over at Syracuse last Tuesday night Luke lassoed the Chiefs 2-0 in nine innings for his fifth straight shutout at expense of the Ens outfit. Then came his nine-inning, 1-4 shutout win over Newark Bears here Saturday.

One run in 36 innings represents outstanding mound work in any baseball company.

With 18 wins to his credit this season, Hamlin rates right next to "Specs" Kleiman of Baltimore in victory production. Specs has won 22 games.

is hitting it up along the broad highway. Which is always a futile proceedings.

Woman Who Really Tries Can Keep Husband.

Any wife who has the gumption to study her husband and find out how to rub his fur the right way, and who is willing to take the trouble, and do the work required, to keep him purring under her hand can keep her husband in love with her. But once she has let him get away from her, there is no magic by which she can conjure him back.

You cannot recreate an illusion that has once been dispelled. You can't summon back a fascination that has lost its appeal. You cannot blow ashes that have burned themselves out into a flame again. You cannot compel the emotions. When once a man has lost his taste for his wife, it is gone for ever. A dead love is the deadest of all dead things. There is no resurrection for it.

There is hardly a one of the many forsaken wives, who are striving so pitifully and so hopelessly to get back the husbands they have so carelessly lost, who could not have prevented the tragedy if only they had tried as hard to keep their husbands charmed as they did to get them, and if they had been as agreeable companions after marriage as they were before. For love is one of the things in which an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure and a ton of repentance. It is easy to keep, but impossible to get back once we have lost it.

Nagging, Fretting Kills Husband's Love.

Every day we see wives killing their husbands' love by their nagging, by their fretting, by their peevish complaints, by making their homes so uncomfortable for them that they flee from them as they would from purgatory. And we do not have to be prophets to foretell that before long these women are going to come and weep on our breasts and ask how they can get back the men they have driven away from them. And nobody but the good God—Who doesn't work miracles for fools—can tell them that.

Nor is it women alone who kill love and then try to revive it. Husbands do the same thing. All about us we see husbands starving their wives' love to death by their neglect, or killing it by their brutality, or stinginess, and we know that in a little while they will be complaining that their wives care nothing for them and regard them merely as meal tickets.

If husbands and wives devoted half as much time and trouble and thought to keeping their mates in love with them as they do to trying to win back the affection they have lost, there would be very few unhappy marriages. For marriage is never a failure as long as there is love in it. And love never dies as long as it is cherished and tended.

LAWN BOWLING

This week should just about settle who's who as far as our men's schedule is concerned. In group No. 1 there are two rinks running neck and neck for the honors and as each has one more game to play, anything may happen. They could both win, they could both lose or they could split 50-50, in fact there are too many possibilities to be sure of anything.

In group No. 2 H. Darling's rink has the edge just now but as they have three games yet to play, predictions are entirely out of order.

Our program this week is just about the same as usual. Regular schedule games Monday, Tuesday and Thursday. On Wednesday evening we intend to hold a men's rink tournament, draw from the board at 7:30 p.m., with the usual fee of 25c.

And for Friday night, there will be our annual mixed tournament in aid of the British War Victims' Fund. Every cent taken in will be handed over to this fund. The club is donating three sets of prizes. We do not think that it is necessary for us to elaborate on this tournament. We all know the need, and we all know what we can do.

All we are asking is for everybody to come out on Friday night and help boost the fund. The fee is set at $1.00 per player. That is not too much for us to pay for the privilege which we are enjoying.

Yesterday's Stars

(By The Associated Press)

Dizzy Trout and Tommy Bridges, Tigers—Pitched Detroit to double victory over Yankees.

Claude Passeau and Bill Nicholson, Cubs—Passeau won 13th game and Nicholson hit 20th homer as Cubs beat Giants twice.

Jack Salveson and Oris Hockett, Indians—Salveson's two-hit pitching in opener and Hockett's 13th inning single in nightcap gave Indians double decision over Red sox.

Ed Head, Dodgers, and Vince DiMaggio, Pirates—Head held Pirates to five hits and fanned 10; DiMaggio homered with bases full.

George Case, Senators, and vern Stephens, Browns—Case's 10th inning double helped give Washington split with Browns; Stephens socked 15th homer in opener.

Elmer Riddle and Bert Haas, Reds—Riddle won 16th game in opener and Haas hit three doubles in nightcap in double victory over Phillies.

Edgar Smith and Tony Cuccinello, White Sox — Smith's first-game pitching and Cuccinello's second-game homer gave Sox double-header sweep over Athletics.

Walker Cooper and Harry Gumbert, Cardinals — Cooper socked grand slam homer and Gumbert won first start in month as Braves lost twin bill.

Sam Byrd Wins Chicago Title

CHICAGO, Aug. 23 (AP) — Sam Byrd of Philadelphia fired a one-under-par 70 on the final round yesterday to post a 72-hole total of 277 and win the Chicago Victory National golf championship with a five-stroke margin over Craig Wood.

Onlookers said Byrd, the Philadelphia pro who was Babe Ruth's understudy with the Yankees and then spent 1935 and 1936 with Cincinnati Reds before shifting from baseball to golf was "playing over his head" and couldn't last against the tough competition. But he stayed in the groove yesterday to carve the 72-hole total of 277—seven strokes under the Beverly Course—while his closest rivals strayed into the woods.

Byrd held a two-stroke lead over Sgt. Jim Turnesa of Staten Island, N.Y., entering yesterday's double round and walked in with his first major golf title by fashioning a one-over-par 72 in the morning and a fine 70 in the afternoon.

Turnesa faded to a 74-72 for 283, while Craig Wood of Mamaroneck, N.Y., the seasoned competitor, who won the 1941 United States Open, finished in the runner-up slot with 282 by firing 70-73.

Another Army man, Pte. Chick Harbert, at Camp Grant, Ill., was one of 11 players to shoot par or better in the final 36-hole stretch drive, posting a 68 on the first round, then taking a 72 coming back to also place in the 283 bracket.

A pair of 72's gave Byron Nelson of Toledo a 284. He was followed at 285 by Ky Laffoon of Tulsa, Okla., with 73-71, and Jimmy Demaret of Detroit, with 74-68.

"Nerves" Get Worse If Misunderstood

ATTACKS SYMPTOM OF WRONG CARE

"What's the matter with you?" people ask furiously when you have an attack of "nerves." They may think it's all your imagination—but don't you be fooled.

"Nerves" are a very real kind of sickness, which gets worse if not understood.

You may have been repressing feelings which you thought bad but which aren't so unnatural; you get annoyed by noisy people in your family—or by a boring, chattering neighbor—until you could scream!

If you're the high-strung type you're more liable to such pin pricks than placid people. But repression doesn't help.

Detour your troublesome energies into happier outlets. Once on an even keel you can enjoy life more, be more vital, than stolid types. Cultivate some new friends once in a while, go to a different type of show, have a hobby to fly to.

If you're nervous, you really ought to find out what's wrong. Our 32-page booklet by a well-known physician explains mental and physical causes of "nerves," advises on overcoming insomnia, fatigure, nervous indigestion; discusses diet, other health factors.

For your copy of "OVERCOMING 'NERVES' AND EVERY-DAY HEALTH PROBLEMS send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

Navy Personnel Well Entertained

DEEP BROOK, N.S., Aug. 23 — (CP). — The special service officers who look after the recreational needs of personnel at H.M.C.S. Cornwallis, large Canadian naval training centre here, are on the job every day to see that none of the thousands of sailors or Wrens at the centre find time lagging, the Navy said in a press release today.

Special service officers must know how to provide pianos, radios, dart boards, juke boxes, libraries, sound equipment, moving pictures and church services, and encourage temperamental amateur performers. They must be able to furnish musical entertainment ranging from jam sessions to symphonic recitals.

In charge of this work at Cornwallis are Lieut. S. E' McKeyes of Montreal, and Sub-Lt. Sydney Morton of Hamilton.

Writer Douglas Keely, formerly manager of a London, Ont., theatre, is on loan to the special services banch as motion picture distributor. He brings the latest first run films to Cornwallis audiences, complete with sound equipment, for the admission of five cents per sailor or Wren.

Supply Assistant Keith March, also of London, Ont., is on loan to special services to keep track of all the equipment coming and going for recreational facilities.

The Special Services Branch now is looking forward to organizing its own Navy show, starring entertainers at Cornwallis.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

BEFORE BIDDING STARTS

EVERYTHING which precedes the bidding in rubber bridge is covered thoroughly in the new Laws of Contract Bridge, by both provisions for correct practice and the way that departures or irregularities are treated. Here are some of the main provisions:

1. During the draw for seats and partners, if a player draws more than one card, or draws one of the four cards at either end of the pack or a card from the other pack, he must draw again.

2. No player may shuffle a pack other than its dealer and the player on his left. Immediately before dealing, the dealer is entitled to the final shuffle, if he so desires.

3. When the player at the dealer's right cuts the cards, each portion must contain at least four cards.

4. The dealer should complete the cut by placing the bottom portion uppermost. The cutter should not "complete the cut."

5. Any player may, before the first card is dealt, demand a new cut or a new shuffle, if he thinks that the requirements regarding them have not been fully complied with, or if a card is faced in cutting, or if a player sees the face of a card other than the bottom card.

6. In the event of a new shuffle, only the dealer has the right to shuffle, and, thereafter, the pack should be duly cut by the player on his right.

Another provision, which is not always obeyed carefully, especially by some players making the original deal of a hand for a duplicate game, specifies the way that the cards should be dealt. The dealer must deal the 52 cards face down, one at a time in rotation into four packets, the first card to the player on his left, the last card to himself and 13 cards to each player. If he deals two cards simultaneously or consecutively to the same player—and this is the thing so often violated by duplicate players—he may, before dealing another card, rectify the error, provided he does so to the satisfaction of his opponents.

Sicily People Given NewGovernment

By HAROLD V. BOYLE
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 23 (AP).—The Allied military government announced to-day important steps had been taken to free Sicilians from Fascist financial levies and to restore legal rights of which the islanders had been deprived for years.

"Amgot" public safety officers are maintaining law and order since the power of the notorious Ovra—the principal agency of the Fascist secret police — has been smashed.

In addition, the Allies have abolished Star Chamber proceedings which in the past sent thousands of anti-Fascist Italians to prison, and court trials have been restored.

After the Casablanca conference Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower assigned to British and United States officers the task of drafting a government for occupied territory.

Since taking over in Sicily, the military government has abolished the syndical "contributions" which were sent to Rome to line the pockets of Fascist officials or pay the expenses of the Fascist corporative system — the essence of Fascism on the economic side.

Portions of the syndical contributions collected from agricultural workers and used to finance social security benefits for them will be continued. The military government is setting up a new system whereby such payments will be made both employers and agricultural workers, but none of the money is to go as "contributions" to any Fascist bureaucracy.

Allied military courts grant the Sicilian legal rights they did not enjoy under Fascism even when entitled to court martial.

Gun Like This Hurled First Shell On Sicily

American Crews Build Runway In Record Time

By ART BURGESS
Associated Press War Correspondent

MUNDA AIRFIELD, New Georgia, Aug. 14 (delayed)—(AP) — Eager United States Navy Seabees, who refused to let even an enemy air raid stop them, completed a practically new runway at the Munda Airfield in the record time of three days and six hours.

The first American plane landed at the field yesterday, just eight days after United States forces had wrested the key base from the Japanese.

(Munda Field was the main objective in the American invasion of New Georgia, Central Solomons, June 30. In Washington this week, Col. Laurence C. Sherman, Army Intelligence Chief in the South Pacific, said its seizure raised a direct threat to Rabaul, the big Japanese base on New Britain.)

The bomb-splattered field underwent remarkable change once the navy's construction battalions started work, on a day and night schedule, to lay the smooth, coral-topped surface.

Soon after the first ship came down on the runway, others followed to put the base into actual operation. I landed in the first transport, on which I had "hith-hiked" from the Russell Islands.

Bomb craters about every five feet showed the effectiveness of our attacks during five weeks of bitter fighting. Trees were stripped of branches; in some area, there were no trees at all.

It is a scene of desolation except where the Americans are working and living.

Wild Irishman Charges Huns Single Handed

By WILLIAM H. STONEMAN
Special Cable to The Chicago Daily News and Toronto Star.

LONDON, Aug. 23. — Fuller details of one of the most fantastic tales of heroism in the history of the British Army have been unfolded. They concern John Patrick Kenneally, 22, lance-corporal in the Irish Guards, who has been awarded the Victoria Cross.

Twice, on two separate days in late April, Kenneally did what not one soldier in a million would ever have been expected to do. He charged down a bare slope northeast of Medjez-El-Bab in Tunisia to attack an entire company of German infantry.

The first exploit came on April 28, when the Irish Guards were clinging desperatelf to a ridge on a so-called "bou," a rolling hill lying to the right of the main road between Medjez-El-Bab and Tebourba. The Guards, who had suffered heavily in taking the height, were ordered to stay there until a further attack could be arranged.

"The 'bou' had to be held completely before the main Allied assault on Tunis could begin. The Gemans were seen forming up for a counter-attack when Kenneally, acting without orders, suddenly jumped up and went charging toward the enemy, firing his Bren machine-gun from the hip. The Germans were so flabbergasted by the sight of the wild man from Tipperary that they broke up in disorder.

Kenneally tried the same thing two days later, this time accompanied by one other spirited character. He again threw a German company into confusion, leaving a string of Germans in his wake, and then proceeded to another position to help his fellow Guardsmen to break up another German formation.

By this time he was hopping around on one leg, leaning on his comrade for support. Despite orders from his superiors to return to the rear, Kenneally insisted on staying in action with his pet Bren gun for the rest of the day.

While all this was going on, the slopes of the "bou" were boiling with shell and mortar fire, and it looked as though nobody could live in the neighborhood.

Mess Room Chatter

WITH THE R.C.A.F. SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Aug. 23—(CP)—The boys in Canadian Bomber Group who knew Padre Herb Ashford of Calgary were tickled pink when they heard he had made an operational trip with a Canadian Wellington crew over Naples from a North African base. Flt. Lt. Ashford is about as popular a padre as there ever will be in this war and if it is possible, his operational trip will boost him still higher in the esteem and affection of the R.C.A.F. laddies who know him.

Ashford has been wanting a trip like that for a long time. Each night, when he was stationed with a Canadian bomber squadron in England, he'd go out to the take-off line to see the boys away. Each time he'd holler over the noise of the motor, "When ya gonna' take me along." And from their places up in the giant bombers the kids would smile and holler back, "wish you were coming along padre . . ." or "how about it padre?" . . .

And there was the time Ashford was a bit late in pedalling around to the last aircraft going out. It was almost ready to move off, and one of the boys leaned out to wave and see, "Gee padre, I thought you weren't going to get all the way round tonight—and we'd decided if you didn't get here to wave us away we just couldn't go." That's what those kids think of Padre Ashford.

At Biggin Hill air station in Surrey they held a party the likes of which hasn't been seen before in the air force. Host was Group Capt. "Sailor" Malan, chief of the highest scoring group of Fighter Command and O.C. at Biggin Hill. The guests were more than 50 London taxicab drivers who drove Biggin Hill sector fighter pilots to London and back a few weeks ago in celebration of their 1,000th victory over the German air arm.

In honor of the occasion composer Barney Dowling, a cabby, composed a song dedicated to the "Sailor" and his boys, entitled, "To the Lads of Biggin Hill." The words included the line, "To those who chased the Hun, when things looked very glum . . ."

Dowling, a pint of beer in one hand and the song in the other, stood out on the tarmac and, with the other Cockney cabbies about him, roared the song out above the sound of Spitfire motors.

GANANOQUE, Aug. 23.—(CP).—The worm turned in a big way, that is, the eel turned. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Corby, of Uplands, Ottawa, were doing a quiet bit of fishing near Tremont Park when they hooked an eel. When it slithered its four-foot length about the boat in all directions, the Corbys beat a hasty retreat shoreward, landed, and watched the eel squirm over the gunwale, trailing line, rod and reel still attached.

Good Citizens Abide By Rules Of WTPB Without Grumbling

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 23 (ENS)—One of the esential qualifications of good citizenship at the present time is to abide by the rules of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board without grumbling. That was the opinion expressed by members of the Seymour West Branch of the Women's Institute when they met for their August meeting at Mrs. Alex. McKenzie's Thursday afternoon. Upwards of thirty ladies responded to the roll call "One qualification of good citizenship," and all agreed that compliance with wartime rulings was the thing most important for every Canadian. During the business period Mrs. Robert McCulloch gave a report for the Institute's Fall Fair committee, which had been appointed last month to recommend in what section the branch should place their usual prize money. On the recommendation of the committee it was decided to award prizes this year for school lunches and one of the factors in judging will be the food value in these.

The president, Mrs. R. A. Rutherford, who presided for the meeting, thanked all members and especially the various committee heads for their assistance in putting over the annual garden party held last month at Connelly's School. She revealed the net proceeds had amounted to $153.00, which was only slightly less than a year ago, and probably accountable to the fact that rain was general throughout the district on the evening of the social.

Yarn for the sweaters that will be placed in ditty bags and for socks that will be placed in Christmas parcels was given out to members by Mrs. Fred McCulloch, a member of that committee. It was revealed there was to be a war work exhibit at the fall fair again this year and the Institute will enter an exhibit in this class. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Mac Waddell, when the roll call of the day will be "Timely Substitutes" and the topic "Wartime Housekeeping." Mrs. Harry Hoard and Mrs. Donald Rutherford were appointed program conveners.

Highlight of the meeting was the "Life Story of Madame Chiang Kai Shek," a talk given by Mrs. Alan Curle, who presided for the program. Other items included a reading by Miss Margaret Anderson; vocal solo, Miss Carolyn Archer; reading, Mrs. Rank McKelvie.

Russian Push Threatens Donets Basin

Aim At Poltava In Campaign To Take Ukraine

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Aug. 24 (AP) — The Red Army drove west and south through the smoking ruins of Kharkov today, pursuing the Germans who were thrown into full retreat back from the recaptured former capital of the Ukraine.

The Russians were keeping up their heavy pressure from their new Kharkov base, giving the Germans no time to recover. The Red Army was spreading out in a drive for reconquest of the Ukraine.

Poltava, the historic battlefield southwest of Kharkov where Charles XII of Sweden met defeat, appeared to be the next Red Army objective.

Farther south in the Donets Basin another Russian push gained momentum after taking Donetsko-Ambrosievka, a railroad station 50 miles north of German held Taganrog. The Red Army pressed its assaults on this southern side of the German flank.

Hitting Flank.

Red soldiers also were attacking on the northern flank in the Izyum sector.

The Donets basin appeared likely to become the most imoprtant scene of the fighting in the new phase of the Red Army's summer offensive.

Pravda said German resistance was broken after a three-day battle along the strong line of fortified populated points southwest of Voroshilovgrad.

Red Army infantry and tanks were reported advancing along the railroad presumably toward Makeyevka and Stalino in the heart of the coal and iron region.

Advance units of scouts and engineers were penetrating deep into the enemy lines and disrupting communications.

After the Red Army drove wedges in the German lines in the Donets Basin front the enemy counter-attacked attempting to prevent broadening of the gaps but the Russians drove them off, Pravda said.

Gestapo Chief Gets Promotion

LONDON, Aug. 24 — (CP). — German home affairs fell wholly under the Gestapo rule today with the announcement that Hitler has appointed Heinrich Himmler, head of the Nazi secret service and German police, to serve also as minister of the interior and "chief of the Reich administration."

The D.N.B. dispatch did not enlarge on the term "chief of the Reich administration," but it apparently laid vast new powers in the hands of the Nazi Gestapo chief.

The D.N.B. announcement said that Himmler, Reichleader of the SS and chief of German police, succeeded Reichminster Dr. Wilhelm Frick, who is being relieved to take over the post of protector of Bohemia and Moravia, in Czechoslovakia.

The move thus throws out, "at his own request," D.N.B., said the present protector, Baron Konstantin von Neurath, long-time major party functionary who formerly was ambassador to London and once the German minister of foreign affairs. He also has been the chairman of Hitler's secret cabinet council.

Berlin Will Be Wiped Out Airmen Claim

By LOWELL BENNETT
Representing the Combined American Press
Distributed by The Canadian Press

A MIDLANDS BOMBER BASE, England, Aug. 24.—Berlin was "Hamburged" last night for 42 minutes by hundreds of four-engined R.A.F.-R.C.A.F. bombers in the most widespread devastation ever wrought in the heart and brains of the European Axis.

The entire force was composed of Lancaster, Stirlings and Halifaxes, making it probably the biggest four-engined raid of the war.

Airmen returning to this base were unanimous it was the best raid they had made.

There was excellent weather, second-rate opposition, and brilliant bombing, they reported.

From 250 miles away on the homeward flight the crewmen saw vast fires and the last wave of bombers reported smoke belching upward 15,000 feet.

Veteran Pilots

They said the attack was at least as effective as any of those which laid German's second city of Hamburg in complete waste. But while Hamburg's opposition was of the strongest, Berlin's defences last night were not so strong, the fliers from this base said.

The Germans depended mainly upon night fighters in co-operation with searchlights and anti-aircraft fire described by these crews as unusually weak and aimless.

Some 5,000 veteran fliers from over the empire and some American volunteers participated in the kill for which they had waited so long. All praised the path-finders who directed the bombing that covered a four-square-mile swathe in Berlin.

"There were lots of night fightes, but the anti-strike fire was scattered and didn't bother us," said Sgt. Gunner Edward Murphy of Richmond, Que., flying in "F for Fox" on his 14th mission. "About 200 searchlights fingering around managed to catch some planes, but the real light was on the ground. The fires even at the beginning were terrific.

Biggest Yet

'Last night's raid was the biggest and best. We must have given them a terrible nightmare."

PO. Frank Bedingham of Essex, England, who piloted "A for Apple" in the last wave, said he was amazed by the impotence of the defence which "weren't much stronger than those in Italy. But in Berlin there were four square miles a mass of fires, with 4,000 pounder cookies landing everywhere."

Pilot Flight Sgt. John Adams of Coolagong, New South Wales, who flew in "N for Nan," one of the last men to bomb the city, reported the defences well saturated "but the smoke and fires were something to behold. I reckon they will be fighting fires until the spring rains help them."

Four such raids eliminated Hamburg, but it probably will take a few extra ones to finish the job in Berlin. But the elimination has begun and Berliners know that last night was the beginning of their city's end.

Aerial War Continues Over Italy

Rhodes, Sardinia Both Bombed In Overnight Sweeps

By RELMAN MORIN
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 24 (AP).—Allied bomber fleets have hammered two more key railway points near Naples without meeting a single Axis defender, while other bombers sweeping in from the Middle East struck Bari on the southeastern coast, downing 14 enemy planes in a blazing air battle, it was announced to-day.

None of the bombers was lost.

No enemy fighters rose to challenge Mitchells slamming a load of bombs by daylight into Battipaglia, south of Naples, nor Wellingtons that pounded Bagnoli in Naples' environs before dawn today.

Fighters had a similar experience of no opposition in a sweep over Sardinia and a sharp raid upon enemy barracks and factory buildings at Cagliari.

Rip Up Tracks

Strings of bombs ripped up the tracks at Battipaglia and some large explosions were seen on the east side of the main yards. Warehouses were hit and fires started. Ground forces threw up a heavy curtain of anti-aircraft fire.

R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. Wellingtons concentrated that attack upon Bagnoli into a few minutes.

Ground defences there were inactive, and the raid appeared to have taken the Italians by surprise. One crew saw a block buster bomb explode in the middle of the railroad yards, with another following close to it.

Fighters struck their targets in Sardinia with bombs and cannon-fire and "as far as I could see, not a single bomb was wasted," said one pilot.

One Allied plane was lost in all these operations.

The four-engined bombers hitting at Bari yesterday above the heel of the Italian boot met a heavy force of fighter planes, with their gunners claiming 14 of them. This raid was directed against the airdrome and freight yards despite the obscuring clouds.

R.A.F. Wellingtons from the Middle East attacked barracks at Lindos on the island of Rhodes.

While the air war thus continued, an Allied naval communique disclosed two French light cruisers, La Fantasque and Le Terrible, were operating with other Allied forces in the Mediterranean.

French Ships Serve

The vessels, in North African ports when the Allies landed last November, were originally listed as destroyers, are of 2,569 tons and carry five 5.5 inch guns. On trial runs Le Terrible attained a record speed of 45 knots.

A sister ship, La Troimphant, was last reported operating with fighting French naval forces.

(Today's Italian communique broadcast by Rome and recorded by the Associated Press claimed German planes raiding Palermo in Sicily hit 11 merchant ships and three warships, and two merchantmen totalling 9,000 tons and two destroyers 'may be considered sunk."

The Right Name

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 24.—(AP).—"When I married my husband," the woman said, "he told me I had to live up to his name." She has and he has. The state highway patrol said there was never a blemish on the driving records of Mr. and Mrs. Safety First.

Seven Canadian Bombers Lost At Berlin

By ALAN RANDAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Aug. 24.—(CP Cable.)—The full weight of the Canadian bomber group was thrown against Berlin last night as part of the R.A.F.'s greatest assault on the German capital.

The cost of the all-Canadian portion of the Berlin attack was seven R.C.A.F. bombers which did not return. They were included in the 58 listed by the Air Ministry as missing. It was also learned that one R.C.A.F. fighter is missing from the night's operations.

There was no mention of the number of Canadian squadrons taking part in the Berlin attack in the official attack, but it was likely that some scores of Canadian bombers were involved and some hundreds of air crew.

Everyone Out.

"The whole group was working last night," said one source.

The official R.C.A.F. communique, which in the main duplicated the Air Ministry announcement, mentioned only "squadrons of heavy bombers of the R.C.A.F. bomber group" being on the operation. This followed the usual practice of not being too specific.

In support of the bomber attacks, R.C.A.F. Mosquitoes took part in widespread intruder operations, attacking enemy airfields in northern Germany and occupied territory.

Opposition Heavy

On the Berlin raid the Canadians met greater fighter opposition than ever before. But they fought their way through to the target where preliminary reports indicated the bombing was "highly concentrated."

In addition to the Canadian group fliers, there were also hundreds of Canadians scattered through the R.A.F. crews going to Berlin.

While the Berlin total losses were the highest since 55 were lost April 16 during the Mannheim-Pilsen raids, the Canadian group has had greater losses than the seven which did not return last night. For instance, 10 R.C.A.F. aircraft were lost in the Mannheim-Pilsen raids, and 18 did not return from the Aug. 17 raid on Peenemunde.

2,000 Tons Of Bombs Drop From 700 Bombers; 58 Planes Reported Lost

Heaviest Raid Ever Aimed At a Capital Does Extensive Damage; Smoke Boils Three Miles Into The Clouds

By WILLIAM SMITH WHITE, Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Aug. 24. — (AP). — R.A.F.-R.C.A.F. squadrons smashed at Berlin last night in a raid twice as heavy as any capital ever suffered, casting down about 2,000 long tons of explosives and incendiaries, and opening of the supreme offensive to "Hamburg" Hitler's seat of power was indicated.

Fifty - eight bombers went down before German anti-aircraft defences in this historic assault, the Air Ministry announced, the largest number ever lost in any one night. Seven of the missing planes were Canadian.

Devastation was plainly on a scale comparable to the power of the attack. One returning pilot said the smoke boiled up three miles.

The Air Ministry's story of the operation did not mention the size of the raiding force except to say the assault was twice as heavy as any made before on any capital and that it was "in very great strength." Canadian air headquarters said the full weight of the R.C.A.F. bomber group was thrown into the raid.

Hit Last March

The previous heaviest raid on any capital was the March attack on Berlin in which 900 long tons—the standard of 2,240 pounds—were dropped.

It was indicated 5,000 veteran fliers took part in the raid.

Assuming each plane carried an average of seven men—the usual number on an R.A.F. heavy bomber —this would indicate more than 700 planes were used.

Two of the bombers apparently from the Berlin raid came down in Swedish territory, one in flames after a running battle with a German fighter which also landed in Sweden. Preliminary reports said nine of the 14 crewmen of the two ships were accounted for.

Reporting strong formations over Berlin, the German communique said "the reorganized air defences prevented a concentrated attack upon the city and shot down 60 multigined bombers, according to reports thus far."

New Raid Tuesday

"Explosive and incendiary bombs caused destruction in residential quarters and to public buildings and and hospitals," it added. "The civilian population suffered losses."

Two big formations of heavy bombers which appeared to be Flying Fortresses winged across Dover Strait in mid-afternoon today towards Northern France. Unescorted and still climbing, the bombers took up battle formations while over the water.

Fifty-five bombers, 10 of them Canadian, were lost on the double attack on Pilsen in Czechoslovakia and Mannheim, Germany, on the night of April 16.

Large Formations

The Germans, in a series of nervous broadcasts, clearly indicated the size of the Berlin attack by telling of high explosives and incendiaries falling over a wide area from "large enemy formations." They asserted at least 50 planes were shot down.

The devastation was plainly on a scale comparable to the power of the attack. One returning pilot told of smoke boiling up three miles into the sky.

The raid, it was estimated, was about twice as heavy as that ever launched upon any capital.

The R.A.F. has dropped as high as 2,300 tons of bombs in a single night before this, but never before has approached that figure in an operation of such length, complexity or significance.

Returning airmen told of relatively light Nazi anti-aircraft gunfire but of stern opposition from German fighter planes.

"The Germans put up swarms of fighters," said one. "I have never seen so many before. There were about 20 belts of searchlights inside the capital and around it. These were co-operating with the fighters.

Axis Air Losses 4,500 Off Africa

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 24 (AP) — Official records at headquarters here showed today that Axis air losses in the Mediterranean theatre in the nine months since the Allied landings in North Africa have passed the 4,500 mark.

This includes 2,833 destroyed in aerial combat and about 1,700 captured on airfields in Tunisia, Pantelleria and Sicily, but does not take in the enemy machines blown to pieces on the ground.

Three Americans Arrested For Espionage

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—(AP). —The United States Justice Department announced to-day the arrest in Detroit of two women and a man on charges of espionage for gathering information for Nazi Germany.

J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, said the arrests climaxed an investigation begun in 1939.

Hoover also announced the arrest of presidential warrants of two German aliens in Detroit.

The German aliens were not named, but Hoover said both were women and that they will be held for a hearing before the Alien Enemy Hearing Board in Detroit.

The Justice Department said those arrests on espionage charges are Grace Buchanan-Dineen, 34; Mrs. Theresa Behrens, 44; and Dr. Fred William Thomas, 44, a surgeon and physician.

All three have Detroit addresses.

The complaints filed before U.S. Commissioner J. Stanley Hurd in Detroit charge that:

Theresa Behrens secured information as to the location of the manufacturing plants of the Pullman Company of Chicago, the number of employees engaged by the company in manufacturing war material, the kind of war material then being manufactured by the company, and the transportation of war materials.

Dr. Thomas secured information as to the number and location of certain plants of the Western Electric Company in Ohio manufacturing war materials.

Grace Buchanan-Dineen secured information as to the production capacity of the Ford Motor Company in manufacturing war material, the safety of construction of such plant against sabotage, the safety of construction of the plants against air plane attack and bombing and the operation plans of the United States by which military airplanes departed from the United States for the war theatre.

The justice department said the arrests were the first under the war-time espionage statutes, which provide a death penalty or up to 30 years imprisonment. Previous espionage arrests were made under peace time statutes, which did not provide the death penalty.

Hoover said the activities of the group since the United States entered the war centred about Grace Buchanan Dineen, described as an "attractive, well educated descendant of French nobility, who, though a native of Canada, had been carefully trained by Germans in espionage work."

Hoover said she entered the United States Oct. 27, 1941, arriving in New York by Atlantic Clipper. She first came to the attention of the F.B.I., Hoover said, as a mysterious "Miss Smith of Detroit," in November, 1941.

Subsequently, Hoover added, she "co-operated fully with the F.B.I. in receiving information desired by the German espionage service when it became apparent to her that she could not carry out the instructions of her Nazi employers."

Hoover said she had operated under the surveillance of the F.B.I., and all information reported to her and forwarded to her Nazi espionage superiors abroad had cleared through the F.B.I., and army and navy intelligence services.

War On Japan Dominates Quebec Talks

Conference Finished Churchill Says Decisions a Secret

By J. F. SANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

QUEBEC, Aug. 24 — (CP). — President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill announced to-day "the necessary decisions have been taken" to provide for forward action of Armies, Navies, and Air Forces against the enemy on a global scale.

In a joint statement issued as part of a joint press conference the two Allied leaders announced:

1. Unanimous decisions of a military and political nature have been taken at the Quebec Conference.

2. Full reports of the decisions, as they affect the war against Germany and Italy, will be furnished to Russia.

3. Later this week, a number of Governments will announce a joint policy in relation to the French Committee of National Liberation.

4. Another Anglo - American conference will be held before the end of the year. In addition to any tri-partite conference it is possible to arrange with Russia.

To Aid China.

5. The military discussions here have turned very largely upon the war against Japan and the bringing of effective aid to China.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King asked Mr. Churchill to lead off and the British Prime Minister said he had expected he would follow and would be able to hear what the President said first.

However, he wished to impress on the newsmen that it had been impossible to supply them with all the news they had wished for during the progress of the conference.

Canada Modest Papers Declare

LONDON, Aug. 24 (CP) — Prime Minister Churchill's visit to Canada served in Britain to stir editorial tribute to the part the Dominion has played in this war.

The London News Chronicle devoted a whole column to the Dominion, following in the wake of a full-column editorial in the London Standard after the Canadians invaded Sicily.

"A magnificent contribution it is," said the News Chronicle of Canada's war effort. "From the very first the Canadian people have flung themselves into the war effort with an energy and determination nowhere surpassed . . .

"But perhaps her greatest contribution has been by way of strategic co-operation with Britain and the United States . . .

The outstanding examples are construction of the Alaska Highway, and the British Commonwealth Air Training plan of which Canada herself bears half the cost."

Ralph Michaelis, writing in the Daily Sketch, titled his article, "Canada is too modest." "Canadians," he said, "are too little conscious that their contribution to the war effort is vastly greater than would be reasonably expected from her population of fewer than 12,000,000. If you tell them so, they will maintain, with chronic modesty, that they are not doing enough.

"Canada, in fact, is constantly 'rooting' for her parents and her big brother, but seldom for herself."

Fliers Hold Gay Birthday Celebration In Flak-Filled Sky Over German Capital

LONDON, Aug. 24 (CP Cable) —Sgt. Dave Canters, a mid-upper gunner of Edmonton, Alta., won't forget this Aug. 24 bomber raid and a birthday party high in flak-filled skies over Berlin.

It was a little birthday "do" for Dave's pilot, Sgt. Stan Mason of Durham, England, who trained at Battleford, Sask., and Carberry, Man.

At midnight, a few minutes before unloading their bombs on Berlin, Mason became 21. Immediately it was announced over the plane's "inter-com" that the bombs were away, the crew began singing "Happy Birthday To You."

"It was quite a celebration," said Canters when he reached his base. "We had been pretty busy up to the time we got out our bomb load, but right afterwards we toasted Mason's health with orange juice from our rations."

Kharkov's Fall Turning Point in War

Fighting Is Fierce But General Russian Advance Is Indicated

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Kharkov and Kiska—alliteratively pleasant to the ear, and a fine brace of birds for the Allied bag.

The Red Army's capture of the great industrial and rail centre of Kharkov by storm undoubtedly will be recorded by historians as one of the key victories of the Russo-German war.

The fall of this strategic Ukrainian city on Hitler's right flank vastly increases the menace to his entire battle-front in Russia. It brings him dangerously near to the day when he will have to withdraw his forces to fresh positions—if indeed he isn't already falling back towards the line of the Dnieper.

Fierce and bloody fighting is in progress, as the Nazis strive to hold and the Reds fling themselves on the invaders with fresh fury in an effort to capitalize the capture of Kharkov. The Russians announce a deep break through on the Donets River front to the south, and if they can develop this they might precipitate a debacle.

Chances Are Good

However, that contingency is at the moment just wishful thought, and we shouldn't rush out into no-man's land in advance of the Red Army. The Germans are master soldiers and one would expect them to be able to maintain their line if they have to retreat. Their chances are doubly good, since the fall rains will start in two or three weeks and are likely to slow the Russian advance greatly.

Still, after the rains will come the freezing, and then the Reds will continue their assaults, as they did last winter when they drove the Hitlerites back over vast areas. Hitler's position at the best isn't enviable, and if the Allies are able to invade Western Europe this fall, anything can happen.

What a change from a year ago, when Hitler drove clear through to Stalingrad and almost forced the mountain passes into the Lower Caucasus! He started from Kharkov then—and broke his back at Stalingrad. From the moment of his failure there, his fate was sealed. The energy he wasted in trying to capture that industrial city represents one of the greatest blunders of the war.

2,500 Strikers Still Out

Street Unswept, No Garbage Collection

MONTREAL, Aug. 24 — (CP).—Montreal police officers and men were ordered today to remain on duty 24 hours a day until a settlement has been reached in the four day old strike of some 2,500 employees of the municipal roads, water and incinerator departments.

So far police have not interfered with the strikers, whose walkout has stopped garbage collections in all parts of the city. The city streets, unswept and unwatered since last Friday, are covered with papers and filth. In public markets, the stench of decaying fruits and meat fills the air.

H. A. Gibeau, Director of Public Works for the city said yesterday that if the strikers do not return to work by Wednesday they will be considered as having resigned their jobs.

Officials of the Canadian Brotherhood of Municipal Employees union, an affiliate of the Canadian Congress of Labor, said the strikers will not return to work until demands have been met. They seek full payment of a cost-of-living bonus retroactive to March, 1943, recognition of the Brotherhood as sole bargaining agent for the workers and reinstatement of five employees who they claim were dismissed for "union activities."

Rome City Demilitarized

Badoglio Strives To Meet Conditions

LONDON, Aug. 24 — (CP). — Stefani, Italian news agency, said in a broadcast to-day Italy has formally advised the British and American government of steps taken to demilitarize Rome with the view of having the Italian capital treated as an open city. The broadcast was recorded by Reuters news agency.

A Rome radio broadcast of Aug. 14 said the government of Marshal Pietro Badoglio had decided to declare Rome an open city without further delay.

Today's Stefani broadcast declared steps had already been taken to neutralize defensive installations and orders had been given to anti-aircraft batteries not to fire on planes over the city, while Italian interceptor planes were directed not to defend the capital.

Stefani added the Italian government had asked "the Swiss government and the Holy See to notify the governments of London and Washington that the Italian government had adopted the following measures:—

"Defensive installations of the city of Rome have been put out of action and the order has been given to the anti-aircraft batteries not to open fire and to the fighters not to operate over Rome."

BRENDAN BRACKEN SAYS QUEBEC CONFERENCE WILL MAKE HISTORY

Reds Smash Through Donets Line

2 Drives Threaten Entire Nazi Southern Wing

LONDON, Aug. 24 (CP)—The victorious Russian Army drove on beyond fallen Kharkov in pursuit of the retreating Germans today while 200 miles to the southeast Soviet forces were reported streaming through a break in the Nazi lines on the Lower Donets River front.

The twin drives threatened the whole southern wing of the German defenses anchored on the Sea of Azov and apparently were part of a master plan to free the immense industrial area in the Donets Basin from the grip of the invaders.

Capture Supplies

A Russian communique broadcast from Moscow last night said the Red Army troops which stormed into Kharkov yesterday from the east, north, and west paused only long enough to gather up large stores of Nazi war material and then turned west in the direction of the Ukrainian capital of Kiev and the main German defence line which winds its way along the west bank of the Dnieper River.

Fierce fighting was reported west of Kharkov where the Russians said the Germans had hauled large forces of infantry and tanks into desperate but futile counter-attacks which cost the Nazis 2,000 dead and 40 tanks.

In another sector of the Kharkov front the Red Army captured 15 villages and wiped out at least two battalions of Germans, the bulletin said.

Russian front line dispatches said that before the collapse of Kharkov's defences the Nazis had done a methodical job of destroying the city's biggest buildings. The Soviet communique, however, disputed the Germans' claim they had evacuated all their troops and equipment before the Russian entry and said the Red Army had captured large stocks of supplies.

Moscow celebrated the victory at the personal order of Premier Stalin, who decreed a 30-volley salute from 224 artillery pieces. The Russian leader also conferred the honorary title "Kharkov" upon the Red Army units which participated in its capture.

Take 30 Villages

The Russian break-through on the lower Donet River front was disclosed in the Soviet midnight communique, which said that heavy fighting in the Izyum-Voroshilov-

5 Waterloo Sisters Serving In R.C.A.F.

OTTAWA, Aug. 24 (CP). — Six members of one family in uniform is a record in any man's language but when five are girls and all in the R.C.A.F. there is something to write about, the Air Force said last night in a press release.

Erma Culligan, daughter of Mrs. William Culligan of Waterloo, Ont., became the fifth when she was graduated recently from No. 7 Manning Depot at nearby Rockcliffe.

Her four sisters are Leading Airwoman Olive, timekeeper in Calgary, Ruby, chef at Rivers, Man.; Carol, a general clerk at Trenton; and AW1 Pearl, a hospital assistant at Centralia, Ont.

The sixth member of the family, Carl, is a corporal in the United States Air Corps at Oklahoma.

HOW TO RELIEVE PILE TORTURE
QUICKLY AND EASILY

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from McDermid & Jury or any I.D.A. or other drug store and use as directed. This formula which is used internally is a small, easy to take tablet, will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore, tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use, is highly recommended and it seems the height of folly for any one to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost.

If you try Hem-roid and are not entirely pleased with the results, your druggist will gladly return your money.—(Advt.)

TIRED FEELING
ADDS YEARS TO YOUR LOOKS

If your mirror shows tired, droopy lines in your face, it's time to take action!

Tired people often have an overworked digestive system. Clogged with food waste and fatigue acids, because liver fails to supply 1 to 2 pints of bile every day. If liver bile slows down, your whole body slows down, fatty foods cannot be digested. You feel punk.

If always tired, get after your liver—purifier of blood, storehouse of energy. If liver carries off impurities, you feel full of pep. The safe way to increase liver's daily flow of bile is with BILE BEANS. These small laxative pills tone up entire digestive system—liver bile, stomach, bowels. Made of 10 pure vegetable extracts, Bile Beans act so gently they are called "The Medicine That Copies Nature".

Shake that "tired feeling" right away—and get some fun out of life! Try BILE BEANS tonight—they work while you sleep. Over 1 million boxes used last year, convincing evidence of how greatly they are helping others. 23

2 Youths Die On The Gallows

WINDSOR, Aug. 24 (CP)—Two Detroit youths—24-year-old Steve Ogorodowski and 21-year-old Bruno Kisielewski—early to day paid with their lives on a Canadian gallows for the holdup murder last Oct. 3 of Joseph Borg, Windsor restaurant proprietor.

Witnesses told newspapermen that both died calmly; walking to the Essex county jail scaffold with smiles on their faces and Kisielewski maintaining his innocence.

"I am innocent and happy to die," he was said to have told his counsel, N. J. Riordan as he walked from his first floor cell to the second floor where the hangings took place.

Kisielewski was first to go, mounting the scaffold at 12.27 a.m. He was pronounced dead 21 minutes after the trap was released. On his way to the scaffold, he passed Ogorodowski's cell. They shook hands and said goodbye. Kisielewski walked to the gallows unassisted and when the hangman was adjusting the mask, remarked; "Pull it over my nose."

Ogrodowski said goodbye to his guards and thanked them for the treatment he received in the jail. While being escorted to the gallows he asked: 'Has Bruno gone?' On receiving an affirmative reply he said: "Okay, I'll see him later." He was reported to have been singing popular songs when the guards went to get him.

Very Calm

On the scaffold the hangman had to remove a cigaret from Ogordowski's mouth in order to adjust the mask. He was said to have remarked to his executioner:

Sabotage Brings Nazi Pressure

NEW YORK, Aug. 24 (AP) — A state of emergency has been declared in six Danish towns by German occupation officials in an effort to combat a wave of sabotage climaxed in the last few hours by the theft of several thousand rifles from a Nazi arsenal and the destruction of a power plant, a British broadcast recorded by the United States broadcast intelligence service said today.

The British broadcast quoted a report from the Stockholm paper Svenska Dagbladet. The power station destroyed, the broadcast said, provided current for the entire northeast Jutland.

The broadcast was quoted as saying the Nazi authorities had acted after a series of clashes between German and Danish troops, in one of which 15 Germans were reported slain. Flensburg, Odense, Aarhus and three other towns were said to have been affected by the emergency decree.

Swedish newspaper dispatches last week had reported a mounting wave of sabotage in Denmark.

Pte. Bob Gray Writes From Sicily

MARMORA, Aug. 24 (ENS). — On Monday Mrs. Percy Gray received a letter from her son Sgt. Robert Gray in Sicily which in part, reads.

Sicily, Aug. 4, 1943

I was talking to Si Sopha (Marshall Sopha) and Ray Nobes today and both are fine. Everybody from home that I've seen lately have been doing okay. We're all hoping to receive some mail in the near future. Soap, tooth powder chewing gum and concentrated fruit powders are the main essentials for parcels while we are out here in the Med. The weather here is just the opposite to England, more like the dry summer days you're having back home. We've had one short thunderstorm since arriving here on the island where everything is going according to plan. The poverty of Europe sure can be witnessed here in Sicily. Some of the towns here are sure a sight to behold and the conditions of living and clothing sure shock one. By the time you receive this, we hope the Sicilian campaign has been cleaned up as we are entering the final stages. Well, supper is on after a quiet day. Give best regards to you.

God Bless You,

BOB.

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Aug. 24 —(AP).—The United States Navy's second aircraft carrier Hornet will be launched here Aug. 30 to replace the flat-top from whose flight deck Brig. Jimmy Doolittle and his fliers took off to bomb Tokyo in April of last year. The new ship's predecessor was sunk a month later in the Santa Cruz islands.

Reporter Craves Violent Action Bomber Crew Obeys The Order

By SCOTT YOUNG
Canadian Press Staff Writer

AT THE R.A.F. CENTRAL GUNNERY SCHOOL, Somewhere in England, Aug. 24 (CP)—It's hard to make notes on this story with my stomach somewhere behind my left ear, my eyes out of focus from watching the horizon creep up and vanish over my head and my hands shaking from trying to hold myself on the floor of a Wellington coming out of a 90-degree turn and going into a dive.

I'm sitting now, so my legs bother me only a little. They tell me when an aircraft zooms out of a steep dive my weight will increase to about 500 pounds. That is hard on the knees.

Evasive action is a manoeuvre pilots use when they are being attacked by fighters or are coned by searchlights or pursued by flak.

You've probably seen in innumerable stories, how a pilot took evasive action to shake off such an attack. You couldn't know, because nobody ever explained, that violent evasive action is like all the fiendish circus rides in the world tied up in a boisterous bundle and applied simultaneously.

When FO. Bill Johnston of Renfrew, Ont., asked me if I'd like to go up with him and be attacked by a Spitfire, I said: "Sure." When he asked how I'd like the evasive action to be, mild or violent, I said "Violent." Johnston is a man of his word. He delivered the goos.

Waited for Attack

We took off smoothly and circled up to about 5,000 feet before we levelled off and waited for our attacker to take off and come up to us. We were all scanning the sky for him when the calm voice of the observer came in over the intercomm:

"Control calling. One Jerry over green (starboard, or right hand) beam. For 1,000 yards flying over parallel course. He's ravelled. He's turning up. He's moving along on the green beam."

I spotted him then, following Johnston's quick glance. He seemed to hover over us and to the right. He was moving ahead of us a little, and the observer's calm voice (it's always calm, in good observers, to keep crews from getting rattled) went on:

He's moving toward the green bow. He's turning to dive now to get the crowning attack from underneath. Stand by for diving turn to starboard. He's turning in now..."

We turned over on one wing, and fell off the right. I wasn't strapped down. I rose off the seat and sideways, until I was suspended in the air, holding to braces beside me, but in midair and with no effort on my arms keeping me there. I could see the Spit coming at us as we dove away and down.

Out of the Dive

"He's coming up now," the observer's quiet voice said. "He's climbing up, he's climbing up on the green beam describing back towards the green quarter and he's sliding across the tail and break away on the red (port or left) beam. Resume course."

We came out of our dive with a sickening downward drag. I had shoved the seat up and was standing, and my body was so heavy my knees bent gradually until I was almost on the floor. Then we levelled off, and for the moment life returned to normal.

The Spitfire circled to the left, climbing, and the observer came in again:

"He's climbing up there on the red beam now, moving up toward the green bow. . . . He's moving out, he's moving forward, he's climbing up ahead, he's about 1,600 yards away on the red bow now, turning. He's turning in and he's diving in. He's coming into attack on the red bow. Stand by to dive. Dive. Dive. Go. He's coming in now at 600 yards, 400 yards, 200 yards, and he couldn't make it. He's broken away now . . ."

Again I came down from midair, standing this time, and again my legs bent gradually under my weight despite the determined efforts to keep them straight. My jaw was dragged down until my mouth was wide open, and slowly we levelled off again.

Hidden By Cloud

Bill and I were looking around for the Spitfire. The observer was silent. Then I spotted the Spit coming out of the cloud to our right. I nudged Bill and pointed, and he looked and grinned at me griefly. A happy young fellow on the ground, Bill doesn't grin often in the air. This was business to him, and I thought of sitting up there for seven or eight hours, as operational crews do, going through this every so often. The observer cut in:

"He's out on the green beam, flying a parallel course. He's not doing anything yet. He's level on the green beam about 1,000 yards away. He's sliding back a little. He's turning to come in. He's coming up, coming on his curve, he's turning now, stand by. Turn starboard, go. He's in now, 600 yards, 400 yards, 200 yards, and he sliding across the tail breaking away on the red quarter now, now 800 yards, 1,000 yards along the red quarter now, levelled off there. Resume course, Go . . ."

That is evasive action, the evasive action the boy from your own home, or the boy from down the street, is taking every night over the Mediterranean or the Ruhr or over Italy.

It's success depends on the closest co-operation between a good pilot and a good observer, and Johnston says that with a good observer a fighter has to be very good to get a bomber in a fair fight. It is a series of tactical manoeuvres that saves a few Canadian lives every night.

A Smart Clerk

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 24.—(AP).—Walter Wilson, hotel night clerk, told a holdup man he had a key for the till, but none for the safe. "I can't be bothered with small stuff," the bandit sneered, and walked out.

Unaware Of Fate For Ten Days

For ten days after the provincial elections on August 4, Captain A. L. Elliott, Peterborough's Liberal candidate on active service, did not know how he and the Nixon government had fared at the polls.

Military circumstances and the long arm of authority directed him to return to Canada, and on the day of the elections he was at an embarkation depot somewhere in England, leaving that night for the Atlantic crossing.

Presumably he came back in a convoy, and it was not until he reached the home shores that he learned briefly of his defeat, and of his succession by Harold R. Scott as the representative for Peterborough in the new provincial government led by Colonel George Drew with a slight margin of party plurality over the C.C.F. opposition.

Captain Elliott was accompanied in his return by Major Ralph Honey, both of whom were returning to their unit, the Prince of Wales Rangers, beyond the mountains. Their orders prevented their return to Peterborough on the trip somewhere out west, as the censors would have it.

Monaghan Suggested For Airport Site

In a discussion of airport sites the other day is was suggested that the city council should give some final thought to the North Monaghan locality which could be laid out south of Cameron street.

This proposal considered the closing of Monaghan Road from Cameron street to Crawford's Grove and combining into one field the properties on east and west sides of Monaghan Road. It also indicated that the Crawford's Grove road could be extended along the river front to the end of the long field and brought out to Cameron street somewhere near the Doig house.

Whether this site would provide sufficient width was a dubious point, but it was felt that ample length could be obtained by closing a road or two and substituting other routes nearby at virtually no inconvenience to the public.

North Monaghan has expressed a willingness to join with the city in the discussion of aspects of the proposed airport that would concern the two municipalities jointly. They have named Reeve Johnston and Deputy Reeve Archibald to co-operate with the city.

OBITUARIES

MRS. MARGARET KERR ARMOUR

There passed away recently in New Westminster, B.C., a former resident of Bensfort, in the person of Mrs. W. G. Armour, beloved wife of W. G. Armour of that city, and third daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Kerr of South Monaghan.

The deceased lady had been ill for some time, yet hope was entertained for her recovery until the end came, which was a great shock to her family and friends, to all of whom she had endeared herself by her genial manner and sterling qualities.

Besides her sorrowing husband, she leaves to mourn her loss, a son F.O. Arnold K. Armour of Rivers, Man., and a daughter Arlie (Mrs. W. W. Hicks) of Vancouver; also two sisters, Mary (Mrs. J. English) of Chilliwack, B.C. and Miss Annie E. Kerr of Vancouver, and two brothers, Robert of Stettler, Alberta and Joseph of Belmont, Man.

The late Mrs. Armour was a faithful adherent of Queen's Avenue United Church, New Westminster, and a member of the Rebecca Lodge.

The funeral services were conducted by her pastor, Rev. Horton, and interment took place in Forest Lawn Cemetery. The sympathy of her many friends is extended to all friends and relatives in their bereavement.

JOSEPH BARRONS.

One-time resident of Cordova Mines, Joseph Barrons of McMahon, Sask., died at his home on Saturday, after a long illness. He was 43 years old.

Born in Cordova Mines, the son of Mrs. Delilah Barrons and the late Charles L. Barrons, he went west in 1919 and had been a farmer. He was educated at Cordova Mines and Madoc and was a member of the Christian Brethren church.

He leaves to mourn his loss his wife, the former Ruby Maley, and three children, Alva, 7, Audrey, 5, and Mervyn, 2. Surviving also are his mother, who lives in Cordova Mines, and 5 brothers and 3 sisters; Ross, James and Stewart of Cordova Mines, Harry of Campbellford and Murray of Peterborough; Mrs. James Spry (Effie) of Springbrook, Mrs. Joseph Clemenger, (Milda) of Cordova Mines, and Mrs. Garnet Emery (Olive) of Peterborough.

The funeral will be held on Wednesday at McMahon.

Army Engineers Perform Amazing Tasks

By WILLIAM STEWART
Canadian Press War Correspondent

MESSINA, Sicily, Aug. 21 (Delayed) — (CP Cable). — A big share of the credit for the fact that the Sicilian campaign lasted only 38 days is due to army sappers who kept Allied forces moving steadily by repairing German road demolitions that would have appalled highway engineers and tied up peacetime motor traffic for days.

The thoroughness of German delaying methods which were an important part of their defensive tactics, and the masterly countermeasures of British, Canadian and United States engineers, were the most remarkable features of a trip through the northeastern Sicilian mountains to Messina.

There are two main roads leading to the city nearest the Italian mainland from Mount Etna where Canadians, travelling a dirt road built by their sappers, cracked the main Nazi defence ring and started the Axis collapse.

Bridges between the Etna area and Messina remaining untouched are rarities and almost suspicious-looking. Exploded structures which the sappers replaced or destroyed must number well over 100.

Minefields were a constant hazard to the Allied advance, and took their toll.

Along some roads which the sappers cleared, paving the way for movement of vital traffic, there are such signs as: "Area on either side of this road dangerous," or "this road clear for 12 feet on either side."

War On Japan

sions produced very little that they could report or write about. The task of the President and himself and the staffs brought to Quebec he hoped, would be demonstrated in the weeks and months to come.

Mr. Churchill said he was confident the results would justify the concentrated study that had been given the future plans.

It was natural that there should be irritation that more news had not come out, but it was a life and death struggle.

Should Meet Often

People asked why it was necessary for the President and himself to get together in conference so often. As a matter of fact it was remarkable they were able to get along with such infrequent meetings.

President Roosevelt began his comments with revelation of what he smilingly said was a secret—that through the early hours of the morning he, Mr. Churchill and Mr. King had sat—in an apologetic frame of mind toward the Press—endeavoring to work out some phrase that would adequately and tersely describe the Quebec conference.

But they had failed to formulate such a phrase or slogan. The fact was that essential and valuable as conferences were they did not win wars.

That was done by the fighting forces and, in a democracy, the unanimous and willing support of the people at home.

To maintain and encourage that unanimity of support of the people in all walks of life was a service open to the press and one it was well performing.

Since the last conference the Allied Powers had achieved some remarkable success, the President said. He compared the world war situation now with what it was when he and Mr. Churchill met in June, 1942.

What was planned at that conference became effective in November, 1942, when North Africa was invaded. The Casablanca Conference in January of this year was carried into effect in Tunis and Sicily.

The President said that it could be assumed that other things would be developed following the present conference. But they would be successful only through the contribution of all the people of the Allied countries.

No Controversy.

Smiling broadly at the correspondents, the President said he knew the value of controversy and making the front pages, but it was a fact that there had been no controversy between himself and Mr. Churchill at any of their series of six conferences.

That degree of unanimity and harmony, Mr. Roosevelt hoped, would be sustained throughout the war and into the post-war problems of the two countries.

He emphasized the global nature of the war and said it was all one fight—north and south, east and west. The recent self-removal of the Japanese from Kiska Island in the Aleutians was an instance of the wide-flung nature of the conflict.

The President spoke of the satisfaction he felt in the site chosen for the Conference. Not once but a dozen times he and Mr. Churchill had agreed that Quebec was the best conference site they had chosen so far.

He spoke of the wonderful hospitality received from Mr. King and the Canadian people. Mr. Churchill applauded his remarks.

The conference itself nas been a great success, the President said. The joint statement prepared for the press was essentially lacking in detail and had not a cough in a carload, he said.

He emphasized that the conference had been staff meetings of the British and American High Commands and for that reason reference was made in the statement to only the British and American forces.

Thanked Premier King.

But that did not mean for a moment the conferees were forgetting the Canadians who were now fighting side by side with Americans and British.

He closed with warm thanks to Mr. King and all who arranged the conference details for a very busy and very happy time.

Mr. Churchill in his verbal statement to newspapermen said not only were the armies, navies and air forces of the two great countries fighting side by side but they were actually intermingling.

They were working in complete harmony and were ahead of schedule.

He had found the work here very hard, Mr. Churchill said. He and the President had worked very long hours with telegrams piling in and many major and minor decisions to be made.

For that reason he had not been able to meet the people of Canada as he would have liked.

The high pressure under which the staffs were working also prevented them from making the external contacts they would have wished.

The combined conclaves had studied and planned the movements by which the war will be carried on in the future and had reached what he believed were very good conclusions.

Certainly they were unanimous conclusions, said Mr. Churchill.

Also 'retired at his own request' as acting state secretary in the German ministry of interior was Hans Pfundtner, who has been appointed minister without portfolio, D.N.B. said.

Pfundtner has long been a party bigwig—the man selected by Hitler in 1936 to seek frictionless administration of the Olympic games when the war clouds were hanging over Europe.

Besides the internal Nazi issues involved, the shakeup once again switched leadership over the where Reinhard Heydrich was assassinated more than a year ago after his tenure as protector earned him the nickname "Heydrich the hangman."

The appointment of Frick to succeed Von Neudrath as protector of Bohemia-Moravia also ended the duties in tha area of Col. Gen. of Police Kurt Daluege, Himmler's assistant who has been "charged with conducting the affairs of the Reich-protector in an acting capacity," and State Secretary Karl Hermann Frank, who had been temporarily attached to the protectorate, D.N.B. said.

Job Is Finished

Daluege went in as acting protector after Heydrich's death, and Frank also was once said to have temporarily succeeded Heydrich. The former was removed in today's shakeup simply because his mandate had "come to a conclusion." D.N.B. said. Frank was taken out of the area where hundreds died in the Nazi purge after Heydrich's death, by the medium of being raised to the rank of Reich minister.

Also given the rank of Reich minister was Major-General Konstantin Hierl, chief of the Labor Service. The explanation given was that the labor service was being separated from the Minister of Interior and that its administration would "stand under the immediate control of the Fuehrer."

Victory Plans Completed In Quebec Talks

By J. F. SANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

QUEBEC, Aug. 24 — (CP). — President Roosevelt and Prime Minishter Churchill prepared to close the books yesterday on the grim business that brought them to Quebec—planning a ruthless, unremitting attack on Axis positions in Asia and Europe to enforce unconditional surrender.

Their scheduled last act is joint disclosure, in broad and general outline, of the new strategic directives for Allied field commanders around the world; but details of these sealed orders will become known only through developments in battle.

Brendan Bracken, the British Minister of Information, put the Quebec Conference in historical perspective last night when he said that "military decisions of the utmost importance have been taken" and suggested the St. Lawrence River would become [illegible], on a world scale, as a river of "liquid history."

It was one way of suggesting that the Quebec Conference will be known to history as the "Quebec Victory Conference."

Will Be Famous.

"In years to come Quebec is going to be famous for the decisions reached here," said Mr. Bracken.

"To follow up those decisions you will have to get yourselves accredited as war correspondents."

The military plans are based upon the checked and double-checked work of scores of high-ranking Army, Navy and Air Force officers who have been working night and day, between 300 and 400 staff officers, technical aides and a small army of clerks and stenographers.

Although secrecy surrounds the detailed plans, there are certain fixed points or verities of the war that indicate their outline. They are as follows:

1. The "hit Hitler first" cornerstone of the Roosevelt-Churchill policy, set at their first strategic conference in Washington in December, 1941, remains unchanged. The attack against Germany itself will be stepped up until the Nazi keystone of the Axis arch crumbles in defeat. Then will come Japan's turn in the Pacific.

2. The war events of the last few weeks, since the Roosevelt and Churchill conference in Washington in May, call urgently for new and bold strokes, in the hope of shortening appreciably the war in the European theatre. Tottering Italy, the wavering of the satellite nations in the Balkans, the rising tempo of the resistance movement in France — all invite new Allied air and land smashes. The Russian summer offensive cries aloud for a western companion-piece to clamp the pincers of death upon Hitler in Europe.

Girl Guides Enjoy Rice Lake Outing

GORE'S LANDING, Aug. 24 — (ENS)—A hike through the woods was arranged by the Girl Guides of this village when the Oriole and Wren patrols met at the home of Geraldine Waldon.

The trail wound through Herriott's fields and woods, each Guide making notes on trees and weeds. These notes will be filled out later in a notebook and sketches will be added. While going through the woods, a patch of "Indian Pipe" was found. None of the girls had ever seen them before. The two patrons hiked up the valley to the main road and went from there to the old sign post before S.S. No. 16 school. From here, they took the "Scouts Pace" down to Pomeroy's Corners, which marks the mile. "Scouts Pace" is doing a mile in 12 minutes and the Orioles and Wrens completed this in 11 minutes 12 seconds.

While the hike was on, Capt. Delaney and Helen Thackeray had prepared supper at a small shack in Waldon's pasture. With two fires lit, the Guides enjoyed a typical Guide Campfire supper, consisting of corn, weiners, toasted buns, marshmallows and pop. Everyone joined in singing the old campfire songs and the evening ended with cleaning camp.

Guides present were: Capt. Delaney. Orioles, patrol second, Geraldine Waldon; Guides, Selena Gilpin, Viola Harris, Joan Harris; Wrens. Guides, Jeanine Thompson, Helen Thackeray, Laura Eagleson, Margaret Manley.

Several visitors were present including Jane Nicholls (Cobourg), Pat Halstead and Joan Halstead (Noranda, Quebec.)

Police Find Creamery Left Unlocked

COBOURG, Aug. 24. — Harwood Creamery, a co-operative plant, was wide open on Saturday night and Sunday morning in spite of the two recent Orono Creamery and Brighton Public Utilities robberies. It was stated that provincial police had warned all creamery companies in the district to be on the lookout for thieves as the "takes" in the two robberies had been almost $16,000 in bonds and cash, although the bonds were later recovered.

On the chance that the robbers might have selected Harwood Creamery for a week-end robbery, Provincial Constable Adair visitd the place late Saturday night. When he drove up to the creamery he was almost certain that the thieves had been there before him as the main door in front was about six inches open. The constable made his way carefully around to the side on the chance that they might still be inside and when he approached the side door he found it wide open. Convinced that there had been a robbery he searched the premises. There was no lock on the outer refrigerator door and the inside refrigerator door was secured only by a light padlock which anyone could have opened with a bar. A search revealed that the place had not been visited but merely had been left in that condition.

Office in Separate Building.

The office is in a separate building which is easy to enter and the safe is in plain sight from any door or window.

The constable left the outside lights of the building on to frighten off any prospective burglars. The search of the premises took half an hour and during that time nobody came to investigate the lights being on.

In other words it was an ideal set-up for thieves—all that was lacking was a "welcome" sign.

"We are trying to apprehend the gang which has been responsible for these robberies and we find the Harwood Creamery wide open. It would pay creamery owners to put a night man on until the thieves have been rounded up. The least that could be done would have been to lock the place up. There were several trucks in the creamery garage, garage doors unlocked and keys in the ignition switches," stated Provincial Constable Adair.

Nurse Writes About N. Africa

GORE'S LANDING, Aug. 24 — (ENS)—A letter from North Africa was received recently by Mrs. Melvill Harris of Gore's Landing, from her sister, Second Lieut. Norah Hennessey, dated July 16th.

Enlisting in the American Nursing Corp. last February in Florida, Second-Lieut. Hennessey had not mentioned going overseas until this letter was received by Mrs. Harris. She reported an excellent sea voyage enroute to North Africa and was not seasick although others were. The weather in North Africa was very hot during the day but at night cool and two blankets are required. The nurses are living in tents, 5 to a tent. Sec. Lieut. Hennessey said it was interesting to watch the natives passing along with their camels and donkeys.

This American Corps of Nurses only arrived in Africa a day or so before the letter was written and the exact location was not given. All mail is addressed to a base P.O. in New York City. Second-Lieut. Norah Hennessey is well known around Gore's Landing where she has spent her vacations for many years.

NEURITIS Relieved with First Bottle

If you want relief from neuritis quickly, follow Mrs. Crook's example. This is what she says:—

"Last May I had a very severe attack of neuritis in the leg, which made it impossible for me to rest during the day, or to sleep at nights—to say nothing of the intense pain. Various medicines gave me very little relief, and a friend advised me to give Kruschen a trial, as she had derived benefit from it whilst suffering similarly. I am so thankful that I took her advice. From the very first bottle I felt relieved, and now I am quite free from pain, and get a good night's sleep. I feel so grateful for the benefit I have derived."—(Mrs.) H. Crook.

Neuritis, like rheumatic pains, lumbago and sciatica, is usually caused by deposits of needle-pointed, flint-hard, uric acid crystals, which pierce the nerves and cause those stabbing pains. Kruschen helps to break up these deposits and to convert them into a harmless solution, which is promptly removed through the natural channel—the kidneys.

And because Kruschen assists in keeping the inside so regular—so free from fermenting waste matter—body poisons such as uric acid don't get a chance to accumulate again.

Your nearest drug store has Kruschen Salts. 25c and 75c.

LAKEFIELD

Garden Brigade Reviews Work

LAKEFIELD, Aug. 24 (ENS) — Garden Brigade held a meeting in Memorial Hall on Friday afternoon.

The leader, Miss Eva Higgins, assisted by Miss Edna Higgins and Mrs. Alex Nicholls, put on a very interesting demonstration on canning tomatoes by the cold pack method recommended by the Department of Agriculture.

The girls brought in their record books for inspection and an open forum was held on vegetables, the production, proper method of cooking and how to conserve by canning.

During July the leader, Eva Higgins, accompanied Miss Elizabeth Scott, representative of the Women's Institute branch of the Department of Agriculture, on an inspection tour of the girls' gardens. These were found to be in good condition despite the late spring. Among others exceptionally well cared for was the garden of Mrs. Morley Bullock.

Cyclists Are Hurt On Cobourg Street

COBOURG, Aug. 24 — (ENS)—Corporal R. F. Shelldrake of Picton and a lady companion were taken to Cobourg Hospital last night after a minor accident when their motorcycle skidded on the bend at the House of Refuge and went into the ditch. Their injuries were confined to bruises and minor lacerations. The lady was riding on the pillion seat of the motorcycle. Provincial Constable Douglas Wilson of Colborne investigated.

What About The Air Port?

The community as a whole, we believe, would be glad to hear that the City Council had taken further steps to provide the city of Peterborough with an air port. It does not take any special foresight to realize that travel and transport in the air will be one of the big developments in Canada in the post-war years, and that the city which lacks good air connections will soon become a backwater. For passenger service, for transport of materials, and for mail service an air port is a necessity for Peterborough, and the first steps to ensure that we shall have an air port should be taken now.

Let us look dispassionately at the condition and the situation of our city. We are off the beaten track in Ontario, where the lakeshore line still gives advantages to the cities which are built on it. Our railway connections are poor, and only a constant fight keeps our train service as good as it is. And yet Peterborough is the focal point of a large and prosperous area, and we have a collection of industries here which are the backbone of the city. Because we are not in the main stream of traffic we must make a greater effort than most cities to keep in the closest possible touch with the rest of Ontario; we cannot afford to allow a single progressive measure to escape us.

Peterborough's need for an air port will be serious just as soon as the war is over. The time to lay plans is now. Those most intimately concerned with the scheme know of an excellent site. Has the Council taken an option on the site yet? And if they have taken an option, have they had the site surveyed in order to find out what work will be necessary to build a suitable air port? These are things which the city would be interested in. The city would like to know that the air port scheme had not become one of those things which everyone agrees should be done, but which never take a forward step. Interest in the air port is great, and its value is obvious. What is being done about it?

"Security" In Peterborough

Let us hope that when the war is at last finished, Clause 9 of the agreement between the Corporation of the City of Peterborough and Wartime Housing, Limited, will not be adhered to with needless harshness. This is the clause which provides that the wartime houses shall be removed from their present sites within six months after the termination of hostilities, unless the municipality makes some other arrangement.

This is not to be interpreted as a wish that the wartime housing settlements should be left undisturbed. The houses are not built for permanence and no one wants them to degenerate into slums. But we think that their present occupants would be glad of some assurance that they will not be turned out before they have somewhere else to go.

There is a great deal of talk about "security" in Canada at present; during the recent election the air fairly hummed with it. The inhabitants of the wartime houses, we are sure, are just as interested in security as anyone else. They were attracted to Peterborough by war work, and it has been impressed upon them that the jobs they are doing are important to the war effort. We must see to it that they are not treated with ingratitude when the war is over.

Many of them have homes elsewhere to which they will go as soon as their wartime jobs are finished. But there are others who will have to look about for new jobs, which they will perhaps find in Peterborough, and new homes suited to their needs and with rents suitable to their pockets. The people who live in wartime houses have shown themselves good temporary citizens of Peterborough. Their communities are clean and contented; they do not crowd the police court or cause trouble for city officials. We do not think that their peace of mind will be increased by the knowledge that Peterborough is already discussing means for getting rid of them as soon as the war is over.

The wartime housing settlements cannot remain, for they have not been built for permanence. But many of the people who live in them may remain here, making this city their home. Let us give them a fair deal, and an assurance that they will not be plunged into a homeless condition at the earliest possible moment after the war.

A Matter Of State Etiquette

Writing more in sorrow than in anger, the Emily Posts of two or three Canadian newspapers have rebuked Mackenzie King for what they regard as a gross breach of state etiquette: when he gave an official dinner for the notables at the Quebec Conference he did not ask Mr. John Bracken to be present! This, in the opinion of the scandalized journals, is but one more evidence of Mr. King's black-hearted fiendishness and general turpitude. Obviously, the newsroom Chesterfields exclaim, Mr. King has not taken note of the fact that his party is losing its hold on the Canadian people, or he would not have presumed to omit from the list of honoured guests the man who is expected to be his successor.

Although not accustomed to giving state dinner parties we do not see the sense in this line of argument. We cannot recollect that when Mr. Roosevelt entertained Mr. Churchill at the White House he asked Wendell Willkie to join them. Just why Mr. Bracken should be invited to such an affair any more than a score or so other Canadian citizens of prominence is beyond our understanding. To call Mr. Bracken the Leader of the Opposition is surely stretching a point. Mr. Bracken has no seat in the House of Commons, and we have never heard that a man in that position was officially recognized as a Leader. If Mr. Bracken should have been asked because he is leader of a political party, so also should Tim Buck. The slight, if there was any slight, was to Mr. Coldwell, who is in the House, and whose party seems to be doing remarkably well.

But we do not believe that there was any slight. Mr. King is an old hand at entertaining, and he knows better than to leave anyone off the list of guests who has a valid claim to be present. So long as Mr. Bracken chooses to do his work behind the scenes, he must not be offended if he is not asked to join in the curtain calls.

Wealth In Russia

We commented some weeks ago on the fact that Premier Stalin had expressed public thanks to a farmer in the Kirghiz district who had contributed more than a million rubles to the Red Army Fund. The Communist doctrine of equal income for everybody was abandoned in Russia very early in the course of her revolutionary experiment, as it was found unsatisfactory. Still, a system which allows the head of a collective farm to acquire a surplus of a million rubles seems unlike Communism as we have been told about it.

The London Economist has commented on this incident, and suggests that the farmer's money might have been what it calls "illusory wealth". That is to say, he had a million rubles, but as there was nothing that he could buy with it which would raise him above his neighbours he had but little advantage over them. There has been, however, what the London paper calls a "re-emergence of high-income groups among the collectivized peasantry".

Wages in Russia present striking contrasts. In a metal factory, for instance, about 12 per cent. of the workers earn four times as much as the others, whereas Stakhanovites may earn 12 times as much. Is there any industry in Canada in which one group of manual workers can earn a wage twelve times greater than that of another group of manual workers in the same plant? (A Stakhanovite, it may be explained, is a highly productive worker, often paid by the volume of work which he completes, or on a piecework scale).

Illusory or not, however, the Red Army Fund seemed glad to accept the million rubles, and Stalin thanked the farmer for his contribution. That seems to us to prove that the money had value in some senses, if not in all, and such a situation in a Communist state is deeply interesting.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The Political Situation

(THE WINNIPEG FREE PRESS)

FOR three years now the bell-ringers of the Conservative party, both in parliament and in the journals which speak for that party, have been asiduously engaged in the manufacturing of a myth. That myth is that the Canadian government of Prime Minister King has been characterized by weakness, vacillation and downright cowardice in the prosecution of the war. The foundation upon which this myth was built was the refusal of the government to put conscription into force for overseas service. To the myth-makers, nothing mattered in Canada but conscription for overseas service and the charges of cowardice and appeasement were rung ad nauseum and without change.

In their myth-making, the critics made full use of the Nazi technique of the big lie. They reasoned that if the charge was made often and loud enough the public would believe it. Yet somehow the myth failed to take hold of the Canadian people and it has been exploded forever by the recent election results in Canada. In the provincial elections in Ontario, in the federal by-elections, in the provincial by-election in The Pas, the people came out to register their disapproval of the policies of the Dominion government, not because they were characterized by weakness, vacillation and cowardice but for very different reasons indeed. The Liberal government has paid for the imposition of policies which put country ahead of party by suffering sundry by-election defeats.

THE truth about the policies adopted by the Canadian government is just the exact opposite of the myth of the Conservative party. Never before has a Canadian government acted with such courage, such resourcefulness, and with such a complete disregard of the welfare of the political fortunes of the party. If Mr. King's leadership had been weak and cowardly, the Liberal party might have won these by-elections, but at the price of following lines of least resistance, of subordinating its own judgment, based upon inside knowledge, to the uninformed desires of the multitude. The weak course, the course of least resistance, would have been the exact opposite to the course the government has pursued. Instead of putting a ceiling on prices and wages, it could have allowed both to run uncontrolled. Instead of trying to stabilize our economy and prevent the chaos which is inevitable in inflation, it could have helped inflation along. This would have resulted in a fabulous but phony prosperity for agriculture. Coarse grains could have gone to $1 or more per bushel. Butter and egg prices could have doubled and redoubled. Meat prices could have done the same. The income of the farmers could have been tripled and quadrupled.

In the cities the government could have encouraged the workers to go after higher and higher wages. It could have set minimum wage rates of $1 an hour for everybody. It could have set the minimum for war workers at $2 an hour. Instead of imposing the heaviest burden of taxes in Canadian history, it could have imposed no taxes at all. It could have tried to get the money to operate the war economy by resort to vast borowings and the unlimited use of the printing presses.

SUCH a programme would have led inevitably to the disruption of the country's economy and the ruin of every individual in it. More than this it would have cut down the size of the possible war effort by a half. At the time of Dunkirk, when the world's fate hung in the balance, Canada, instead of being an ever-stronger ally of Great Britain, as well as its only one in the northern hemisphere, could have taken the easy way. She could have set our sights low instead of high, and imposed nothing that would trouble or inconvenience her citizens.

A weak and cowardly political party in power would have put the apparent short-term interests of the party first. It would have imposed none of the controls which people find so onerous. It would have tried to give all the competing pressure groups everything they desired and more. In doing so it would have assured itself of success at these elections; but it would have ruined the country.

But because the government has put the country's welfare above its own political future it has been forced to take the most drastic measures, some of which are unequalled anywhere else but in Russia. It has set out deliberately to do two things: To help win the war by throwing Canada's entire productive capacity into the struggle; and to so organize the economy that there will be no post-war deflation such as all but ruined Germany, Russia and Italy after the last war, and did great injury to Canada.

This supposedly weak and cowardly government has known from the beginning that every measure it imposed in the national interest would cost it support at the polls. It knew that agriculture would resent the price ceilings, that labour, organized and unorganized alike, would resent the wage ceilings. Perhaps it put too much faith in the reasonableness of men. Perhaps it felt that the Canadian people would weigh one against the other, would understand that these were measures required by a total war for survival. But in the nature of Canadian political reality it must have known that these were doubtful hopes.

WHILE the Liberal government was taking heroic measures in the interest of the Canadian nation, its opponents went quietly, and often not so quietly, about the task of building their political fences. The C.C.F. and the Conservatives, the former with more success than the latter, went out to harvest the discontent of the electorate and, where there was no discontent, to stir it up. The success which has attended these efforts cannot be denied. By telling the farmers that they have been outraged by the price ceilings, and the workers that they have been outraged by the wage ceilings, the C.C.F. has gained great electoral prestige for the time at least.

Then, too, the government has made mistakes, some of them serious. But these errors, almost without exception, spring from the very magnitude of Canada's war effort. To carry through a programme of such magnitude without error would be a job for infallible gods, not fallible and very human men. In putting Canada first and itself second, the Liberal party has placed its political life in jeopardy. In this it has not only shown laudable patriotism, it has shown high courage as well.

"VALLEY OF INDECISION"

The Shining Avenues of Venice

I WISH I could convey to you something of the joy that one gets out of merely being alive in Venice—that swift delight so different from the gracious leisure of Rome. As I write these lines I can look out over the narrow slope of an intervening roof and watch the May sunlight shatter into silver dust upon the riffled surface of the Grand Canal. Tonight I shall lean there with my elbows on the window-sill and watch the dusk settle like a great gray bird over the city—in the west a dull sky streaked with flame—white gondolas, those silent and mysterious dolphins of Venetian waters, come and go darkly, with a soft splash of oars.

Yesterday I did the most ordinary of things. I walked from the railway station to San Marco's, had tea at Florian's, and came home in a gondola. It is a thing that all tourists have done, a thing that I myself have done many times in the last fortnight, and shall, I hope, do many times again before I say good-by, once more, to this enchanting city. And yet, here in Venice, even this little promenade took on, somehow, the gay quality of an adventure. For could I not wander along narrow streets, bright with all the colour of the early Venetian summer, without having to fear that a wheel was about to descend upon me? Could I not stop, if I chose, in San Giovanni Crisostomo, and look again at that superb Bellini? And could I not, as I did, climb up the steps of some little high-arched marble bridge, glance down between dark walls to the polished mirror of the Grand Canal (striped mooring-poles and the steps of a great palace rising sheer out of the sea; a gondola stealing by with the light grace of a seabird) and hear no sound except the soft slur of Venetian voices? Or pause at the Rialto—there are still shops here, and gay silks and the warm, ripe smell of fruit; it is not difficult to imagine Bassanio saying to his friend:

How exquisite is Venice! High noon at St. Mark's, and the Piazzetta is black with people. The campanile is a clean young finger against the fresh sky, and St. Mark's under the sunshine is tawny and incandescent with mosaic and gold. From up in the square you can hear the cry of the corn vendors—"Grani, grani, grani pei piccioni,"—and the Ducal Palace seems such a thing as a genii might have built out of a bottle of smoke. And suddenly the cannon goes off. Ten thousand pigeons rise out of the Piazza as they have risen each noon for five hundred years; circle, casting a dark shadow over the Riva, and come cooingly to rest. And all Venice goes home for her polenta and it is another day.

Or twilight on the Riva degli Schiavoni. The sun is a Bacchante tonight, sinking to rest in a sky the colour of wine, and the Bridge of Sighs is a gray smudge against the darkness of the rio. Soon night will draw a black curtain across the Canale di San Marco, the Lido will be nothing but a far rim of blinking lights low down against the sea, and the reflections of the stars like small rents in the tapestried tranquillity of the great lagoon. And then, somewhere out of the darkness, the clear high voice of a gondolier, singing, perhaps, Il Trovatore....

By the side of the Grand Canal, all the other great streets of the world seem completely prosaic and completely ordinary. Like the stem of an immense water-lily, this shining avenue winds its way through Venice, taking root in the commercial district near the railway station, curving for two long miles under bridges and between exquisite old palaces of discoloured marble, flowering, at length, into the still spaciousness of the great lagoon. Scarcely a building in these two miles that is not either an historical landmark or an architectural chef-d'oeuvre. Half of the great builders of the North (Bon, Sansovino, Sammicheli, Lombardo, Longhena, etc.) devoted their genius to the beautification of this single street. Half, it would seem, of the great creative artists of the last century — Byron, Shelley, Browning, Wagner among them—have, at one time or another, come here to live in these palazzi and feast their souls on the unending beauty, the unending poetry of Venice. — From "Come With Me Through Italy," by Frank Schoonmaker. New York; McBride.)

Men With Scythes

ON any well-regulated farm—and regularity is the outstanding characteristic of any well-managed farm—the approach of the longest day means that the crops of hay become the main consideration. The goodness of the grass, produced by growth, will by then be at its height; after the turn of days the crops will decline in quality.

The horse mower had appeared when I was a boy, but the scythe was still used for cutting many fields. To mow with a scythe meant harder labour than any man would willingly undertake today, yet the men of that time did not give them up without protest. They declared (and they were right) that cutting by scythe was cleaner, and that the after-growth was quicker; also, that where the crop lay almost flat the knives of the machine missed the lower half, which remained uncut. On the other hand, it was evident htat the machine left the crop more evenly and lightly spread over the field, whereas the scythe swept it into swathes which required shaking out afterwards. The horse mower had its own beauty of rhythm and grace of action, yet sentiment inclines to mowing by scythe as being more interesting and picturesque. Can any act of human labour excel the beauty of poise and sweep when a scythe is being swayed by a practiced hand?

The men with scythes led the way in the old English hayfield. They worked in formation, one following the other, each cleaving a lane through the sea of waving grass and leaving it behind in a long billowy swathe. Their actions were precisely alike: an easy sweep from right to left, a graceful poise and movement of the whole body, the limbs in responsive unison of action. No doubt they had a pride of their skill, but it would have surprised them to be called perfect artists of their craft.

Those swathes were taken in hand by women wearing granny bonnets tied under the chin, who followed with forks and tossed the new-mown grass in the air, making it separate in the air and fall lightly, well distributed over the ground. Their aim was to bring it all into contact with the sun and air and to leave no space of ground uncovered. This was called tedding.

That light carpet of mown grass was then allowed to lie in the sun until the top layer had dried, when over the field stole a subtle fragrance denoting that it was changing to hay. Only by the sun's warm rays could its perfection of sweetness be attained....

To ride on a load of hay from the field to the farm was then a proper theme for verse and song. It is doubtful if the luxury can be equalled; that laying oneself flat on its warm responsive bed to breathe its sweetness in.... The consciousness was of being borne altogether above matters of earth; neither horse nor wagon could be seen; they were below, hidden by the flat bulk of hay.—From "Good Neighbours: Some Recollections of an English Village and Its People, Written down by Walter Rose." Cambridge University Press, England.) By permission to the Macmillan Company, publishers, U.S.A.

A Change

The Gallup Poll reveals that while most people voted in the recent Provincial election because they favoured the program of the party of their choice, many voted on the principle of "Anything for a change." This, of course, is an evidence of stupdity and affords strong support for the argument of those who say the right to vote should be based on an intelligence test. As The Financial Post, Toronto, affirms: "'Anything for a change' is the most sinister political motive that could be injected into a democracy. 'Anything for a change' brought Hitler to power in Germany, 'Anything for a change' brought Mussolini to power in Italy. 'Anything for a change' is the direct opposite of the eternal vigilance that is still the price of liberty."—Brantford Expositor.

A Bible Message

O sing unto the Lord a new song: sing unto the Lord, all the earth....Declare his glory among the heathen, his wonders among all people....Give unto the Lord the glory due unto his name: bring an offering, and come into his courts.

O worship the Lord in the beauty of holiness: fear before him, all the earth. Say among the heathen that the Lord regineth: the world also shall be established that it shall not be moved: he shall judge the people righteously. (Ps. 96: 1, 3, 8-10.)

◇ ◇ ◇

And after these things I heard a great voice of much people in heaven, saying, Alleluia; Salvation, and glory, and honor, and power, unto the Lord our God: for true and righteous are his judgments....

And I heard as it were the voice of a great multitude, and as the voice of many waters, and as the voice of mighty thunderings, saying, Alleluia: for the Lord God omnipotent reigneth. (Rev. 19; 1, 2, 6.)

Unconsidered Trifles

"Have you caught the burglar yet?"

"No," replied the village constable, confidentially, "but I've got him so scared that he doesn't dare show himself when I'm about."

"What, fish again?" growled Peck. "We're always having fish."

"Well, John," said the wife, "it's good for you. It feeds the brain."

"Bosh! Why should you think my brain needs so much feeding?"

"Well, didn't your mother give you fish before you got married?"

"No," he hissed. "I wish she had."

Out for a drive in her pony-cart, an elderly lady managed to get involved in some army manoeuvres. As she aproached a bridge a sentry stopped her.

"Sorry, madam," he said, "you can't cross this bridge. It's just been destroyed."

The old lady peered at it through her spectacles.

"It looks all right to me," she murmured. Then, as another soldier came along, she asked: "Excuse me, but can you tell me what's wrong with this bridge?"

The soldier shook his head.

"Don't ask me, lady," he replied; "I've been dead two days."

Blewett-Fitzgerald Vows

SELWYN, Aug. 24 (ENS) — Selwyn United church, prettily decorated with summer flowers, was the setting for a beautiful wedding on Saturday, August 21, when Isabelle Agnes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Fitzgerald, of Selwyn, became the bride of Cpl. Neil Allin Blewett, R.C.A.F., younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Evans Blewett, also of Selwyn. Rev. H. H. Mutton officiated at the ceremony.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father to the strains of the "Bridal Chorus" from Lohengrin, played by her cousin, Mrs. Clayton Fitzgerald, who also rendered appropriate music before the ceremony.

She was radiant in her floor length bridal gown of white net and lace over taffeta, with sweetheart neck line, long sleeves of the net coming to a point at the wrist. Her finger-tip veil fell from a white net halo-shaped head dress, caught with orange blossoms. Her only ornament was a three-strand pearl necklace, and she carried a shower bouquet of Bettertime roses. Miss Roleen Fitzgerald attended her sister as maid of honor while Miss Viva Harris was her bridesmaid. They were dressed respectively in floor length gowns of mauve and yellow net over taffeta, matching shoulder length veils caught at the side with flowers, and bouquets of Briarcliffe roses. Donna Marie Blewett, niece of the groom, was the charming flower girl, daintily frocked in a floor-length dress of green taffeta with yellow trimming and carrying a nosegay of roses.

The best man was Eldon Montgomery, cousin of the groom, and the ushers were Clayton Fitzgerald and John Shearer. During the signing of the register, Miss Phyllis Rome of Peterborough sang "Because."

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents for about fifty guests. The house was attractively decorated for the occasion with pink and white streamers, extending from a large white bell, and tall standards of gladioli, phlox and other summer flowers. The dining-room table, covered with a lace cloth, held the three-tiered wedding cake, flanked on either side with tall candles in silver holders.

Mrs. Fitzgerald received her guests in a two-piece dress of rose crepe with navy hat and corsage of roses. Mrs. Blewett, mother of the groom, who also received, was frocked in a blue crepe dress, black felt hat, black accessories and corsages of roses.

A buffet luncheon was served by three friends of the bride, Misses Leona Harris, Barbara Pearson and Marie King, all of Peterborough. The toast to the bride was proposed by Rev. H. H. Mutton.

When the couple left for a motor trip to Muskoka the bride was wearing a two-piece navy crepe dress, with white trimming and navy accessories.

The bride's gifts to the maid of honor and bridesmaid were dainty china pins, to the flower girl, a silver bracelet, and to the organist and soloist, an English china cup and saucer. The groom's gift to the best man and the ushers were initialled, gold-plated pocket knives.

and brother-in-law of the bride, in Smith, where the bride's mother received in a frock of navy sheer, assisted by the groom's mother who also wore navy. Both wore corsages of roses. The bride and groom left on a short wedding trip, after which they will live in Kingston, where both are stationed.

Lily Lake W.A. Plans Bazaar

Mrs. Harry Fowler was hostess for the August meeting of the Lily Lake W.A. assisted by Mrs. Arthur Hancock. The president Mrs. Clarence Hancock presided and opened the meeting with a hymn. Responsive reading from the Hymn Book on brotherly love replaced the regular prayer. Sixteen members and two visitors were in attendance and the roll call was answered with each member's maiden name, place of birth, when married and where. Next month to be an article for the bazaar valued at one dollar. A letter was received from the Grenfell Mission acknowledging receipt of a five dollar donation. The business period was taken up with discussings plans for a bazaar and sale in September.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. James Hatherly. The meeting closed with the singing of a hymn and Benediction. During the social hour following the hostess served a delicious lunch in keeping with war-time regulations.

Kirkwall Couple 72 Years Married

GALT, Aug. 24 (CP) — Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Riddle of nearby Kirkwall, believed to be Canada's longest married couple, today celebrated their 72nd wedding anniversary.

Among congratulatory messages was a cablegram from the King and Queen and a message from Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Riddle are 95 years old and were born at Kirkwall. Their parents settled there in 1832, coming from Scotland, and the couple live on the old Riddle homestead. They have five daughters.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday, August 25

A rather critical state of affairs is read from this day's astral configurations. There may be excitement and emotional reactions detrimental to the successful launching and progress of important projects. Also there might be a sinister undercurrent, with suspicion and treachery to be sidestepped. Be careful with all papers nad documents, affixing the signature with special precaution. Granting this, there should arise very encouraging openings for advancement, progress and productive work of high order.

Those whose birthday it is have much to gain by definite programs of vigilance, foresight and clear thinking. While promotion, favors and major operations are in order, with skill, aggresive measures, and sagacity, there should be a successful putting over of worthwhile projects. A substrata of deception, treachery and fraud may need vigilance. Also there may be a menace from emotional upsets or other temperamental behavior.

A child born on this day may have much skill and varied abilities, with force and character, but may find it difficult to put brakes on its emotions and impulses.

NERVOUS WOMAN WITH GROUCHY HUSBAND SHOULD TAKE A TRIP

Separation Should Benefit Both; Youths Are Advised to Delay Marriage Until of Age.

◆ ◆ ◆

DEAR MISS DIX—We are a married couple around fifty. Have been married thirty years. No children. I have worked by his side and earned good wages for twenty-three years. Our trouble is that he has a terrible temper and we quarrel most of the time. If I don't see things as he does, he goes into an awful rage. Now I have come to the time when I can't take it any more, especially when I come home from a hard day's work. I have gotten into such a nervous state that I cry, and the harder I cry, the madder he gets.

It seems to me that he could not say the things he does to me if he loved me. I have offered to give him a divorce but that makes him madder still. I have begged and pleaded with him just to try not to give me a cross word for one month and see if I couldn't get over some of this nervousness. It seems that there is nothing more in life for me but to kill myself. So far I haven't had the courage to do it.

A NERVOUS BROKEN-HEARTED WIFE.

Change of Scene Cure For Nervousness

ANSWER—Poor soul, you certainly are to be pitied, but don't think that suicide is the only way out of your troubles. There is a pleasanter way than that. It is separation. Instead of buying a revolver or a dose of poison put the money in a railroad ticket and go to some place where you will find peace and quiet, where there will be new scenes to interest you, and where you will meet agreeable people and find amusing things to do.

And go at once. You are on the verge of a nervous breakdown. Go before a total collapse occurs. For one in your condition there is no remedy so efficacious as change of scene and getting away from your troubles. Often we need distance to get a true perspective on our burdens. When we are too close to them they seem so big and heavy that we feel that they will crush us, but when we get away from them even for a few weeks and our nerves unkink, and we get to sleeping better and eating better, we see them as insignificant little things about which we should not have worried.

After having worked for more than twenty-three years you must have saved up some money. Use it, even if it takes your last cent, or taking this trip I urge upon you. You will find it is the best investment you ever made because it will restore you to health and sanity and give you the ability to carry on for twenty-three years more.

And the separation will do your husband just as much good as it will you. Probably his nerves are just as much fretted to fiddle strings as yours are, and he takes out his strain in abusing you, just as you take out yours in crying. When you are no longer around to act as his stooge, he will have to control his temper, because strangers will not stand for his insults. And that will be good for him, too.

POLICE CALLED AS ANGRY CROWD PROTESTS WRESTLING DECISION

Cubs Awarded Game By Umpire

Cubs of East City last night were given the fourth game of the semi-final series with the K. of C. at the Armour Hill bowl. Umpire-in-chief Nagel Phelan forced the K. of C to forfeit the game because they tried to stall for darkness in the first half of the fifth inning.

Going into the fifth frame the winners were trailing behind by a score of 7 to 3. Putting on a drive they evened the count and when they pulled out in front the Knights began to delay because darkness was rapidly arriving. A close game for all the frames, it was 12-7 for the Cubs when Phelan made his decision.

Heffernan on the mound for the victors was slugged for six, walked one and fanned one. Collins who did the chores for the vanquished squad in the same spot was nicked for 18 solid hits, struck out three and gave no free tickets.

In the hitting division Ray Garvey led him teammates with four for four, a pair of singles and a like amount of doubles. Frank McCormick was right behind him with three for four, a pair of singles and a deuce. Getting two for four, Frank O'Toole was next with a double and a triple.

E. Wolfe was heaviest for the K. of C. copping a single and a triple for three. E. Johnston was next with a triple for three trips to the batters workshop.

Standing in the semi-final playoffs between the Cubs and of the K. of C. are two wins for the Cubs and one for the Knights with each having a tie. The fifth game will be Wednesday night at 6:30. If Cubs take it they will meet the league winners, St. Peter's, but if the K. of C. copp it another game will follow. Good ball is being dished up in this series and tomorrow night's game promises to be no exception.

Noted among other achievements as the man who worked 23 years to bring a Dominion hockey championship to his home town, Portage La Prairie, Man., W. R. (Toby) Sexsmith, former president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, and a member of the Manitoba Legislature, died yesterday after a brief illness in his 59th year, the funeral service to be conducted Thursday at Portage La Prairie.

Mr. Sexsmith brought about the construction of the Portage arena in 1919 and started a team-building crusade with the avowed intention of winning an ice title, but it was not until almost a quarter of a century later that Portage La Prairie defeated Oshawa Generals in Winnipeg for the Memorial Cup. He had been president of the Portage La Prairie Rink Company since its start and rose to the presidency of the Manitoba Amateur Hockey Association.

The former hockey executive was born at Napanee, Ont., but had lived in the west for practically his whole life, going to Manitoba with his parents in 1885.

Henry Armstrong, once holder of three titles simultaneously, is fighting the 27th scrap of his comeback campaign Friday night at Madison Square Garden when he takes on Ray Robinson at 10 rounds. Armstrong has grossed a reported $500,000 and says he will retire at the end of the year, regardless of purses or prospects.

Noted Athlete.

The appointment of Lord Burghley as Governor of Bermuda was annodnced last night after engaging as an inspector of aircraft production. Lord Burghley, known as an athlete, won the 400-metre hurdles at the Amsterdam Olympiad and the British Empire hurdles title at Hamilton in 1930.

Mel Ott, manager of the New York Giants, is tempoarily in retirement because of an attack of influenza. In his absence, the two coaches, Clarence Jonnard and Adolfo Luque, are in charge of the team on the field.

Pulled Mount

The Jockey Club, New York, and the New York State Racing Commission filed evidence yesterday before the Supreme Court at New York which alleged that Jockey Robert Merritt pulled his mount, Peep Show, in two races at Empire City track last year. This was in reply to Merritt's complaint to the court he had been refused a riding license without reason.

The New Jersey Racing Association yesterday turned down the application of the Trenton Jockey Club for a license to operate a 43-day fall meeting at the State Fair grounds near Trenton. The commision ruled the track was unsuitable.

Moyer Out

Ingersoll Combines, defeated 5-4 Saturday by Waterloo Tigers in the first of the Intercounty intermediate "A" playoffs, have entered a protest on the ground Johnny Moyer was not eligible. They claim he had previously signed with the London Army club after a stay on the Pacific Coast.

Chicago Cubs of the National League collected no less than 25 hits, including three home runs, in the seven innings of an exhibition game with the Camp Shanks team of Orangeburg, N.Y., yesterday, the score being 17 to 1. Paul Erickson held the Soldiers to four safeties and slammed one of the Cubs' homers.

By FRED D. CRAIG

With the long-drawn-out argument between the 4th Battery and the Training Centre finally decided last night when the Gunners won 10 to 4 and took the semi-final round the stage is now all set for the final series for the championship. Genelecs who won their semi-final bracket in three straight games have been waiting for a week for the other finalist to be determined and they will get their chance tonight. Manager Ted Johnston team have not lost a league game in their last eleven starts, winning ten and getting a draw in the other fixture and they are determined to maintain that winning streak right through the finals. The Genelecs are in good shape with Ronnie Akers, Terry Woods and Bill Moorhead all fit and ready for pitching duty and the rest of the lineup raring to go as the final test looms up. Tonight's game will get under way at 6.30 o'clock and should draw a big crowd for the series between the Genelecs and Gunners should prove just about as interesting as the round between the Battery and Training Centre that just wound up last night.

* * * * * *

Manager Ted Johnston has not announced his pitching selection for tonight but the fans expect he will lead off with Akers. As for the Battery it is almost certain that Bob Crowe will get the assignment. The youngster earned the honor by coming up with a finely pitched game against Soldiers in the battle that tied up the series and Manager Dormer will undoubtedly call upon him tonight. Both teams promise to be at full strength for the opening engagement of the final round. Genelecs, it will be recalled have beaten the Battery three times this season without a comeback from the Gunners but the latter argue that the old law of averages will be working for them now and that the C.G.E. team are about due for a trimming or two. That of course may be wistful thinking but in any case tonight's tilt should help to settle the arguments. It promises to be a neat tussle and should attract a big crowd.

* * * * * *

Girls Battle Tonight

Postponed until tonight because of the general interest in the outcome of 4th Battery-Training Centre game last night, the battle between Aircraft and Westclox which may settle the senior championship in the girls' loop for this season will be staged at the Bowl, and promises to be a red hot affair. Aircraft have to win to sew up the round and force a seventh game while the Big Bens are anxious to get the argument settled as soon as possible and will go all out to win this one and decide the series. Every game between these two clubs this season has been an interesting battle and now that the final round is getting close to the end the excitement is greater than ever. Both the Westclockers and the C.G.E. girls have a big following and their supporters will be out in droves to see what might be the last league meeting of the season between the two clubs or on the other hand might not be. It all depends upon how they perform in this all-important clash. It looks like Norma Strickland to do the mound duty for Aircraft and Westclox will respond with either Isobel Bullock or Marg Watson.

* * * * * *

In winning the semi-final round from the Soldiers the 4th Battery certainly did it the hard way. Opening the series with a tie, the Gunners dropped the next two games and were back against the ropes. However they found their lost hitting power just when they needed it the most and clubbed their way into the finals by taking three in a row from the good Training Centre club. In winning those three contests the Gunners beat each of the three Soldier pitchers and ran up a score of 26 runs, almost nine a game, enough to grab off any ordinary argument. The consistent hitting of Eddie Starr and the fact that Les Burton and Jim Ellis found their batting eye when the pressure was on while the two youngsters Bill Jones and Bob Crowe came through regularly with timely blows were big factors in the final result, along with effective pitching by Dave Wilson and Bob Crowe. The Soldiers put up a grim battle after playing good ball all season and they did not go down to defeat until the series had gone two games over the alloted five. It was a nice round to win and a tough one to lose. It is the irony of fate that if Joe Stewart had not made a beautiful throw home in the last inning of the first game to cut of a run at the plate the Soldiers would have taken the round in three straight games. The series was just that close.

A Wild Night

When Referee Bert Maxwell lost sight last night of the fact that killer and yielding the first fall to the Palermo battler. They were pull-Jack Clayborne by lowering his shoulders to the mat and awarded the fall to the Panther he started a near-riot. It was the wildest night of the Tunney regime and half an hour after the bout ended police had to chase a crowd away from in front of the arena where they had congregated, threatening to massacre Maxwell when he made his first appearance. The fans were all for the colored grappler who had captured the second fall sensationally after falling a victim to the Katan chin lock killer and yieliding the first fall to the Palermo battler. They were pulling for a Clayborne win and when Maxwell awarded the deciding fall to Katan the crowd saw red. So did Clayborne who stormed around like a wild man. He protested that the fall should not have been allowed and he had the backing of the paid customers all over the place. The decision stood despite the uproar. However, the demonstration probably served to give Clayborne another chance at the rowdy Katan. After that manifestation of popular disapproval Promoter Tunney can scarcely refuse to re-match the two battlers and give the fast and clever Gentleman Jack another opportunity to prove that he is a logical contender for the British Empire championship. It would be a sensational battle with nothing barred for both men are in an ugly mood, Clayborne because he thinks he was robbed and Katan because the mob's hostility got his goat.

* * * * * *

Nothing is much surer in sport than a Yanks-Cards world series next fall. The two leaders are rolling right along and there are no signs of any real challenge from anybody in the pack in either league. The Cards racked up their thirteenth straight win yesterday by slapping down the Boston Braves 14 to 5 with a 19-hit barrage while the Yanks hadn't much trouble in beating the Detroit Tigers 4 to 1. Meanwhile the Philadelphia Athletics continue to point to a new all-time low by absorbing two lickings at the hands of the Chicago White Sox yesterday, running their losing streak to nineteen straight games. They are only one loss away from the record of 20 losses in a row, set by the Boston Red Sox in 1906 and equalled by the A's themselves ten years later. Johnny Niggeling made his first start as a Senator against his old club the Brownies and lost a tough game 2 to 1, although he pitched a six-hitter.

* * * * * *

Sporting Chili Con Carne: The City League authorities were lucky in getting last night's game out of the way....It opened amid a rumble of thunder, was interrupted for five minutes by a sudden shower and was just nicely over when rain began to fall briskly again....Battery won the series because they had the zip when it was needed....When Eddie Starr fanned the last time up last night it was the first occasion the Battery catcher had whiffed in two seasons. At that the league-leading hitter had two blows which means that he has hit safely in every game he has played this season....Three of the seven hits made by the Soldiers against Dave Wilson were scratchy....Dalton got one when Vitarelli slipped after fielding his bunt....Bob Crowe's one handed pickup back of first of a roller that had shot past Jim Ellis was a fielding feature. The young second-sacker raced the batter to the bag after grabbing the ball....The Battery might easily have had three homers as one. Ellis and Kingdon's long drives were good for the circuit but the former was too lame to run his out and Kingdon fell at first and had to pull up at third.

Fans Threaten Referee After Verdict

An unpopular decision by Referee Bert Maxwell that resulted in Palermo John Katan getting the second and decisive fall over the Colored Comet, Jack Clayborne in the feature bout of Frank Tunney's weekly wrestling show at the Brock Street Arena last night almost precipitated a riot. As a matter of fact police had to be called eventually to clear a mob of fans away from in front of the arena and several windows were broken.

The trouble blew up when the unpopular Katan, holding on the ropes with one hand managed to switch a scissors hold the Comet had snapped on him into a leg hold that pinned Gentleman Jack's shoulders to the mat. They were even at that stage with one fall each and when Maxwell raised Katan's arms as the winner there was a wild scene. Fans rushed from their seats and howling madly, surrounder the ring while a score of the younger patrons swarmed through the ropes and jostled Maxwell. Clayborne, protesting vehemently was dancing in anger and for a moment or two it looked like trouble but police and some of the other wrestlers came to the rescue and cleared the ring.

Claborne, escorted out of the arena by a mob of cheering fans, caused more excitement by suddenly dashing back again and taking up his position in his own corner. Believing that Referee Maxwell had changed his decision the crowd returned to their seats ready for the resumption of the bout. However Katan failed to return and Clayborne ran for the dressing-room again while the crowd roared for the bout to go on. Eventually however Clayborne came back to the ring and through Announcer Fred Scates stated that he was accepting the decision but demanding another bout with Katan.

Lively Tussle

It was a lively mill. Katan, featuring his head and chin locks and getting in all kinds of sly punches early aroused the ire of the crowd and they cheered wildly when the Comet handed the Palermo Panther some of his own medicine. The colored grappler, a finely built athlete with plenty of speed and courage was a favorite from the start and while he took a lot from the unorthodox Katan he was not always on the catching end and he gave the Panther a lot of tough moments before the ultimate winner took the first fall after 22 exciting minutes by slapping his unconscious chin lock on Clayborne. The latter broke several of them but finally Katan got the hold on to his satisfaction and had no trouble in taking the fall.

After the rest Katan came back with some of the same tactics and he had Clayborne in trouble until the Comet suddenly reversed the forutnes of war by a surprise move. He had been driven back into the corner where Referee Maxwell forced Katan to let go his hold. The official was waving the Panther back to his corner when suddenly the colored grappled vaulted right over the official, landed on Katan and he went down like a nine pin with Clayborne dropping on him for the fall while the crowd went wild.

Honors were about even in the final moments of the bout until Katan used the ropes to get the second fall afer 8 minutes and win the match.

The other two bouts were high-class. Glendale Freddy Steele, the California grappler, who met Pat Flanagan in the semi-final bout, eventually succumbed to the Toronto boy's celebrated mule kick but not before he and Flanagan had cut loose with thirteen minutes of fast and clever wrestling. Steele, a nephew of the famous Ray Steele, is speedy and he provided Flanagan with plenty of opposition, kicking him out through the ropes on one occasion and giving him lots of trouble with a series of scissor holds. Flanagan however finally softened him up with three or four body slams and then the mule kick deftly applied sent him to the cleaners. He fell to the mat, dazed and Flanagan had only to drop on him for the fall.

Johnny Gyroffy, a newcomer, had too much science and moxey for the Little Golden Geek, George Tofalos: Built like Toar Morgan, Gyroffy moves fast and is tricky. Tofalos tried to rough it at times but the newcomer handed him a receipt for everything he dished out and finally slapped his favorite monkey wrench hold on the Greek to roll him around a few minutes and then spread him for the fall. The bout lasted 16 minutes and got the card away to a good start.

The Sports Round-Up

NEW YORK, Aug. 24 — (AP) — Catching up on two weeks' mail. . . . From Sgt. Cyrus Horween, overseas: "Is there any possibility of obtaining box scores of games played in the Dakota League of 1921 and 1922, the South Dakota League of 1920 and the North and South Dakota League of 1923?"

Sportpourr!

The football Giants and Dodgers will occupy the same training camp at Bear Mountain, N.Y., but will only meet in the dining room. . . . No doubt any National League records they set there will be tabled. . . . Manager Leo Bradley explained the reason why Jackie Callura of Hamilton, Ont., lost his featherweight title to Phil Terranova was that he stopped weaving when he was hit.

In the Rough

When Ivan Dibble was playing Wayne McCoy in the finals of the Topeka, Kas., Country Club golf championship a few weeks ago Dibble's ball lodged against a sand trap . . . Ivan hit it with his wedge, and the ball curved upward and landed in the pocket of his sports shirt. . . . The question was raised whether it was an unplayable lie or whether Dibble had lost the hole because the ball had touched his person. . . . The dispute was settled, explains Don Pierce, when Dibble not only conceded the hole but dropped the match to boot — which, at least, gives Topeka's sports writing pro footballer the prize for the season's worst pun.

Army Ruling Hits College Rugby

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
Associated Press Sport Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 24 — (AP).— A week ago War Secretary Henry Stimson announced army trainees would not be permitted to participate in athletics at United States colleges and universities. Since then schools have fluttered from the football bandwagon.

Six weeks ago the Associated Press could find only 189 colleges which had given up sport since Dec. 7, 1941, when the United States entered the war. But since the beginning of August, 47 more have made their decisions.

Such "name" schools as Stanford, Syracuse and Santa Clara made clean breaks when their soldier - guests were banned from campus sports. Even Alabama, where rival coaches have intimated that talent always was as plentiful as cotton, has hinted its Crimson Tide will be only a ripple this fall—if it has a team at all.

(Under the United States Army's college program selected soldiers are enrolled in various colleges at army expense to take special courses, such as mechanical engineering. The Navy has a similar program but that department has ruled its seamen-students may participate in college sports.)

The Southern Conference decided Saturday to drop all eligibility rules in an effort to help the 16 members of the circuit along by making any available service man a team prospect.

The general shuffling of talent by the Navy's college program apparently has made Michigan and Notre Dame the powerhouses of the Middle West; Dartmouth, Rochester and Pennsylvania among the most respected teams in the East; Tulane and Duke exceptionally strong in the South; Texas confident it can retain the Southwest Conference crown and Southern California the "big" team on the Pacific Coast.

FARSIGHTED householders are seeing the urgent need of preparing their homes now against next winter's coal shortage.

They are not waiting until the fall to do this important job—they are acting now!

HEATING SYSTEMS MUST BE EFFICIENT: HOMES SHOULD BE ADEQUATELY INSULATED.

Here are some jobs you should start doing NOW!

1 Have your entire heating system inspected. Order necessary repairs.

2 Have your furnace thoroughly cleaned by a competent man. Insulate furnace and pipes where necessary.

3 Be sure that you have sufficient storm windows and that all windows and doors fit tightly. Have cracks in walls repaired. Weatherstrip wherever it is necessary. Consider seriously the insulation of ceiling and walls.

Many homes waste as much as 60% of their fuel through inefficient heating equipment, inadequate insulation and other heat losses.

Winter is just around the corner. Start preparing your home NOW!

Sport Shorts From Britain

By ALAN NICKLESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Aug. 24 — (CP). — Those autumn race classics of pre war days, the Cesarewitch and the Cambridgeshire, come up for a revival on three British tracks this fall, but with a distinctly rationed flavor.

Whereas the peacetime classics were open to all, these will be confined to horses trained in the vicinity of the track so as not to infringe restrictions on racing which bar horses from travelling more than short distances to the races.

The substitute classics, all $4,000 plates, will be decided at Newmarket, Ascot and Stockton.

The Ascot Cesarewitch of two miles and the Cambridgeshire over 7½ furlongs both will be staged Oct. 2. Newmarket horses gallop two miles in their Cesarewitch on Oct. 6 and one mile in the Cambridgeshire Oct. 20. Stockton's Cambridgeshire of 1¼ miles goes to the post Sept. 25 and the other austerity classic Oct. 9.

The Hon. Dorothy Paget, millionaire racehorse owner and Derby winner, this year, was fined $165 including costs in a London police court for using gasoline illegally in a journey to Salisbury race track.

Nailed to the bridge of the British mine sweeper Fairway is a shoe worn by Lord Derby's Fairway, 1928 St. Leger winner, after which the ship was named. Lord Derby presented the shoe to the ship's company who regard it as an unfailing source of good luck.

The Fairway started life in the First Great War as the Richard Jewel, one of a fleet of trawlers named after members of Lord Nelson's crew at Trafalgar. Later she became a fishing trawler and was called back to navy service as a 'sweeper shortly after this war began.

Hither and yon: Sale of race programs at British tracks from the start of this season until early August realized $31,500 for the British Red Cross .. .. The Red Cross also received $4,435 from a two-day cricket match at Lord's which featured an all-star England and Dominions team. The amount was a record for a cricket match .. ..

And as a sign of booming prices and the importance attached to post-war greyhound racing, an anonymous English purchaser paid $2,772 for an Eireann greyhound, Moving Carefully, at a Dublin sale .. .. P. B. (Laddie) Lucas, British Walker Cup golfer, has been promoted to wing commander and appointed to command a Royal Air Force Spitfire wing. He joined the R.A.F. in 1939 and trained on the first English course in Canada under the Empire Training Scheme. Later he specialized in escorting fighter-bombers in attacks on enemy shipping in the Channel. Previously he won the D.F.C. in Malta.

Soldiers Fail To Hold Three-Run Lead

After spotting the Military Centre three unearned runs in the first two frames, the 4th Battery levelled away and played smart ball defensively last night in the final game of the City League semi-final series while their bats rattled a merry tune to give them a 10 to 4 margin over the Soldiers, the most decisive victory of the long-drawn-out series.

The win sends the Gunners into the City League finals with the Genelecs and the first game of a best-of-four series will be staged to-night at 6:30 o'clock.

Big Dave Wilson, in spite of a discouraging start, pitched fine ball for the Battery. He held the losers to seven hits, struck out the same number and allowed but one single in the last six innings while blanking the Soldiers after the third.

Johnnie Walker, who had pitched two tie games during the series, was the Camp choice but he could not keep the Gunners from bunching their blows and they finally drove him to cover with a sharp barrage in the seventh after they had cuffed him for four solid hits in a row. Tom Parsons who took over yielded three more runs before the game was over.

The Battery had almost double the number of hits credited to the losers, 13 to 7, and their blows included three triples and a homer. Jim Ellis set the pace with a homer, with nobody on, a triple with one on, and a single that drove in two runs. Les Burton hammered a triple and a double, Eddie Starr singled twice to drive in a run with each rap, and Bob Crowe also had a pair of singles that figured in the run-making, while Bun Kingdon cuffed a long triple.

Anderson, McKerrigan, and Dalton had two blows each for the Soldiers, and Mortimer was the only other Training Centre player to get a hit.

There were some nice fielding plays. Bob Crowe, who pitched the Gunners to a win in Friday's game, handled eight chances without a skip at second base and made one outstanding play when he ran over back of first and fielded a roller that Ellis had missed in time to retire the runner. Joe Stewart and Les Burton had feature catches in the Battery outfield and Doug Mortimer covered a lot of ground in centre field for Soldiers to make six catches. Morgan dashed back into short right field in the eighth to rob Burton of a Texas Leaguer hit and get a double killing out of the play.

Cash In on Errors.

Training Centre took advantage of two Battery errors to score in the first frame. Anderson was safe on Heal's fumble of his roller and when Walker bunted for a sacrifice Ellis missed Starr's throw and everybody was safe. McKerrigan forced Walker at second on a rap to Heal, but Dalton doubled to left sending Anderson in and McKerrigan to third. Wilson got out of the hole by fanning Parsons and getting Mason on a fly to Stewart.

The Gunners ran into more bad luck in the second. Mortimer walked and when Wilson threw the ball into right field on Morgan's bunt, Mortimer went to third and Morgan to second. McIlveen's roller to Crowe resulted in a run when Mortimer beat the throw to the plate. Starr fielded Anderson's bunt to second in time to force McIlveen. Walker fouled to Ellis, a nice catch but McKerrigan bounced a single over Vitarelli's head scoring Morgan.

Dalton got a life when Ellis failed to hold Starr's bullet throw after fielding a bunt, but Parsons grounded out.

The Battery turned loose some power in the third to tie the score. With one away Wilson drew a pass. Heal flied to Mortimer for the second out and then the barrage started. Crowe laced a single to right for the first hit off Walker. Burton cracked a double over third scoring Wilson and Crowe and Eddie Starr lashed a single through short sending Burton in with the tieing run. Stewart flied deep to Mortimer.

Training Centre scored their last run of the game in the last of the third to take the lead again. After Mason had flied to Burton who made a nice running catch of a short one Mortimer doubled to right, Morgan was thrown out by Vitarelli, Mortimer going to third, McIlveen drew a walk. Anderson doubled on a hot shot that bounded off Vitarelli's knee into the crowd. Walker fanned to end the inning.

Jim Ellis came through with a long homer in the first of the fourth to tie it up again. He was first up and drove a long liner into deep left centre, to score easily. Vitarelli beat out a tap down the first base line and after Tompkins had lined right into Anderson's hands Wilson dropped a single into centre. Heal, however, popped to Dalton and Crowe flied to Mortimer.

A sharp shower interrupted the game for a few minutes just as the Soldiers' fourth inning started. When play was resumed McKerrigan scatched a single to short and Dalton bunted safely, Vitarelli slipping as he fielded the ball. Wilson pitched himself out of that by fanning Parsons and getting Mason and Mortimer on easy rollers to Crowe and Vitarelli. That was the last threat of the losers who only got one hit after that and were blanked the last six frames.

Break Up the Game.

Battery broke up the game in the seventh. Kingdon batting for Heal gave Mortimer a long fly and Crowe also hit to the same fielder. Burton, however, poled a triple to right centre and Starr singled on a high bounder to second, sending Burton home. Stewart singled on a line to right, Starr going to third and Stewart taking second on the throw. Ellis cracked a single over second, scoring Starr and Stewart. That was enough for Walker and he change places with Tom Parsons. The relief pitcher walked Vitarelli but retired the side on Tompkins' fly to Mortimer.

The winners got another in the eighth. After Wilson had fanned Bun Kingdon tripled to left centre. He would have had a homer if he had not fallen at first base. Crowe laced a single into right, scoring right field to make a nice catch of Burton's fly and Crowe was doubled off first.

Ater earning their first eight Kingoon. Morgan ran out into the runs the Battery finished up with a tainted pair in the ninth. After Starr had fanned Stewart got a life when Morgan dropped Dalton's throw, Ellis lined a long one to deep left field, easily good for a homer, but the lame first baseman merely hobbled to third on the rap. Stewart, of course, ran home, Vitareli's infield out sent the second run over, after which Tompkins grounded to Morgan.

Athletics Near Record For Losing Games

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sport Writer

Philadelphia Athletics seem to know enough about baseball to understand that record books can be opened either from the front or the back. In any case, they have a chance to set a modern major league record.

This record, of course, is for losing games. Connie Mack's meandering troupe lost two more to Chicago White Sox last night 7-6 and 7-0 to make 19 consecutive defeats.

This is just one short of the longest losing streak in the big leagues since the turn of the century—and the A's are scheduled for another twilight-night double header at Chicago.

The A's had a chance to win their twilight tussle last night. Going into the ninth inning tied, Bob Estalella smacked a two-run homer that put them in front. However, in the last half of the inning after Guy Curtright had homered with one on to tie the score, Relief Pitcher Russ Christopher walked his rival moundsman, Guy Maltzberger, with the bases loaded to force in the winning run. In the second game Orval Grove pitched a six-hit shutout.

New York Yankees bounced back against Detroit Tigers to win 4-1 with Bill Zuber pitching six-hit ball.

Boston Red Sox beat Cleveland Indians 9-7 in spite of home runs by Jeff Heath and Roy Cullenbine.

Weather forced postponement of the second games of double-headers scheduled at both Detroit and Cleveland.

Washington's struggling Senators rallied for five runs in the 10th inning to beat St. Louis Browns 10-5 after Stan Spence had hit two home runs in tht regulation distance, 2-1 in the second frame.

In the only National League game St. Louis Cardinals breezed to a 14-5 triumph over Boston Braves.

Baltimore Team Loses To Jersey City Giants

By The Associated Press

Charley Mead bashed out his third hit of the game in Jersey City's final turn at bat against Baltimore yesterday and right away Manager Gabby Hartnett of the Little Giants became downcast.

The blow drove in Johnny Hudson with the run that broke Jersey City's four-game losing streak, ended Baltimore's eight-game International League victory string and enabled the Little Giants to share the day's twin bill.

Baltimore took the first game 4-1 behind Paul Calvert's seven-hit hurling and Mead's exploits brought his club a 6-5 verdict in the nightcap. In the day's only other game, Syracuse shaded Newark 4-3 in 12 innings.

Paper Deficit Worries Ottawa Officials

By GARETH MUCHMORE
Associated Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Aug. 24 (AP). — Informal discussion of the newsprint supply problem here to-day may help determine whether American newspapers continue fully their vital information service or are forced to curtail it for lack of paper.

Conferees will be Canadian officials and members of the United States House of Representatives Newsprint Investigation committee, headed by Rep. Lyle H. Boren (Dem.-Okla.) and including Charles Wolverton (Rep.-N.J.), Lindley Backworth (Dem.-Texas) and Richard F. Harless (Dem.-Ariz).

The decision rests with Canada and her paper mills supply 70 per cent. of the newsprint used by American newspapers along with other essential products.

The Borden committee came to Canada to study first hand the paper scarcity that no wexists, and to find out what could be done to attack a mutual problem. The talks will be based on what it has learned in a week of touring paper areas and talking with mill workers, foresters and mill operators.

The committee, having spent a week in Quebec paper districts which turn out 57 per cent. of Canada's largest industrial product, will go through the second largest producing district—Ontario—this week.

Paper supplies for next year depend upon the amount of wood cut this fall and winter.

Somehow— through use of war prisoners, internees, making wood work more attractive to civilians or permitting farmers greater latitude in helping out the paper industry — an approaching deficit equal to 1,750,000 cords of wood must be wiped out.

Twenty thousand more wood cutters are needed.

The alternative is another drastic reduction in supplies, already limited to less than newspapers used two years ago.

American Troops 2 Miles Off Salamaua

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, THE SOUTHEAST PACIFIC, Aug. 24—(AP)—Australian troops, emerging into the Francisco River valley after months of mountain fighting, probed the enemy's prepared defences today within two miles of the Salamaua, New Guinea, airdrome.

Today's communique from Allied headquarters reported the Australians crossed the river northeast of Old Bobdubi to a position due west of the air strip.

It also disclosed that Monday night, light warships, probably destroyers, moved more than 70 miles above Salamaua into the narrow part of Dampier Strait for a close range bombardment of the dock and supply dumps on the Huon Peninsula, a supply base for Salamaua.

In the ground fighting, the Australians apparently encountered little opposition from the retreating Japanese in crossing the Francisco River, which flows south of the airdrome to empty into Bayern Bay a short distance from the southeastern edge of the field.

Beginning at the coast, the Allies control ridge positions looking down on the river valley and have begun to shell Japanese positions around the airdrome and before the isthmus town of Salamaua.

In the air, far-ranging bombers flew to Kendari, Dutch Celebes, which had been raided on at least two other occasions, and bombed the airdrome and town.

Japanese Ran Without A Fight; Kiska Evacuation Puzzles Allies

By WILLIAM L. WORDEN
Associated Press War Correspondent

BAMBOO BAY, Kiska, Aug. 19 —(Delayed) — (AP). — The Kiska story can be told in a dozen words:

The Japanese evacuated. With American and Canadian occupation, the Aleutians are safe again.

But the entire story is not quite that simple and some of it obviously cannot be told until after the war, if ever.

Why did the Japanese take Kiska in the first place? Why, having taken it and held it at bitter cost more than a year, did they give it up without a struggle?

What will be their answer to almost inescapable loss of face in the homeland? How did they make good their escape? Was the evacuation a good thing for the American and Canadian cause?

No doubt great sums of money were spent bringing thousands of combat troops and equipment here for the attack which could have been accomplished by a few scouts with no equipment except boats to land them.

But anything less than a full-scale bombardment of Kiska Aug. 15 with the information then available would needlessly have risked the lives of thousands of troops then attacking.

Nothing To Do

Now there is a highly-trained amphibious force which has no immediate fighting to do. However it is possible the Japanese would not have evacuated if they had not known that this force was en-route—or at least suspected it.

There is some indication the last of the enemy fled hurriedly a few hours before the attack.

The Japanese did not succeed in the evacuation without arousing suspicions they had done just that. The attack was made as scheduled chiefly because of the possible high cost of proving these suspicions wrong.

That cost would have been in lives: the cost incurred was only in dollars.

As for how the Japanese managed the evacuation at all in face of Allied naval strength—the answer lies in the much discussed and not-much-improved Aleutian weather. Since the taking of Attu the fog has been thick and steady.

Also there is the possibility cargo-carrying submarines were used. Such submarines were known to have been used to keep the Attu garrison in essential supplies during the last days there.

Other questions are harder to answer.

The Japanese Army has been proud it never gave up a fortress without a fight. That record now is broken. For whatever their reasons the fact remains that the Japs ran —and ran in such a hurry they left food on the tables, and guns ready to use—before attackers were even in sight.

"We streaked across the beams as fast as we could go, and the searchlights came after us. Fights were going on all over the place."

Airmen pictured the German capital as a red chaos of smoke columns from fires and explosions, shining dully even at 15,000 feet.

They said German fighters rode the skies in "desperation squadrons," some of them even flying with navigation lights on.

The biggest explosions were seen in the middle of Berlin, the fliers reported.

The attack has been expected for several weeks a logical follow-up to the mass bombings which pulverized the German seaport of Hamburg in July. The last heavy raid on Berlin was staged by the R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. March 29.

The German capital has been a target since that time for small forces of British Mosquito bombers, which have struck at the city eight times.

Expected Attack

The German radio said last night's attack on Berlin caused civilian casualties and damage in residential quarters, and claimed 50 raiders were shot down. It said several other places also were attacked.

Berlin apparently had been expecting the attack. Swedish newspaper correspondents in the German capital reported several weeks ago the tremendous bombings of Hamburg had created great anxiety in Berlin.

The night attack on Berlin was preceded by a daylight raid by American medium bombers on St. Omer where they blasted away at the freight yards and a German flying field. The raid was the first on the rail point in two months.

Yesterday Spitfires attacked Axis shipping off the Dutch coast and a German bomber was destroyed by Beaufighters over the North Sea. Other Spitfires, including an R.C.A.F. fighter wing, crept over the Bethune area in France.

There an unidentified leader of the Canadian wing shot down an ME-109. All the Canadian planes returned safely.

Meanwhile the Germans attempted feeble retaliation. Sporadic enemy activity was reported last night over coastal districst of East Anglia and five Nazi planes were downed. Slight damage but no casualties were reported.

grad area had resulted in Russian advances of from 18 to 22 miles and the capture of 30 villages, including the town and railway station of Donetskoamvrosievka.

The latter is about 50 miles north of German-held Aganrog on the Sea of Azov.

The new Donets drive was aimed in the general direction of Dnieperopetrovsk, which lies in the easternmost bend of the Dnieper River.

The war bulletin said the Red Army was meeting spirited German resistance and that in one engagement alone 1,500 Nazi soldiers were killed and 15 tanks were destroyed. In the Izyum area 2,000 Germans were killed in an engagement which led to hand-to-hand encounters, the communique said.

3. Japan is on the retreat in the Pacific and the flow of implements of war from the Allied arsenals in Canada, Britain and especially the United States is reaching a point where intensified assaults in the Far East can be made without prejudice to the war in Europe, particularly air assaults on Japan's long, tenuous supply lines. Kiska was one example.

Strategy in the Pacific occupied much of the time of the two leaders yesterday, with Mr. Bracken announcing it has "a very, very important part of the conference" as a whole.

The President and Prime Minister had a long conference with Dr. T. V. Soong, the Chinese Foreign Minister, and Harry Hopkins, the chairman of the combined munitions assignment board. The presence of Mr. Hopkins indicated the division of war material, as between the Pacific and European theatres, was under review strengthening persistent reports the Pacific will start receiving a bigger share of planes, shipping, tanks and other weapons in the immediate future.

Obituary

ALLAN E. HUBBLE

HAVELOCK, Aug. 24.—(ENS). — Another family in this community was bereaved very suddenly on Monday afternoon, when Mr. Allan E. Hubble passed away in his 54th year. Although he has suffered from thrombosis of the heart for about five years, he was able to be about his usual farm duties, when early Monday afternoon in the grain field he was seiezed with a heart attack and passed away before medical aid could be summoned.

Deceased was born Nov. 24, 1889, in Seymour township, son of the late Sanford Hubble and Lovica Hubble of Havelock. All of his lifetime was spent in Seymour and Belmont township and he was one of the most prosperous farmers in the community. He was very proud of his Jersey herd of cattle and exhibited them at all the surrounding Fall fairs.

On Feb. 17, 1911, he married Miss Ida Spinks at Campbellford, who is left to mourn the loss of a devoted husband and father with an only daughter (Mabel) Mrs. Alex Keene, Belmont. His aged mother, Mrs. Lovica Hubble, also survives, and a half brother, Williard Hubble, of Trenton.

Although his family and farm commanded his first thoughts, the late Mr. Hubble took a keen interest in community affairs and was a member of the school board for many years. His wise counsel and quick discernment will be greatly missed by a wide circle of friends.

His funeral service will be held from the family residence on Wednesday afternoon at 2.30, conducted by a former patsor, Rev. S. A. Kemp, thence to Maple Grove cemetery for interment. Pallbearers will be Messrs. Leonard Keene, Robert Peoples, William Anderson, Fred Ellis, George Varty and William Ketchen.

"Take it easy. I've never gone through this before."

He mounted the scaffold at 1.02 a.m. and was pronounced dead at 1.17 a.m.

Rev. J. J. Murphy of Assumption Roman Catholic Church administered last rites to both men. Provincial, Windsor and Detroit police and jail officials witnessed the hangings, barred to newspaper representatives.

A large crowd was outside the jail at the time.

Jail officials said members of his family had asked that Kisielewski's body be turned over to them for burial but that a decision on the request had not yet been reached. If the request is turned down, both bodies will be buried in the jail cemetery.

Kisielewski left notes for a girl friend and his family. Officials said that in both he maintained his innocence.

Jail offficals said neither man was given a stimulant before being taken to the gallows.

BLOOD DONORS

Influenced by the period of summer holidays the Blood Donors Clinic reported on Monday a rather low attendance, 58 donors in all. There were two in from Lindsay, and the rest of the number came from the city, incuding employees from the C.G.E., Westclox, Quaker Oats, Brinton Carpet Co., Canada Packers and Braund Groceries.

AIRMEN GRADUATE

.irmen graduating Monday as wireless air gunners from No. 2 Bombing and Gunnery School at Mossbank, Sask. included the names of L. K. Anderson, Lindsay and H. N. McAdams and C. J. Watkins, Peterborough. Presented with their badges in a like ceremony at Mountain View on the same day were W. F. Hill, Cobourg and A. F. Hodson, Brooklin.

COUNTY ASSISTING

A contribution of $200 will be made by the county council to the local fund for the furnishing of the Canadian corvette to bear the name of "Peterborough." The city council gave $500, and it is understood the county expressed a wish to be actively associated with the local sponsorship. Gordon S Miller is chairman of the committee in charge of this community undertaking.

FIRE CHIEFS' CONVENTION

In case anyone should wonder why Fire Chief George Gimblett is not around to put in an appearance at local fires, he has gone to St. Catharines to participate in the convention of the Dominion Association of Fire Chiefs of Canada. Several weeks ago Chief Gimblett was appointed to head one of the committees at the convention. Meetings will be held Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week, and nearly 600 delegates are expected to attend.

CITIZENS ENTERTAINED

While in the city of Winnipeg, a number of local citizens were privileged to be delightfully entertained to afternoon tea by His Honor Lieutenant Governor R. OFFERED A BARGAIN

Report of a farmer offering potatoes from house to house at $1.90 a bag the other day may have signified nothing more than a means of quick disposing of whatever stock he had brought in from the farm. This is the only instance heard locally of a grower cutting the ceiling price of $2.25 a bag.

COMMITTEE MEETINGS

Although the September meeting of the city council is listed for Tuesday September 7, meetings of the following committees have been arranged for this week as follows:—Thursday at 4 p.m. property and parks, followed in the evening by the finance committee, Board of Works, and manufacturers; and the fire and light committee Friday at 5 p.m.

A SKUNK INVASION

Peterborough has been invaded recently by some specimens of wild life that the community would much prefer to have remain in the woods. Those pretty little black and white animals with the unromantic name of skunk have been making their presence known in several parts of the city. Monday Constable McMillan was called out to kill one on Caddy street in East City; this morning Sergt. W. E. Wigg's services were in demand to shoot another skunk on Weller street. Several others have been seen here recently.

C.G.E. Donations Total $5,130 For War Victims

As part of the war effort, the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund has given considerable evidence of the loyalty of the residents of this part of the Empire to the cause of justice and freedom for all the world, this having been expressed in the most practical manner possible by the voluntary givings which now run close to the splendid sum of $62,000.

Of this sum, the employees of the Canadian General Electric Co. Ltd. and Genelco Ltd. take a leading part for the total of their contributions to date have now reached the impressive sum of $5,130.83.

Their first contribution as recorded came from the Main Office of the C.G.E. Co. Ltd. on December 20, in 1940, and amounted to the nice sum of $60, being a fore-runner of events which have been of such material advantage to the fund.

Since that time a total of one hundred and thirty-three contributions have been received from the various departments which perhaps might include every group in the two plants, among which the largest to be received was a donation of $1,000 on January 7, 1942 from the Canteen Fund of the C.G.E., which incidentally is also the largest single gift to be recorded from any source that has supported the fund to this date.

Today's receipts for the fund make it particularly a day belonging to this same source, for all of the contributions listed go to their credit, no less than six different departments being listed, all of whom secured the amounts credited to them through the passing of a box around among the employees in their respective groups.

These include the Inspection Department with Don Hill as foreman, the Industrial Service Department of which H. A. Carnfield is the supervisor, the Refrigerator Unit of which E. W. Cooper is foreman, the Tool Design Department with G. A. Spicer as foreman, the New Wire Department led by J. E. Thomas, the foreman, and the Porcelain Department with J. Copping as foreman.

Among these it should be noted that the Industrial Service Department supervised by H. A. Cranfield, have given or been the means of raising funds on no less than 8 occasions since the beginning of this year

Lindsay Veteran Is Laid To Rest

LINDSAY, Aug. 24— (ENS) —The funeral was held here today of Alfred Bate, 85, veteran of the Great War. Mr. Bate was born in Port Hope, a son of John and Christiana Bate. He came to Lindsay with his parents when a small boy and for a number of years his father operated a bakery business. Mr. Bate had an active military career all his life. Following services overseas he was a member of the local militia and of the 109th band. His services were recognized following the construction of the Lindsay armouries when he was appointed its caretaker, a position he held for nearly 20 years. In fraternal life he was a member of the Orange Order and of the Independent Order of Oddfellows as well as the Canadian Legion.

Surviving are his wife, the former Mary Bean, two daughters, Mrs. Milton Davies, of Toronto, Harriet of Lindsay and three sons, Gordon of Lindsay, Alfred with the Veterans' Guard at Monteith and Elgin of Toronto.

Smooth Gypsy Trio Rob Manvers Man

LINDSAY, Aug. 24—While pretending to be concerned over his health, two women, believed to be gypsies, robbed E. B. Shea, of Manvers township. Mr. Shea was alone at his home when the two women entered and after telling him he looked ill they felt his pulse and in general made a fuss over him. Mr. Shea's astonishment at the actions of his visitors changed to anger when he discovered they had taken $200 from his pockets. After leaving the house the women entered a large car driven by a male companion.

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 24.—(AP). —The anti-Fascist weekly Italia Libre in a detailed private report from Geneva yesterday said that former Premier Mussolini is being detained at Castel Porziano, a Royal country estate near Ostia, on the coast about 15 miles southwest of Rome.

With Boys In Services

The editor of this column will welcome extracts from letters from boys serving or any other information concerning them.

By JEAN STENTON

The question of what different colors on a soldier's dress uniform mean has often puzzled the citizens of Peterborough and the Army recently drew up a broad outline of what branches of the service they represented.

The caps representing a specific regiment are worn with the badge of the unit on the left side of the wedge-shaped chapeau, and regulations have it that the lower edge of the cap is to be worn above the right ear. That of the Corps of Military Staff clerks differs from that of the Forestry Corps in that the former cap is all blue, with white piping along the top, front and rear seams, while the Forestry men wear an all green cap with gold piping along the top of the flap which encircles the cap.

The Royal Canadian Engineers have a cap of royal blue, with yellow worsted braid along seams of the crown, front and rear. The Dental Corps is more complicated with the body and crown emerald green and the peak and flap are of blue, with gold braid on seams of crown and flap and front and back. The R.C.A.S.C. sport a completely blue piece of headgear with another shade of blue piping.

Latest Colors

This is just the beginning of the list. The R.C.O.C. cap is deep blue shade with scarlet piping and scarlet worsted braid is along the top of the flap. The R.C.C.S. wear a cap of midnight blue, with yellow braid on top of the cap and flap but not on the front or rear seams. The Medical Corps has the body and crown of dull cherry, while the peak and flap are of blue, no piping at all. The Provost Corps has a red body with a dark navy blue flap. It also has white worsted trim piping.

Last but not least are four more of the services. The Royal Canadian Artillery dress cap has a body and crown of scarlet with blue flap and peak. Yellow piping is on all the seams and the flap. The Veterans Guard of Canada is composed of the colors of the four divisions which went overseas in the last war, and it has a red peak, green body, gray crown and dark blue flap. The Royal Canadian Armored Corps is known by its plain black beret and the Canadian Parachute "Airborne" troops wear a wine-colored beret.

The Army has decided that because a man is in uniform is no reason why styles and colors dear to a soldier's civilian heart should be ignored and so have been provided accordingly. To the dazed man and woman at home, a careful study of these hats which appear regularly on Peterborough streets, will in time—if they're lucky and have a good memory—give them the right answers.

Regimental Schools will be conducted for the 43rd (R) Field Regiment R.C.A., commencing September 1, including the 4th Field Battery (R) at Peterborough; the 14-22nd Field Battery (R) at Cobourg and the 45-56th Field Battery (R) at Lindsay.

During the past week six men from this city and the Peterborough district have enlisted in the R.C.A.F. at Toronto. They are J. C. LAING, 272 Armour Road, C. A. REDPATH, 255 Simcoe street; J. J. A. FRASER, 1 Burnham Court; G. H. W. HOULE, RR. No. 3, Keene; J. D. BALDOCK, 176 Sherbrooke street; and C. K. BURLEY, 281 Park street.

Not only is the Canadian Army University course given without charge to students, but they receive boys' pay up to 17½ years of age, and thereafter regular army pay, uniform and free medical and dental care while attending the 33-week course. Another educational service is caring for all British prisoners-of-war in Germany. A special depot has been set up in Geneva, Switzerland, to arrange for the distribution of the Canadian Legion Educational Services Course, including those at the University level.

More and larger fields are being thrown open to recruits in the Women's Division of the R.C.A.F. as they along with the two other services are making a determined drive to get 100,000 more women to release men for more active duties.

Wireless work has been extended in the last few months to a much greater degree. The girls who have won their "sparks" at Montreal can take their places proudly with the men after graduation and in several cases members of the Women's Division have been kept on as instructors. Men and women train together and this course is not one where the students can fool away their time and still make a pass. Girls are known as wireless operators—ground.

While Junior Matriculation is not necessary for wireless work, the girls are expected to have some high school science. When they get to Montreal, it is their tests that count, not past education.

Operations—the secret job of the air force, is one that interests many girls, ASST. S.O. PAULINE PATTERSON, who visits Peterborough with the Mobile Recruiting unit says. In this work, the airwomen must have junior matriculation and extremely good vision.

Good typists are always needed and every time a recruiting unit leaves Toronto their superiors entreat them to somehow find them some prospective material. At the present time, the R.C.A.F. gives an 8-weeks course which trains women as typists and office workers.

The red, white and blue colored wire ribbon, which is often seen on the lapels of civilians denotes that they are members of Canada's Reserve Army, and each black chevron on a soldier's sleeve means a complete year of service in the present war. A silver "stripe" below them means that the officer or man was appointed or enlisted before September 10, 1940.

Social Progress Needs Leaders

Quoting Herbert Spencer to the effect that "you cannot make a golden age out of leaden men," Rev. Canon J. Douglas Paterson of Toronto, formerly rector of All Saints' Church, spoke to Rotarians at the weekly luncheon on Monday, and stressed the need of proper leadership if satisfactory social progress were to be made.

Canon Paterson spoke to the club on the subject "Social Progress and Its Background."

"Much needs to be done and everybody knows it," the speaker said. "Politics need to be purified, the industrial world needs to be pacified, social life simplified, and the world unified."

In discussing the future Canon Paterson said that everybody was asking what ought to be done. There was an abundance of plans, good-looking plans, but what was needed, the speaker submitted, was leaders with the spiritual insight to move the world to better things. Men were needed as leaders who were honest and sincere enough to break the bonds of tradition, vested interests, convention, prejudice, selfinterest, group loyalty and class consciousness.

"You cannot go far in social progress without moral passion," the speaker declared.

Cannery Needs 15 More Men

If Selective Service can come through with about fifteen men, Canada Packers will be all set to pack every last tomato that reaches their plant in the next six weeks.

The big kettles will be tuned up Thursday for a light run to the end of week, and after that preliminary canter, as a sort of work out, the canning department will settle down to the season's job next Monday, continuing through September until 'about the first week in October,' or until the frosts hit the vines.

Response of women, some of them married, has assured Packers' management of enough help on the distaff side of this important food conserving job, but there is some official concern about enlisting the number of men required.

"We can get all the cans we need," G. S. Matthews, manager, told the Examiner today, "and we are expecting a crop of about 250 bushels to the acre, something better than 100 per cent. The vitamin content of tomatoes gives them a food rating that warrants as heavy a pack as possible."

James A. Willshaw Is Safe In Sicily

L/Cpl. James A. Willshaw, in a letted dated August 3 and received August 23 by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James E. Willshaw of 178 Sophia street, wrote hopefully of victory in the Battle of Sicily and said that "we expect it soon."

At the time of writing the letter he said, he was resting in the shade of a tree, and implied that hard fighting and very hot weather made this a desirable procedure.

L/Cpl. Willshaw, who is 31 years old and worked at the Peterborough Lock Company from the time he was 14 until he left to enlist in April, 1942, went overseas in October of last year.

A CONTRAST

Mason's main store on George street occasionally reminds its customers and the public generally that trade restrictions have their brighter aspects. A window display today presents a price contrast which indicates the difference in the buying power of the dollar as against the inflation of the fourth year of the last war. One bag of sugar, 100 pounds, is marked: "Today $7.90" and another: "In 1918 the price $22."

That simply means sugar sold at 22 cents a pound in the fourth year of the last war as compared with 7.9 cents today. Another contrast was five cans of peas—$1 then, 55 cents now. These are two of the group of items that stand out in Mason's north window.

Mary Pickford Draw Thursday Night

It was announced Monday evening at the regular meeting of the Peterborough Lions Club, that the draw for the Mary Pickford Bungalow, on which tickets have been sold for some time, will take place on Thursday, August 26 at the Fair for Britain, being held at present in Toronto.

District Deputy Governor, Jack Armitage presented the following Lions with 100 per cent attendance pins: Fred Cripps, Stan Darling, Jim Dutton, Frank Edgar, Bruce Sargent, Fraser Watson.

The district deputy governor spoke briefly on the value of attendance and announced that the next member attendance contest would start the second meeting in September and would continue until the end of April.

Hurrell Dodds reported on the progress of the Lions wading pool for the children of Peterborough and plans are now underway to complete the first stage of the project. The raffle of the evening, donated by Stan Darling was won by Jack Armitage.

President Jim Dutton outlined a very interesting program of club activities and entertainment for the coming fall session.

New Bishop Consecrated

ANTIGONISH, N.S., Aug. 24 (CP) Rev. John R. MacDonald, D.D., rector of St. Ninian's Cathedral here, was consecrated today as Roman Catholic Bishop of Peterborough, Ont.

Most Rev. Ildebrando Antoniutti, apostolic delegate to Canada and Newfoundland, was the consecrator, assisted by Most Rev. James Morrison, Bishop of Antigonish, and Most Rev. P. A. Bray, Bishop of Saint John, N.B.

Most Rev. R. H. Dignan, Bishop of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., delivered the consecration sermon, following the ceremony, the newly-consecrated bishop was guest of honor of the priests of Antigonish diocese at a testimonial dinner.

Many dignitaries of the church attended the consecration.

The clergy of the diocese of Peterborough were represented by Rev. J. T. Finn and Rev. V. J. Corkery of Peterborough and Rev. J. V. McAuley of Lindsay.

15-Year-Old Youth Has Narrow Escape

LINDSAY, Aug. 24 —(ENS)— A 15-year-old boy, son of Dr. Gordon Wells of Toronto had a miraculous escape from death on the county road, west of Bobcaygeon when the car he was driving after turning a complete somersault landed on a fence and then tipped over on its side. The boy escaped without injuries. Police are informed that boy was asked by his mother, holidaying at Red Rock to turn the car around. He took advantage of the opportunity to drive to Bobcaygeon and it was on the return trip that the accident occurred.

DEFEND MERCHANT SHIPS

LONDON — (CP). — The Norwegian merchant fleet now has its own Merchant Marine Defence, staffed with gunners trained by the Norwegian Navy.

Quiet At Last

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 24.—(AP). — Councilman Harold Harby's campaign to do something about crowing roosters is international now. A letter from R. H. Mortimer, Kitchener, Ont., described this sure-fire gadget: A false roof is lowered inside the pen until it rests upon the back of the birds' necks, or almost so. Result: Absolute silence.

$25,659 Loss Caused By 26 Fires

A total of 26 fires in the first seven months of 1943 resulted in losses amounting to $25,659.67, it has been announced by George Gimblett, Chief of the Fire Department, in an interim report.

The April fire loss was the highest of this year, damage amounting to $9,560.74, and accounting for more than a third of the losses caused by fires so far this year. The best month was May, when no damage at all was incurred through fire.

While the number of fires resulting in property loss have not varied much in the seven years covered by the report, there is a wide variance in the loss figures covering the first seven months of each of the years. The figure for the present year, $25,659.67 does not differ much from that of 1942, $26,833.60, but represents a considerable drop from the loss for the same period in 1941, which was $41,728.17, and is a figure more than three times as great as the $7,043.63 recorded in 1940. Fire loss figures for the seven months periods in 1937, 1938 and 1939 were $2,063.49, $7,091.25 and $18,909.15 respectively.

While quite a few of the 49 months covered in the Fire Chief's report show low or near-minimum loss figures, there are exactly three in which no property values were damaged or destroyed at all, and one of these was May of this year.

Two Boys Remanded On Charges Of Theft

Willis Stoneburg, 16, was arraigned before Justices of the Peace Vincent Eastwood and E. B. Fowler in police court this morning with breaking and entering the residence of Hugh McWha, 249 Rogers street with intent to commit theft.

Before the boy was asked to plead Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., asked the court that he should be remanded until Friday for trial and the justices acted upon the request.

Another younger boy appeared in juvenile court on the same charge and was similarly remanded.

The arrest of the youths was the result of suspicions aroused in the mind of a neighbor of McWha's who knew the family was out and investigated the presence of the two boys on the premises.

School Problems

VANCOUVER, Aug. 24 (CP) — Dr. L. S. Klinck, president of the University of British Columbia, said yesterday the National Conference of Canadian Universities at Ottawa next Monday will discuss the possibility of reducing Fall enrolment of male students at Canadian Universities.

Plums, Pears Reported To Be Scarce

Plums and pears scarce; peaches in fair quantity. That is a summary of the information the Examiner obtained to-day for the guidance of women of the city in their preserving plans.

Rochester and Jubilee freestone will be in moderate supply at the end of the week and the beginning of next. Late Albertas are only 25 p.c. of their normal crop, and its average has slumped in recent years.

In another week or ten days the peach market will be at its height, and this wartime peak is going to be considerably lower than usual. Presumably buyers may be advised to wait for a few more days, if they are going to buy peaches. The market is going to be short of green gages and Damson and several other varieties of plums. Probably the best advice in that direction is simply buy them when you see them, and likewise, if you see them.

The volatile aroma of spices used in pickling is wafting into the streets these days the news that housewives have already begun that big chore of 'doing down' mustard pickles. Cucumbers and celery are plentiful and at a reasonable price. Cauliflowers are on the light side, but generally the vegetables have flourished.

The potato crop as it is coming into retail channels is described as being of fine quality with a tendency to "ease the present price."

LINDSAY

New Constable Is Appointed

LINDSAY, Ont., Aug. 24—(ENS) —Russell Hargrave of Kirkfield was appointed police constable of Lindsay at a special meeting of the council last night. Fifteen applications were reviewed by the councillors all from local men. The new constable has had several years experience as county constable stationed at Kirkfield and Victoria Road. He has assisted in relief duties at Lindsay and has gained considerable recognition for his ability.

Cord Wood Stolen

A new type of theft confronted Provincial Police C. Siple here when he was informed that six cords of wood had been stolen from John Winterburn at Head Lake, Haliburton County. The wood was removed by truck.

Induct Fathers

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—(24.)—(CP). — Draft Director Lewis B. Hershey, in the first official pronouncement of its kind, yesterday said it probably would be necessary to induct by January 446,000 men who were fathers before the United States entered the war.

THANKS—

To The Electors Of Peterborough City and County

While this expression of my gratitude to you may seem rather late, I have not been in a position to express my thanks sooner. Having now rejoined my unit, I want to thank all who gave me their support and influence during the recent election campaign and especially those who worked so hard in my interests.

In particular, I deeply appreciate the support of those upon whom the major responsibilities of the campaign rested on account of my not being able to take part.

To Mr. Harold Scott, the successful candidate, I extend my congratulations. I wish also to commend Mr. Bruce Johnston for the very creditable vote which he received.

To the people of Peterborough City and County I would like to point out that the task of representing your riding during the period of post-war readjustment will be an onerous one. Mr. Scott will need your assistance and I urge all, irrespective of party affiliations, to give him their co-operation.

Also, he will miss you and his home comforts, and he will treat you better when you return. If he doesn't, you will have found out what you can do, and that you do not have to stand ill-treatment, and you can pack your trunk and leave for good.

Believe me, a railroad ticket is a cure-all for more physical and mental ills than any other one thing in the world. I know because I have tried it time and again and it always works.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—For two and a half years I have been going with a girl whom I love very much, and who returns my love. About three months ago I asked her to marry me, knowing that it would be a year or two before I would be in a position to support her, but she was very willing to wait for me. We planned to announce our engagement this Christmas when I was home for the holidays. We told my parents about our plans and they approved and were very happy about it.

But when we told her mother, she went up in the air. She was not only opposed to our thinking of marrying but also to the engagement. Her main objection is our age. I am 19 and the girl is 18. She wants us to wait until I am 21 before even becoming engaged. Shall we give in to her now and run the chance of always giving in to her?

At the end of this semester I expect to be sent to an army training camp and I may, of course, be sent overseas, but the war can't last forever. In the meantime we want our own life before I have to go overseas to fight on foreign soil. What do you advise? Should we wait, or should we do what we think is right and have our own life?

BOB.

Mother Protects Daughter From Marriage Gamble

ANSWER—If you insisted upon being married when you are only 19 and the girl 18, her mother would be right in opposing it tooth and nail, for the great majority of these boy and girl war marriages are bound to end in disillusion and divorce. Any mother does no more than her duty when she tries to keep her daughter from gambling so with her future.

For no girl and boy in their teens are sufficiently mature to know what they are going to want in a husband and wife when they art grownup. They are changing, developing, getting different tastes, new ideals all the time, and the boy and girl they were crazy about one day they are tired of the next. That is why the percentage of divorces between those who married young is so much greater than it is among those who married after they were adult.

If you and the girl lived in the same community and would see each other every day, there would still be this risk of your losing your taste for each other. Fancy, then, how much greater it will be when you go off to the army, perhaps to strange countries, where you will live an entirely different life from any she can possibly know, see strange people and go through experiences that turn a boy into a man much older than his years.

After the war you and the girl will be bound to meet as strangers, and it will be almost a miracle if you find then that you are still in love with each other and want to marry.

However, as you indicate that you would be satisfied in being merely engaged to the girl, I think her mother is making a mistake in so violently opposing it, for, after all, an engagement is just an option on a girl's affections. It is not a binding life contract as a marriage is, or should be.

But if you are satisfied that the girl loves you, what particular happiness would you get out of being engaged? Her loyalty to you will be dictated by her heart, not by her having a ring, or the engagement having been published in the newspapers. I think you will both be happier if you will just have an understanding, and let it go at that, until such time as you can announce your marriage instead of your engagement.

Campbellford Rink Entered In Playoffs

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 24 (ENS) —This town which a year ago boasted of three entries in the Provincial Lawn Bowling Association play offs will have but one entry in the annual Labor Day competitions this year. It is in the rinks section that the local bowlers will be represented and the entry comprises the same group as it did a year ago skipped by H. J. Taylor and including Dr. O. C. Watson, lead; C. W. Pallise; and A. J. Meyers. The locals got into the rinks competition the easy way. Belleville, which had defeated Stirling in the play downs, found themselves faced with a tourney at home on the date they were scheduled to meet Campbellford so they let the latter game go by default giving this town its only entry in the provincial playoffs.

Last year's competitors who were taken out were A. D. Bennett, singles champion, who was defeated by Earl Fox of Stirling in the district playoffs by a score of 21 to 13. In the doubles section the W. S. Wiggins-J. P. Archer team from here went down before a combination comprising Fred Mallory and Bob Patterson, also of Stirling.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By CHARLES EDWARDS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Aug. 24.—(CP).—Via Walt Riddell of the Saskatoon Star-Phoenix we learn that Alex Motter, defenceman of Detroit Stanly Cup hockey champions, is training with the US. Navy at Manhattan Beach. With the established stars enlisting in considerable numbers and others likely to be called up with the new age groups, minimum of 18 and maximum of 30, many sports editors across Canada predict the National Hockey League will not operate this year. Ages given in Jim Hendy's 1943 Hockey Guide indicate only 18 of the players who started the last N.H.L. season are outside the new call-up classes. Boston and Chicago are the most fortunate, with six each. Toronto has four, Detroit and Montreal one each and New York Rangers none. Incidentally the only Montreal player over 30, according to Hend's age list, is Jack Portland, who has already enlisted. Of course it doesn't follow that all those within the call-up limits will be enlisted. Some may miss out because of physical defects.

Last year, maintenance of civilian morale was one of the chief reasons given for continued operation of the N.H.L. In this connection, Eddie (Winnipeg Free Press) Armstrong comments: "Ottawa selective service officials have apparently decided that the game of hockey given up by the service clubs all across Canada—under the C.A.H.A. banner—was sufficient as a morale builder for Mr. and Mrs. Fan—and the men and women of the services.

Bargain Day.

Dave Dryburg of the Regina Leader-Post says Wes Champ reputedly sold the Regina Caps of the old Western Canada Hockey League to Portland Rosebuds on the Pacific Coast for $25,000. That sale in 1925 included such players as Dick Irvin, Eddie Shore, George Hay and others who moved up to the N.H.L. in 1926.

Incidentally:

Windsor has never been a football city although it has produced such stars as Tony Gobal and Joe Krol. Now Joe Burns of the Windsor Star is urging sports-minded gentry start plans for putting Windsor on the grid map right after the war....With baseball dead this season in Moncton, N.B., the citizens are enthusiastic about track and field events. A big event will be the Eastern Air Command championships early next month.

Wins Championship

PERTH, Scotland, Aug. 24 (CP)—Pipe Major Neil Sutherland of the Calgary Highlanders won the Silver Cup and Piping championship in an open competition at the Highland games here in which leading professional pipers from all parts of Scotland as well as Pipe Majors from famous Scottish Regiments competed.

Gay Plants Will Keep on Blooming

Amaryllis Requires Little Care

How your scarlet amaryllis blazes in a dark room—faithful year after year!

It's a thrill to make an amaryllis bulb come to flower, and it's easy; this is the time for it! For speedy results gets a bulb that's just started to sprout.

Keep in a cool, dark basement until it's three inches high. Then move it to a sunny window and water well.

After the glorious flowers are gone, keep the plant outdoors in the sun. An autumn rest lying on its side in a cool dark place and it will bloom again next season—beautiful as ever!

You can have a lovely indoor garden all year, knowing a little about plant care. Pink-flowering cineraria blooms until late if you give it a cool spot, out of direct sunlight.

Our 32-page booklet tells easy ways to raise all of these plants, also begonia, azalea, marica, sansevieria and many other attractive flowering and foliage indoor plants. Has directions for window-boxes and bracket plants; for growing bulbs, plants in water; summer care of plants.

For your copy of MAKING PLANTS AND FLOWERS GROW INDOORS send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

Keene Club Honors Mrs. Ambrose Doris

KEENE, Aug. 24 (ENS)— The Fortnightly Club gathered at the home of Mrs. Gus Bolin on Friday night to do honor to Mrs. Ambrose Doris, a popular past president of the club, who, with her family, are taking up residence in Peterborough. After a period of music and contests an address and presentation were given Mr. Doris. Miss M. Bryce read the address and Miss Plunkett presented her with a teapot.

Mrs. Doris thanked the ladies for their kindness, refreshments were served, and the meeting closed singing "Auld Lang Syne."

Mrs. H. Short also opened her home on Thursday night to neighbors and friends of Mrs. Davis, where a miscellaneous shower was held. The Carry-On Club, of which Mr. Doris was a valuable member, presented her with a beautiful lamp.

Jack Elmhirst, Andrew Shearer, and Douglas Brown of Toronto spent the week-end visiting friends in Keene.

Mrs. H. L. Shepherd and daughter are visiting in Montreal, where they attended the graduation at the R.C.A.F. No. 9 Air Observers School at St. Johns, Quebec, when her husband, Henry Shepherd, graduated as a navigator.

C.Q.M.S. and Mrs. Jack Low and Mr. and Mrs. M. Hill were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. V. McCarthy.

Pte. Kenneth Murray of Camp Borden and Harold Mather of Brampton spent the week-end at their homes here.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WHEN A PASS IS FORCING

SUPPOSE your side has opened the bidding and, in a perfectly natural way, has reached a game contract despite repeated bids of their suit by opponents. You surely expect to be able to make your game. But then, suppose the opponents then bid game themselves in their own suit. Your side is then confronted with the question of whether to double them or bid one more in your own suit. In these circumstances, a pass by the member of your side having the first turn after the hostile bid is practically a command to his partner to either double or bid. His decision depends on two factors—what he thinks his side can do to the opponents' contract and what he thinks his own side can make.

North: ♠ A Q J 8 ? ♥ 7 4 2 ♦ K 10 ♣ J 8 5
West: ♠ 6 ♥ K Q J 10 6 ♦ A Q 3 ♣ K 7 3 2
East: ♠ K 9 4 ♥ A 9 8 5 3 ♦ 9 5 3 ♣ 10 6
South: ♠ 10 7 5 2 ♥ None ♦ J 8 7 6 4 ♣ A Q 9 4

(Dealer: West. Neither side vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
1 ♥	1 ♠	2 ♥	2 ♠
3 ♥	3 ♠	4 ♥	4 ♠
Pass	Pass	5 ♥

East did exactly right in making his bid of 5-Hearts, even though his side was set a trick. One trick was lost to the defenders in spades, one in diamonds and one in clubs.

In that position was a very skilled competitor, who did some careful figuring before he made his decision. First, he weighed the possibilities of defeating the 4-Spades contract. He decided it looked pretty doubtful, especially since the length of his own heart holding made it likely that one of the opponents would be void of that suit and therefore no defensive tricks could be taken in it. His spade K looked like a probable trick on the defense, but that would still make it necessary for his partner to score three tricks in the minor suits in order to beat the spade game.

Deciding that his opponents had a genuine chance to make their contract—which they really could, with the loss of only one trick in trumps plus one each in the two minors—he then weighed the probabilities regarding 5-Hearts being makable. He reckoned it would either be made or set one trick, so made that bid and thereby saved a lot of points at a very cheap cost.

Tomorrow's Problem

North: ♠ A Q 6 4 ♥ K 10 9 ♦ A 7 ♣ K 9 7 4
West: ♠ J 8 7 5 ♥ 7 6 ♦ K J 3 2 ♣ 10 8 5
East: ♠ 10 2 ♥ 5 3 ♦ 10 9 8 5 4 ♣ Q J 3 2
South: ♠ K 9 3 ♥ A Q J 8 4 2 ♦ Q 6 ♣ A 6

(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

How would you play for 7-Hearts on this deal if West leads the heart 7? How if he leads the spade 5?

Kiska Outpost New Base To Hit Japan

By The Canadian Press

Occupation of Kiska Island by Canadian and American troops without a shot being fired—one of the strangest events of the war—places the Allied war machine on the shortest route to Tokyo, military chiefs agreed today.

In announcing the occupation Saturday in a joint statement with President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Mackenzie King said...."The control of the Aleutians Islands in the North Pacific by United States and Canadian forces will aid in the defence of Australia and New Zealand."

Under U.S. Command

He said the entire operation was carried out under United States command.

Lt.-Gen. John L. DeWitt, commander of the United States western defence command, said, "We are now on the offensive in the Pacific. The Jap is on the run. The reoccupation of Kiska has cleared our shortest highway to the Japanese empire."

While American and Canadian troops, some clearly disappointed at not finding some Japanese to kill, turned their big guns seaward in the possibility the enemy might return, speculation deepened as to just what became of the Japanese garrison of perhaps 8,500 men or more.

Where's Jap Fleet

Gen. DeWitt expressed the belief the Japanese completed their withdrawal on Aug. 8, escaping in submarines or barges, and added that he thought it doubtful many ever reached land.

Admiral Kinkaid said United States surface craft shelled "objects" in the fog at night "after the Japanese began their evacuation of Kiska," and added that "we believe we sank some of their ships, but this cannot be confirmed."

(In his announcement Saturday night Prime Minister King revealed that units of the Royal Canadian Navy were helping the United States fleet in patrolling the northern Pacific waters, but did not enlarge on their role there.

This was the first indication the Japanese may have been attacked in their flight.

Gen. DeWitt tauntingly asked "Where is the Japanese fleet?" as he interpreted the significance of the ocupation. His question paralleled that of the Japanese after Pearl Harbor: "Where is the United States fleet?"

Gas Shortage

MONTICELLO, N.Y., Aug. 24 — (AP)—State troopers estimated last night that 800 to 900 New York city motorists heading home from trips "upstate" had been stranded in Sullivan County when they ran short of fuel and found most filling stations out of gasoline.

Cheering Crowds Greet Premier King, Churchill

By C. R. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC, Aug. 24 — (CP). — Prime Minister Churchill drove today in an open car through streets lined with thousands of cheering people and visitors who were given their first close view of the distinguished visitor since his arrival at the Citadel two weeks ago.

It was a triumphal procession for the British Prime Minister who was kept busy waving his hat, giving the "V-sign" and acknowledging cheers while perched precariously on the folded down top of his car.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King sat on Mr. Churchill's left and the two stood together to receive applause when the car made its only stop— in front of the City Hall where the crowd was most dense.

There the show was almost stolen when Mr. King spied Mrs. Churchill and her daughter, Mary watching the scene from a third-floor window of the City Hall.

He waved and shouted above the din but it was a matter of seconds before Mr. Churchill, whose hand was being grasped by those surging about the car, had his attention focussed on the right window.

Then the crowd spied Mrs. Churchill and the cheering broke out afresh as the car carrying the two Prime Ministers — Mr. Churchill's light grey felt crushed in and slanted at a rakish angle — moved off up the hill and back to the Citadel.

Mr. Churchill wore a white tropical suit while Mr. King was in a heavier, grey business suit.

Crowds gathered several hours before the Churchill car, guarded before and behind by motorcycle police and cars of officials and secret service men, turned out onto Grande Allee from the Citadel driveway about 12:45 p.m. E.D.T.

Shorts-clad tourists mingled with Quebec residents. Flags were waved and cheering broke out wherever crowds had gathered.

Housewifes' Alarm Aids In Capture

ST. JACQUES LE MINEUR, Que., Aug. 24 (CP)—Two Italian prisoners-of-war, who escaped from a Montreal district prison camp Friday night, were captured near here Saturday by the prompt action of a housewife.

The men, Giovani Malverni, 39, and Pietro Trizza, 31, called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jean Baptiste Baudin and asked for some water. Mrs. Baudin's suspicions were aroused by their appearance and their accent and after they left she telephoned the Army Provost Corps, who overtook the Italians.

Jolliffe Gives New Party Cold Shoulder

TORONTO, Aug. 24 (CP)— E.B. Jolliffe, Ontario C.C.F. leader, said today his party "will have no link with the Labor-Progressive party," formed here during the week-end with Tim Buck, former leader of the now disbanded Communist party, as National leader.

"A complete phoney," Mr. Jolliffe called the new party. "It's just the Communist party under a new name and we want and will have no part of them. It's just a bluff to win a little popularity at the expense of the C.C.F."

The new party declared its readiness to affiliate with the C.C.F. and promised "to adhere loyally to its decisions and constitution."

"Their claim of seeking affiliation with the C.C.F. is just a blind," Mr. Jolliffe said. "One of their main purposts is to fight the C.C.F. which they have been doing for a long time. We want no part of them. They have been trying to build up a political following in Canada for 23 years and have never been able to get anywhere because their policy is neither democratic nor realistic."

W. R. Sexsmith Dies In West

PORTAGE LA PRAIRIE, Man., Aug. 24 — (CP). — W. R. (Toby) Sexsmith, memebr of the Manitoba Legislature for Portage La Prairie, and past president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, died there early to-day. He was 58 years old.

Born at Napanee, Ont., Mr. Sexsmith came West with his parents in 1885.

After graduating in law, he started practice here as partner of the Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, and in 1933 was elected to the Manitoba House as a Conservative member. He succeeded Col. F. G. Taylor, who resigned his seat on his appointment to the Manitoba Court of King's Bench.

Mr. Sexsmith was president of the Portage La Prairie Rink Company, past president of the Manitoba Hockey Association and the Canadian Hockey Association, and active in all community sports.

60 Jap Bombers Raid Szechwan

CHUNGKING, Aug. 24 (AP). — More than 60 Japanese bombers swarmed over Szechwan Province in two waves today, one of which attacked targets in the immediate Yangtse River trading centre 145 miles northeast of this provincial Chinese capital.

Muffled explosions were audible in Chungking but the city itself, which was last bombed on Aug. 31, 1941, was untouched. The alarm lasted two hours.

The raid marked the late opening of Chungking's "bombing season," which in 1941 and earlier years usually started early in May.

It was believed here that the Japanese, goaded by attacks on Canton and other important Japanese-held points, executed today's raid for domestic propaganda purposes.

Canadian Fliers Describe Raid Over Ruhr

By ALAN RANDAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Aug. 24 — (CP Cable) — Dense cloud obscured Leverkusen when R.C.A.F. squadrons part of a large R.A.F. - R.C.A.F. bombing force, reached their target during last night's assault on Western Germany

The Canadians ran a gauntlet of night fighters while going in on their target, and one of them was destroyed by FO. W. M. Maxwell, 23-year-old air gunner from Leamington, Ont., "Max" gave the German 300 rounds and the enemy plane caught fire and exploded.

Cloud and the night fighters did not stop the Halifax squadrons commanded by Wing Cmdrs. D. W. M. Smith of Preston, Ont., and M. M. Fleming of Ottawa from reaching their objective where they dropped bombs and incendiaries from widely scattered fires, causing big explosions.

Sgt. John Lynk of Canning, N. S., air gunner, said two explosions "came up like red plumes through cloud at 12,000 feet."

Fought off Fighters

Two attacks by night fighters on the plane in which he flew as rear gunner were reported by Sgt. Ken Sawyer of Windsor, Ont. His bomber was skippered by Flt. L. A. J. Hughes of Hamilton, Ont.

Three Canadian members of a Lancaster crew on its first operational trip fought off two attacks and damaged a Focke-Wulf 190.

WO. Hands Dsaperng, wireless operator of Green Point, Ont., passed up leave to resume operations after being in hospital for eight months with serious burns as the result of a crash. He thought the Ruhr defences were lighter than when he made his last trip.

Other Canadians participating included Sgt. Bill Cameron of Sarnia, Ont., WO. Alf. Harrison of Fergus, Ont., and Sgt. Daniel Columbus of Niagara Falls, Ont.

Other airmen helping man Lancasters included FO. A. Novick of 290 Beverley St., Sault Ste Marie, Ont.

Have you energy for the EXTRA things?

Ellie has...

You've seen Ellie's picture before... She's a photographer's model in her spare time, poses for pictures in advertisements appearing all over Canada. Ellie lives with her parents, has a regular daytime job, lots of friends, enjoys her modelling. "Don't think it isn't hard work, though," she says. "You have to be able to look fresh and lively even after standing under those hot lights for hours. Believe me, it takes a lot of energy. Especially after working at the office all day. But I keep fit," says Ellie...

She smiles for the camera AFTER WORKING ALL DAY

"I work in the office of a big construction company. We're very busy these days on war jobs, so the hours are sometimes long... tiring, but no real exercise. But I'm careful about my habits. No harsh cathartics for me! Instead, I make sure I get plenty of 'bulk' in my diet—the pleasant way. I start every morning with a big bowl of Kellogg's Bran Flakes. They're so delicious I enjoy them as a cereal, and they certainly help keep me fit for my job and the extra things too."

F.D.R. RENEWS COOPERATION PLEDGE

Nazi Retreat Becomes General Rout

Fresh Reserves Fail To Stem Russian Advance

LONDON, Aug. 26 — (CP). — The Red Army continued to-day to hammer away at the off-balance Germans retreating from Kharkov, and a Soviet communique announced new successes all along the line as the Russian forces drove toward Poltava, 75 miles to the south-west and little more than halfway to the Nazis' Dnieper River defence line.

The war bulletin—broadcast from Moscow—said the Nazis, exhausted by the battle for Kharkov, were rushing reserves into the line, but in spite of this the Red Army advanced both south and west of the city, killing 2,000 Germans and disabling 25 tanks in sharp fighting. North-west of the city other units of the Russian Army captured several villages.

The communique indicated the German retreat from Kharkov was reaching the proportions of a rout, with the Nazi troops abandoning considerable stocks of war material and armored equipment.

77 Tanks Burned.

The communique said that on Monday alone the Red Army had destroyed 77 tanks and 106 planes in fighting on all fronts.

The Kharkov area continued to be the focal point of the Russian advance. The fall of the city gave the Soviets several objectives to aim at, but the most likely choice was Poltava, with Kiev, Ukrainian capital 260 miles to the west on the Dneiper, as the big goal of the summer offensive.

In the Donets Basin south-west of Vorshilovgrad, where the Russians previously reported they had breached the Nazi lines, the Red Army broke up German counter-attacks, inflicted heavy losses and captured several towns, the Soviet communique declared.

Heavy fighting was reported south of Izyum, where 1,000 Germans were said to have been killed when Russians stormed a Nazi strong point. Much equipment was captured and 33 German planes were reported shot down.

Four towns were retaken in the drive toward Bryansk on the central front, the communique said. Soviet naval units and the Fleet Air Arm were active in the Gulf of Finland, where two German transports totalling 8,000 tons were sunk, the bulletin said.

The Little Things

BELLEVILLE, Aug. 25. — (CP).—Homey communique from the Sicilian front: "Fruit is beginning to ripen in Sicily, the weather is very warm and the flies and ants are very bad." Such details, not of battles, were written home by Cpl. Douglas Ruttan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Canniff Ruttan, Belleville.

Using Himmler To Stiffen Sagging Morale

By THOMAS F. HAWKINS
Associated Press Staff Writer

BERNE, Aug. 25—(AP)—Heinrich Himmler's appointment as German Minister of the Interior was interpreted by Swiss dispatches from Berlin today as a move to keep the Nazis on top to the bitter end and check any inclination toward weakness on the home front.

The Berlin correspondent of the Neue Zuercher Zeitung, declaring the appointment had a "meaning which cannot be misunderstood," described the move as "a warning to all wishing to start new political trends."

Coming close on the heels of the season's first mass aerial raid on Berlin, Himmler's elevation was seen as a possible indication that morale in Germany is lower than hitherto had been believed.

The Neue Zuercher Zeitung dispatch said the situation was one "in which is is convenient for the Nazis to stress firmness."

Himmler's appointment means that the dreaded Gestapo chieftain assumes direct charge of thousands of civil servants and bureaux throughout the country. The Gestapo hitherto has kept him informed of what nearly everyone is doing; his new post will both simplify his job and expand his power.

It was presumed that the appointment must have been made with the consent and approval of the army, thus indicating that the top military leaders still are ready to carry on the war in co-operation with the Hitler regime despite old differences with the Nazi party.

Were this not so, the army doubtless would not have permitted a man of Himmler's calibre to assume one of the most important posts in the Reich.

The Times of London described Himmler's designation as "the most outstanding piece of news which has been received from the German home front for months." Dispatches from London said the news was received there as an indication Hitler had deemed it necessary to take stern measures to keep the home front in line and prevent any recurrence of the collapse of 1918. One London commentator said Hitler's action was equivalent to making his "lord high executioner chief secretary of state."

Berlin City Burning Fliers Claim

Mosquitos Raid Capital During Night

By WILLIAM SMITH WHITE
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Aug. 25.—(AP).—R.A.F. Mosquito squadrons struck again at Berlin last night in a quick follow-up to the devastating raid by Britain's heavy bombers the previous night and found fires still burning in the city, which was half obscured by smoke columns but dimly lighted in some areas by the glare of hundreds of searchlights thrown up by the Nazis.

This stab at the German capital came a few hours after American bombers dealt another daylight blow at enemy aircraft production in France, loosing their bombs upon a Bordeaux assembly plant while en route to Britain from North African bases where they landed after the raid on Regensburg more than a week ago.

No fighters were seen in last night's sweep over Hitler's scarred and blackened capital, but anti-aircraft guns were active. The Mosquitoes let go against undescribed objectives within the city and came back to base without a loss. Other night-flying R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. planes laid mines in enemy waters.

73,000 Homeless.

A German communique said slight damage was done to buildings by explosives dropped by the light bombers which "undertook harassing flights last night to the North German region."

The Nazi-controlled Paris radio reported 25 persons were killed and 100 injured in raids on the Paris region yesterday.

R.C.A.F. Headquarters announced that Canadian bombers were active in the mine-laying. No Canadian aircraft were lost.

To-day is the third anniversary of the first R.A.F. raid on Berlin when an attack was carried out by a relatively small force of planes.

Radio France quoted the German underground station "Atlantic" as saying at least 73,000 Berlin residents were homeless as a result of Monday night's attack.

Daylight Raid.

During daylight yesterday American heavy bombers returned to the attack on the Continent, hitting at the Nazi-controlled French airfields of Conches and Evreaux-Fauville under an umbrella of R.C.A.F. fighters. The airfield at Villacoublay was also hit.

American Flying Fortresses which rained destruction upon Regensburg on August 17 and continued on across the Alps to air bases in North Africa also completed the homeward leg on the trip yesterday, loosing their cargoes of bombs en route upon an aircraft assembly plant in Bordeaux, France.

Great Achievement.

The raiders' arrival at home bases in the British Isles completed the first round-trip American shuttle operation described by Brigadier Fred L. Anderson, Wing Commander of the 8th Air Force, as the "greatest operational flight the United States Army Air Force has made to date."

Vast Assembly Welcomes Pres. Roosevelt

OTTAWA, Aug. 25.—(CP).—Prime Minister Mackenzie King introduced President Roosevelt to a vast crowd assembled on Parliament Hill today as "an undaunted champion of the rights of free men and a mighty leader of the forces of freedom in a world at war."

He welcomed the President as "a life-long friend of our country" who, with Prime Minster Churchill, had contributed "a further advance towards complete victory" at the Quebec conference.

The association of Canadian, American and British troops in Sicily and in the Aleutians is a happy augury for the future, the Prime Minister said, because "we are firmly convinced that in the close association of the British Commonwealth of Nations and the United States of America lies the surest guarantee of international peace and of the furtherance of the well-being of mankind throughout the world."

Mr. King said he thanked Mr. Roosevelt "for having honored the capital city by your presence at a time which is without parallel in the history of human affairs. The Canadian people will, I know wish me to express to you the admiration which they feel for you and for your great career.

First Visit.

"We have long known that your services to the cause of freedom far exceeds limits of race and bounds of nationality.

President Tells Ottawans Hitler Would Surrender Now If Quebec Decisions Known

Promise Made At Queen's 5 Years Ago To Sidestep Isolationism Repeated; Post-War Aims Discussed At Quebec

By J. F. SANDERSON, Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Aug. 25.—(CP).—President Roosevelt announced today "there was much talk of the post-war world" at the Quebec conference, when he stood before thousands of people on Parliament Hill.

Reiterating his faith in the four freedoms and the idea of collective security in the post-war world, the President promised "we are going to get rid of outlaws this time."

"We are making sure—absolutely, irrevocably sure — that this time the lesson is driven home to them once and for all."

It was exactly five years ago last Wednesday that I came to Canada to receive the high honor of a degree at Queen's University. On that occasion—one year before the invasion of Poland, three years before Pearl Harbor—I said:

"We in the Americas are no longer a far-away continent, to which the eddies of controversies beyond the seas could bring no interest or no harm. Instead, we in the Americas have become a consideration to every propaganda office and to every general staff beyond the seas. The vast amount of our resources, the vigor of our commerce, and the strength of our men have made us vital factors in world peace whether we choose it or not."

Had No Choice

We did not choose this—and that "we" includes each and every one of the United Nations.

War was violently forced upon us by criminal aggressors who measure their standards of morality by the extent of the death and the destruction that they can inflict upon their neighbors.

In his war, Canadians and Americans have fought shoulder to shoulder—as our men and women and our children have worked together and played together in happier times of peace.

Of the Quebec Coference, the president said:

"During the past few days in Quebec, the combined staffs have been sitting around a table talking things over, discussing ways and means, in the manner of friends, in the manner of partners, I may even say in the manner of members of the same family.

"We have talked constructively of our common purposes in this war—of our determination to achieve victory in the shortest possible time—of our essential co-operation with our great and brave fighting Allies.

"And we have arrived, harmoniously, at certain definite conclusions.

"Of course, I am not at liberty to disclose just what these conclusions are. But, in due time, we shall communicate the secret information of the Quebec Conference to Germany, Italy and Japan.

Explains Kiska

"We shall communicate this information to our enemies in the only language their twisted minds seem capable of understanding.

"Sometimes I wish that that great master of intuition, the Nazi leader, could have been present in spirit at the Quebec Conference — I am thoroughly glad he was not there in person.

"If he and his generals had known our plans they would have realized that discretion is still the better part of valor and that surrender would pay them better now than later."

Today, in devout gratitude, we are celebrating a brilliant victory won by British, Canadian and American fighting men in Sicily.

Today, we rejoice also in another event for which we need not apologize. A year ago Japan occupied several of the Aleutian Islands and made a great "to-do" about the invasion of the continent of North America.

Action Justified

I regret to say that some Americans and some Canadians—wished for our governments to withdraw from the Atlantic and the Mediterranean campaigns and divert all our vast strength to the removal of the Japs from a few rocky specks in the Aleutians.

Today, our wiser councils have maintained our efforts in the Atlantic area and the Southwest Pacific with ever-growing contributions; and in the Northwest Pacific a relatively small campaign has been assisted by the Japs themselves in the elimination of the last Jap from Attu and Kiska.

"We have been told that Japs never surrender; their headlong re-

Tumultuous Greeting Delights Roosevelt
30,000 Jam Broad Lawns Near Peace Tower

By JAMES McCOOK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Aug. 25 (CP)—About 30,000 Canadians today gave President Roosevelt a wildly-enthusiastic welcome when he arrived at an open-air meeting on Parliament Hill at noon.

With the city in holiday mood, the applause seldom paused from the moment the president's car swung on to Parliament Hill at 11:45 a.m. EDT until it left half an hour later.

When the president concluded his speech, the crowd, packed on the broad lawns before the Peace Tower, waved hats and shouted.

Mr. Roosevelt turned to Prime Minister Mackenzie King and said:

"I shall never forget that sight."

The crowd was gay. It howled with laughter when the president made quips about the Japanese and Hitler. When he spoke of feeling at home in Canada — and Canadians feeling at home in the United States—the applause made echoes ring from nearby buildings.

Earlier, when the president first stepped to the platform, applause broke out. It rose and died, then rose again.

High-pitched voices shrieked "hooray" and hats went flying.

Mr. King came forward to introduce the president and once more the applause rose. It cut into Mr. King's speech at several points as he referred to the amity existing between Canada and her neighbor-nation.

When the president stood up before the battery of microphones on his speaking desk, he paused for a moment, and looked smilingly out toward the crowd.

The cabinet ministers, members of parliament, dignitaries of the church, judges, high officers of the services and diplomats seated before the platform dropped their usual reserve and cheered vigorously, some of them waving their arms.

The Girl Said No

ATCHINSON, Kas., Aug. 25.—(AP). — Probate Judge Phil Schrack was in the midst of the wedding ceremony. The girl, instead of the customary "I do," snapped "I don't!" The judge invited them back in case there was another change of mind, but hasn't heard any further details.

98 Casualties In Eighth Sicily Release

OTTAWA, Aug. 25 — (CP). — The Defence Department to-day issued the eighth list of Canada (Active) army casualties in the Sicily campaign, containing 98 names and bringing to 769 the number of casualties officially reported in lists so far.

Today's list contained the names of 18 soldiers killed in action, seven who died of wounds, one who died of causes not stated, 25 missing in action and 47 wounded. There were no commissioned officers included in the eighth Sicily list.

Planes Rake Italy From End To End

Railroad System Crippled; No Opposition

By NOLAND NORGAARD
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 25 (AP).—Allied air squadrons — significantly meeting no opposition from Axis fighters — hammered communications in Southern Italy again yesterday, including a block buster assault near Naples last night, and left an Italian cruiser afire off the South Coast, headquarters announced today.

Dive-bombers, fighter - bombers and night bombers swept out to the attacks, and depleted Axis air forces refused to battle for the second successive day. The only air opposition Monday was against bombers from the Middle East which raided Bari, in southeastern Italy.

R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. Wellingtons poured two-ton block buster bombs on steel works and railroad yards at Torre Annunziata, on the Gulf of Naples, south of the big port of Torre Annunziata.

Photographs showed both rail yards and the adjoining steel works were hard hit.

Railroads Hit

Dive-bombers rammed home two hits with 500-pound bombs on the cruiser, blowing off its stern. Fires leaped from the ship as the attackers winged away.

Other invaders blasted railroad facilities at Sapri, on the Gulf of Policastro; at Castrovillari, in the centre of southern Italy; and at Sibari, on the east coast yesterday.

Four Allied planes were missing from all attacks, headquarters reported.

A Beaufighter blew up and sank a schooner off the Italian coast near Rome.

The Beaufighter, which swept in so low it knocked off one of the schooner's masts, also left one of two barges afire. The plane crash-landed at sea on its way home but the crew was rescued. Other Beaufighters left two tugs sinking from cannon-fire attacks off Corsica.

Two formations of dive-bombers slashed roads and rail junctions at Sapri without even seeing enemy planes. They reported hitting a tunnel mouth as well as tracks.

Duce's Nephew Reported Shot

BERNE, Aug. 24 — (Delayed).—(AP). — Rome dispatches to the Swedish telegraphic agency today reported the death of Lt.-Col. Ettore Muti, Italian ace and former secretary of the Fascist Party, but gave no details. (A similar report was heard in London yesterday.)

From the Italian frontier meanwhile, came unconfirmed reports that Vito Mussolini, nephew of the former Duce and publisher of the defunct Popolo d'Italia, and Mario Appelius, leading Fastcist editorial writer and radio commentator, had been shot in the Milan sports arena on July 28.

The frontier reports said Vito Mussolini and Appelius were slain following a battle between Fascists and anti-Fascists in which twelve soldiers were killed. Aldo Barella, another Fascist journalist also was reported shot at the time.

Lend Lease Aid Now 14 Billions

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25—(AP)—President Roosevelt said to-day that except for the responsible Fascist leaders "the people of the Axis need not fear unconditional surrender to the United Nations."

In a report placing total lend-lease aid at nearly $14,000,000,000, the President again promised the feeding of the people of liberated aras.

The report said the United States has sent more lend-lease planes to Russia than to any other country and that 87 per cent of all goods sent there have been munitions, such as airplanes, tanks and guns.

The report also disclosed that the size of the American merchant fleet has increased 250 per cent since the United States entered the war and is growing at the rate of five new ships every 24 hours.

The report said lend-lease aid through July 31 totalled $13,973,-

War Board Refuses Portal To Portal Pay

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25 (AP) — The United States War Labor Board has rejected John L. Lewis' second bid for portal to portal pay for his United Mine Workers.

The Board voted 8 to 4 against approving a provision in a contract between the U.M.W. and the Illinois Coal Operators Association whereby the miners would receive $1.25 a day additional to cover their underground travel time.

Labor members of the Board cast the dissenting vote.

W.L.B. sources said the Board made the decision yesterday. It approved other provisions of the contract, including one which permits payment of time and a half for the eighth hour in any day. The miners are now on a seven- hour productive day. This excluded travel time.

Jap War Production Not Meeting Needs

NEW YORK, Aug. 25 — (AP).—The Tokyo Radio, declaring Emperor Hirohito is deeply concerned over Japanese war production, appealed to the Japanese people today to "set the mind of the Emperor at ease'" by exerting new efforts to boost production, the United States Office of War Information reported.

The appeals, the O.W.I. said, were made in broadcasts describing a series of audiences to which the Emperor summoned leaders of various industries to discuss "increased production for the elevation of fighting strength."

Two Allied Chiefs Supremely Confident

Churchill Fidgety, Roosevelt Poker-Faced During War Talks

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

This columnist once consulted the Delphic Oracle at the shimmering base of Mount Parnassus in Greece, and came away with more concrete information than was disclosed by Messrs. Churchill and Roosevelt in their press conference at Quebec at the close of their momentous parley.

The Allied pair did a highly-polished job of playing their cards close to their chests — each after his own fashion. F. D. R. went through the ordeal quite impassively, so we are told by correspondents, while the Prime Minister fidgeted.

The Puckish-faced John Bull crossed and recrossed his legs, loosened his collar, mopped his forehead, and "once he got a firm hold on a half-smoked cigar and hurled it far over the bluffs of the St. Lawrence River." Having observed Mr. Churchill at close range in London over many years I wonder whether he really was in a fidget, or whether he was putting on one of his little shots for the boys. I hate a suspicious mind.

Told Little

Both men made speeches, but neither disclosed much. However, joking aside, we didn't want them to do a lot of talking for the benefit of the enemy.

What really mattered is that the conference radiated supreme confidence, and we know from past experience that another big job has been well done. The two leaders did emphasize that the Allied war machine is grinding ahead and that great events are impending. That's something satisfactory to get ahead with.

One of the most interesting — and likely important — points brought out was that since the Quebec conversations had much to do with planning the offensive against Japan, Russia wasn't invited to participate, because the Soviet Union isn't at war with the Nipponese.

Well, while we should like to hear Moscow say that Siberian air bases would be available for the offensive against Japan, it's likely Marshal Stalin would be equally happy to hear that a 'second front' is being opened in Western Europe. Maybe he will, but in that matter the Sphinx twins held their peace. That did indicate, however, that a conference among the big three — Britain, Russia, and America — is projected, and that's of vast importance for complete understanding.

3 Officer Schools Closed

Brockville Centre Remains Open

OTTAWA, Aug. 25.—(CP).— Defence Minister Ralston announced to-day a reduction in the number of army officers to be trained in Canada.

Col. Ralston said there would be concentration at Brockville, Ont., of officer training centres and officer selection boards and centres which now are operating at Gordon Head, B.C., Three Rivers, Que., and Chilliwack, B.C.

"The army is well supplied with officers," said Col. Ralston.

"It has passed the expansion stage."

The defence minister said officer requirements for defence in Canada has "substantially decreased."

Officer requirements from now on will be principally to replace casualties and wastage, with consequent curtailment in officer training facilities, he said.

Col. Ralston's statement said that in future a great proportion of officers will come from candidates with overseas service, some of whom will be trained in England and some in Canada.

The Gordon Head, Chilliwack and Three Rivers centres will be closed on Sept. 30.

The school of army instruction at St. Jerome, Que., will be continued but with reduced enrolments.

Kelland Has Postwar Plan

Says U.S. Must Become Impregnable

NEW YORK, Aug. 25 (AP)—Clarence Buddington Kelland presented to the American Republican party today a post-war foreign policy based on United Nations' collaborations but added that the United States regardless must ring itself with such a defence that "no nation, no coalition of nations, shall be able to penetrate our fortifications or reach our shores."

Kelland, author, executive director of the Republican National Committee and Republican National committeemen from Arizona, conceded that the collaboration program he proposed might fail, leaving this nation alone to face a hostile world, and declared:

"Come war or peace, come upheaval or revolution, come whirlwind or convulsion, come hell or high water, the United States of America must and shall be made impregnable.

"From this day forth our country must not merely be able to prepare for war, but stand panoplied, equipped to the last button, and ready for war."

Kelland, who is to speak tonight before the New York County Republican Committee made public this prepared address "The Zones of Safety Plan" in advance of the meeting.

He said his plan would be presented at the Sept. 6-7 meeting of the Republican post-war advisory council at Mackinac Island, Michigan.

RIOTS IN 6 DENMARK CITIES BRING LARGE NAZI REINFORCEMENTS

50,000 Additional Troops Sent To Copenhagen Sabotage Wave Continues

5,000 Danes Demonstrate In Great Parade Carrying Allied Flags; Strikes Cripple Many War Industries

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 25.—(AP).—More than three German divisions—between 40,000 and 50,000 troops—were reported quartered in Copenhagen today as the Nazis sought to stamp out riots, strikes and mass demonstrations raging against occupation authorities in Denmark.

The German forces, which began moving in from Norway before dawn last Saturday, took over public halls and other buildings as barracks, and posed an immediate food shortage in the Danish capital, already under short rations, Swedish press reports said. The contingent was the largest ever quartered in Copenhagen.

Protest parades against German occupation were reported from Odense, where 5,000 persons, carrying British, American and Danish flags marched through the streets. Similar demonstrations took place in other Danish cities.

Government Firm.

The Danish government has refused to yield administration of justice to the Germans, who have demanded that saboteurs, reported increasingly active, be tried under Nazi law.

A general strike continued to tie up Odense, Swedish reports said, and Danish patriots have plundered shops of German sympathizers.

Half a dozen Danish cities, in addition to Copenhagen were reported under a state of emergency as Nazi troops strove to put down what has been called the "people's revolt." Sabotage increased against transportation and industry serving the German war machine, dispatches said.

Girls Disrobed

It was reported that the new divisions rushed to Copenhagen had been moved from Norway.

Five thousand persons, protesting the new troop movement, were reported to have paraded through the streets of Odense carrying British, American and Danish flags.

Girls who had gone with German soldiers were reported to have been disrobed and red swastikas were painted on their cheeks.

Shops of German sympathizers in Odense were plundered and their owners were taken to the country in protective custody by the Danes as a general strike continued to tie up the city, the reports said.

Meanwhile, despatches reaching

Pacific Theatre Advances Are Substantial

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Aug. 25—(AP).—The thunder of artillery, firing from the New Georgia jungle on Japanese making a last stand at Bainoko and from New Guinea mountain ridges on other Japanese in a last stand at Salamaua, accented the fact to-day that the offensive remains firmly in Allied hands.

As the current drive which opened June 30 neared the end of the second month, a spokesman for Allied Headquarters reported progress to-day on both flanks of the 750-mile long battle arc.

On New Georgia, American jungle troops have succeeded in pushing through harassing enemy patrols barring the way to Bairoko, 12 miles north, and have brought up artillery to blast away at the Japanese garrison holding the Kula Gulf harbor.

On New Guinea, where Allied troops have the Salamaua airdrome almost with in their grasp, Australian troops advanced north of the Francisco river, while mountain artillery behind them shelled the defenders.

These troops crossed the river Monday at a point only two miles west of the air strip. Just how much of an advance they made yesterday as they moved on prepared Japanese defences was not stated but the supokesman said considering the type of jungle warfare, it was "substantial."

Above there, on the former Japanese-held Kolombangara Island, American forces are consolidating positions occupied Aug. 15 on Vella Lavella in the fact of enemy opposition.

Jap Supplies Lost In Raids

NEW DELHI, Aug. 25 (CP)—R.A.F. Beaufighters and Hurricanes on offensive patrol along the Irrawaddy and Lower Chindwin Rivers in Burma struck at Japanese shipping and rail communications yesterday, an Allied communique announced today.

Thirteen loaded sampans were sunk and a number of others were damaged in the sweeps. Others were damaged on the Kaladan River. Beaufighters wrecked a locomotive in a cannon attack near Thazi.

Vengeance dive bombers attacked a Japanese supply depot at Baguna south of Buthedaunt and hits were scored in the target area.

President Tells

treat satisfies us just as well.

Post-War Aims

The President devoted a considerable part of his speech to post-war aims, suggesting indignantly that "we spend our energies and our resources and the very lives of our sons and daughters because a band of gansters in the community of nations declines to recognize the fundamentals of decent, human conduct.

"We have been forced to call out the sheriff's posse to break up the gang in order that gangsterism may be eliminated in the community of nations.

"We are making sure — absolutely, irrevocably sure— that this time the lesson is driven home to them once and for all. We are going to be rid of outlaws this time.

"Every one of the United Nations believes that only a real and lasting peace can justify the sacrifices we are making, and our unanimity gives us confidence in seeking that goal.

Wants Better World

"It is no secret that at Quebec there was much talk of the post-war world. That discussion was doubtless duplicated simultaneously in dozens of nations and in hundreds of cities and among millions of people.

"There is a longing in the air. It is not a longing to go back to what they call 'the good old days.' I have distinct reservation as to how good 'the good old days' were. I would rather believe that we can achieve new and better days."

It was being demonstrated in the war that "concerted action can accomplish things."

"Surely by unanimous action in make strides toward a greater freedom from want than the world has yet enjoyed.

"Surely my unanimous action in driving out the outlaws and keeping them under heel forever, we can attain a freedom and fear of violence."

It made him angry, the President said, to hear people assert that the Four Freedoms and the Atlantic Charter are nonsense because they are unattainable. The same sort of people must have sneered at the declaration of Independence, the Magna Charta and even, perhaps, the Ten Commandments.

Love Thy Neighbor

"We concede that these great teachings are not perfectly lived up to today and we concede that the good old world cannot arrive at Utopia overnight.

"But I would rather be a builder than a wrecker, hoping always that the structure of life is growing—not dying.

"May the destroyers who still persist in our midst decrease. They, like some of our enemies, have a long road to travel before they accept the ethics of humanity.

Some day, in the distant future perhaps—but some day with certainty—all of them will remember with the Master—'Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself'."

The President concluded his speech with a few sentences in French, extolling the union of two races in Canada, the harmony of the equal partnership. It was, he said, "an example to all mankind—an example everywhere in the world."

Premier G. Drew Cancels Timber Contracts

TORONTO, Aug. 25—(CP)— The Ontario cabinet, at a meeting yesterday, appointed Hon. George H. Challies, minister without portfolio, as vice-chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission following the resignation of W. L. Houck, former member for Niagara Falls and minister without portfolio in the Liberal government, who was defeated in the Aug. 4 election.

J. Albert Smith, second government representative on the commission also tendered his resignation but the new government will continue with only one representative on the Hydro body.

Premier Drew announced that contracts with seven companies under which grants of timberland—13,729,280 acres—in northwestern Ontario had been given them would be cancelled by an order-in-council on Friday.

He said the companies had not fulfilled the terms of the contracts and had not erected mills as required.

"Without such mills, there can be no excuse whatever for permitting these companies to blanket great areas in Northern Ontario and keep other companies out," the Premier said. "This is merely a first step in placing the whole administration of our forest resources under a forest resources commission."

The seven companies are: Pulpwood Supply Company, Ltd., General Timber Company Ltd., Huron Forest Products, Ltd., Soo Pulp Products Ltd., English River Pulp and Paper Ltd., Vermillion Lake Pulp Co., Ltd., and Western Pulp and Paper Co., Ltd.

CCF Membership Backs Leaders

Mrs. Dorise Neilson, M.P., is quoted by the Globe and Mail of August 24 to have said with reference to the Coldwell and Jolliffe statements that the C.C.F. would have nothing to do with the Communist Party under its new name of Labor-Progressive that these statements were "merely the statement of leaders—the rank and file of the C.C.F. have not yet spoken."

This looks like the continuance of the old Communist tactic of slurring C.C.F. leaders while trying to woo the rank and file and signals the recommencement of the Communist fifth column activities in the C.C.F. and Labor movements in an endeavor to rule or bust these organizations under the cover of friendship.

By way of reply to Mrs. Neilson the Executive Council of the Peterborough C.C.F. Association, commends the stand taken by our National and Provincial leaders, M. J. Coldwell and Ted Jolliffe, in the statements made by them to the press relative to an appeal by the Communist Constituent Convention held on the week-end of August 21, 1943, for co-operation with the C.C.F. in which our leaders reiterate National and Provincial policy forbidding joint action or co-operation with the Communist Party, now known as the Labor-Progressive Party."

Labor Groups Demand Peace

MADRID, Aug. 25 (AP)—Mounting tension in Northern Italy, due to labor's unsatisfied demands for peace, was indicated today in Rome dispatches to the newspaper El Alcazar reporting on important conferences in Turin between Leopoldo Piccardi, Minister of Corporations in Premier Badoglio's cabinet, and two leaders of the Workers Confederation.

The conferences, the dispatches said, are considered of "tremendous importance" to Italy's future in view of reports national political problems, instead of labor developments, were the main subjects of discussion.

Piccardi, the correspondent declared, later reported to Badoglio on the opinion of the 3,000,000 organized members of the Workers Confederation concerning the course the government should chart, particularly "in connection with the war."

This seemed to indicate Badoglio might be forced to recognize labor leaders' persistent demands for peace, emphasized by physical demonstrations and strikes.

The Rome reports did not make it clear whether the Badoglio government would attempt to pacify the working classes by conciliatory statements or action pointing to peace, or whether he would resort to force to end their agitation.

Nazis were unwilling to risk further depletion of their forces protecting Italian communications, already battered beyond immediate repair in many places.

Allied planes in the Middle East downed an enemy aircraft off the coast of Cirenaica yesterday, and Beaufighters damaged an enemy merchant ship off western Greece. One Allied plane was lost.

Bushel Well-Used

DES MOINES, Ia., Aug. 25 (AP)—There's a bushel of wheat that has gone all-out for the war. It has been sold and resold successively until $121 has been collected on it for the U.S.O. and Smokes-for-Soldiers Funds. And the final purchases, a milling concern, milled the bushel into flour, and it will be served in the form of rolls at a Sunday U.S.O. breakfast for servicemen.

Topsy Turvy

QUEBEC, Aug. 25 (CP) — Mrs. Winston Churchill, wife of the British Prime Minister, said in a radio address last night that with women up to 50 liable to callup for war service "Britain is pretty well turned upside down and inside out—and none the worse for that."

1st Division Inspected By McNaughton

Commander Flies From Africa To Battlefront

By ROSS MUNRO

Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIAN TROOPS IN SICILY, Aug. 25 (CP Cable)— Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, officer commanding Canadian Forces Overseas, has arrived in Sicily, it was announced today.

The general came from North Africa yesterday (Saturday) by plane to make his first visit to his Canadian troops which formed part of the famous British 8th Army during the Sicilian campaign. The soldiers are now resting and getting back into top shape after their strenuous campaign.

Last (Saturday) night the Canadian military leader stayed at divisional headquarters here, having long talks with Maj.-Gen. Guy Simonds, the commanding officer of the 1st Division during the Sicilian invasion, and the senior staff officers.

This morning (Sunday) began a tour of every Canadian formation that took part in the successful invasion, and later he will visit the battle grounds where his troops fought.

It is expected Gen. MacNaughton will have conferences with Gen. Sir Harold Alexander, officer commanding all ground forces in Sicily, and Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery, fiery leader of the 8th Army.

It was not known how long Gen. McNaughton's battlefront visit would last, but he is expected to remain here for a week or so.

Fire Chief Says Off-Duty Men Can't Be Called

ST. CATHARINES, Aug. 26 — "No municipal ordnance or fire chief's ruling can compel an Ontario fireman in municipalities of 10,000 population or over to be subject to 'call-back duty' for all and sundry alarms, during that period when he should be off duty from the fire station," asserted Capt. E. F. Bevis, Toronto, president of the Provincial Federation of Ontario Firefighters, speaking here Tuesday at the 35th annual convention of the Dominion Association of Fire Chiefs.

Capt. Bevis' address provoked considerable discussion. Fire chiefs from average-sized cities claimed that it would be impossible for them to deal with fires of any consequence unless off-duty firemen were summoned. They contended that only cities of the size of Toronto, Ottawa, Hamilton and Windsor in Ontario were sufficiently staffed to meet average fires without off-duty assistance.

"I appeal to you gentlemen who are fire chiefs in Ontario and who are using this 'call back to duty system' to go back to your municipality and abolish it," declared Capt. Bevis. He referred to the "Fire Department Hours of Labor Act," and charged that "some municipalities are evading the spirit of this act."

He added: "This practice is miserable and unfair, and is the result of municipal governments failing to bring their fire departments up to the required strength in order that the shift on duty may be sufficient to man the apparatus."

Capt. Bevis said the time was opportune for educating authorities and the general public regarding the fire hazard and the importance of adequate fire protection because the use of fire as a "war weapon" has been demonstrated.

Speaking of inadequate staffing of many fire departments, Capt. Bevis asserted: "I don't know a municipal fire department (permanently paid) in Ontario that has a strength—on duty at any one time—sufficiently large enough to prop-

3 Youths Held For Robbing Orono Creamery

COBOURG, Aug. 26 —(ENS)— Wanted for the Orono Creamery robbery of Aug. 17, three Toronto youths were picked up by police of that city and brought back to Cobourg. Their names are Norman Spence, age 17, Henry Peterson, 18, and Gerald Goulby, 17. Appearing in police court yesterday morning, they were charged with the Orono theft and remanded in custody until next week. It is alleged that they broke into the creamery and stole around $3,400 in cash and bonds. Police didn't say whether they would also be charged with the $8,500 bond and cash robbery of Brighton Public Utilities. The trio are wanted in several places in Ontario for safe-cracking.

After their arrest in Toronto over the week-end, they were brought to Cobourg by Chief W. J. Carey and Provincial Constable D. W. Wilson.

Garden Club Display

Of special interest to the people of Northumberland County is a meeting to be held on Friday evening, September 10, when the Girls' Garden Club will present their achievement day display and conclude their year's activities. The meeting will be held in Grafton.

This work will be in charge of Miss Jean M. Scott, Home Economics Coach, assisted by Agricultural Representative R. C. Banbury, who arranged the contest and judged the gardens. The special feature will be an address by C. H. Hodge of the Farmers' Magazine. This publication has for some years sponsored a contest featuring the improvement of farm home surroundings.

It is pointed out that the people of the district are welcome to attend with the assurance that they will not only loan encouragement to the girls in their work with victory gardens, but will have an evening of interesting discussion at no cost. Women's Institutes of the community are asked to sponsor this event and encourage their members to see what has been done in the Girls' Garden Competition. The meeting will be held in Grafton town hall.

Aged Woman To Play

Mrs. J. G. Scott of Almira, 96-year-old lady who is visiting in Cobourg, will give a piano solo on the Thursday evening band concert program this week. A remarkably gifted woman, who has retained her dexterity of touch in spite of her years, she plays difficult compositions without any trouble. She was an organist for many years in various churches throughout Ontario, retiring from this work at the age of 80 while organist at Holy Trinity Church, Pembroke. Mrs. Scott has several compositions to her credit.

Mail Courier Fined

Bob Spry, local mail courier, was fined $10 and costs on a charge of permitting his car, used in carrying the mail, to be driven by one holding neither operator's permit or chauffeur's license. The car was driven by his son, who is under age.

Tried to Drown Baby Police Chief Says

PORT HOPE, Aug. 25.— (CP).— Edgar Nelson, 45, formerly of Port Hope, held on a nominal charge of vagrancy after he allegedly attempted to drown his year-old infant daughter in a hotel bathtub here Sunday night, was remanded in Port Hope police court Tuesday for mental examination.

Police Chief Gordon Hardy said that, in answering a call to the local hotel Sunday night, he entered Nelson's room and saw him "plunge a baby under the water of the bathtub and hold it under." Chief Hardy said he took the baby from the tub and called Dr. C. B. Kelly, who took the child to the hospital.

Nelson's other daughter, four years of age, was also in the room, but was unharmed, Chief Hardy said.

Revised Plan On Immigration Is Post-War Need Of Canada

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 25 (ENS) —A revised selective immigration plan is one of this country's post war needs if Canada is to take her place among the nations of the world. So declared Rev. Gordon N. Maxwell, a former Immigration Chaplain at the Port of Quebec, in an address before Rotarians here on Monday. The speaker, who is at present pastor of St. John's United church, and brought his recollections of immigration problems prior to the last war up to date, pointed to the tremendous opportunities this country offered to a population of fifty million which could be supported here without reducing the standard of living.

Subsidies Paid

Rev. Maxwell spoke of the methods used to attract people to settle in this country as practiced prior to the outbreak of the present war. Not only did the various large steamship companies play a part in publicizing Canada but so did representatives of several other organizations. The steamship companies were paid a subsidy on the reduced fares provided to certain classes of immigrants, some of whom were of the less desirable type. To provide a certain measure of control the Government provided rigid medical examinations at the port of entry, where the immigrants were questioned at length in an efort to check up on their ability and desirability.

Raising the question as to what would be the policy of the government at the close of the war Rev. Maxwell declared there was every reason to be optimistic. "We can expect an influx of a great many industries from the old land—of capital, anxious to be invested away from the extreme of nationalism and the social revolution which is bound to occur when the readjustment period comes after the war." One way in which Canada might insure getting the right kind of people to populate the country would be to begin now with an all out effort to retain as many British school age children here as possible. He suggested the government might even make immigration more attractive to some by providing an income tax free period.

Assist in Developing Country

Experience of the past has already shown that those who have caused this country the most trouble are the immigrants who would have been classed as 'undesirable' and have for the most part settled in groups in Western provinces. It is among these groups that the large portion of conscientious objectors is found. The speaker said he was strongly opposed to the idea of bringing people into this country merely for the purpose of providing cheap labor. Millions of people were however needed to assist in the development of this country.

A vote of thanks to the speaker was moved by Rotarian O. C. Watson, and guests at the meeting included Mr. C. Amey, Montreal; Mr. Gordon Ault, New York City; Mr. William Hall, Mimico; Mr. George White, Belleville.

Rev. W. Hicks Leaving Campbellford Church

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 25 (ENS) —Rev. W. J. T. Hicks, who for the past four years has been in charge of the Free Methodist church, George street, will give his farewell address to members of the congregation on Sunday. Rev. Hicks has been transferred to Cordova Mines where he will assume three charges in that vicinity commencing in September. He succeeded Rev. A. B. Moffatt in the Campbellford charge and during his term here has won many friends in all denominations. During the past year he has been president of the Campbellford and District Ministerial Association and he played a prominent roll in the organizing of courses in religious instruction in the local public school which was one of the principal undertakings of that Association during the past year. Rev. B. Babcock of Newmarket will take over the Campbellford charge on September 5.

Bensfort News

Rev. M. Rowland, who has enlisted as chaplain in the Services, preached his farewell sermon on Sunday in the local church.

Clifford Emberson, who underwent an operation in Nicholls Hospital, has returned home and is gradually improving.

Dr. Walter Dawson of Toronto spent the week-end with his mother, Mrs. Janet Dawson.

Mrs. Ross Moncrief, Jack and Helen were visitors to Bensfort on Sunday.

Jack Nurse and Charlie Fisher motored to Havelock on Saturday evening.

J. Armstrong of Keene spent last week at the home of his son, Albert Armstrong.

A False Alarm

CHATHAM, Aug. 25. — (CP).—"Chatham, Canada's fashionable watering place," "Bath of the Dominion," or some equally glamorous title seemed promised this city the other day when steaming, hot water began to bubble from the earth on St. Clair street. The bubble burst, though, when investigation showed it merely an overflow from a broken hot water pipe at L. Myers' barber shop.

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 25, 1943

A Few Days Of Grace

A few days of grace still remain before August 31, which is the last day for filing Income Tax returns. If you do not file your return before or on that day, you will be subject to the usual penalty, which is a fine of 5 per cent. of the tax payable, the fine not to exceed $500.

The original deadline for filing returns was June 30, but the number of late returns has been so great that the Minister of National Revenue has taken pity on the public—an historic happening, by the way—and has granted an extension. We suspect that the Minister found that he had little choice in this matter. More people are paying Income Tax this year than ever before. Last year 1,332,170 people filed returns, which was thought an unusually large number; but this year an unofficial estimate puts the number at 2,004,779. The number of people to file returns who have never done so before is 50 per cent. greater than it has ever been.

The pay-as-you-go system confused many people, who thought that as they had already paid their Income Tax they did not need to make returns. The return is necessary, however, because a proportion of what is paid in Income Tax is returnable after the war, and unless there is a proper form in the possession of the Department of National Revenue to show how much was paid, there will be no return. The returnable sum will amount in most cases to a very tidy bit of money, well worth any trouble which may be caused by filing a return.

We think that the complexity of the forms made many people reluctant to fill them up. The Income Tax form this year was more horrifying than usual. Men and women well used to figures and forms found the 1942 return troublesome; what must it have been for poor souls who find any sort of paper work a burden? We suggest strongly to the Minister that he take steps to simplify the Income Tax form if it is in any way possible, for it is becoming a yearly brain-teaser and bugbear.

Honouring a Canadian Artist

On August the 18th an unusual honour was paid to a Canadian artist when the British Broadcasting Company sent a special program of the music of Sir Ernest MacMillan to the world by short wave. It was the occasion of Sir Ernest's fi[illegible]th birthday.

The artistic development of Canada is slow—sometimes so slow as to be imperceptible—but in music we are less retarded than in any other art. We have several musical organizations of genuine merit, and although they are necessarily concentrated in two or three large cities, they raise the standard of musical taste through the whole country. The two outstanding large musical groups in Canada are the Toronto Symphony Orchestra and the Toronto Mendelssohn Choir, and Sir Ernest MacMillan is now the conductor of both. It is a pity that they are not heard more frequently outside Toronto, and it is a standing charge against the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation that it does as little as it can to remedy this situation. Let it be noted that it was the B.B.C., and not the C.B.C., which paid special attention to the birthday of our most eminent musician.

During the past few weeks a prominent Canadian movie critic has drawn attention to the fact that the Canadian Government has, for many years, taken large sums of money from the public in entertainment tax, and has felt no obligation to return any of that money to the public by making entertainment of a superior kind available. The critic in question advocates the establishment of a Canadian National Theatre, a suggestion which we heartily endorse. But a travelling National Theatre would not eat up all the entertainment tax if it were run on sound business principles. Some of the remainder, we suggest, might be spent on arranging tours of our better orchestras t[illegible] cities such as Peterborough, where music of the highest kind never penetrates, save through the vitiated and feeble ministrations of CBY. If our legislators were really interested in the welfare of this country they would not permit it to struggle from year to year in a serious state of cultural malnutrition. A country which has no contact with world culture never develops a national culture, and a country which has no national culture might as well not exist, for it is a plant without flowers or fruit.

When will Canada begin encouraging her own artists, and honouring them when they do well, instead of leaving these important tasks to other countries?

Monty Talks About Soldiers

During a recent hasty visit to England General Bernard Montgomery gave a talk to the boys of Amesbury School, in Surrey, where he has a son. He talked about soldiers, and he talked about the North African campaign. In that campaign, he said, he had three guiding principles: first, he always made the enemy dance to his tune, forcing the battle to develop as he wanted it; second, he followed his battle plan ruthlessly and with enough power to be able to ignore any side-shows staged by the enemy; third, he seized the initiative and kept it. Expressed like that it sounds easy, but it takes a man of rare ability to make it happen according to plan.

Speaking of soldiers, the general praised the German soldier highly. The German had, said he, three fine characteristics:

He was good technically with his weapons;
He had an eye for the country and a training in picking up sound positions;
He was completely and absolutely obedient.

He pooh-poohed the comic-strip and Hollywood concept of a German soldier as a fellow who was a lout and a bully, ready to give up as soon as he had been hurt. The Germans, General Montgomery said, had lots of fight in them yet, and would only be beaten after many bitterly contested battles. As for German faults, he mentioned these three:

He couldn't stand up under really heavy fire;
He was inclined to be a little stupid in over-indulgence in sun bathing, becoming muddle-headed from the heat;
He was not as robust or strong as he thought he was.

He also mentioned that the German soldier was apt to be of a heavy temperament, finding pleasure in the misfortunes of others, and insensitive to what did not affect himself.

As for the man whom the General described as "the British Empire soldier", he was the best fighting man in the war for three reasons:

He responded easily to leadership;
He served under the best corps of officers of any army in the world;
He had tremendous enthusiasm when he needed it most.

It was possible, said General Montgomery, to rouse Empire troops to the highest pitches of enthusiasm. Their morale was not merely good—it was without a fault.

These opinions from a brilliant commander are, we think, of the greatest interest. The reason for the fine morale of Empire troops does not take much finding; they are guided with a light, but firm hand. They are not driven and goaded to pitches of fanaticism which cannot be maintained under defeat, as are the Germans. They are allowed a good deal of leeway in the expression of their individual temperament, and thus they are more resilient than their foes. In the days of unremitting defeat they had to be resilient; we need not fear that they will lose that quality in days of victory.

NOTE AND COMMENT

After all it's better to be given a nasty look than to own one.

The way apples have been going up, you might think that they were fugitives from the law of gravity, says the Buffalo Courier-Express.

In the U.S., we see, odd lots of shoes may be purchased without ration coupons. This will give an advantage to persons who have odd lots of feet.

If your dog barks and froths at the mouth, says the Toronto Star, give him an aspirin. And if your dog barks and your neighbour froths at the mouth, says the Chatham News, give your neighbour an aspirin.

Says the Ottawa Journal: "For Eastern Ontario the old phrase, 'Let George do it', has special point. In the Drew Cabinet we have George Dunbar of Ottawa, George Doucett of Lanark, George Challies of Grenville-Dundas. And, of course, the Premier himself, George Drew". Let's hope that the Cabinet of the Four Georges will be a fortunate one for Ontario.

A German lieutenant-Colonel aboard a shipful of prisoners bound for the U.S., sent a message to the captain promising that if the prisoners were treated as "German officers and gentlemen", he would personally see that the Germans were treated well after the war. Who says the Germans have no sense of humour?

Some Books About the War

By
SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

So many books about the war appear these days that the reviewer is compelled to handle them in batches. In themselves the books make interesting reading, but there is not much that can be profitably said of them: they are written by men who have seen parts of the war at close range, and who feel either that they wish to tell the public what war is like, or else to cash in on the immense popular interest in the great conflict; they are not professional writers, as a usual thing, and so it is unfair and fruitless to criticize them by professional standards. Thus extended reviews of these books cannot be written, and the best that the reviewer can do is tell the public what is offered. The first four books reviewed here are published by the Oxford University Press.

FLYING Officer George Beurling is one of the greatest flyers of this war, and perhaps the greatest flyer Canada has ever produced; therefore his book, "Malta Spitfire, The Story of A Fighter Pilot," should have a great sale. It has been written in collaboration with Leslie Roberts, and has a Foreword by Air Marshal W. A. Bishop, V.C. Every boy who cares about flying should have a copy of this book for his birthday or at Christmas. It is a tale of determination, daring and resource which makes our home-front muttering about "social security" sound decidedly odd. This book has provoked some criticism on the ground that it is full of profanity; I did not find it so. There is some profanity, but if there is anyone who thinks that men engaged in desperate ventures express themselves in the language of the "Elsie" books, it is time he was disillusioned. How they live is best expressed in Buerling's own words: "You fly and you fight and you live for the minute, and you team up with guys who know nothing about you and about whom you know nothing. All you know is that the other guy is full of guts and does the job." I recommend this book to anyone who is keenly interested in flying.

OF more general interest, perhaps, is "Glorious Chapter, The Canadians At Dieppe," by Wallace Reyburn. He was war correspondent of the Montreal "Standard," and saw the whole raid at close range, and his story is certainly the best and most coherent and illuminating to appear. Reyburn did not see the Dieppe raid from a ship; he went ashore with the troops, unarmed, and was in the thick of the fighting, and in the greatest personal danger, from early morning until the troops were taken aboard late in the afternoon. What he has to say about the Canadians in battle should make us all proud; he says little about himself, but only a journalist of the first rank would have done what Reyburn did to give accurate and informed news to his readers. This book will have permanent value.

THE wonderful story of the Royal Navy in the present war is told by Stanley Rogers in "Enemy In Sight." The simple arrangement of this book, and the clarity of the writing, deserve high praise. Few writers understand how hard it is for the civilian reader to grasp and retain the details of a battle, particularly a sea-battle, but Mr. Rogers has succeeded in making all his accounts admirably simple. He tells the great story of the tracking and destruction of the "Bismarck," the tale of our own "Illustrious," and the great exploits of the "Scotstoun," the "Rawalpindi" and the "Jervis Bay." And in addition he gives details of escapes, torpedoings and Mediterranean warfare which increase our realization of the debt which we owe to the Navy.

SERIOUS students of contemporary history will welcome the third volume of Professor Edgar McInnis's history of the war, which is called, "The War: Third Year," and which brings the story down to September, 1942. Professor McInnis does not deal in thrills, but in facts, and his excellent collection and arrangement of the data concerning the war gives a better picture of what is really going on than any other publication of which this reviewer has knowledge. If a word of complaint may be uttered, it is that this author writes an uneven prose, sometimes admirably clear, but at other times wooly and confused, and this fault sometimes obscures the excellence of his deductions and opinions... Finally mention must be made of a little book published by Methuens called "Atlantic Meeting," which gives an account of the Atlantic Conference in H. V. Morton's somewhat sentimental and bosomy style.

The Nature-Loving Chinese

The Chinese are among the world's greatest nature lovers, which is not surprising in view of the richness and variety of the fauna and flora with which they are surrounded and the beautiful scenery to be encountered in every party of the country. Only on the flat plains of the Northeast is there any monotony in the prevailing landscape, but even there birds, insects and an abundant vegetation prevail during the cold winter months.

That this bounteous manifestation of Nature in all its forms, animate and inaminate, is strongly reflected in the art of the people of this part of the world is only what might have been expected....

From the earliest times of which we have any knowledge the people living in the area now known as China have been artists of a very high order.—From "Nature in Chinese Art," by Arthur de Carle Sowerby. (New York: John Day.)

Quizzing a Cutie

A radio man in Moncton, N.B., has decided that going to college doesn't do much for a girl. He was assisting in a "Man on the Street" broad-cast in the college town of Sackville when they brought a sweater model to the mike. "Who wrote 'Gray's Elegy'?" the Quiz Man asked her for a start. A puzzled frown appeared between the pretty arched brows. She's heard of the thing, remembered reading it in school but the name of the poet eluded her. Trying to give her a lead the young man pointed to the drugstore across the street.

"That's Henderson's Drugstore," he called her attention to the obvious. "Now if Mr. Henderson owns Henderson's Drugstore, who wrote 'Gray's Elegy'?"

A sudden light dawned in the little cutie's face. "Why Mr. Henderson wrote it,' she said. —Maclean's Magazine.

ANOTHER STEPPE CHILD!

At the Centre of Empire

(By SCOTT YOUNG, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

LONDON, Aug. 25 (CP)—A couple of pressing matters concerning food have been taking some of the British time lately, what with the somewhat astonishing spectacle of the Queen defending porridge, and reports from the country that farm workers are discontented with the amount of food they are allowed.

The Queen's defence of porridge must be considered first, because it came at a time just after sevelal members of parliament had had a go at the pros and cons of the virtue of porridge eating without reaching much of a decision. The polite British press, of course, did not link the Queen's statements in any way with the parliamentary controversy, because the royal family does not interfere in politics. The Queen, as a Scotswoman, might have thought defence of porridge more of a national duty than a political act and such it probably was.

The porridge controversy started with William Maxton's statement that as a food porridge is a swindle.

A few days later Tom Johnston, secretary of state for Scotland, had a word in Commons in porridge's defence, describing at some length its content of vitamins, carbo-hydrates and fats.

Ambling joyously into the fray, Hannen Swaffer, a prolific and interesting writer, recalled how he started a vast uproar over porridge when he worked on the Daily Mail 40 years ago.

It appears that when things were quiet, Swaffer and a doctor of his acquaintance used to cook up a story between them. One day Swaffer, bored with the office told his editor this doctor had a great story and then went and told the doctor he had to have a great story, because the editor expected one.

"All right," said the doctor, "let's attack oatmeal."

So, between Swaffer and the doctor, and backed by scientific data, the Mail had a story the next day with the headline: "Is porridge a poison?" Whereupon the food advertisers started withdrawing advertisements and Swaffer was told he had to get someone to refute his story, or else. He went back to the same doctor who got down the same medical books, turned to different pages and refuted his own interview! By the time he was finished with porridge that time it was proved the best of foods, the savior of mankind. It was the savior of Swaffer's job, anyway.

These words were followed by lesser comments here and there and almost had passed from the scene when the Queen told the Scottish schoolgirl winners of a cookery contest that "today Scots are coming again to the traditional nutritious foodstuffs—oatmeal, served as porridge, and potatoes."

She spoke feelingly of the many Scots fighting abroad who are thinking "perhaps longingly, of the familiar breakfasts at home, which consisted of a good bowl of porridge."

There the matter rested. The same spirit with which the British press refused to connect the Queen's statements with the previous controversy will prevent further comment by the original porridge-baiters. It isn't a matter of compulsion, just of courtesy, over a matter so unimportant as porridge, nobody will disagree with the Queen.

The Russian Worker

(NEW YORK TIMES)

CAPTAIN Rickenbacker is the latest traveller to return to this country with a glowing report of the Soviet war effort. In addition, he finds important changes in progress within that country. In his judgment Russia is moving toward democracy, and, "in a sense," capitalism.

Like observations about the general trend in Russia have been made by many others, who have also stressed the Russian return to the ancient verities of patriotism, family and discipline. But what all this means to the average Russian in terms of concrete economic reality, by which communism attempts to justify itself, is explained in a recent survey by the authoritative London Economist.

The Economist finds that, in contrast to the rapid increase in wages in the United States, some of which, like those of the miners, have doubled in the last six years, Russian wages have remained stationary even after the outbreak of the war. Only two categories, railway men and the staffs of machine tractor stations in the countryside, have been granted substantial increases. For the rest, though the working day has lengthened to twelve hours, the national wage bill is not appreciably higher than it was before the war.

As regards individual workers' incomes, 300 rubles a month appears to be a substantial wage, earned by the bulk of the workers in the metal factories. Some 8 to 12 per cent earn more than 1,200 rubles, and the earnings of some Stakhanovites reach 4,000 rubles a month. The salaries of technical staffs vary from 1,000 to 6,000 and more rubles a month. The same differentiation exists in the Red Army, where the private gets 10 rubles, the lieutenant 1,000 rubles and the colonel 2,400 rubles a month. The corresponding pay in the American Army is $50, $150 and $333 a month.

There is no way of translating the ruble into dollar values except in purchasing power, and in Russia this purchasing power depends entirely on whether the wage-earner can buy in the workers' shops, where prices are fixed but goods are scarce, or whether he must buy in the "free" market, ruled by the law of supply and demand. Thus one kilogram 2.2 pounds) of potatoes costs 2 rubles in the workers' shops, but 20 rubles in the "free" market. Meat costs 10 rubles a kilogram in the first, but 180 to 300 rubles, or up to a month's pay, in the latter. Butter costs 25 rubles, or one-twelfth of basic monthly pay, even in the controlled market, and 250 rubles in the "free." The comparative American prices are $1.10 a kilogram for butter, 70.5 cents a kilogram for cheap meat cuts, and 8.8 cents per kilogram for potatoes. If at these prices "millions" of Americans are near staravation, as some of our domestic critics charge, it is difficult to understand how any Russians have survived.

The "free" market is, incidentally, an essential part of Russia's national economy. It is the market for the surplus products of the new Russian "Kulak," who has survived all liquidation. Though tied to a collective farm, he now has goods to sell, either from his own private land allotment or from the surplus products distributed among its workers by the collectives. Usually he sells them in the "free" market at prices which have enabled many to accumulate substantial savings and to subscribe up to a million rubles' worth of war bonds. But there has been no outcry of 'profiteering" or exploitation." For such outcries are not and cannot be permitted under a totalitarian planned economy because they reflect on the planners.

It is no reflection on the labour and the heroism of the Russian people in this war to say that the system under which they have been living for the last twenty-five years has not worked out in the manner envisaged by the Bolshevist Founding Fathers, or reported by some of our more enthusiastic literati. Nor is it possible to blame everything on the war, because in all essential features the same situation prevailed before the war. We suspect that the American people still prefer their own system with all its shortcomings, if only because they can speak up and demand improvement where possible.

Omission Of Comma Bettered Famous Line

Whether it was his error or his editing, the world owes a debt of gratitude to an unknown printer. A correspondent of the Edinburgh Scotsman writes:

"The late Professor Saintsbury told his students during the session 1906-07 that Gray wrote 'The curfew tolls, the knell of parting day,' but when the proofs came to him from the printers the comma was omitted, and the poet was quick to note the improvement in the line.

"Thus was one of the most flawless pieces of poetry, which had taken several years to write, improved by a printer's error."

A Bible Message

Moreover, the Lord spake again unto Ahaz, saying, Ask thee a sign of the Lord thy God: ask it either in the depth, or in the height above.

But Ahaz said, I will not ask, neither will I tempt the Lord. And Ahaz said, Hear ye now, O house of David; Is it a small thing for you to weary men, but will ye weary my God also?

Therefore the Lord himself shall give you a sign; Behold, a virgin shall conceive, and bear a son, and shall call his name Immanuel. (Isa. 7: 10-14.)

◆ ◆ ◆

And in the sixth month the angel Gabriel was sent from God unto a city of Galilee, named Nazareth, to a virgin espoused to a man whose name was Joseph, of the house of David: and the virgin's name was Mary. And the Angel came in unto her, and said, Hail, thou that art highly favoured, the Lord is with thee: blessed art thou among women. And when she saw him, she was troubled at his saying, and cast in her mind what manner of salutation this should be.

And the angel said unto her, Fear not, Mary: for thou hast found favour with God. And, behold, thou shalt conceive in thy womb, and bring forth a son, and shalt call his name Jesus. (Luke 1: 26-31.)

Steady Advance Revealed By Red Reports

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Aug. 25 — (AP). — "Populated points" in this summer's campaign on the eastern front are much the same as trench lines were on the wetsern front in the first Great War—the first line of defence.

When a Soviet Information Bureau communique says the Red Army has captured another 30 or 50 populated points it means the Russians have broken another German line and thrown the enemy back in occupied territory.

In terms of area of population, a populated point does not amount to much. In peace time it would have been a cluster of farms or villages or at most a little town of not more than 1,000 population. Individually, populated points are so unimportant that the communique does not give their names. Collectively, they are of high military importance and every time another batch of them falls it means another large Soviet town or city behind them is that much nearer liberation.

Anglican Conference To Last One Month

TORONTO, Aug. 25 — (CP). — A Canadian Malvern Conference modelled after the English Malvern Conference of 1941, which drew up a new social program for the Church of England, will assemble in Trinity College, Toronto, August 30, and will meet until September 30.

Speakers on subjects dealing with social, political, and economic problems include Rt. Rev. J. S. Moyes, Bishop of Armadale, Australia; Dr. Richard Emrich, Cambridge, Mass.; Rev. E. L. Wasson, Toronto; Rev. G. Moore Smith of Dunnville, Ont., and Andrew Brewin, C.C.F. candidate for Toronto St. George in the recent Ontario election.

APSLEY, Aug. 25—(ENS)—Two boys have recently been reported wounded in Sicily. Pte. Elwood Young whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andy Young, reside at Clanricarde and Pte. Elmer Johnson, whose grandmother, Mrs. Willis Johnson, lives in Chandos.

A letter has been received by Mr. Hubert James from his brother who was wounded in Sicily. He spoke of going to hospital and on his way met Pte. Charlie Birch of Lakefield. His wound was in the shoulder. He said he was doing well and would very likely, be shortly joining his unit.

Decoration Service

An impressive and beautiful memorial and decoration service was held on Sunday afternoon in the church yard of St. George's Church, Apsley. About 70 people were present and the service was conducted by the Rev. F. Freeston assisted by Mr. Robb of Trinity United Church, Apsley and Rev. Mr. Walker of St. George's, Toronto. An altar decorated with gladioli was set up on the church steps and during the service a pilgrimage about the church yard and the adjoining cemetery was conducted.

Many graves were beautifully decorated with flowers and wreaths. The pilgrimage ended at the grave of the first rector of St. George's, the Rev. Canon Harding.

The service was preached by Rev. Walker and prayers were offered by Rev. Freeston. The Bible lesson was read by Mr. Robb.

The Sunday School of Trinity United Church were guests of Grace Church Sunday School, Lasswade, on Sunday afternoon. Nine carloads left Apsley and enjoyed a pleasant afternoon at Lasswade.

Solos were given by Miss D. Daniels and Miss Betty Edwards. The talk on friendship was given by Mrs. N. Wilson.

Decency In Dress New Catholic Appeal

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 25 — (AP). — The United States National Catholic Women's Union says the styles of women's clothes in the last few years and especially since the war began, "have become progressively more offensive."

The union in resolutions adopted at its annual meeting yesterday said "Costumes for sport and play are shamelessly brief. Skirts have long been raised above the limits dictated by modesty and common ordinary decency; fabrics are diabolically employed to create a sensual allure."

The Union's comment on the contention that such clothes are patriotic because they save materials was: "So specious a claim could come only from corrupt minds contributing directly to the moral breakdown of the people in an act of treason, not one of patriotism."

The Union appealed to all Catholic organizations "to join forces in a campaign for decency in dress."

TAMBLYN
Welcomes Return of Mrs. Aitken

Just six months ago we regretfully informed you that our "Broadcast" was to be discontinued temporarily by reason of the fact that the services of our Mrs. Aitken were requested by our Government. Since that time, in her capacity of "Supervisor of Conservation," she has indeed been a very busy woman and has travelled over this fair land of ours from coast to coast—not once, but many times. Now, with the satisfaction of a "job" well done, she has returned to us. We well know that you have missed her. We have, and it is indeed with the greatest joy, that we welcome her back. Starting Tuesday, Sept. 7th, her brilliant and informative commentary on the "News of the Day" will again be "On the Air." So "tune in" each morning at 10.30 a.m., Monday to Friday, to Station CFRB and again hear Mrs. Aitken dissect the "Happenings of the Moment," and also with her many and varied "Helpful Hints" solve so many of the problems confronting the Housewives of today.

OVERSEAS MAIL
Our famous visitor in Canada, Mr. Winston Churchill, is saying some mighty nice things about the Canadians overseas. But he is adding a word of advice too and here it is—
"Write often—keep the family bonds strong enough to cross the Atlantic."
"Send pictures of the family, the neighbors and the street. Pictures warm the hearts of men away from home."
"Fill your letters with the homely, everyday happenings that makes your soldier feel he is still part of the home."
Pretty fine advice from a man who knows.

GENELECS CAPTURE FIRST GAME OF MEN'S CITY LEAGUE FINALS

SPORTS – DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

The Genelecs and 4th Battery will resume their softball warfare tonight at Riverside Park when the second game of the series will be staged at 6.30 o'clock. Genelecs got the edge on the round by defeating the Gunners last night but the Battery are confident of their ability to take the second game and tie up the series. It shapes up like a lively argument all the way for a second win for the Genelecs would give them a nice lead and their opposition cannot afford to let them open up too wide a margin. Bob Crowe will likely get the call to do the throwing for the Battery while Genelecs who opened with a surprise hurler in Eakins of Lindsay last night are expected to send Ronnie Akers in against the Gunners in the second game of the round. Both clubs have a big following and the crowd tonight is likely to be the largest and noisiest of the season as the two teams battle it out. Last night's opening tilt was a snappy ball game and was not decided until the last half of the ninth when Genelecs took advantage of a couple of defensive slips to drive in the winning counter. Battery had expected to use Bob Crowe on the firing line but the youngster had to work and Wilson was forced to throw his second game in two days and his fourth in a week. However he made a good job of it and the argument between him and young Eakins was one of the best pitching duels of the season.

This Aircraft-Westclox series which looked to be nearly over when Westclox annexed their third win and led the best-four-of-seven round three games to one is now all tied up. The Aircrafters have come through with two neat wins to sew up the series and now the championship depends upon the result of the seventh game which will be staged Thursday night. Aircraft nosed out the league leaders 7 to 6 last night and forced another game to settle the argument. A big crowd saw the rivals battle last night and the final tussle tomorrow should be a thriller. Incidentally the intermediate girls' playoffs for the Knox Cup get under way tonight with Electrics and Generals clashing in the first of best two-of-three series while Johnson Motors and Brintons will meet in the second bracket on Friday night. The four teams are evenly matched and the semi-finals and final round should be exciting.

Should Have Counted

A play came up in the Westclox-Aircraft game last night that caused a lot of argument. With two out an Aircraft runner crossed the plate during a play in which a teammate was being chased between second and third. Westclox finally tagged the runner out but not until after the other player had scored. It was ruled that the run did not count. That, of course, was a mistaken decision. The rule is quite clear on the point. It reads thusly: "One run shall be scored every time a base-runner after legally touching the first three bases shall legally touch the home base before three men are out, provided however, that if he reach home on or during a play in which the third man be forced out or be put out before reaching first base, a run shall not count." The play last night was not a case of the third out being made at first or on a forceout and therefore the run should have counted. Aircraft won the game, anyway, so that the counter was not needed.

The Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba is paying Peterborough a visit—a statement which perhaps means little or nothing to old time football fans until it is amplified by the explanation that the King's representative in Manitoba is none other than R. F. McWilliams, former mayor of this city and before that one of the fathers of rugby in Peterborough. The Lieutenant-Governor, as a matter of fact was largely responsible for launching Peterborough into football and for starting a golden era in that sport here. Coming back from college he busied himself in organizing a rugby club and with the co-operation of a number of kindred spirits he was successful in his efforts. Peterborough soon became a well-known name in the world of football, winning several Ontario and Dominion intermediate championships and Manitoba's lieutenant-governor had a large share of the credit, not only as a player but as an executive. Only a few of the players who were teammates of his around the beginning of the century are now in Peterborough. Arthur McClellan played quarterback on the earliest team to win a championship and Detective-Sergt. Bill Meagher, Chris Graham and Gene Hurtubise are some of the other stars of the McWilliams' period.

Local Swimmer For Winnipeg

Peterborough is to have a representative in the Canadian swimming championships to be held at Sherbrooke Pool, Winnipeg, on September 2, 3 and 4. Bill Lech, protege of Swim Coach Gord Minty will leave for the West with the Ontario swimming team on Sunday night next. The 16-year-old Peterborough lad will compete in the junior 100 yards Canadian breast stroke championship event and according to Coach Minty he has an excellent chance to win the race. "He finished a bang up third in the Quebec championships, only half a yard back of the winner and he has been steadily improving his time since then," the swimming tutor said last night. The youngster will also be a member of the Ontario medley relay squad, swimming the breast stroke while Ross Charlton of High Park, Toronto, will swim back stroke and Bill Fydell of the same club will take care of the free-style. Fifteen swimmers from Ontario and nine from Quebec are making the trip to Winnipeg and the west will be strongly represented.

Softball in Peterborough has lost a hard worker and a faithful executive in the death from pneumonia of Norma G. Lewis, president of the City Softball League. He was one of those quiet, untiring sporting executives who are content to do their work behind the scenes and for years he had been a tower of strength to the City Softball League, giving very generously of his time and energy to promoting the welfare of the game in Peterborough. He never sought the limelight and most of the fans who follow the game have never known of his contribution to the success of the sport here. Those who were associated with him for many years on the executive of the local loop know, however, the great loss softball has sustained in his passing, and realize how much he has contributed to the smooth working of the local organization. On top of that they have lost a warm friend and a comrade of many years' service.

Sporting Chili Con Carne: Promoter Frank Tunney wires that Palermo Jack Katan has refused to meet Gentleman Jack Clayborne again in Peterborough.... The Panther declares that Peterborough fans are too prejudiced to allow a referee to give an unbiased decision.... Tunney has signed the Colored Comet for another bout Monday night and is endeavoring to secure a good opponent for him.... Those unpredictable Philadelphia A's with a chance to set up a new record simply tossed it away.... They lost the first game of their double-header with the White Sox, equalling the all-time loop mark of 20 straight losses and then they went out and won the second fixture.... George Hawks just naturally had to hit a triple last night to help win the first game for the Genelecs. The stork had just left a young ball player at the Hawks' home so George was punching for the son and heir when he went to bat last night.... Rip Sewell is only a game away from his 20th win of the season. He hung up No. 19 yesterday as the Pirates beat the Dodgers 9 to 6.... At that he needed the win to keep ahead of Mort Cooper as the St. Louis ace pitched a ten-inning shutout for the Cards over the Boston Braves to pick up his 18th victory.

To Be Mother

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 25.—(AP).—Screen Actress Betty Grable said last night she expects to become a mother next spring. Miss Grable on July 5 was married at Las Vegas, Nev., to trumpet player Harry James.

Rally In Ninth Defeats Battery Outfit

Earl McNabb's long fly to ce... e with one out and the bases full in the last half of the ninth drove in the run that gave Genelecs a 4 to 3 victory over 4th Battery in the first game of the final best-of-seven series for the City League championship, at Riverside Park last night. The drive was deep enough to allow Giardino to romp in from third after the catch.

It was a tight argument. Manager Ted Johnston started a surprise pitcher in Haddie Eakins, a Lindsay youngster signed as a military replacement and he and Dave Wilson had an exciting duel. Eakins allowed ten hits as against eight yielded by Wilson but he held the Gunners to three runs and struck out seven batters. Wilson, after being cuffed for a triple by George Hawks and a homer by Cliff Cadd in the second innings and giving up another run in the third had the Genelecs handcuffed for the rest of the game, until a couple of errors, one made by himself on a bunt, set the stage for his downfall in the ninth. The Battery pitcher had blanked his opposition for five straight innings, allowing only one single in that stretch before that letdown in the final frame.

Eakins' worst innings was the sixth when the Battery bunched four hits to score two runs and tie the score. They still had the bases loaded when the Lindsay heaver fanned Art Heal for the third out.

Cliff Cadd was the only member of the winning squad to get more than one hit and his homer provided the extra punch that won the argument. Kingdon, Burton, Starr and Vitarelli each had a pair of singles for the Gunners.

The Battery opened the scoring in the second inning. Starr opened with a single to centre, went to second on a passed ball and to third when Stewart flied to Holmes in right. After Ellis had been tossed out Starr registered on a wild pitch by Eakins.

Genelecs got those back in a hurry in their half. George Hawks slammed a long triple between Burton and Stewart and Cliff Cadd hit the next ball for a homer over Stewart's head, Hawks registering ahead of him. Giardino reached second when Kingdon dropped his high popup. Eakins rolled to Heal for an out at first and Giardino was doubled off third when he fell over the bag. Starr tossed out Holmes on a bunt.

The winners made it 3 to 1 in the third. With two out Playford singled to centre, advanced on a wild pitch and scored on Mowry's single to left. Hawks flied to Vitarelli for the third out, and that was all for Genelecs until they pushed over the winning run in the ninth.

Battery got a runner on in the third, fourth and fifth frames but could not push a run over.

However they finally broke loose in the sixth to tie the score. Burton opened with a single past third and went to second on a wild pitch. Starr was tossed out by Tucker, Burton going to third. Stewart singled past third, scoring Burton and reaching third on McNabb's low throw to second. Ellis lined a single into right to send him in with the tieing run. Vitarelli slapped a single through short. Tompkins rolled to Eakins for the second out but Wilson drew a pass, filling the bases. Eakins got out of a bad hole by striking out Art Heal.

Battery threatened in the first of the ninth. With two away Kingdon singled to centre and Burton also hit to centre for a base, Kingdon going to third. He over-ran that base, however, and Mowry's quick throw to Hawks nailed him. With Eddie Starr coming up next that play possibly saved some Genelec grief.

Cadd opened the Genelec half with a clean single to centre and then he was snuffed out on a premature attempt to steal second. Giardino got a life when Vitarelli missed his roller and Eakins helped his own cause mightily by cracking a single over Vitarelli's head. Wilson set the scene for the winning run by fumbling Holmes' bunt and the bases were full. The result was that McNabb's fly to centre which should have been the third out supplied transportation for the counter that won the argument. Stewart made a good toss home but not good enough to head off Giardino.

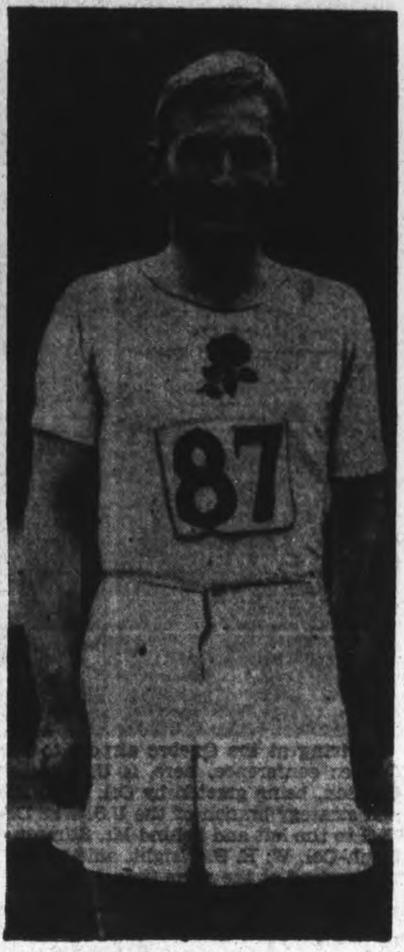
Lord Burghley, British Track Star Is Named Governor Of Bermuda

Lord Burghley



Lord Burghley, the sportsman and great hurdler

Lady Burghley

By CENTRAL PRESS CANADIAN

A famous track star, Lord David Burghley has been appointed governor and comander-in-chief of Bermuda, succeeding Lord Knollys, who has resigned. Lord Burghley, former Olympic champion, is at the moment the British aircraft production ministry's controller of overseas supplies and aircraft repairs. He has been largely responsible for the physical fitness of the British people. In 1937, the British government, anxious to get its people "fit" and to meet the physical fitness campaigns in Germany and Italy, made Lord Burghley, the athlete, propaganda chief of the National Fitness council. He organized the work which made the people of Britain fit to take on the heavy tasks of war.

A few years ago, Lord Burghley was a popular athlete, competing all over Europe and in the United States and Canada, as a track star. He is known as one of the world's greatest hurdlers and in 1928 won the Olympic 400-metre hurdles championship at Amsterdam. In 1930, he won the 440-yard hurdles at the British Empire Games held in Hamilton, Ont. and was an outstanding figure at the games. In 1930, he clipped a fifth of a second from his previous record of 54 seconds, when he won the 440-yard hurdles at the British Athletic championships in England. The new governor of Bermuda is a fine horseman and is a regular attendant at British boxing shows.

Not long ago he passed through Canada on a Britain-to-Australia bomber, making the first such flight by a military plane, in connection with his job as an official of the aircraft production ministry.

His wife is Lady Mary Montagu-Douglas-Scott, British peeress, the fourth daughter of the Duke of Buccleuch, who at one time was reported to be bethrothed to Prince Henry of the British royal house. Her family, is descended from Charles II of England.

Forty-seven Rugby Candidates Out For Practice

HAMILTON, Aug. 25 — Coach Brian Timmis has notified officers of the Wildcat Football Club that he intends to carry not more than 26 players this year in his quest of the O.R.F.U. title. This means the former Regina, Ottawa and Hamilton star will have to do some drastic cutting in the next two weeks, as he has exactly 47 trying out for berths at the present time.

Timmis feels confident he will have a fighting club, and he informed all at last night's workout that only those who showed a desire to battle every inch of the way would be welcomed at future workouts. The real berth battle is expected to commence Saturday afternoon at the Stadium, when a daylight workout will be held.

At the present time Timmis has the following men in uniform: Mel Lawson, the youngster who was a real ball of fire in his inter-scholastic days as a member of Central Collegiate; Jimmy Jamieson, Angelo and Louie Travelle, Charley O'Connor, Harry Jones, Paul Miocinovich and Clarence Shillington of hockey fame; Pete McDonald, Jimmy Simpson, Pat Santucci, Boots Brown, Joe Krol, Don Irvin, Eddie Remegis, Art Cousins, Ambrose Withers, Jackie Cooper, Al Clark, who was middle wing with Queen's; Stan Jackson, George Slinn, William O'Breza and Joe Kapelle.

Stay Outdoors

MORRISBURG, Aug. 25—(CP).—Outdoor sport seems the thing hereabouts. So much that Morrisburg's sole billiard and pool room—usually a year-round retreat for snooker fans—has sprouted a sign over locked doors: "Closed until September." Softball diamonds are drawing the crowds these days.

Tigers Finish On Top Shelf

Last week saw the completion of the Catholic Junior Softball League. Tigers finished on top. Giants came through in second place, the Yanks were third with Falcons in the cellar. Following is the standing:

	Won.	Lost
Tigers	9	3
Giants	6	5
Yanks	4	7
Falcons	3	7

Ther are two postponed games to be played. To-night Yanks vs. Falcons, and Thursday night Falcons vs. Giants. A loss to-night for the Falcons will put them out of the running, but a win will tie them with the Yanks. A victory to-night and to-morrow night will put the Falcons in third place, ousting the Yanks completely. If Falcons win to-night and lose to-morrow night there will be a third place tie. This will be played in a sudden death game Friday night. Otherwise the semi-finals will begin Friday in a best two of three series. To-night's fixture is set for 6.30 at the Quaker diamond.

In the senior league Cubs and K. of C. play to-night in Memorial Park. This is still the semi-finals.

LAWN BOWLING

After close to three month's bowling B. Chesler's rink has came through to win first honors in Group No. 1 of the men's schedule. Just who is in second place, we haven't had time, as yet, to make a check up.

In one of the hottest played schedules in many years, the Chesler rink has won first place, but it was not conceded until H. Freeman defeated G. Coleman in last night's regular game.

All during the season it was nip and tuck and at one stage there were no less than four rinks tied for first place. And then as the presure got a little harder, one and then two fell by the wayside until the end came last evening.

It has been a good season, lots of good bowling and many exciting finishes. Mr. Chesler's rink will now play off with the other group winner—whoever it will be—for the club championship. Members of the rink were J. Aiken, G. Soulby, I. Moldever and B. Chesler.

Today has the regular weekly half-holiday and our club will be represented at tournaments, held at Kingston, Havelock, Cobourg and Lindsay.

Tonight we have our men's tournament. Draw from the board at 7:30 o'clock. Fee 25c.

Don't forget the big mixed on Friday night. All money goes to aid the British War Veteran's Fund.

Belgian Sportsman Shot By Germans

TORONTO, Aug. 24. — (CP).—Martial Van Schelle, well-known to Canadian hockey players who have toured Europe as the owner of rinks in Brussels and Antwerp, has been shot by the Germans according to word reaching George Braden, Toronto sports goods manufacturer, with whose firm Van Schelle was connected.

The Belgian was one of 10 hostages executed at Brussels in reprisal for the murder of several German soldiers.

In 1939, just before war borke out, Van Schelle was ready to introduce the Canadian game of box lacrosse to Belgium and had ordered a supply of sticks from a Cornwall, Ont., firm.

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 25 — (AP).— Figure this one out . . . while the other states have been shifting hoss racing to more accessible locations or cancelling them entirely New Jersey refused a licence to the Trenton fair grounds on the grounds that "to locate a race track in thickly congested cities or near large communities is of doubtful desirability" . . . and one of the requirements listed was adequate parking space.

If the Cubs beat out the Dodgers for fourth place this year it will be the second time the Western clubs have won all four first divisions berths in the National League . . . In 1926 it was Saint Louis, Cincinnati, Pittsburgh and Chicago . . . Greg Rice admits he has had to be pumped out a couple of times trying to learn to swim since he joined the maritime service . . . But think of all the guys who pumped themselves out trying to keep up with Rice.

The Milwaukee Brewers who are offering a free baseball ticket to every Red Cross blood donor, have handed out more than 10,000 passes this season . . . . that does'nt include four donations by president Bill Veeck — or the times P'" has nearly passed out when his club was losing.

Unanswered Question

Bob (Boston Herald) Dunbar reports that the manager of a Boston semi-pro baseball team that made eight errors last Sunday, gave them this bawling out: "I don't mind your losing, but I do object to your giving the game away. That's something you never see the New York Yankees doing" . . . Wonder what he had to say next morning after reading about the Yanks seven misplays in one game?

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

A war-geared football season will open tonight in the United States where at Evanston, Ill., Washington Redskins, National professional champions, will meet the College All-Stars in the 10th annual battle between pros and students. The All-Stars appear to have assembled one of the best squads ever gathered for the event and are seeking to end a four-year victory streak of the National Football League champions. The kickoff will signal the beginning of one of the strangest years in football history in the United States because to date 236 colleges have cancelled their gridiron schedules and those carrying on have been forced to adjust their programs.

Football also is creeping into Canadian sports pages and last night at Hamilton it was revealed Joe Krol, galloping backfielder formerly with University of Western Ontario who last year starred with Hamilton Wildcats in the Ontario Rugby Football Union, would again be with the Cats during the 1943 campaign. Krol's appearances at Hamilton brought to an end reports he would turn professional with Detroit Lions this year. It was understood he turned down the professional opportunity.

2 Rugby Teams

From Winnipeg comes word that Winnipeg football fans will be able to enjoy their favorite pastime this year. It was decided yesterday that two teams, R.C.A.F.-bombers, Dominion finalists last fall, and another under the name United Services will play a six-game schedule starting Sept. 25.

With football talk in the air, Montreal reports the Quebec Senior Hockey League will hold a pre-season meeting tonight. A league spokesman disclosed last night the meeting would disclose no definite plans for the season but that an effort would be made to "get some idea on how the clubs feel about operating this year." He suggested there was a possibility the circuit would be made up exclusively of service teams.

Rookie Outfielder Dick Wakefield of Detroit Tigers, the American League's leading batsman with a mark of .330, passed his physical examination yesterday as a future United States Navy flier, and authorities indicated he would not be called until November. He is to be sworn into service today and will be placed in the Navy V-5 training program.

Soldiers Win

CHATHAM, Ont., — (CP). — No. 12 Basic Training Centre won the first game of the Kent County baseball league semi-finals by defeating Dresden 4-2 at the Camp diamond last night. Bill Wagner held Dresden to five hits. The visitors made four errors.

Senators Trim Browns 10-4; Cards Win Again

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The heat is on the New York Yankees today.

Before you take another look at the baseball standings, give us time to explain it isn't pennant pressure but the pressure of pride which is bearing on the American League champions.

They need to win both ends of a doubleheader at Detroit today to win the seven-game series and extend their victory record to 12 consecutive series.

The Yankees got themselves into a hole by losing a double-header to the Tigers Sunday. They won a single game Monday and yesterday they took the first half of a double bill 2-1 with Spurgeon (Spud) Chandler pitching four-hit ball for his 16th triumph against three defeats.

But the Tigers, toughest foes in the league for the Yanks, came back magnficient to win the second game 3-1 as Virgil (Fire) Trucks pitched a three-hitter.

He would have had a shutout except for Nick Etten's 13th homer in the fifth inning.

Athletics Get One

Elsewhere in the league, Philadelphia Athletics snapped a losing streak after losing the first part of a doubleheader to Chicago White Sox 6-5 for their 20th straight setback. The A's finally submitted to the law of averages and won the second game 8-1.

They led most of the time in the first game, but a two-run Chicago rally in the ninth inning preserved the A's loss streak long enough to tie the modern major league record. In the second game the Athletics scored eight runs in the third chapter and couldn't help winning.

Boston Red Sox of 1906 and the Athletics of 1916 were the only other American League clubs to drop 20 straight.

Washington strengthened its grasp on second place by beating St. Louis Browns 10-4 as Clayton Heafner pitched four-hit ball.

Boston Red Sox and Cleveland Indians divided, with Cleveland capturing the first game 5-2 on Allie Reynolds' five-hit hurling and the Red Sox surging back to a 7-0 shutout with Heber (Dick) Newsome producing a two-hit masterpiece.

In the National League St. Louis Cardinals edged out Boston Braves 1-0 when Stan Musial tripled a run home in the 10th inning to decide what had been a spectacular, scoreless pitching duel between Mort Cooper and Al Javery. It was the 18th victory against seven defeats for Cooper.

Truett (Rip) Sewell was given his 19th success against five defeats as Pittsburg Pirates took a slugging session from Brooklyn Dodgers 9-8 in a twilight game abbreviated to six innings by darkness. A two-run, ninth-inning homer by Buster Maynard gave New York Giants an 8-7 decision over Chicago Cubs in the first game of a double-header, but Ed Hanyzewski pitched a four-hitter to win the nightcap 6-1. For the Bruins and Cincinnati completed a sweep of its series at Philadelphia with a 4-2 triumph in a night game.

Luckless Giants Deep In Cellar

By The Associated Press

The present collection of Jersey City Giants may not like it, but they are going down in baseball history.

Shut out yesterday for the 26th time this season, the Little Giants equalled the International League record which Montreal Royals established 36 years ago. And they have until Sept. 12, final date of the season, for another whitewashing and undisputed ownership of the undesired record.

Roland Van Slate of Baltimore stopped them 3-0 yesterday in the second game of a twin bill. In the first game the Jerseys pounded out 15 hits for a 5-4 verdict.

In other games yesterday, Blix Donnelly pitched Rochester Red Wings to a 7-3 triumph over Buffalo and Frank Kelleher's single in the 10th gave Syracuse a 4-3 edge over Newark. Toronto and Montreal were idle.

Kelleher, formerly a star with Newark, got one of his rare 1943 hits to pin the Bear defeat on Ed Marleau. The bases were loaded at the time and it brought to a conclusion the fourth straight extra-inning fray between the two clubs.

Donnelly's victory was his 16th of the year while Jack Tising, on the mound for the Bisons, failed to gain his 13th for the second straight time.

Big Bens Held To 7 Hits In Fast Game

Playing good ball behind seven-hit pitching by Norma Strickland and making their hits count Aircraft evened up the senior series of the Girls' Softball League by nosing out Westclox 7 to 6 last night in an exciting game that was in doubt until the final frame.

The round is now even with each team having won three games and the championship hinges on the result of the seventh game which will be played at the Bowl Thursday night.

Aircraft crowded all their scoring into three innings, getting four in the third, one in the fourth and two in the fifth, and the total was just enough to head off the Big Bens, although the latter made it close by scoring two runs in the eighth. They had the potential winning run on the bases when the side was finally retired.

Once more home runs played a big part in the Aircraft win. Phyllis Bigelow drove one out in the fourth and Irene Stewart hammered another in the fifth with a runner on the sacks. Marg. Hawthorne drove one that bounded past Marg. Selkirk into the crowd. She made the circuit but was sent back to second on a ground rule.

Norma Strickland pitched a fine game for the winners and Marg. Watson also turned in a good card for the Big Bens. The losers pulled a new one when Isobel Bullock pitched to one batter with the bases loaded in the fourth, striking out Norma Strickland to retire the side. Then Marg. Watson who had remained in the game went back into the box in the fifth and finished the game. Nice catches by Aggie Anderson and Audrey Patterson were fielding features.

Westclox scored four in the first of the third on hits by Jean Castle and Aggie Anderson and several costly Aircraft errors but the ultimate winners came back with a quartette in their half. Singles by Marilyn Low, Eleanor Craig, A. DeCarlo and Norma Strickland and a couple of misplays did the trick.

Phyllis Bigelow's homer in the fourth put the Aircraft in front. In the same inning the winners filled the bases with two out but "Tommy" Bullock went in and struck out Norma Strickland to end the threat.

In the fifth with Marg. Watson back in the box Phyllis Bigelow singled and scored on Irene Stewart's homer. That was all for Aircraft but it was enough. Westclox threatened in the eighth when they filled the bases with nobody out but two runs represented the best they could get and that was not quite good enough.

TORONTO, Aug. 25—(CP)— Remember the strange case of Bob Harper, Edmonton Country Club golfer who feared someone would have him made up into a watch fob as a good luck charm? About every second week someone playing golf with Harper would do something crazy—like shooting a double eagle or holing a tee shot. Now the Maritimes have come up with a hum rabbit's foot built in the Harper mould. The new sensation is Charles levy of Dartmouth, N. S. Last year levy was playing in a foursome when Guy Otto of Halifax holed his tee shot. Again this summer Otto and Levy got together for a friendly game and again Otto fired a hole-in-one. Otto hadn't turned the trick in the interim so it must have been the Levy influence and to prove it, Levy wasp laying in another foursome later when Arthur Bailey shot from tee to cup in one.

Athletes At War

Lin Bend, who stepped up to the New York Rangers last season after helping Portage la Prairie Terriers win the Canadian junior hockey crown, has been commissioned as a second lieutenant with the Canadian army . . . Jake Milford, Winnipegger who starred for years in Western Senior Amateur hockey before moving to the American League with Cleveland Barons, has obtained his R.C.A.F. commission. . . . Remi Van Daele, who wound up last hockey season with Montreal Royals in the Quebec league has joined the navy as an ordinary seaman . . . Gord Williamson, Edmonton radio voice who became one of Western Canada's best known hockey broadcasters, has his commission in the R.C.A.F. public relations office.

Incidentally

Phil Edwards, Canada's great Olympic and British Empire 800-metre runner, now is a medico in the Colonial Hospital at Trinidad. . . . Dink Carroll of the Montreal Gazette thinks the N.H.L. will operate next winter but that the manpower shortage will rule out 15-man teams. He figures teams may be cut to two forward lines and three defencemen, or at the outside 12 men.

Huns Terrified As French Get Friendly

MADRID, Aug. 25 (AP). — The mass of the French people have suddenly become extremely polite, cheerful and pleasant towards the Germans and Laval government officials, and neither the Germans nor the Laval followers like it.

This is part of an extraordinary picture of a new atmosphere in France brought to Spain by Frenchmen, neutrals, Italians and even Germans who travelled from Paris since the Allied radio first began to warn Frenchmen that the hour of action was close.

Nothing has worried occupation authorities and the Lavalties so much recently as the sudden decrease in acts of sabotage and violence and the excessive concern over the Germans' welfare.

A New Approach

Frenchmen from several regions—one from Albi, another from Lyon, and third from the Rivera—reported that Allied broadcasts urging Frenchmen to acquaint themselves with their own districts in order to aid Allied forces when the time came had had an obvious reaction.

Italians and even Germans reported to their neutral friends in Spain that the new atmosphere in France was one of "excessive collaboration."

"They wouldn't speak to our troops before," a German from Bordeux told a Bilboa industrialist Saturday, referring to Frenchmen living and working in the Bordeaux area.

"Now they keep coming up to our soldiers offering to help them and trying to start pleasant conversations. It's frightening."

Officer Shake-Up

VANCOUVER, Aug. 25 — (CP). —The Vancouver Sun said yesterday it had learned sweeping changes in Canadian Army policy with regard to officer selection which would abolish the present cadet system are being completed by the Department of National Defence.

Aerial Attacks Hit Shipping

NEW DEHLI, Aug. 24—(AP)—Allied aircraft ranged far over Burma and as far afield as the Nicobar Islands, off North Western Sumatra, to attack Japanese shipping, communications and installations, R.A.F. and United States air force communiques announced today.

An attack on Nicobar was carried out by American heavy bombers. A 300-foot freighter was reported left sinking and a landing barge was believed to have been sunk. Medium bombers severed the centre span of the Myitnge bridge near Mandalay in Central Burma.

British Beaufighters, Hurricanes and Mohawks destroyed or damaged more than 60 river craft and three motor vehicles in widely-spread attacks on the enemy communications system in Burma.

No Allied aircraft were lost.

Bud Sanders Is Safe In Sicily

L.-Cpl. Bud Sanders, a member of the Commandos of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, has cabled from Sicily to his wife at 149 Hart Avenue informing her that he is safe and well.

Formerly employed at Outboard Marine and a member of the Prince of Wales Rangers before transferring to his present unit, L.-Cpl. Sanders said in his first letter from Sicily, received on Monday by his wife, that all was going well and that he and his comrades were enjoying the fresh fruits and nuts they found on their way through the island.

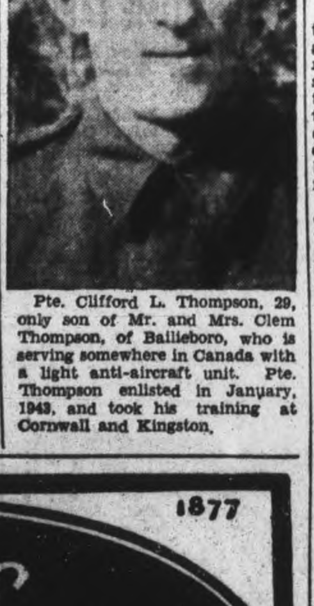
Serving In Canada



Pte. Clifford L. Thompson, 29, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Clem Thompson, of Ballieboro, who is serving somewhere in Canada with a light anti-aircraft unit. Pte. Thompson enlisted in January, 1943, and took his training at Cornwall and Kingston.

Jim Hawthorne To Broadcast

Telegraphist Jim Hawthorne, well known Peterborough boy now serving with the Royal Canadian Navy will be heard on a Canadian Broadcasting radio broadcast over CBL from Halifax on Friday, August 27 at 2:30 in the afternoon.

JIM HAWTHORNE

He is scheduled to sing during the program. Jim Hawthorne was a member of St. Paul's Church choir and owes much of his vocal success to the patient and skilled tuition of Martin B. Chenhall, A.R.C.O., organist and choirmaster.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Hawthorne, Antrim street, and has been on active service for more than three years, during which time has spent much of his off-duty periods, helping to entertain his colleagues in the various services, singing at service clubs, hostels, camps, and hospitals, in the Halifax area.

the Swedish press said that the growing Danish revolt—bringing riots between Danes and German soldiers and more sabotage against transportation and industry serving the Nazi war machine—resulted today in the clamping down of emergency decrees on Aarhus, Aalborg, Odense, Svendborg, Middlefart and Korsoer.

At least 50 persons, including 20 Germans, were reported killed in the clashes, while an electric power plant and a machine tool plant were blasted, and thousands of weapons were said to have been stolen by Danes who looted a German arsenal at Copenhagen.

FREDERICK McMULLAN

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 25 — (ENS).— Funeral services for the late Frederick McMullan, 85, were largely attended here on Saturday as friends from over a wide area joined in paying final tribute to a man who had been resident of this district for over 60 years. The late Mr. McMullan was born in Colborne a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Abraham McMullan and as a small child moved with his parents to Rawdon Township where he lived till he was nineteen years of age. From there he went to the state of Michigan where he worked in the lumbering trade for about six years before returning to this district to marry his now sorrowing widow, the former Mary Jane Hedger of Percy township. The couple settled in Seymour Township where they operated a farm for upwards of forty-five years before retiring to this town fifteen years ago. In July last Mr. and Mrs. McMullan observed their 59th wedding anniversary.

Mr. McMullan was a man of quiet and friendly disposition and one who was well thought of in the community. He was an Orangeman and for many years attended the meetings of L.O.L. 108 in Warkworth. His death came following an operation in the Belleville Hospital where he passed away on August 19 and the funeral service which was conducted from the family residence on Ranney street was in charge of Rev. G. N. Maxwell and interment was made in Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

There survive besides his widow, two daughters, Mrs. Robert McDonald of town and Mrs. Ernest Irwin of Seymour and three sons, Harry of Toronto, James of town and Harlem of Peterborough.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. Jas. Leonard, Niagara Falls; Henry Leonard, Frankford; Victor Irwin, Seymour; Charles McKelvie, Alex McInroy and Jack Williams of town.

Flower bearers were Messrs. Elwood Irwin, Fred McMullan, Ken McMullan, Floyd McMullan, Jack Cowell, Eldon Carlaw, George Beggs, Owen Hendy, Frank Osborne, P. C. Denyes, Arthur Couch, W. J. Sarginson.

MRS. M. ANGLESEY

LAKEFIELD, Aug. 25—(ENS).—The funeral of Margaret Gleason, wife of the late Richard Anglesey, was held at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. O. Young, of the 13th Concession of Smith, on Monday.

Rev. Dr. Masterson conducted the funeral service, assisted by Rev. John O'Brien, Peterborough, Rev. K. Garvey of Hastings, Rev. Cyril Carroll of Norwood, Rev. K. Malane of Peterborough.

The pall-bearers were Patrick and Michael Anglesey of Peterborough, Richard Anglesey of Detroit, Charles Young of Young's Point, Cyril Tarte of Hamilton, and W. C. Young of Young's Point.

Cpl. Leo S. Christie Writes From Sicily

Safe and well is the word from Cpl. Leo S. Christie, serving in Sicily, in a letter sent his family at 376½ Water street and received Tuesday. The letter was written August 4.

CPL. LEO S. CHRISTIE

In common with many other soldiers, Cpl. Christie voices his criticism of the island's heat and lack of adequate shade, but says there are plenty of almond trees around and that he and his buddies are making good use of them to supplement their regular rations. He states that mail service is not all that he could wish for and only a few airmail letters have so far gotten through.

But the chief news he has to tell the folks at home is of his promotion to a full corporalship on the day he wrote the letter.

One of the first to anwer the call to the colors, Cpl. Christie enlisted in September, 1939 and went overseas four years ago this coming January. He embarked with the 2nd Contingent of the 1st Division. Now only 21, he was educated at St. Peter's School and before his enlistment was employed at the F & G Markets.

Runaway Mishap Kills Farmer

HAVELOCK, Aug. 25 (ENS). — Residents of this community were deeply shocked to hear of the death of Norman Wannamaker in Nicholls Hospital, Peterborough, late on Sunday night. A few days previous, Mr. Wannamaker had been injured in a grain field while working alone, his team of horses became unmanageable, and the grain binder passed over his body, injuring his chest and back, but his condition was not considered critical until Sunday when paralysis set in and pneumonia developed.

Deceased was born on May 11, 1905, at Round Lake Settlement, son of Mr. and Mrs. Manley Wannamaker, and spent his lifetime in that community. He received his education at the Rush Point School and attended services at the White Church. He had been assssor of Belmont and Methuen Townships on two occasions, and was holder of that office at the present time. He was of a quiet disposition, but was interested in all projects for the betterment of the community, and always ready to lend a helping hand to any one in need.

He was married to Miss Beatrice Petherick, who is left to mourn him besides his sorrowing parents and four sisters and two brothers, Elsie (Mrs. Robert Wiggins), Cordova, Ruth (Mrs. George Cook), Orillia, Marion (Mrs. Earl Pollock), and Mary (Mrs. Thomas Cook), Belmont Township, and George and James at home.

His funeral will be held on Wednesday afternoon from the home of Harry Petherick, thence to the White Church, conducted by Rev. J. W. Wilkinson and Rev. James Holmes, and thence to the Maple Grove Cemetery for interment.

Pall-bearers are Isaac Anderson, Thomas Anderson, Robert Marshal, Peter White, Robert Parcels, and George White.

The sympathy of the entire community is extended to the family in their sad bereavement.

"The whole thing was magnificent," Gen. Anderson said of the operation. "We can say that shuttle bombing is definitely a success."

The bomber crews, which met with heavy Nazi opposition on the long flight deep into Germany, said the return trip was quiet. The Bordeaux raiders were credited with downing seven enemy planes.

Farmer Called; Crops Left Untended

SHELBURNE, Ont., Aug. 25 — (CP). — Hugh Young, Black's Corners farmer, returned home yesterday to work on his 125-acre farm.

The 37-year-old farmer left home six weeks ago when he was inducted into the Army. Unmarried, he left 38 acres of unharvested grain a large hay crop, 35 head of cattle four horses, nine hogs and several calves.

He has been granted a 30-day leave.

Deputy-Reeve William J. Farnell of Amaranth Township said he was circulating a petition among district residents seeking Young's release by military authorities, and F. K. B. Stewart, county agricultural representative, said he felt "there must have been a slip-up somewhere" in Young's case.

Mr. Stewart said yesterday he made representations to the Selective Service and military authorities at Orangeville, Ont., to secure the 30-day leave.

During Young's absence, neighbors, headed by Sam McLaren, attempted to do their own work and care for Young's place at the same time.

Young received a deferment last October when he got his first call up notice and on receipt of a second call six weeks ago he got [illegible] days' leave, and with the assistance of neighbors brought in 10 loads of hay.

Expensive Wood

TORONTO, Aug. 25 — (CP). — Tracy Lemay, city planning commissioner, in a report to Mayor Fred Conboy, yesterday estimated the cost of producing fuel wood through cutting down city owned trees at $80 a cord. Mayor Conboy had suggested that certain trees on city streets be used as fuel wood.

IN these days of strain and worry see that you give your man the coffee that keeps husbands contented ... Maxwell House! It has a satisfying goodness that men simply love.

There's extra satisfaction in Maxwell House because:

1. It's blended from the very finest coffees obtainable—specially chosen for their fuller body and extra flavor.
2. Uniformly roasted by a special process that brings out the full goodness of this fine blend.

For wartime reasons Maxwell House is now packed in bags — in an All Purpose Grind and at a lower cost to you.

This new grind is suitable for all ways of making coffee—coffee-pot, percolator or glass coffee-maker. If using a glass coffee-maker you may prefer to brew the coffee a little longer.

DUTY FREE . . .

It is a common practice to arrange that life insurance proceeds, joint assets and small bequests shall be paid over duty free; in other words, that the succession duties on them shall be paid out of the main body of your estate. If your estate is likely to be pressed for cash, or liquid assets, you may find it desirable to leave your beneficiaries to pay the duty on some or all of these assets. ANOTHER SKUNK

Peterborough's residental sections are still being invaded by woodland denizens of not very satisfactory repute. Four or five skunks have been destroyed by the police recently and this morning Weller street sent out another S.O.S. Sergt. W. E. Wigg disposed of the intruder.

WOMAN PLEADS GUILTY

A visitor in town, Mrs. Margaret Ackerman, Dawes road, Toronto who told the court that her husband is in the Canadian Army entered a plea of guilty in police court this morning to a charge of illegally consuming liquor and she was fined $10 and $1 costs by Magistrate E. A. Gee.

BEER IN A CAR

"They had some beer in a car," Provincial Constable Price Morris told the court this morning after two Ennismore residents, Thomas E. Killen and Daniel Hickson had entered pleas of guilty to charges of illegal consumption. "Couldn't wait until you got home, I suppose," remarked Magistrate E. A. Gee in fining the accused $10 and $2.50 costs each.

NON-SUPPORT CHARGE

A charge against George Dodds of non-support was dismissed in police court this morning after Magistrate Gee had heard the evidence in the case. However after the proceedings were concluded the accused signed an agreement to pay $5 a week toward the maintenance of the wife and family. Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry prosecuted and the accused was defended by T. J. Carley, K.C.

CHEST CLINIC

In the campaign of vigilance against tuberculosis the travelling chest clinic of the provincial Department of Health is concluding today its appointments which began on Tuesday last week. More than two hundred persons have been examined during the sessions which are held in the city council chamber. Some of them will be asked to report back for further examination in a week or so.

STILL SPRAYING

If you are a Victory gardener with a crop of late potatoes it may interest you to know that Erle Tully of Smith has seven acres and he is still spraying them. He say that field of his is as nearly perfect a potato display as can be found anywhere, level as the barn door, vigorous and promising a generous yield. Mr. Tully is expecting that demand for seed may be so keen that none of his stock will reach the consumer's market.

'FROM OUT THE SKY ONE DAY'

Some of the neighbors planted several long rows of seeds last spring and now they are gathering the harvest of little bits of heaven, like reflection of cerulean patches, glorifying the high vines at the end of the garden. These are the 'heavenly blue' morning glories, their mirror of the sky forming the background for contrast of the red of the new 'Scarlet O'Hara.' Altogether a lovely show these August mornings.

Jail Breakers Get Seven Days

LINDSAY, Aug. 25 — (ENS). — Lloyd Mitchell, Ray Burke, Walter Cowan of Haliburton, and Edgar Stamp of Minden were sentenced to jail on Tuesday for seven days when they pleaded guilty in Police Court her to breaking jail. They were also fined $10, and costs, each on charges of intoxication.

Provincial Constable Hendron stated that Stamp, Mitchell, and Burke, following their arrest for intoxication, were placed in the jail at Haliburton. By breaking the padlock on one of the cells and bending the bars on another cell the three men escaped. Later Mitchell following his re-arrest, was placed in a cell with Walter Cowan and the jail keeper was left on guard. The two men again forced the bars of their cell and shoving the jail keeper aside, walked out.

James Elliott of Lindsay appearing on a charge of assaulting was released on two years' suspended sentence. The charge was laid following an altercation in which Elliott ousted his daughter's boy friend and then had a tussle with a roomer who attempted to remonstrate with him.

Following his promise to give up drinking, Charles Campbell of Lindsay was also released on suspended sentence.

Just Temporary

CHICAGO, Aug. 25.—(AP) — A Chicago navy officer, now on duty at a southern base, sent his small son to Sunday school down there, he related in a letter to friends here. The boy's first assignment was to learn the 10 commandments. His father asked if he intended to complete the homework. "Gosh no," the boy exclaimed, "Why should I? We're only here for the duration, and I won't need them back home in Chicago."

Mary Churchill Flew Over Peterboro

Accompanied by LAC Don Mackay, son of Mrs. T. S. Mackay, 699 Water Street, from Quebec to Brantford last week, Mary Churchill, who has become almost as famous as her father, Winston Churchill, since the convening of the plenipotentiary war conference, looked down upon Peterborough on both flights across the province.

"Tell the Examiner or the secretary of the Chamber of Commerce that Miss Churchill obtained a very clear impression of Peterborough," LAC Mackay wrote on Sunday to his mother. He is attached to the communications squadron at Rockcliffe.

"On Friday I took her from Quebec via Ottawa to Brantford, from where she motored to Kitchener to visit the WRENs. She was most enthusiastic about the whole trip, as I showed her the various sections of the country over which we passed— first the Laurentians, the Ottawa Valley, the Rideau Lakes, the Kawarthas, Toronto, and then the good farms near Brantford.

Miss Churchill was quite interested in seeing my home town, which we passed going down in the morning and again in the afternoon on our way back. The beam we follow takes us a little south of Peterborough, but you can see the city quite plainly. I pointed out the Quaker Oats, Westclox, C.G.E., and the Lift Lock which are outstanding from the air. The visibility was so good we could see well up the Kawarthas.

"When I left her she shook hands with me and thanked me, saying I had made her trip very interesting. She said she would always remember Peterborough, and look for Quaker Oats and a Peterborough canoe in England. You would never know she was the daughter of such a famous father for she is more friendly and unaffected than most girls here in Canada.

"During the last two weeks I have carried and talked with many of the important men at the conference, as well as carrying official documents from Quebec to New York, Washington, Albany, Ottawa and so on.

"There have been days when we would arrive at our various destinations, grab a sandwich, and then on our way again. One night we delivered our papers to a Canadian agent in New York. Usually we had only time to gas up and start off again. This night we were taken to some of the big night clubs. One day I made four trips to the United States, which had me on the go from 8 a.m. until 4:30 the next morning; so I really do deserve this day off."

War—25 Years Ago

By The Canadian Press

AUGUST 25, 1918—British held the road from Albert to Bapaume, and captured Mametz, Martinpuich and Le Sars as successful actions continued with 17,000 prisoners taken during the Somme advance. French bombed railways and assembly zones at Laon, Jussy and Pontavert.

Grain Yields Found Disappointing

The weekly reports of the Ontario Department of Agriculture have reached the stage of record of the progress of the year in which a fairly accurate estimate of results and returns may be approximated. And there is no cheering from the grain fields.

Here is Durham: "Yields of fall wheat are quite disappointing, with few yielding more than 25 bushels to the acre. Spring grains are very disappointing, and it is doubtful if there will be more than 40 or 50 per cent. of the normal crop. There is a large acreage of buckwheat and this crop to date is promising.

Hastings— Good quality seed wheat is scarce. Cutting of grain and stook threshing are progressing slowly. Considerable western grain is being brought into the county.

Northumberland says its farms are reporting from normal to half a crop. Part of the crop in Muskoka is up to expectations. Peterborough finds spring grain yields "very low." Barley and oats are only fair in Victoria, and Prince Edward says the grain returns are the poorest in years.

The same note runs through the week's reports all the way through Hastings, Frontenac, Lennox-Addington, Leeds, up to Carleton. Over on the west side, for instance, Lambton remarks that the oat crop "is practically a failure." Wentworth's estimate is about 30 p.c. of the normal spring grain yield. Haldimand's appraisal is "very low, 10 to 25 bushels of oats to the acre."

However, pastures are generally excellent; potatoes are a strong crop although some blight is mentioned here and there, and corn is doing well.

Norman G. Lewis Passes Away After Week Ill

Norman G. Lewis of the post office staff died at his home, 310 Stewart street, Tuesday evening after an illness of only a week.

The report last night of his sudden pasing away was received by his many friends with a deep sense of shock and profound feeling of rgeret and personal loss. The cause of his death was pneumonia developing in rapid stages from bronchitis and a recent cold, combined with a heart condition that deprived him of physical resistance against the final acute phase of his illness, whcih had confined him to bed a week ago today.

Mr. Lewis was born in Peterborough fifty years ago, son of the late William G. Lewis and his wife, Dorothy Miller, and had resided here all his life except a period of military service in the last war. He was with the Canadian troops who were sent to Archangel in Russia, on the White Sea. Mr. Lewis is survived by his wife, the former Anna Scully, and his sister, Miss Alma Lewis of Cobourg.

Norman Lewis had a host of friends. He was educated at the old South Central School and Collegiate Institute, and later years took an active part in the management of the Peterborough Softball league. He was a member of Trinity United Church and the Masonic Order.

The funeral will take place Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from his late home to the Little Lake Cemetery. Rev. Dr. E. W. Young will conduct the service.

1,000 Ration Books Distributed Already

Distribution of the new rations book began promptly at 9:30 o'clock this morning at the Lyceum on Simcoe Street, with a waiting line-up of men and women and continuing activity that accounted for the issuance of approximately one thousand books up to 11 o'clock.

Mrs. Weldon Fanning, in charge of this wartime community service, quietly directed a staff of 30 assistants, including several of the members of the Civilian Defence constables who were on duty to guide applicants to their appointed places.

The Lyceum will be open daily from 9:30 a.m. to 8 p.m. until Saturday night, and citizens are requested to obtain their new books as early as possible, thereby avoiding a rush on the closing day.

Fraternal Group Gives Fund Aid

When Fraternal Societies first came into being, there is every reason to surmise that their primary objective was one of benefit to the members themselves, and probably for the most part with some variations this same thing prevails today.

To exist for this alone, has in this present day and generation a savor of selfishness, which in itself could hardly be viewed with public favor, and certainly not when thousands of the country's flower of manhood is offering even life itself for the welfare of the whole nation.

The society and its members who branch out beyond their own circle and do some good or others, must in the long run justify its existence in the eyes of all men to a larger extent than those who just huddle within their own skins and think only in terms of self.

Last week a small group of Peterborough citizens journeyed to Winnipeg as delegates to the annual deliberations of the society to which they belonged, and having during the course of these meetings seen one of their own number elected to the supreme head of their body for the whole of Canada, there naturally was cause for great rejoicing among them, particularly when it is realized that this is the first time in their history, which extends back over a period of seventy years, that this honor has come to them and this city.

On the return journey, this thankfulness found expression in a collection which they took up among themselves in which they were joined by one member who lives in the city of St. John, NB., and another who resides in Trenton, Ontario, which has resulted in a contribution of $25.00 to aid the sufferers from air raids over Britain through the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund which is listed in their name today.

Churchill Club

This same group had the honor to be graciously entertained by His Honor the Lieutenant Governor and his lady at the Government House for the Province of Manitoba, both of whom entertain more than a passing interest in this city, so it was considered a privilege to enroll them as members of the Peterborough Churchill Club which has as its primary objective this same giving of help to the people in Britain through the fund.

Two members of the group also paid for renewal fees, which with one membership fee paid for quite some time ago made possible a donation of $5 which appears in the club's name today, making a total of $1,042 that has now come to the fund from the club to this date.

Young Children Help

Three separate groups of young children have used their leisure time to good advantage to do some good for others in a variety of efforts which included the collecting and selling of old papers, a tea party at the home of Mrs. Crowe on Ware street, and a concert for their neighbors at a charge of 5 cents for admission by Gloria Graham, Marion Kellett, Sheila Condon, Jackie Rose and Florence Tompkins.

Shirley Ainslie, Joan Green, Betty McIlwaine, Jean Gordon and Joyce Wilson who participated in the collection of paper have all assisted the fund on former occasions, and the group holding the tea party consisted of Dawn Boles, Roland Crowe and Muriel Hall, whose ages are six, eight and ten respectively, the three groups providing a variety of effort not to be surpassed anywhere.

Staunton Is Fined For Fast Driving

Harvey Staunton entered a plea of guilty in police court this morning to a charge of speeding in Lakefield and was fined $5 and $5.50 costs by Magistrate E. A. Gee.

Chief Garnet Samis of Lakefield, who laid the charge, said that it was the accused's second offence. He had pleaded guilty to a similar charge in July, the officer stated.

Staunton at first asked for an adjournment but when Chief Samis stated that he had called a couple of witnesses and was ready to go on with the case to-day, the accused said that he would plead guilty.

"When the government allows the use of a certain amount of gasoline for pleasure purposes the privilege should not be abused by burning up gasoline in speeding," Magistrate Gee remarked before sentence was passed.

C.W.A.C. Band To Open Kiwanis Fair

Peterborough will have an opportunity of viewing the smart military Brass Band of the Canadian Women's Army Corps on Thursday, August 26th, when the Brass Band will parade with the Peterborough Sea Cadets to the Kiwanis Fair where the band will give a short concert. The parade will leave the Armouries at 7:30 p.m. and proceed by George street to King street, west on King to Aylmer street, north on Aylmer to Charlotte street, thence by Charlotte street to George street and finally by way of Hunter street to Riverside Park.

The C. W. A. C. brass band will parade again the afternoon of August 27th at 4:00 p.m. before it leaves for Kingston. This parade will follow George street to Brock and then proceed by way of Brock Water, Hunter, George and Charlotte streets, to the Market Square where it will give a short farewell concert.

The C.W.A.C. Brass Band shares with the C.W.A.C. Pipe Band, the distinction of being the only active service, girls' band in the British Empire. It is conducted by vivacious Nadia Svarich whose dark eyes flash with feeling when she speaks of her beloved brasses. The 28-year-old band master, taught school in Vegreville, Alta., when she was requested by the C.W.A.C. to enlist in order to lead the brass band. She received her A.T.C.M. and L.R.S.M. from the Toronto Conservatory of Music and her experience in music, choral work and conducting, makes her an ideal band master.

Full Page Is Given To Mrs. Fern Sunde

A full page from this week's issue of "Life" will add photographic detail to the expanding scrap book record in which Mrs. H. Blodgett is compiling an episodic account of the wartime career of her famous daughter, Mrs. Ferne Sunde.

"Life" devotes a page of five pictures, including two charming photographs of this Peterborough girl who has become an adopted daughter of Norway through her marriage to Captain Sunde. One of them is a snap shot of King Haakon of Norway conferring a Norwegian decoration upon Mrs. Sunde.

As to the assumption of a domestic scrap book, it is altogether likely that Mrs. Blodgett has already collected a series of items which by this time must make an interesting story of her daughter's success in thrusting a new feminine trail into the radio service of the merchant marine on war duty.

Nugent Drug Co. will be closed Thursday afternoon and evening owing to death in the family.

Informal Background

Both blouse and slacks are of wool jersey . . . the former in shocking pink, the latter in pansy purple.

By PRUNELLA WOOD

If you have jewels it seems a pity not to wear them and give a lift to spirits and surroundings by means of them. The increasing popularity of functional clothes which combat fuel shortages, give a nod to unusual duties at home, and make use of plain, sturdy fabrics, doesn't make a good diamond clip or heirloom brooch a foppish, better forgotten adornment.

Here we have a warm wool jersey pajama outfit, good from morning to night in chilly weather . . . and with the ensembled diamond and ruby clip, ring and earrings, quite an item for the dinner hostess presiding over her best napery and silver.

Price Control and Rationing News

The Women's Regional Advisory Committee, Consumer Branch, Central Ontario, Wartime Prices and Trade Board, answers questions put to this paper regarding price control and ration regulations.

◇ ◇ ◇

Q.—Why can one little store sell butter at 42 cents a pound when other stores down the street sell it for 37 cents and 38 cents.

◇ ◇ ◇

A.—Ceiling prices vary in different stores because the ceiling price is the maximum price charged for a commodity of the size and quality in the SAME store during the basic period, September 15 to October 11, 1941....Price increases have been authorized by the Board in a few exceptional cases, where costs were out of line with the basic period price. However, if a storekeeper tells you a price increase has been authorized, he must show you the authorization if you ask to see it....As 42c seems a high basic period price, please send us the name of the store and we will turn the information over to the Board's investigation department.

◇ ◇ ◇

Q.—I have given my canning sugar card to my boarding house woman. In the fall I will be boarding at a different place. Please advise me what to do.

◇ ◇ ◇

A.—You should get in touch with your ormer boarding house lady and work out your canning allotment with her as equitably and as fairly as possible.

◇ ◇ ◇

Q.—I am writing for a ration book for a new born baby. Will you please send it to me?

◇ ◇ ◇

A.—Sorry we cannot send you the baby's book. By presenting the baby's birth certificate, baptismal certificate or an affidavit on the form provided at the office of your local Raion Board, you will receive a ration book for the baby.

Please send your questions or your request or Price Ceiling Reyour request for Price Ceiling Record Book (the book in which you keep track of your ceiling prices), mentioning the name of this newspaper to:

Kidney Ragouts

We think this "KIDNEY RAGOUT" is new and will help relieve the monotony of wartime menus.

Wash and halve 8 lamb kidneys. Then remove thick white tissues. Cut into quarters; cover with boiling water and let stand for 5 minutes. Drain; dredge with 4 tablespoons of flour and fry in 4 tablespoons melted fat with ½ cup of minced onion until brown. Add 2½ cups of tomato juice, 2 teaspoons salt, 2 tablespoons H.P. Sauce and simmer for 10 minutes. Serve piping hot on buttered toast.

Get a bottle of H.P. Sauce today and try this ration-time recipe. Incidentally, just try serving H.P. with meat, fish, stew, salads, fowl or sandwiches and taste the difference.

Williams-Thomas

HAVELOCK, Aug. 25 (ENS). — Emmanuel College Chapel, Toronto, August 21, was the scene of a pretty wedding when Mary Esther Thomas, of Havelock, eldest daughter of Mr. J. Thomas and the late Mrs. Thomas of Hamilton was united in marriage to Maurice E. Williams, only son of Mrs. Ernest Williams and the late Ernest Williams of Havelock, when Rev. Donald Macleod of Bloor Street United Church officiated.

The wedding music was played by Miss Yvonne Todd, Toronto, a cousin of the bride. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a street-length dress of antique white sheer and lace, with headdress of small flowers and finger tip veil of bridal illusion and wore a corsage of sweetheart roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Erma Thomas of Hamilton, wearing a romance blue silk jersey with headdress to match and a corsage of pink roses. Mr. Mervyn Richards, Peterborough, cousin of the groom was the best man.

A reception was held at Haddon Hall, Bloor street, west, which was attractively decorated with asters and gladioli. The groom's mother received the guests, wearing a rose crepe with black accessories and a corsage of white gladioli.

Later the bride and groom left for a trip to Muskoka, the bride wearing an English black wool suit dress with large black picture hat and white accessories.

The groom is a graduate of the Queen's University and they will take up residence at Woodville, where Mr. Williams is engaged as assistant teacher of the High School staff.

Four Generations Present At Christening

If the presence of loving relatives at a christening has anything to do with it, Frances Louise Pope, five-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Pope, 599 Gilmour street, should be a very happy baby indeed. Tiny Frances Louise is to be christened today by Canon W. P. Robertson in St. John's Church, and counting the baby herself, there will be four generations on both sides of the family present at the ceremony.

It isn't every baby who has two great grandmothers, but Frances Louise has her mother's grandmother, Mrs. D. J. Lundy of Hamilton and her father's, Mrs. F. H. Dobbin of Peterborough, who will both be present to see her christened. Her maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Perry Alexander of Oak Orchard, and her paternal grandmother, Mrs. H. B. Pope of Montreal will also be present, as well as her mother and father.

Mrs. J. H. Vernor and Mr. Ross Dobbin will be the baby's god-parents, and she will be christened Frances after her father, and Louise after her great-grandmother on her mother's side of the family.

Among the guests at the christening will be Miss Violet Pentland, of Hamilton, the baby's aunt, and Mrs. Benjamin Shortly of Peterborough.

Donald McHoull, Donna MacInnes, Wed In Toronto

Emmanuel College Chapel, University of Toronto, was adorned with red and white gladioli today for the wedding of Donna Janet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John M. MacInnes of Toronto to W. Donald McHoull, son of Mrs. Hugh McHoull and the late Mr. McHoull of Peterborough. Rev. Clarke Logan officiated and Miss Grace Irwin presided at the organ.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a graceful princess gown of ivory satin with a lace yoke rising to a high round neckline, long sleeves, and a train. Her full length veil of tulle illusion fell from a sweetheart halo and she carried a white Bible from which fell streamers of stephanotis. Miss Marvel Dawson of Windsor, cousin of the bride, attended her, wearing a lovely gown of forget-me-not blue sheer and carrying a nosegay of roses.

Mr. J. E. Cruickshank was best man and the ushers were John R. McRae and John M. MacInnes, Jr., brother of the bride.

A reception was held at Annesley Hall, where Mrs. MacInnes, mother of the bride, received the guests in a frock of queen's blue with navy hat. She was assisted by Mrs. McHoull, mother of the groom, who wore a navy dress and matching hat. Both wore corsages of roses.

When, later, Mr. and Mrs. McHoull left on a trip to the Kawartha Lakes the bride wore a suit of heaven blue with nigger-brown accessories. On their return they will live in Toronto.

Military Air Pervades Army Wedding

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 25 (ENS) —A wedding of local interest took place in Deer Park United church, Toronto, on Saturday last when Cpl. Jean M. McEwen, C.W.A.C. (B) T.C. Kitchener, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. McEwen of Willows, Sask. became the bride of Pte. Arthur Charles Battman, C.A. (B) T.C., Brantford, son of Mr. C. Battman and the late Mrs. Battman of Campbellford. The wedding bore a distinct military flavor with both the bride and groom as well as their attendants in uniform. Cpl. E. C. McLeod of the C.W.A.C., Kitchener, was the bridesmaid and Ordinary Seaman P Battman, a bandsman stationed at H.M.C.S. York, Toronto assisted the groom. The bride, who was in the uniform of the C.W.A.C. carried a white prayer book with streamers of white ribbon and Talisman roses. Rev. Captain Simpson of Stanley Barracks, Toronto, officiated, and Lieut. Grant of C.W.A.C. (B) T.C., Kitchener played the wedding music as the bride came down the aisle on the arm of Mr. J. C. Renwick of Moncton, Ont., preceded by her bridesmaid. During the signing of the register Lieutenants Soaper and Buchanan rendered a duet "I Love You Truly." After the ceremony a reception was held in Haddon's Hall, Bloor street, and Mrs. C. Battman, mother of the groom, and Mrs. C. H. McEwen jointly received the guests. Among those from Campbellford who attended the wedding were Mr. C. Battman, Mrs. B. Pickering and Misses Bernice, Beatrice and Lily Pickering.

Canned Tomatoes Source Of Vitamin C

Though seasonally outranked by some fruits, tomatoes are the cream of the crop for year-round dependability as a source of Vitamin C in the Canadian diet.

During their all too short growing season, black and red currants, strawberries and raspberries are veritable vitamin mines, but they are here today and gone tomorrow while tomatoes, fresh or canned, can be depended upon as a year round source of supply.

People need a certain known amount of Vitamin C every day, say the authorities at Nutrition Services in Ottawa. Unfortunately, the body cannot build up a reserve supply of this vitamin in summer when foods containing it are most plentiful. Towards the end of winter when sources of Vitamin C are none too abundant and expensive into the bargain, many Canadians do not get enough of this important vitamin to supply their daily needs.

Nutrition Services suggests that everyone who can possibly do so, should can tomatoes in the next few weeks for winter use. Locally grown, vine-ripened tomatoes not only have the best flavour but carry the most vitamins under their rosy skins.

"Cheer up," laughed Elsie, "Canada needs farm commandos in the worst way!"

"WELL, Canada got one of the worst when you made me give up my vacation to work on this farm," beefed Elmer, the bull.

"But pul-leeze, Elmer, I'm being very serious," asserted Elsie, the Borden Cow, "I want you to give this farm commando job all you've got. Canada can't win this war or shorten it by a single day without the Canadian farmer."

"This hard work is shortening my days!" growled Elmer.

"Nonsense!" contradicted Elsie. "That kind of exercise is good for you—and the Canadian farmer needs every bit of extra help he can get—and he needs it right now! That's why we're calling for help on everyone who has even half-a-day to spare. Every hour of useful farm labour now will count next winter."

"What are you getting out of this?" queried Elmer suspiciously.

"I'm getting a great deal," smiled Elsie honestly. "All milk producers are! The more good feed for us cows that workers like you put into that silo, the more milk every bossie in Canada will give!"

"So I'm doing this for you, am I?" snorted Elmer.

"Yes, you are—and for Canada too—we need more milk for children and for grown-ups! And there's another very important reason—"

"What's that?" asked Elmer.

"Milk and Cream to make ice cream—not only for civilians—but Canada's Armed Forces and War Workers, too. Why, Borden's supplied over 300,000 pieces of MelOrol Ice Cream last month to the Armed Forces! Now, all kiddies need milk—but some don't like drinking it—well, they can get what they need through Borden's delicious Ice Cream."

"Get me another pair of overalls—looks like more chores for old Elmer," he snorted buckling into the job. "We farm commandos will take care of those shortages! Tell all the fellows in Canada they've got to back me up with some good hard work!"

"I will, dear," said Elsie, "and if it's Borden's it's got to be good hard work!"

Leaders Plan Meeting With Stalin

By C. R. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC, Aug. 25.—(CP). — The sixth Churchill-Roosevelt war conference in Quebec is ended, but plans are already underway for another, possibly to be supplemented by a tripartite conference with Soviet Russia.

One of the observations in the terse official joint statement given the press by the two leaders yesterday was that it was resolved to hold another conference before the end of the year. And it added that this would be "in addition to any tripartite meeting which it may be possible to arrange with Soviet Russia."

Thus the two leaders, wearied by a tense eight days of almost ceaseless conferences at which they took decisions which must remain secret until translated into action against the enemy, are already busy on plans for another meeting.

Action Coming

Definite statements that the plans particularly concerned action in the Pacific and that there should be confidence in ultimate victory if all free peoples played their part, were made public by the conferees at a press conference yesterday.

But the real force of the military decisions taken, both President Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill said, will become known only as they emerge in decisive action against the enemy.

President Roosevelt was in Ottawa today but the activities of Prime Minister Churchill, and other high officials of the conference, again become a subject of security control and not open to public speculation or reporting.

Outstanding in last night's departure arrangements was a Canadian Pacific Railway's special train of 12 sleeping cars carrying close to 150 correspondents and photographers to Ottawa for Mr. Roosevelt's one-day visit and open-air address.

Declared Insane

MEMPHIS, Aug. 25.—(AP). — —A criminal court jury yesterday returned a verdict of "present insanity" in the case of Mrs. Mildred Davidson, 37-year-old mother charged with the axe-slaying of her three children. Attorney - General Will Gerber recommended she be committed to hospital for the criminally insane.

Fighter Output Cut 30 Percent

By GLADWIN HILL
Associated Press Staff Writer

UNITED STATES AIRFORCE HEADQUARTERS IN ENGLAND, Aug. 25 (AP). — Thirty per cent of the Nazi day fighter production was destroyed in the American heavy bomber raid on the Regensburg Messerschmitt plant on August 17, Maj.-Gen. Harold L. George, United States air transport command chief, told a press conference to-day. He predicted that if the tempo of the present operations by the R.A.F., R.C.A.F. and U.S.A.A.F. can be increased Germany's economic structure will fail by year's end.

Gen. George said such a collapse did not necessarily mean Germany would be forced out of the war at that time, but explained that the economic structure "won't be able to function in degree necessary to support the war."

He said the Regensburg Messerschmitt plant was "literally washed off the map" and it meant the Germans would be deprived of at least 1,500 to 2,000 fighter planes.

Has Majority

SYDNEY, Australia, Aug. 25.—(CP Cable).—Latest progress figures on the Australian general election give the Labor Government led by Prime Minister Curtin 46 certain seats out of 75 in the House of Representatives and three more probables.

Better Keep Fleet

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—(AP).—The United Nations radio at Algiers last night urged the Italian people to "hold on" to their fleet, declaring that if it were "to fall into German hands, war would be prolonged for you," the B.B.C. reported in a broadcast heard by C.B.S.

Held As Spy

Grace Buchanan-Dineen, a native of Canada, who was arrested by the F.B.I. in Detroit, with one other woman and a man, in connection with the smashing of the first spy ring since Pearl Harbor. Miss Dineen was trained in German espionage in Hungary prior to the U.S. entrance into the war and came to the U.S. by clipper, Oct. 27, 1941, according to J. Edgar Hoover, F.B.I. chief She is described as an attractive, well-educated descendant of French nobility.

British Royalty Bikes To Inspect Farm At Sandringham

During a recent visit to the Royal Park at Sandringham, Eng., which has been turned into a vast farm under the wartime production ruling, the British royal family abstained from the use of motor vehicles. Here we see the royal party; the Queen rides in a governess cart accompanied by her groom, Mr. French, while the King and the Princesses Margaret Rose and Elizabeth use their bicycles.

Aerial Traffic Cop Peps Berlin Raid

LONDON, Aug. 25 — (CP).—An aerial traffic cop directed the R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. mass assault on Berlin Monday night. He gave instructions to the raiders as they came over the target in waves from the west.

Men who participated in the bombing of the German capital said tod-- the raid director maintained a running pep talk throughout the raid, his tone clear calm and tough.

As one of the first waves reached Berlin, the men heard: "There is absolutely nothing here to stop you chaps. The searchlights look pretty thick, but they have not got glue."

"There's a bit of flak among the searchlights, but none of it is as bad as it looks. Now, boys, a nice, steady run in."

The Stars Say

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE
For Thursday, August 26

A DAY to grasp the beneficent gifts of luck and good fortune, in a moderate and happy degree, with the prospect of cashing in on the abilities and finer creative talents, possibly in the field of art, music, literature, drama and the dance. It is a propitious time for seeking promotion and security in these, although it is likewise desirable to safeguard or increase the finances or standing of credit. All are under moderately fine stimuli for favors, advancement and growth, with enhanced popularity and prestige.

Those whose birthday it is should try for the fulfilment of hopes and wishes in either financial or professional lines. The creative arts are under excellent stimuli, and opportunity for their stability should be sought, with assurance of recognition from high places. Happiness and success are also promised in social, domestic and affectional matters. There may be celebrations of a "joyous occasion."

A child born on this day should be pleasantly talently in many expressions of the finer arts, with success and fulfilled ambitions in practical lines as well. It should enjoy a happy and fortunate life.

Retains Post

TORONTO, Aug. 25.—(CP).— A. St. Clair Gordon, chairman of the Ontario Liquor Board, will continue in that post, Premier Drew announced yesterday following a meeting of the Ontario Cabinet. The Premier said Mr. Gordon had agreed to a request that he continue in the post.

Overdoing It

BALTIMORE, Aug. 25. — (AP).—A war plant ruling upset 42-year-old Mrs. Helen Robar's plan to return to the night shift five hours after her eighth child was born, but she won't "just sit around" until her enforced 60-day furlough is ended. Mrs. Robar said yesterday she would look for an interim job because "I can't just do nothing with my husband and son overseas." Her husband is a sergeant in the Canadian Army.

MEN, WOMEN ALIKE, A STREAK OF ANGEL, LOT OF BAD IN EACH

Males' Loyalty to One Another Is Matter of Conjecture; Women Started Uplift Movements.

One of the myths that die hardest is the belief that all women are cats, and that their chief delight in life is in clawing each other to pieces. It is not strange that men fall for this theory, because the great majority of them know just as little about the workings of a woman's mind as they do about the habits of the fauna of Darkest Africa, but it is amazing that women, themselves, who should know better, also credit it.

Every day you hear people making invidious comparisons between the sex loyalty of men and women. They say how much better men stand by each other than women do; that men are always ready to help each other and push each other's fortunes, while women are longing for a chance to get into each other's hair; that men make so much truer friends than women do; that women can never get along together harmoniously as men do, and so on and so forth. You would think to hear them that the entire masculine sex was a band of Boy Scouts, bent on doing good deeds for each other, while women just waited for a sister woman to stick out her neck to give her the ax.

Good and Bad In Both Sexes

All of which is, of course, just sheer nonsense, because all human nature is cut off of the same bolt of cloth, and when it comes to good qualities and bad, men and women are mucn of a muchness. Good and bad, altruistic and self-centered, a streak of the angel and a lot of the devil, and whether they wear petticoats or pants doesn't have anything to do with it.

Now, just for a little clean fun, let's examine some of these assertions that are so widely made and so generally accepted that men are so much more helpful to each other than women are. Well, doesn't that depend altogether on whether the men want the same thing or not? There isn't very much Alfonse and Gaston politeness in business. Nor do political opponents tout each other's superior qualifications for the office they are running for. Nor in love do you observe one suitor withdrawing and handing over the lady to his rival.

Whether men stand by each other better than women do is a matter for conjecture, but let it not be forgotten that there has not been a movement for the uplift of women that hasn't been started by women, and financed by women, and run by women. There isn't a poor, foolish girl who stumbles off of the straight and narrow path who doesn't find some woman's hand held out to help her, if she wants to come back to decency and right-living. There isn't a drab of the street who cannot find refuge in some shelter that her pitying sisters have made for her.

Women Help Their Sisters In Need

And in everyday life the way women help other women is one of the finest and most generous things in this hard-boiled old world. The woman who has a good job is always looking out for a place in her organization for some other woman. Teachers, weary after their long day in the school room, coach other women for some position they want. And the number of poor landlords who keep girls on who are out of work and cannot pay for their board, is only known to the Recording Angel, who keeps tally of the good deeds that are going to be a passport to the reserved seats in Heaven.

As for saying that women can't get along together as harmoniously as men do, tut, tut. Did you ever attend a political rally and listen to the things the speakers had to say about each other and the names they called each other? And how do you account for the great philanthropic and religious organizations of women that go on functioning year after year, or even the fact that in every city and hamlet in the country there are women's clubs that are going concerns, while so many of the men's have simply folded up and quit?

Men Fair Weather Friends to Women

As to men being better friends to women than women are, that is another fallacy. Men are fair weather friends to women. As long as women are good-looking and well and jolly and amusing, men like to be with them and to send them flowers and candy and give them other evidences of friendship. But men are allergic to sick rooms and tears and tales of woe. They leave a card or two on the afflicted one, help a little with money and that is about all. When Jenny or Mary or Sadie gets depressing, it is good-bye.

When a woman is in trouble, it is her women friends who rally about her; who come and listen to her tell over and over and over again about how her husband has forsaken her; who mingle their tears with hers when she grives over her dead child; who buy her daubs of painting when she tries to make a few dollars, and who badger their own husbands or fathers or brothers into give her a job.

No, women aren't cats. Or, if they are, they are the soft kind that purr under your hand and make nice household pets.

You Women Who Suffer From HOT FLASHES then CHILLY FEELINGS

If you—like so many women between the ages of 38 and 52—suffer from hot flashes, weak, dizzy, nervous feelings, distress of "irregularities", are blue and depressed — start taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once. It's one of the most effective medicines you can buy that's made especially for women.

Pinkham's Compound does more than relieve distress. Taken regularly —it helps build up resistance against such symptoms. It also is a fine tonic for the stomach!

Thousands upon thousands of women—rich and poor alike—have reported benefits. Time and again Lydia Pinkham's Compound has proved some women's happiest days can be during their "40's". Helpful for younger girls, too! Made in Canada. Worth trying!

Nazis Claim Ack-Ack Now More Effective

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 25.—(AP). — The Berlin correspondent of the Stockholm newspaper Svenska Dagbladet reported to-day the Germans were claiming the potential effectiveness of the R.A.F.-R.C.A.F. raid on Berlin Monday night was reduced 50 per cent. by new anti-aircraft defences.

The new anti-aircraft setup, the dispatch said, involved close co-ordination of batteries of huge searchlights which helped Nazi night fighter pilots to find the raiders. The British acknowledged the loss of 58 bombers, 7 of them Canadian.

Strict German censorship continued to prohibit transmission of news concerning bomb damage.

Chuck McDonald Returns To War

By SUDNEY GRUUON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Aug. 25 (CP Cable)—Chuck McDonald of Toronto is back in England and he is going to get the wish he nurtured during internment in Sweden after he crash-landed his Lancaster bomber in Swedish waters four months ago—a return to bombing operations.

In fact the Canadian pilot is so impatient to get back into a Lancaster that he had his leave cut from five weeks to two so it won't be long before the operation chart of some bomber command station shows "McDonald, C.P. Flying Officer," as pilot of some bomber thundering over Germany again.

The Toronto veteran of 42 raids on Germany and Italy turned down a chance to return to Canada in favor of operations from here.

He was pilot of the Berlin-bound plane in which Louis V. Hunter, Canadian Press War Correspondent, flew last January and which was forced to turn back because of engine trouble over Denmark.

Wm. A. Nixon Passes Away In Lakefield

LAKEFIELD, Aug. 25 (ENS)—A pioneer lumberman of the district, William Andrew Nixon, died suddenly following a heart attack at his home on Colbourn street, Lakefield, on Tuesday.

Born and educated in Bobcaygeon, he was the son of Esther Ashmore and Andrew Nixon. Mr. Nixon was highly respected and well liked in the village. He could recall many interesting stories of his experiences in the lumber business, in which he was engaged all his life.

Thirty-seven years ago he married Sarah Eleanor Finley in Lakefield and they took up residence in their present home, which Mr. Nixon had built. He was an ardent hunter and fisherman and possessed a keen Irish wit that his friends greatly enjoyed.

He is survived by his wife, one son, Solan W. Nixon of Walkerville and two daughters, Mrs. E. F. Legon (Maud) of Ottawa and Mrs. F. S. Sharpe (Zetta) of Lakefield, and seven grandchildren.

The funeral will be conducted from the residence on Thursday, at 2 p.m. by Rev. George Kelly. Interment at Bobcaygeon.

IN MEMORIAM

LEETHER—In loving memory of our dear son and brother Sgt. Observer Albert Leether, who was killed on active service, August 25th, buried in Eversham Road Cemetery, Stratford-on-Avon, Warwickshire.
He was no old campaigner of the skies,
No bitter knowledge haunted those clear eyes,
He was no veteran—practised in the game,
Fresh from his training, young and keen he came.
Fearless and gay—into God's arms he flew,
With his first venture in the boundless blue,
Brief was the glory of that fledging flight,
Out of the nest into the morning light.
— Fondly remembered by Mother, Dad and Sister Alice.

LEETHER — In fond and loving memory of our dear nephew Sgt. Observer Albert Leether, killed in England, August 25, 1942.
"Greater love hath no man, than to lay down his life for those he holds most dear."

"Nothing can surely be more important at any time, and particularly during war, than to be properly equipped to fight fires, as we all appreciate that fire, with its destruction of life and property, is one of man's great enemies in itself," stated C. R. Mold, Toronto director of fire protective equipment division, Wartime Prices and Trade Board, in the opening address of the afternoon session.

Henry Piles Up $150,000

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sport Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 25 — (AP) — The only thing that will keep Henry Armstrong in the ring after the first of the year is a shot at the world lightweight champion. And it has to be the whole pie.

Armstrong has piled up a neat $150,000 in his year-long comeback and he figures that should keep him in those fancy sports jackets and house slippers for a while.

What's more, he'll pick more up from his fight Friday night with Ray Robinson in Madison Square Gardens, about which promoter Mike Jacobs now is mumbling $70,000 and $80,000 gate figures.

And his Los Angeles tussle later next month with slugger White may have the cash register playing a $15,000 tune.

"All in all," Henry the Hammer said today, "I'd say I'll have a half dozen more fights at the most before the end of the year. If the lightweight contenders could get their championship straightened out by then, I'd stay around for one more crack at it. By that I mean that if I fight for the title I want it to be the whole crown not just a piece of it."

Right now Bob Montgomery, the Philadelphia bobcat, is blessed as boss in New York and Pennsylvania and the N.B.A. won't give any of the boys a pat on the head until the "retiring" Sammy Angott has a shot at the bulls eye. Montgomery will try to prove he is boss of his territory September 10 against Beau Jack.

After Henry is through fighting, he plans to build up a stable of fighters and manage them.

Money Earned by Women at Home

MONEY TO CARRY OUT PET DREAMS!

"I'm helping too!" Proud words from a housewife, earning money that may make possible new furniture, education, a new home!

Successful home earners have discovered that the way to earn money is to be "different," but it's not hard to be different!

Look at Mrs. U. who made a home dress shop different simply by having an "exclusive" stock of one-of-a-kind dresses. Her advertising was different, too, cheap but charming—postcards that said, "Come to the Back Door, Shop. It's lots of fun."

Another way is to offer quality, yes and to charge for it. Mrs. G. built a flourishing cake business on a super angel cake she priced at $1.50, making 35 per cent. profit on each one. And there's Mrs. F. who offered low price, selling tea-sandwiches to those who couldn't afford caterers' wares.

You needn't invest money or be specially talented to earn at home! Our 32-page booklet explains five main rules of home business success, tells how other women got started making money; describes enterprises you might try. Has ideas for women who can sew, knit, crochet, cook, type, be helpful.

For your copy of "21 WAYS TO EARN MONEY AT HOME" send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterboruogh Examiner Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

MONTY'S FOX HOUNDS

CAIRO — (CP). — The first regimental nickname to emerge from the war belongs to the 40th King's Tank Regiment, now unofficially know as "Monty's Foxhounds." The title was conferred by a Scottish soldier at Medenine who said: "The hunt is on again. Here comes Monty's foxhounds!"

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

TWO SQUEEZES IN A HAND

SQUEEZE PLAYS are rare enough at best, but to find two entirely different kinds of squeezes being made in the same deal is really something. Difference in opening lead can cause variation in the choice of play, and then there are times when one player merely figures out a hand in one manner while another does it in some other way.

That contract was a bit venturesome. North had decided to bid 6-Hearts if South's response to the Blackwood 5-No Trumps had been 6-Clubs, showing no kings at all. He bid the grand slam knowing the opponents held one king, though not the trump king. The same 7-Hearts got bid at another table of the same duplicate, but there is no record of their bidding. Both of these declarers, however, made their contracts by means of squeezes.

In one case the opening lead was the heart 7. The declarer counted up his tricks, seeing 12 sure and a 13th in sight if the spades would break evenly. So he took two trump rounds, ran three spades to find they wouldn't break, and then built his squeeze. He took the club A and K and then ran four more hearts, holding the diamond Q-6 also as he laid down the last, with the diamond A-7 and spade 6 in dummy. West held his spade J to guard against dummy's 6, so had to throw a diamond from the K-J. The spade 6 was then tossed from dummy, whereupon the diamond A and Q got the last two tricks.

At the other table, West led the spade 5. South decided that was either a singleton or fourth-best, and that the spades wouldn't break. So he worked on his squeeze from the start. Winning the opener with the spade K, he scored two hearts, the diamond A and the club A and K, then his remaining four hearts. As the last was led, he also held the spade 9-3 and diamond Q, and dummy the spade A-Q-6 and club 9. West had to discard from the diamond K and his spade J-8-7. If a spade, the dummy's would all be good, and the club would be discarded. But West chose the diamond K, hoping his partner had the Q, but that, too, was disastrous, giving South the needed additional trick with the diamond Q.

Cool Bearing Of Canadians Stumps Nazis

By WILLIAM STEWART
Canadian Press War Correspondent

A BRITISH HOSPITAL IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 12 (Delayed) —(CP)—The cool bearing of Canadian troops marching into enemy fire is beyond the understanding of the German soldier, trained to take every advantage of natural cover and expose himself as little as possible.

The Canadians, at least the men of the Carleton and York regiment from New Brunswick, walked casually into the attack area, their rifles and tommy guns slung nonchalantly over their shoulders.

Most of them. says Lieut. Harry Barton of Saint John, who is an infantryman himself, wear their steel helmets but a number don't bother. Around their heads are wrapped what he calls "gypsy hats"—handkerchiefs and parachute silk.

Barton admitted it's enough to make the toughest professional soldier stand agape.

Save Strength For Climb

"Sometimes the boys curse as shells and bullets crack over their heads like whips and kick up the dirt in front of them," he said. "If they have to climb a hill to engage the enemy up there, the boys usually walk slowly to the foot of the hill despite fire, saving their strength for the climb.

"The reason they don't get down on the ground when the enemy is banging away at them is that the shooting sounds just as bad if they're walking."

Barton said some incidents that occur during such advances are almost incredible.

"We are going strung out, every man well spaced from the next to him," he said. "Sometimes while bullets are flying around, one fellow will ask another 10 or 15 feet away to throw him a box of matches for a light.

"I know one fellow, carrying a tin of beans in his pocket, who decided to eat them on the way into attack. Walking all the time, he opened the can with his bayonet, pouring the beans into him and remarked: "If I don't eat 'em now, I may never get another chance."

"The Canadians' conduct really throws the Germans off," added Barton.

Wrens Plan Program Recruiting Aug. 28

OTTAWA, Aug. 25 — (CP). — Naval headquarters announced on Monday a special "Wren Recruiting Day" has been planned by the Women's Royal Canadian Naval Service in connection with the Wren's anniversary of one year of service in the ranks of the Navy.

The Wrens will celebrate their first birthday Aug. 29 and on Aug. 28 recruiting officers and staff will be on deck at Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve divisions across Canada to give out information, applications and literature regarding enlistment in the W. R. C. N. S.

Eighteen Doctors, Fifty-five Nurses Work In Sicily

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Correspondent

SOMEWHERE IN SICILY, Aug. 13 — (Delayed) — (CP). — For more than two weeks a Canadian general hospital has been operating here in the glaring heat of a base area with 18 doctors and 55 nurses working long hours treating British and Canadian wounded and sick coming back from the front.

This hospital is the first one to reach Sicily, landing July 19.

Since then it's been a day and night task. At the moment, with the fighting less severe, the work has slackened off considerably although the hospital has been kept busy with soldiers who have taken sick, suffering from dysentry, fever or malaria.

The doctors live under canvas but the nurses have a mess and sleeping quarters in a building. Even under the comparatively rough conditions everyone is in the highest spirits and the nursing sisters are particularly cheerful despite the hard work.

Doctors include Majors G. B. Macpherson, Guelph, Ont., and C. H. A. Walters of Belleville, Ont.

Capt. C. D. Daniel, Ingersoll, Ont., is a padre.

Ontario sisters include Jessie Blair, Fallbrook, Jessie Coleridge, Owen Sound, Bernice Hampton of Gananoque, Alma Rath of London, Ont., and Dorothy Richards of Napanee, Ont.

Burma Conquest Causing Food Shortage

By PRESTON GROVER
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW DELHI, Aug. 25— (AP).— An appeal to Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt to send food to Calcutta to relieve "the acute distress" there was sent to Quebec today by the Mayor of that city, Syed Badruddoja.

Meanwhile, limited food supplies from other sections were rolling toward Calcutta, and food kitchens were being set-up.

Calcutta and the surrounding territory of Bengal became India's principal food shortage centre early this summer. For the past several weeks thousands have been flocking from the countryside into the city in the hopes that relief there would be better organized.

The situation became dangerous more than a year ago when the rice supplies of Burma were cut off by the Japanese invasion.

In his appeal, the mayor said that the "entire population is being devitalized and people are dying of starvation. We appeal to you in the name of starving humanity to arrange for immediate shipment of food and grains from America, Australia and other countries."

Officers Listed In Promotions

OTTAWA, Aug. 25 (CP). —The defence department to-day announced promotion of 29 officers and a nursing sister with the Canadian Army Overseas.

Rank of acting colonel was given one lieutenant-colonel, while seven majors were promoted acting lieutenant-colonels and 11 captains received their acting majority. Ten lieutenants were made acting captains, and an appointment was made of a lieutenant (nursing sister).

Those promoted include:—

Military District No. 1 (London).

To be acting major—J. P. Wells, Ridgetown.

Military District No. 2 (Toronto).

To be acting colonel—M. C. Eatson, Toronto.

Military District No. 3 (Kingston).

To be acting lieutenant-colonel—J. W. Ritchie, Ottawa.

To be acting major—B. C. Miller, R. B. Murray, Kingston.

To be acting captain—H. S. Moore, Gananoque.

Aerial Photos Reveal Great Damage

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 25—(CP).— Photographic reconnaissance showed to-day even more extensive damage to the Italian mainland railroad system than gleaned from previous questioning of Allied airmen.

The raid last week on Foggia near the eastern coast across from Naples severed the through lines to Naples, Bari and Manfredomia. Locomotive and repair sheds were damaged severely, and the electric power station perhaps put out of service entirely.

Naples' communications with Rome also were cut by yawning bomb craters in the main rail lines and towering piles of debris. Masses of burned-out rolling stock cluttered sidings, the warehouse adjoining the station was half-gutted and the entire freight warehouse demolished. The gas works was left a skeleton.

Naples-Benevento communications were broken by destruction of a railway overpass. The Benevento-to-Cancello line also may have been cut.

Another outlet for Naples traffic passing through Salerno was apparently blocked at the western neck.

The railway system can be termed badly crippled as a military factor, and the Germans' problem of moving a large army and keeping it supplied in Southern Italy is going to be serious if not insurmountable.

Agriculture Studied By Women's Institute

HAVELOCK, Aug. 25 — (ENS). — The study of agriculture was given at the Belmont Women's Institute Thursday. "Branches of farming suitable for women" was the roll call to which all members responded. The motto used was "Life is like a garden, it bears the fruit you sow." The president, Mrs. George Hartin presided. The treasurer reported the sum of $26.28 raised on the quilt raffled recently and $14.50 made at the Bingo party. In the correspondence, a letter from the Department announced that the short course "Quilts and Quilting" would be held on Sept. 21 to 22, with Miss Edith Hopkins as instructor.

Mrs. James McMillan was the program convener, Mrs. Harry Scott gave a humorous reading "Here We Are." Master Freddie Anderson sang a solo "God Will Take Care of You." A suitable paper "Rural Women in Canada" was given by Mrs. Carman McMillan. Mrs. Henry Haryett of Montreal sang a solo "I'll Walk Beside You." Two quilt linings were donated by Mrs. C. Kennedy and Mrs. W. Ketchen.

Fire Chief Says Air Raids May Come Yet

ST. CATHARINES Aug. 25 (CP) —While United Nations airmen are now "educating" the citizens of Axis nations on bombing "there is no assurance from present war conditions" that the enemy will not stage major retaliatory raids, Chief Ernest Wood of York township, president of the Dominion Association of Fire Chiefs, said today at the opening of the 35th annual convention in the council chamber of the municipal building.

Because of this threat, "the executive of the D.A.D.C. has given every aid possible to the program of the A.R.P. fire services in which the office of civil A.R.P. has distributed about $2,000,000 worth of fire fighting equipment "in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island, Quebec, Ontario, and British Columbia," he said.

Keep Up A.R.P.

"Canada," Chief Woods continued, "is about to enter the fifth year of war that has brought many changes in our profession. The developments have been gradual comparatively speaking, we have much to be thankful for. In past years we contemplated the organization necessary to prevent the destruction of our property by fire and explosive bombs. Up to the present time we have been spared the horrors of bombing on our cities and towns, but I would still urge that every precaution be maintained and that we do not relax our efforts to be prepared for such circumstances."

He dealt with the advancement of the firemen's training schools in Ontario instituted some years ago as a joint project by the association and the Ontario fire marshal's office. Schools are held at universities in Toronto, Kingston, and London and in the past four years there has been an attendance of about 1,500.

Soviet Gains Exceed Winter Drive

Armies Advance Beyond Previous Limits

LONDON, Aug. 26 — (CP). — Forging steadily ahead on an ever-widening front, Red Army troops to-day were beyond the high-water mark of their winter counter-offensive after capturing Zenkov, 85 miles northwest of Kharkov.

A Soviet communique, announcing the fall of Zenkov and 60 nearby villages, said savage German counter-attacks had failed to halt a Russian surge toward the Dnieper River as Red Army units streamed through fallen Kharkov, pointing toward Polatava and Lozovaya, 75 miles to the southwest and south, respectively.

Russian forces on the lower Donets, meanwhile, were reported to be widening a breach in the German lines southwest of Voroshilovgrad and penetrating ever deeper in to the Donets Basin.

Capture of Lozovaya, strongly-fortified Nazi anchor, would sever one of the German's main railway supply lines in the important Donets area.

Call In Reserves

The Germans were throwing everything they had into the battle for the strategic Dnieper, the daily Russian communique indicated, even drawing reserves from other sectors of the front.

Only limited Russian gains were recorded on the Bryansk salient to the north, but Red Army planes bombed and strafed German troop and supply trains in attacks on Unecha and Novowybkov, east of Gomel.

Soviet bombers also were blasting enemy airdromes and troop concentrations below Kharkov, where ground forces were storming deep into the Donets basin in a drive aimed at turning the German defence line and trapping thousands of enemy troops.

South of Izyum and southwest of Voroshilovgrad, the Soviet war bulletin said, hundreds of Nazi soldiers were slain. Another 600 fell south of Kharkov, while a heavy toll was also exacted as the Germans fell back from Zenkov.

Scores of German tanks and planes were destroyed on this fan-like front, the communique added, stating that "the enemy every-

BERNE, Aug. 26 — (AP). — An Italian frontier report to the Zurich newspaper Die Tat said to-day that a diplomatic mission headed by Count Dino Grandi, former Italian ambassador to Britain, had arrived in Lisbon and that its aim was believed to be armistice negotiations with the Allies.

The report was entirely unconfirmed and London authorities said they had no knowledge of such a mission and placed no credence in the report.

Reuters News Agency quoted Die Tat as saying arrival of the mission denoted that "Italian negotiations with a British delegation for an armistice and possibly a separate peace are being continued and even speeded up."

McNaughton Praises Canadian Force

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH CANADIANS IN SICILY, Aug. 22 — (Delayed). — (CP Cable). — Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, commander of the Canadian Army Overseas, told Canadian troops here today that "you have won the admiration of Canada and the whole world for the way you carried out your tasks in this campaign."

During a tour of practically every Canadian camp in Sicily, the commander congratulated officers and men "on behalf of the people at home and the army in England.

Twelve hours after arriving in Sicily, Gen. McNaughton began to visit the camps where the troops have been resting since their exhausting campaign during which they drove from the Pachino beaches to the slopes of Mount Etna.

There was little formality about his tour. He just went around quitely, meeting the officers, seeing equipment and talking to the men. It was exactly like the periodic visit the army commander makes to the divisions in England.

With Simonds

Maj.-Gen. Guy Simonds, commander of the Canadian 1st Division—a position that McNaughton himself held in the early months of the war — accompanied the commander on his tour which started shortly after dawn and lasted until nightfall.

With Gen. McNaughton and Gen. Simonds were Brig. A. E. Walford of Montreal and Maj. Don Clark of Vancouver who flew to Sicily with the commander. Lieut. Cliff Wood of Vancouver, General Simond's new aide de camp, drove with them.

General McNaughton, wearing a pair of khaki shorts and a bush shirt, went at top speed all day, talking to scores of officers about the campaign, about the performances of their vehicles, guns and equipment, and about tactics.

With his senior officers, Gen. McNaughton discussed the future plans. The army commander was smiling more than usual and showing immense pride in the achievements of the Division. He

Troops Worked Fast Landing In Sicily

COVENTRY, England, Aug. 26—(CP). — A. V. Alexander, First Lord of the Admiralty, said in a speech to-day that within 48 hours of the first landing in Sicily early on July 10, there were 80,000 men, 7,00 vehicles, and 300 tanks put ashore, and supplies rolled ceaselessly into the island throughout the campaign.

He said the over-all Allied sea losses from the initial landing up to midnight of August 17 were less than 85,000 tons.

He also revealed that in this war's most intensive naval support of landing operations, the Royal Navy alone fired more than 20,000 rounds with guns ranging from 4 to 16 inches. Allied losses were relatively light, he said.

Incident May Take Serious Turn

12 Fishermen Die As Shells Hit Fishing Craft

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 26 —(AP)— Three German destroyers sank two Swedish boats in the North Sea off the northwest tip of Denmark last night, the Swedish news agency reported in a Gothenburg dispatch to-day.

A foreign office spokesman said that if the attack occurred, the Swedish government would regard it as an "extremely serious" affair and the worst in a series of incidents involving Germany since the sinking of the Swedish submarine Ulven April 16.

Accounts from Gothenburg said 12 Swedes might have lost their lives when the boats went down under the attack, wreathed in flames. Returning fishermen said the destroyers struck from a range of about 50 yards, although the boats were flying the Swedish flag and had blue and gold Swedish insignia painted on the sides.

The fishing craft were operating close together in international waters, it was said.

Three other Swedish fishing boats which were said to have eluded attack made the report of the latest sinkings when they returned to Goeteborg to-day.

The Goeteborg newspaper Handels Tidningen said the fishermen reported that the German destroyers opened point-blank fire after a salvo of warning shots. They approached the fishing fleet from the direction of Denmark where the Germans have been nervously expecting a possible Allied invasion attempt.

Murder Hearing Gets New Slant

NASSAU, Bahamas, Aug. 26. — (CP). — In a dramatic courtroom climax, Lady Oakes to-day sat a few feet from her son-in-law, Alfred De Marigny, who is accused of murdering her husband, Sir Harry Oakes, and declared the family was "frightfully upset" over De Marigny's marriage to her daughter Nancy.

Her face pale and her voice broken by sobs, the widow gave her testimony while her tearful daughter, who has professed faith in De Marigny's innocence, listened intently.

The two women met outside the court before the preliminary hearing for De Marigny got under way, and both wept after they had walked together to the office of Magistrate F. E. Field.

It was the first public appearance made by Lady Oakes since she came to Nassau Monday for the first time since the multi-millionaire Sir Harry was bludgeoned and burned to death latt month and burned to death last month

Riots In Denmark Growing; Nazis Use Guns

By JOHN H. COLBURN
Associated Press Staff Writer

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 26 — (AP). —German soldiers, sent into Denmark to stamp out the people's revolt against Nazi occupation, fired a volley of shots during a disturbance in a crowded Copenhagen market place last night, the Stockholm newspaper Aftonbladet said to-day.

Despite the influx of troops and Gestapo, the general strikes spread to the harbor cities of Helsingfor and Vejle, crippling German shipping and boat-building, and the state of emergency was extended to a seventh city, Roskilde.

Stories of the shooting, said to have occurred in the Raadhuspladen in the centre of Copenhagen— where Nazi machine-guns were reported spotted at strategic points — came from travellers reaching Malmo. They were unable to find out whether there had been any casualties, the paper said.

Shipyard Strike

Production materials for Nazi submarines and other war ships were disrupted when, according to the Stockholm newspaper Dagens Nyheter, 6,000 workers struck on Monday at the important Burmeister main works in Copenhagen.

No official casualty figures were available, but unofficial and scattered reports indicated about 80 persons have been killed and 130 injured in clashes between the Danes and the Germans as a result of sabotage since August 16.

A critical food shortage developed in the city of Fredericia as a result of transport difficulties due to the blasting of railway lines in that area.

One Stockholm newspaper, Allehanda, speculated whether the Germans planned to institute a flat military control over all Denmark, intern King Christian and strip the Danish government of its powers.

German troops and members of the Gestapo moved into Roskile, reputedly to "help the Danish authorities enforce the emergency regulations." Six other major Danish cities were placed under such a decree early this week.

Have Armored Cars

Meanwhile, Copenhagen continued to bristle with Nazi military might as tension grew in the capital city of the angered Danes. Before dawn on Aug. 21, large contingents of soldiers started moving into the city in tanks and armored cars, and they still were reported arriving last night — even as Danish saboteurs blasted some buildings where they were to have been quartered. First reports said there were 40,000 German soldiers in the city, but latest information is that there are only about one-fourth that number—most of them young recruits, with some veterans of the eastern front.

Hedge-Hopping Fighter Craft Hit Foggia Airdrome 26 Axis Planes Shot Down

Surprise Raid Gives Italy Thorough Pasting
Taranto Freight Yards Hit Again
175 Planes Lost By Axis Since Sunday

By RELMAN MORIN, Associated Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, Aug. 26.—(AP).— Swarms of fighters hedgehopped all the way across Italy and shot up ground defences at Foggia yesterday, preparing the way for the wrecking of the airdrome and 10 minor fields by three waves of United States heavy bombers.

The fighters were specially equipped for the long-distance run to Foggia. Twenty-six enemy planes were shot down in combat and Allied sweeps over Southern Italy and scores of others were knocked to pieces on the ground.

R.A.F. and Canadian Wellingtons followed the Foggia raids by smashing at the freight yards at Taranto before dawn this morning. Rear gunners saw bursts and fires across the targets at this important naval base and railway control point despite a smoke screen which started drifting across the objtctives.

Other R.A.F. Halifaxes and Liberators from the Middle East the preceding night attacked the railway yards at Crotone, on the Gulf of Taranto. starting many fires and damaging a chemical plant.

Fly at 100 Feet.

Going the whole distance at an altitude of less than 100 feet, the fighter pilots attacking Foggia said Italians along the route waved and cheered as they passed.

The tree-top level flight threw the whole Foggia area into confusion, outwitting Axis ground defences and snarling the enemy's detection apparatus.

It was the first time in this theatre that fighters in such strength had flown so far and at such low level (the distance is about 440 miles, round trip, from the nearest airdromes in Sicily).

The lightning arriving over Foggia airdrome found it well stocked with parked aircraft, and some formations headed for the planes with cannon and machine-guns blazing and riddled closely-packed groups before a shot could be fired at them.

Ground crews and air crews scattered in all directions and machine-guns cut them down before they could reach shelter.

Some threw rocks and fired pistols wildly at the low-flying machines, which swept by unharmed in deadly precision, spaced in successive waves five to 10 minutes apart.

Some German fighters attempted to get into the air after the first formation swept over, but few, if any, made it.

Heavy Bombers Next

Then came the armadas of heavy bombers. Liberators from the Middle East made for the railway freight yards, and while the anti-aircraft crews were still dazed from the terrific strafing flying Fortresses plastered the airdrome target with heavy bombs.

As a result of the surprise, the Lightnings met few fighters and knocked down three.

The Fortresses bored through 60 to 100 Messerschmitt and Macchi fighters and destroyed 16. The Liberators got seven more for a total of 26. The total Allied losses for the day were 15, none from the Middle East.

The reappearanec of the German air force in the Italian skies after its complete absence Tuesday indicated the enemy had managed to reinforce his badly-mauled squadrons.

The enemy has lost a total of 175 planes in air battles over Italian railway centres and over Foggia since last Thursday.

The raid was described officially as "one of the most successful surprise air attacks of the war."

Among planes caught on the Foggia airdrome by fighters were seven Junkers-52 transports. They were riddled by a storm of bullets.

One huge Junkers crashed and burst into flames while trying to get off.

Many Fires Started

The fires started were burning brightly when Liberators from the Middle East appeared, and from an altitude of 20,000 feet unloaded their avalanche of high explosives and splinter bombs on the freight yard, a train, anti-aircraft battery, warehouse and a railway pass.

Within half an hour the first of the Fortresses, with a Lightning escort, were on the scene. From 20,000 to 25,000 feet they smashed hangars and administration buildings and left the whole area a chaos of burning buildings and airplanes, churned up landing fields and sprawling dead and wounded.

In other operations fighters strafed a 20-car troop train at Potenza, railway stations and locomotives at Rochetta, electric installations near Lucera, five locomotives, an electric engine and gasoline, laden cars near Sapri and road transport near Sinoli.

It was estimated 200 or 300 casualties were caused to enemy personnel by the combined strafing and bombing of airfields. Many parked aircraft were reported left ablaze.

The fighters caught hundreds of enemy crewmen on the airfields like mowing machines. In some instances enemy soldiers actually threw rocks and fired pistols so low did speedy fighters sweep over their objectives.

R.A.F. Halifax and Liberator bombers from the Middle East also blasted the railway yards at Crotone on the sole of the Italian boot on Tuesday night, starting many big fires and damaging a nearby chemical works. All these raiders returned safely.

(The Italian communique, broadcast from Rome, said the damage at Foggia was "grave" but termed the raid at Crotone as minor.

(Eighteen Allied planes were shot down, 16 of them at Foggia and Crotone, the communique asserted. It reported Axis raids on the Tunisian harbor of Bizerte and the Sicilian port of Augusta.)

War On Starlings

WOODSTOCK, Aug. 26.—(CP). — Total war on starlings has been declared here, with shotgun experts and precious ammunition recruited for nightly salvoes into trees along Vansittart avenue where thousands of the noisy blackbirds perch and chatter. First night's tally showed an estimated 200 - 300 starlings downed and 150 shells fired.

881 Casualties Reported In Sicily Lists

OTTAWA, Aug. 26 —(CP)—The number of Canadian (Active) Army casualties in the Sicily campaign so far reported in official casualty lists rose to 881 today with release by the defence department of the ninth Sicily list concerning 112 names.

The list reported 28 other ranks killed in action, six other ranks dead of wounds, four officers and 73 other ranks wounded, and one seriously wounded.

All those listed as killed in action and four of those who died of wounds were members of the Territorial British Columbia Regiment. The other two who died of wounds were serving with a Royal Canadian Artillery unit. The four officers listed as wounded were in the Eastern Ontario Regiment.

Of those wounded 47 were with the British Columbia Regiment, 12 with the Eastern Ontario Regiment, seven were infantrymen, six with the Royal Canadian Artillery and one with the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps.

Henrich Himmler Dismisses 40 Persons

LONDON, Aug. 26 — (CP). — Tass, Russian news agency, reported from Zurich to-day that Hitler issued a new decree giving Henrich Himmler control of the Ministry of Justice and all judicial bodies.

The news agency also said that Himmler had been purging the Ministry of Interior, dismissing more than 40 persons, most of whom were old officials but not active Nazis.

Himmler was named Minister of the Interior and "Chief of the Reich Administration" in a sudden reorganization among Hitler's subordinates earlier this week.

Panic Grows In Berlin After Raids

Thousands Sleep In Forests To Avoid Bombs

BERNE, Aug. 26 (AP)—"Berlin lives in real panic" and many persons, terrorized by Allied air raids, are "fleeing to the protection of surrounding forests," an article in the Weekly Die Nation reported today.

(NBC Correspondent John MacVane said in a London broadcast that German government offices are being dispersed throughout Germany as a result of the Berlin bombers. "Apparently the damage to Berlin by the Allied air raids was greater than had first been indicated," MacVane said.)

The Die Nation article, written before the German capital's heaviest pounding last Monday night, said Berliners' "eyes were opened" by flaming red placards signed by Propaganda Minister Goebbels telling them to protect their lives and property.

"Goebbels speaks with brutal frankness," Die Nation said. "Otherwise he is powerless at the moment. The wiping out of Hamburg is a terrible phantom making Berlin a real madhouse."

War of Nerves

The city is "in feverish fear, packing trunks, packages and boxes," Die Nation continued. "The war of nerves has reached a peak in Berlin hitherto thought impossible.

"Whoever has the opportunity has sent his entire possessions to the country, to Bavaria, Silesia or Vienna. Freight trains are so crowded that furniture shipments had to be forbidden. A million children have been evacuated....Berlin has become empty except for those who must remain at their posts."

Die Nation said some persons go "three hours away" from Berlin nightly, while poorer persons go lesser distances. Others stay near the Tiergarten, ready to push into the best shelters there.

"Eyewitnesses reported the English used new weapons of artificial fire....Coal dust, sulphur and phosphorus followed by incendiaries making a terrible explosion comparable only to coal-mine fire damp catastrophies....

"They also said the flak towers do not function properly because the English .... dropping small metal plates, cause the sensitive hearing apparatus to vibrate constantly and make accurate aiming difficult."

Indian Forces Approve Action

NEW DELHI, India, Aug. 26 — (CP). — The appointment of vice admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten as Allied commander-in-chief in Southeastern Asia produced approval from all sides today in this theatre, where troops are spoiling for a fight and anything promising action is pleasing.

The selection of Lord Mountbatten, a Royal Navy man skilled in combined operations, seemed to carry the assurance that ultimately naval forces will be used in this area, where land offensives have been found extremely difficult.

It also pointed to the possible selection of Maj.-Gen. George E. Stratemeyer, former chief-of-staff of U.S. army air forces, who has assumed command of the U.S. 10th air force in India, as chief of the Allied air forces in this theatre.

A suitable division of authority thus appeared in the making with the ground and naval commands going to British officers.

Some American officers felt the appointment of Lord Mountbatten at this late date before the Monsoon ends next month might plans for a winter campaign.

Hitler, Boss Gangster Has New Worries

Appointment Of Arch Murderer, Himmler, Is Significant

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

We shouldn't pass lightly by Hitler's appointment of Heinrich Himmler, the Fuehrer's bloody-minded executioner, as German Minister of Interior, a position which carries with it pretty much the power of life and death over the people of the Reich and the occupied territories.

The elevation of Nazidom's chief murderer and terrorist to this high position is one of the most significant signs of Hitler's growing weakness. The all-highest is showing fear, not only of the oppressed folk of conquered countries, but of his own people. Himmler is called in when tyranny and bloodshed are the order of the day.

It was Himmler the Hun who during Hitler's "blood purge" of his party in 1934 sat as judge of a drumhead court and sent a host of colleagues before firing squads. It was Himmler who wielded the lash and pistol when his master decreed the elimination of the Jews. It was Himmler who drove thousands of helpless civilians to stand on the edge of their graves while they were coldly murdered by bullets through the back of the head.

Of this throwback to savagery, the late Sir Nevile Henderson, famous British Ambassador to Berlin before the war, once said grimly:

Shoot Himmler First

"If given a gun and told to take two shots, I would first shoot Himmler, then Von Ribbentrop (German Foreign Minister) and brain Hitler with the butt of the rifle."

Hitler's appointment of Himmler as Minister of Interior is really sensational, for the indications are it has these three purposes: (1) to employ a ruthless hand against the growing revolt among the conquered (?) peoples; (2) to maintain a tight hold on a home front which has been showing signs of unrest; (3) to force war workers to remain in danger zones and continue production, despite the terrific bombing which industrial centres are undergoing.

This doesn't justify a conclusion that the German people are on the verge of revolt. Morale is subject to quick changes, like your barometer. So let's just take the facts as they stand and log down among our important memoranda that German morale is not what it was, and that the boss gangster is worried.

Low-Level Raids Effective

Sicily Roads Littered With Wrecks

By LOUIS V. HUNTER
Canadian Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 26 (CP).— The Allied fighter-bomber and the incomparable Spitfire fighter were among the dealiest weapons of the Sicilian campaign.

The technique of low - level bombing-strafing attack, evolved in the western desert, improved in Tunisia and perfected in Sicily, did more than aything else to disrupt the enemy's supplies to his front lines, and to hamper troop movements. Masses of burned-out, bomb-shattered vehicles by the roadside, and barges cluttering the bottom of the Messina Straits, offer eloquent proof of the efficiency of the fighter-bomber.

The Allies used three types of fighter-bombers in Sicily, the A-36 Invader, the famous Kittyhawk of the desert and the Warhawk. All three performed splendidly and have impressive totals of destroyed vehicles, barges and locomotives to their credit.

Bombers Attack Hong Kong

Japs Claim Raid Was Unsuccessful

NEW YORK, Aug. 26 (AP)—Tokyo reported today 20 Allied bombers and fighters attempted to attack Hong Kong yesterday in two separate raids. The broadcast was recorded by the Associated Press.

The radio said a few bombs were dropped from a high altitude by a formation of 13 planes which attacked during the morning and that slight damage was caused. The announcement claimed the attackers were "immediately repulsed" by anti-aircraft batteries.

Seven planes which approached the city in the afternoon were "forced to flee," the broadcast asserted.

Another Tokyo broadcast asserted that between June 30 and Aug. 25 Japanese forces in the Solomons had sunk nine Allied cruisers and 11 destroyers and destroyed 836 planes. The claims were without Allied confirmation.

The broadcast claimed an additional four cruisers, eight destroyers, and 76 planes were damaged.

COMMANDO CHIEF WITH NAVY EXPERIENCE NAMED TO OPPOSE JAPS

Lord Louis Mountbatten Named Commander To Drive Japs From Burma

Appointment Made At Quebec Conference
Virile British Leader
Will Head British, Chinese and Americans

By ALEX H. SINGLETON, Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—(AP).—Sharply-accelerated pressure on Japan from the east, together with a sea-air-land drive to re-open the Burma road, were regarded he e today as likely outcomes of the appointment of Lord Louis Mountbatten as supreme Allied commander in Southeast Asia.

The doughty Lord Louis, chief of Britain's famed Commandos and cousin of the King, is due in Washington today to begin plotting details of the broad operational plan laid down in Quebec by Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt for crushing Japan.

Appointment of Lord Louis was regarded as the first concrete result of the momentous conferences between Allied leaders at Quebec, and underscored the emphasis undoubtedly placed on the Pacific part of the war during their talks. It did, observers believed, serve notice of an impending spurt in Allied efforts to aid China.

Attended Conference

It brought to the command of the Southeastern Asian Allied forces a man trained for amphibious operations—one who rose from midshipman to skipper of the Royal Navy aircraft carrier Illustrious, one who gained first-hand knowledge of land fighting and guerilla tactics in building up the Commandos.

Thus, in Lord Louis' background, military observers found basis for speculation that a direct blow by air and sea may be aimed in the near future at the vital port of Rangoon, even as the offensive down the Arakan coast is continued with stepped-up intensity.

Success in re-opening the Burma road would serve the double objective of getting more supplies in to the Chinese forces of Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek, and as a route for bringing in fuel for Allied planes and bombers for a close-up air attack on Japan from Chinese bases.

Use Chinese Bases.

Increased Allied use of Chinese air bases might well compel Japan to pull in a substantial part of her air forces defending her outlying inland empire, and thereby ease the tough northward drive confronting Australian and American troops in the Pacific.

Upon his arrival here, Lord Louis will find a special mission from his homeland which came to study "maximum British co-operation with the United States in future operations against Japan" with the specific of laying "the logistical foundation" for Britain's contribution in that objective.

Presumably members of that mission will sit in with the colorful Commando leader as he discusses with high-ranking American officers the details of his new assignment. It seems likely that any sharp step-up in southwestern Asia warfare will be deferred until after the monsoon season ends in October.

Under his command Lord Louis will have American and Chinese as well as British and Canadian forces. Canadian airmen have long been flying against the enemy in that sector.

Riots In Denmark

German Ambassador Werner Best met yesterday with Danish officials to confer on ways of halting the revolt, but there has been no information concerning the outcome of their discussions.

The Social Democraten reported 20 parachutes had been found in Denmark along the Aarnus Trunk Railway which was blasted in five places a few days ago.

This and other reports from Denmark suggested that airborne saboteur Commandos were being flown from Britain to help the Danes in their revolt against German occupation forces.

The Aarhus line has been one of the principal transport links for German suplies and soldiers.

It is said that parachutists flown to Denmark before now have been only one or two men with the task of carrying out special sabotage. During the recent outbreaks in Denmark, however, sabotage has been on a widespread scale, averaging five to eight incidents nightly and conducted in manner indicating an organized pattern.

Both Free Danes and Britons are believed to have parachuted to work with the Danes rising against the Nazis.

Jungle Fighters One Mile From Salamaua

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, The South-west Pacific, Aug. 26—(AP).—American and Australian jungle troops now are within a mile of the Salamaua, New Guinea, airdrome, a spokesman for Allied Headquarters disclosed to-day.

This point of nearest approach is at Kennedy's Crossing at the south-west end of the airstrip.

The spokesman said that along the Francisco River, which flows south of the airstrip into Bayern Bay, the only Japanese still holding out below the river are at Dot Inlet on the coast.

Only semblance of a line held by the enemy begins at the Inlet and runs to Nuk Nuk, directly south of the airfield. Along that line, the enemy has made several counterattacks.

Nazis Fortify Albania Coast

ISTANBUL, Aug. 26.—(AP).— Reports have been received here from Albania that Germany has supplemented her troop concentrations in Italy with the recent installation of two divisions, one of them armored, on the Albanian Adriatic coast just across from the nearest point of Italy

The armored division sent to the point which the Germans apparently believe is the most likely place for an Allied landing also is equipped with heavily armored troop-carrying trucks. It recently was in Greece, the reports said.

The Germans now occupy all of the 50-mile southern section of Albanian coastline between Valona and Saranta, where the terrain is suitable for beach landings and the Todt labor organization is at work with thousands of Bulgarian laborers fortifying key beach points.

City Of Berlin Raided By Mosquitos

Fire Fighters Working To Stem Flames

LONDON, Aug. 26—(CP)—R.A.F. Mosquitoes kept the nerves of Berliners on edge last night with the third raid on the German capital in as many nights.

The Air Ministry communique said one of last night's raiders was missing. Simultaneously with the new stab at Berlin, other aircraft laid mines in enemy waters, it was announced.

Meanwhile, a Stockholm dispatch said the death toll in Berlin during Monday night's bombing, when an estimated 700 heavy bombers made a smashing attack, would have been enormous if women and children had not been evacuated.

The dispatch, from the Berlin correspondent of Stockholm's Tidningan, said every able-bodied person was mobilized for fire-fighting and rescue work.

While keeping Berlin awake, the Mosquitoes put Axis radios to sleep. There was a complete blackout of enemy broadcasts most of the night throughout Europe. BBC and two neutral stations had the air to themselves.

The pilots who flew the fast, two-engined Mosquitoes to the German capital for the second straight night reported that even from a great height they could see patches of glowing embers from the fires started by the heavy bombers in Monday night's saturation attack.

One flier said that, although they might dismiss the Mosquito assaults as nuisance raids, "last night we were enough of a nuisance for them to put up as heavy a barrage as if we were there in force."

Hundreds of searchlights stabbed the sky and thousands of rounds were fired by the ground guns during the half hour the planes were over the city, he said.

Mines Laid

R.C.A.F. headquarters announced that during the night bombers of the Canadian group laid mines in enemy waters. None are missing.

Three German airfields and a poer station in Western France were raided yesterday by R.A.F. and American medium bombers, with R.C.A.F. fighters lending protection to the big craft.

A Berlin broadcast by the German news agency D.N.B. to-day claimed Allied "nuisance raiders" again were over Northern Germany and had dropped bombs, causing slight damage.

R.A.F. Mitchells during the day bombed the Bernay St. Martin air base while R.A.F. Bostons attacked the one at Beaumont Le Roger. R.C.A.F. fighters went along on both raids.

American Marauders concentrated on the power station at Rouen and also visited Tricqueville. Few enemy fighters were encountered. An R.C.A.F. squadron shot down one German plane, the communique added, without suffering loss itself.

Two British fighters were listed as missing from other patrols over France and Belgium during the day.

It was announced last night anti-aircraft fire knocked down a low-flying Junkers-88 just off a northern Scottish island.

Yesterday was the second successive day Allied airmen had concentrated on enemy installations in western France. Reconnaissance showed considerable damage to the service base at Villacoublay, eight miles south of Paris, hit Tuesday by Allied Raiders.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 26 — (CP). — Wheat futures recorded fractional losses, while rye posted slight gains yesterday on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

American buying was traded in both grains, with local spreading indicated in wheat and inter-market spreading in rye. United Kingdom interests were reported to have purchased a small quantity of Durum wheat during the session. There was no further inquiry for Canadian wheat from the United States Commodity Credit Corporation.

Trade was small in cash wheat, with shippers taking modest quantities Nos. 1 and 2 Northern. A fairly substantial business was reported in cash oats, with 500,000 bushels taken for shipment to United States ports.

237 Fall Fairs To Be Held In 1943

TORONTO, Aug. 26.—(CP).— J. A. Carroll, secretary of the Ontario Farms Association, to-day announced that of 240 fall fairs in this province, 237 are planning to hold agricultural exhibitions this autumn.

The Dundalk society notified the Association that their show had been cancelled mainly because of the farm help shortage.

Other fairs cancelled are those at Lombardy, Neustadt, Barrie and Rainy River. Fairs not held in 1942 but which are being resumed this year are those at Chesley and Stella.

last year that Nancy had been married to De Marigny, only two days after her 18th birthday.

"We were frightfully upset," she continued. "She was only a child and was still at school. We knew that De Marigny still was living with his former wife, or whatever one calls a divorced wife.

"But we decided to put on a brave front and make the best of it..."

Her voice broken by sobs, Lady Oakes later testified that her husband changed his will last February because of anger against De Marigny.

While both De Marigny and his wife sat near her, the witness said she discovered Nancy had become pregnant while she was recovering from a near-fatal illness in Mexico. At the same time, Lady Oakes continued, Nancy was suffering from a severe mouth disease which caused a serious infection.

"The pregnancy had to be terminated because of the danger," she added. "She just couldn't go through with it."

Lady Oakes said she told Harry about the pregnancy.

"Relations among Harry, Alfred and myself were extremely strained, uncomfortable and unpleasant," she related, "because I had given Alfred instructions before leaving Mexico to take the best care of Nancy."

She said Sir Harry later telephoned De Marigny and ordered him to leave the Oakes home.

"If you don't get out I'll kick you out," she quoted Sir Harry.

"In consequence of this incident," Lady Oakes said, "Sir Harry changed his will last Feb. 16."

The will has not been filed for probate, and witness did not disclose how the bequests had been altered.

Roosevelt Given Degree During Visit

By JACK WILLIAMS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Aug. 26 — (CP). — Canada's capital to-day looked back on the first official visit of a President of the United States to this city as an event of both historic and human significance.

The presence of President Roosevelt in Ottawa yesterday and the solemn words he spoke before an assembly of 30,000 people made the occasion more than just a memorable event. The greeting President waved to his audience on Parliament Hill and later to crowds lined along the miles of a drive through the city and district strengthened the friendship and regard of Canadian people for their good neighbour.

In a tightly-packed eight hours the President completed one of the busiest programs ever arranged for a distinguished visitor to the capital.

He made a formal address on Parliament Hill, honored the Canadian dead of the First Great War at the national war memorial, attended official luncheon, received an honorary degree of doctor of laws from the University of London, toured the district, and had tea at Laurier House, the Ottawa residence of Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

Early in the evening, accompanied by the Governor General and Prime Minister, he returned to his train and left for the United States.

Location of the siding where his special train had arrived yesterday morning and from which it left last night, was not officially disclosed; but there was a crowd on hand to cheer his arrival and to wave a farewell when he left.

His 15-minute speech on Parliament Hill was marked by a strong determination to rid the world of outlaws who refused to recognize the "fundamentals of decent, human conduct" and by a desire to see that victory should bring to the world "greater opportunities."

Arrest Owner Of Speed Boat After Drowning

CORNWALL, Ont., Aug. 26—(CP)—James Scott, Cornwall garageman, last night was arrested by provincial police on a charge of manslaughter arising out of the death by drowning of Leo Mondoux of Cornwall near Hopkins Point, Que., Sunday.

Mondoux and two other men drowned when a small boat capsized while crossing the St. Lawrence River to Summerstown, Ont., eight miles from here.

A jury under Dr. Ovila Caza, Valleyfield, Que., coroner, Wednesday returned a verdict holding Scott criminally responsible for Mondoux' death, and Dr. Caza issued a coroner's warrant for his arrest.

Quebec provincial police placed Scott in custody at Valleyfield jail.

Scott is alleged to have been the driver of a speedboat which circled a small outboard motorboat carrying seven Cornwall men, creating swells which caused it to capsize. The four survivors, Dollard Morin, Fernand Racine, and Rabriel and Roy Miron, were heard by the jury.

The second body to be recovered, that of Louis Miron, was found by three Indians. The body of Mondoux was recovered Tuesday. Search for the body of the third victim, Harold Gallinger, is continuing.

Three Brothers In The Service

OLIVER SHEPHERD

HENRY SHEPHERD

ALBERT SHEPHERD

Three brothers, nephews of Mrs. Ada Craig, Rogers street, and all well known in Peterborough, are in the Canadian services. Oliver Shepherd is with the R.C.A.F., enlisting before war broke out and recently completed a pilot's course at Hagerville. Henry Shepherd is also with the R.C.A.F. He graduated last Thursday as a navigator at St. Johns, Quebec, and was immediately commissioned as a pilot officer. Before enlisting he was on the staff of Central School. Albert Shepherd, the third brother, is with the Royal Canadian Engineers at Ottawa.

Military Law Has Teeth Judge Discovers

HONOLULU, Aug. 26.—(AP). — A Federal Judge was prohibited by United States' army restrictions today from enforcing a $5,000 fine he imposed for contempt of court on Lt.-Gen. Robert C. Richardson, commander of the Army's Hawaiian Department.

Further, he was confronted with the prospect of a fine and prison term for himself if he perists in what the military regards as his efforts to contravene martial law.

Thus the Army took direct action in Hawaii's explosive test of the relative precedence of civil and military law under the circumstance of the territory's semi-martial rule.

Federal Judge Delbert Metzger provoked the question by upholding the validity of a writ of habeas corpus for two naturalized citizens of German ancestry who are held incommunicado by the Army.

Gen. Richardson failed to produce the men explaining that while martial law in the islands had been relaxed in part, the civil right of habeas corpus still was suspended.

Judge Metzger then ordered Gen. Richardson to show cause why he should not be held in contempt and, when the order was ignored, adjudged the officer to have shown "open and notorious defiance of the mandate of the court." Richardson was directed to pay the $5,000 fine.

Immediately the General retaliated by ordering the case and all like it closed to any further action.

Squirrel Hitch-Hikes

WHEATLEY, Ont., Aug. 26.—(CP).—A motorist arriving at this village, 10 miles northeast of Leamington, expressed indignation that a hitch-hiker who boarded his car, uninvited, just outside London, had travelled all the way to Tilbury with him, then left without so much as a thank-you. Fire wardens extinguished the blaze.

Tokyo Agreeable To 2nd Exchange

LONDON, Aug. 26 (CP)— Tokyo reported today in a broadcast recorded by the Associated Press that about 1,500 United States citizens and civilians will be included in the second exchange of American and Japanese nationals. (Ottawa has announced 200 Canadians will be included in the exchange.)

The broadcast said the agreement provided for the exchange to be made in the second week of October at Mormugao, Portuguese India.

A Japanese ship carrying persons interned in Japan, China, Manchukua, Thailand, French Indo-China and the Phillipines will leave a Japanese harbor between Sept. 10 and Sept. 20, the announcement said.

An exchange of Japanese and British nationals also is being considered, the broadcast said.

80 Blood Donors Appear At Cobourg Clinic

COBOURG, Aug. 26 (ENS) — Fourth Blood Donors Clinic was held yesterday in the basement of St. Andrew's church. There were 80 blood donors, a total considerably less than the last one. At previous clinics there were a considerable number of donors from the 18 General Hospital unit, which was stationed here at that time. The nurses who assisted yesterday were as follows:

Mrs. Murray Smith, convener; Mrs. Dennis Larkin, Miss Burnham, Mrs. Eldora Labrash, Mrs. Pearl Beach, Mrs. Catherine Breach, Miss E. Sheppard, Mrs. L. Gemmill, Miss Ruth Arksey, Miss M. Googan, Miss Lee, Mrs. E. Wood, Mrs. B. Payne, Mrs. H. Haselton, Miss V. Foster and Mrs. J. Skitch.

Has Recovered

Mrs E. Acorn of Wicklow, is in receipt of a letter from her son, "Bud," who was reported dangerously wounded in Sicily, which advises her that he is well again. His condition was not as serious as the official word indicated, as he was only a few days in hospital from superficial head wounds. Pte. Acorn informs his mother that he is back with his unit again.

Tribute to the Red Cross

Pte. Robert Bennett of Cobourg, wounded in Sicily, pays tribute to the Red Cross in a letter to his mother, Mrs. H. Bennett.

"The Red Cross units are looking after us wonderfully," he states. "I am making very good progress in hospital here. Red Cross workers are around now writing letters for the boys who are not able to do so and are supplying writing material for those who need it. All branches of the Red Cross, Canadian, British and American are doing outstanding work, day and night, in the hospitals."

35 Depth Charges

Almost 35 depth charges were bought by Northumberland County in the war savings stamp drive, it was revealed in a statement issued from the National War Finance Committee, Toronto. The total was $3,123, while the county objective was $2,970 or 33 depth charges.

"We in this office appreciate the good job done by those in charge of the County of Northumberland," stated H. M. Dennehy of the National War Finance Committee, Toronto, in a letter to R. G. Parker of Cobourg, chairman of Northumberland County.

Ace Cameramen Serving; Few Are Lauded

By ALAN RANDAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WITH THE R.A.F. IN BRITAIN, Ag. 26.—(CP). — You don't hear much about the boys who fly from this base. They are P.R.U. fliers, the initials standing for Photographic Reconnaissance Unit. Without them this aerial war, and the land war too, for that matter, wouldn't be anything like it is.

And fliers elsewhere tell you that P.R.U. pilot's job is one of the most dangerous and difficult in all operational flying, even though there isn't much glory attached to it.

These men, among them members of the Royal Canadian Air Force attached to the R.A.F., are the mapmakers of the second front, the men who obtain the material for the basic guidance of any assault, be it on the land or from the air.

Canadains flying here include Flying Officer D. G. Scott of Hamilton, Ont.

The job has plenty of thrills but the only satisfaction for pilots after a job well done is that which goes with having returned with important information of the enemy's territory.

These fellows fly alone in the fastest planes available. Even more important, they fly completely unarmed because the weight of guns and ammunition plus the weight of the cameras would reduce their speed too much. Speed, plus the tricks of flying in this branch which must remain the secret of the fliers themselves, is their main protection.

Speedy Craft

Mostly their planes are stripped-down Spitfires and Mosquitoes and most of their flying is of the low-altitude whip-in-and take-your-pictures-and-be-gone variety.

It is the kind of work which has earned for Acting Wing Cmdr. Adrian Warburton, ace cameraman of the R.A.F. more decorations than many a combat pilot can ever hope to attain. At 25, he has won the D.S.O. and Bar, for bravery in obtaining low-alitude photographs and has been awarded the D.F.C. with two Bars.

Only now is it permitted to write anything at length on these activities.

P.R.U. planes use as many as five different types of cameras, some stereoscopic, some varying in lens size between five and 40 inches and aerial pictures can now be taken in color, revealing things that black and white would fail to pick out.

When the pictures are flown back and developed they are handed over to the map-making section where experts translate them into terms of a map.

Commits Suicide

BERNE, Aug. 26 (AP)—Rome dispatches to the Swiss Telegraphic Agency said today that Count Allesandro Frontoni, former member of the Fascist party directorate, had committed suicide in his Rome apartment. No details were given.

The dispatches also reported that Professor Pagliani, head of the Department of Surgery in the University of Bologna, has been sentenced to three years in prison by a government military tribunal for possessing arms. Five rifles, a machine-gun, hand grenades and revolvers were said to have been found in his home.

Old Laws

SUDBURY, Aug. 26.—(CP).—Anti-noise laws are nothing new to Sudbury. Delving into the dusty archives reveals that as far back as July 11, 1893, the city fathers were noise conscious. There may not have been swing shift and graveyard workers in those day, but unnecessary raucousness even then was frowned upon.

Dog Returns

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 26.—(AP).—Rat, a large shepherd dog, lived at the pound 14 months, and liked the feed. Released to a family several miles away, Rat was back the next day. Then the poundmaster gave him to a farm family 40 miles away. Ten days later Rat came back. They're all like that, said the pound-master.

Finds Gen. Montgomery Not A Bit Military

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 26 (ENS) Letters are beginning to reach here from men who are serving with the Army in Sicily and typical was the one recived by Mrs. William Normington from her son Bill who had taken part in the campaign after spending three years overseas with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment. Pte. Normington's father is with the Veterans' Guard stationed in Ottawa. In the letter to his mother he writes as follows from Sicily:

"Sorry not to have written more often in the last two months, but we were too busy. We had a good trip without much excitement and haven't seen much since the first night when we slept next to a melon patch. We are in an orange grove now. Sicily has a nice climate. The people are friendly, and at least they will not have to give all their produce to the Axis now. General Montgomery visited us today. He is not a bit military in his actions and he mixes with the men."

Australia's General Election

Although complete results of the general election which was held in Australia last Saturday are not yet available, it appears that the Labour Government of Premier Curtin will have a working majority of about thirty in the House of Representatives. As the former House was evenly divided, with the balance of power resting with two independent members, this represents a great gain for Curtin, and a strong vote of public confidence in his conduct of Australia's war effort. It is doubtful if the vote can be taken as an endorsation of all his policies, for a large section of the Australian press and the public is critical of these, but about his war policy there can be no doubt; Australia is determined not to change horses in midstream. The results of the election as it concerns the Australian Senate are not yet conclusive, but it looks as though Labour would make gains there, too.

Many Canadian newspapers have been quick to draw parallels between the Australian situation and our Canadian one. The Labour Government has a limited conscription policy which drafts men for service in the Southwest Pacific Command only, and as well it has an army of men who have volunteered for service anywhere. As in Canada, the Australian Government has imposed very heavy taxes and many restrictions on the country, including a price control system. Criticism of the Government and resentment of many of its actions is prevalent in Australia, and yet the Curtin Government was endorsed by a great majority of the voters. If we were to have a general election in Canada, would the result be the same?

Some papers think that it would; others are sure that it would not. For ourselves, we do not think that the loud abuse of the present Canadian Government which is heard in certain quarters blinds the majority of citizens to the fact that Canada's war effort, under that Government, is something of which we may be very proud. Of course, the Government has made mistakes, and some of them have been whoppers; it is still making mistakes; but when Winston Churchill formed a government in 1940 he assured the Commons and the people that his government would make many mistakes, for it is unavoidable that a body of men undertaking a gigantic and infinitely complex task should have some failures. Australia, having been very near the fighting for many long months, has returned to power a government which, in spite of many failures, has shown itself vigorous in the prosecution of the war. In the event of a general election, we are convinced that Canada would do the same.

Bother About Bovingdon

A good deal of stir has been caused in the U.S. by the dismissal of John Bovingdon, an economist in the employ of the Office of Economic Administration. In the salty phrase of The New Yorker, this dismissal "stinks on ice."

The facts appear to be these: Bovingdon is an honours graduate of Harvard in economics, he has been a professor of that subject, and he is now being considered for a doctor's degree in it; obviously he is an economist and a pretty good one. But he is also something of a faddist; he does not drink or smoke, and he eats a special diet which he believes to be healthy, and he dances, using a special technique of stretching and breathing in order to preserve his health and prolong his life. Representative Martin Dies, the noted witch-hunter, discovered that Bovingdon was a dancer, decided that he must be a crackpot, and engineered his dismissal.

This is the old, old story. Most people are suspicious of what is unusual, but they are prepared to tolerate it if it does them no harm. Much of our daily liberty rests on that foundation. But if someone wants to make a fuss about any aspect of the unusual, or to persecute anyone who has unusual ideas, he can count on plenty of support, for there are always people who see a threat to themselves in whatever is unusual, and are eager to suppress it. So Dies had little trouble in getting Bovingdon thrown out of his job.

But for the more reasonable section of the public the problem is this: has a government the right to insist that all its employees live completely colourless lives; is a man who does special exercises, and who dances, likely to be a better servant of the state than one who never exercises and who has no rhythm of any kind; is a man of narrow and commonplace interests to be preferred to an adventurer and experimenter? The action of Representative Dies looks very much like a sucker springing from the root of Fascism.

Mr. Roosevelt At Ottawa

The visit of President Roosevelt to Ottawa was an occasion of historical importance, and the speech which he made to the people of Canada will long be remembered by the millions who heard it. In some ways it was unlike the speeches which we have heard from the President during the past few years; he did not use it as a means of giving the world information, or instruction, or suggestion; it was simply a friendly speech in reply to an official welcome, and it gave us new insight into the nature of a very friendly and humane man. The President's popularity in Canada has always been great; his speech on Wednesday raised it to new heights.

The President spoke of the war, but he told us nothing about it which we did not already know. But, like Winston Churchill, he has the ability to speak in general terms about the war and yet to leave us with a feeling of definite encouragement, a feeling that we have been "on the inside" for a few minutes. The personal emanation of these two men, even when they can only be heard through the imperfect medium of the radio, is such as to hearten and uplift all who hear and trust them. We never hear Churchill or Roosevelt without a renewed feeling that our cause is in the hands of just and honourable men, daring and resourceful men, and men who have elements of greatness and nobility in them. Our feeling for them is not fanatical; we do not deify them as the Germans deified Hitler; our feeling for them is rather based upon an honest and frank admiration; we wish that we were like them, for they seem to possess in great measure the qualities which we admire. They are idealists, but they are also intensely practical; they are democrats, but they are not idealizers of the commonplace; they get on with the job, disregarding petty obstacles and petty criticism, but they are not joyless, grinding workers; they are men of broad sympathies, fond of a good time and fond of a laugh; one is a sportsman in his spare time and the other an artist and a bricklayer. Mr. Churchill has visited Ottawa already; Mr. Roosevelt was there yesterday. Canada is proud to be visited by men of their stamp.

Gun-Running In Palestine

A trial is now in progress in Jerusalem which is of interest to the whole of the western world, for it concerns gun-running in Palestine, a trouble-spot which we have temporarily forgotten. Two Jews, Leib Sirkin and Abraham Rachlin, are accused of trafficking in arms; they are charged with having in their possession 300 Australian rifles and 105,000 American cartridges. Two British Army privates have already been given fifteen years apiece for selling these goods. The significance of the trial lies in what it may uncover about attempts on the part of the Palestinian Jews to prepare themselves for a fight against the Arabs.

At present the Jewish-Arab situation rests on a British White Paper on Palestine, which stabilizes the Jewish population in that mandate as a permanent minority. This is not acceptable to Zionist Jews, who want Palestine as a homeland for their race. Among the Zionists exists a smaller group known as the Revisionists who are determined to have Palestine as an all-Hebrew state, and who declare that its present boundaries are too narrow to hold a Jewish nation. They have given warning that they will use armed force to extend the borders of Palestine and to subjugate or drive out the Arabs if that should be necessary.

The Jewish Agency for Palestine disclaims any knowledge of the Revisionist plans, but it is firmly opposed to the White Paper policy. The accused men in the current trial have declared that theirs is "a second Dreyfus case", designed to discredit the Jews and lay the way open for further oppression of them. There has been no evidence beyond their assertion that this is so, and it may be no more than a move to enlist popular sympathy. The trial, which was expected to last for three days only, is now in its fourth week, and there can be little doubt that its outcome will have a strong influence on the immediate future of Arab-Jewish relations in Palestine, and could prove embarrassing to the United Nations.

Britain's Right To Bomb

By
WICKHAM STEED

THE German outcry against British and Allied bombing calls for answer—and the right answer is not easy. It is easy to reply that the Germans "began it" and that they cannot complain if they are now getting strong doses of the medicine they prepared for others. But this answer hardly goes below the surface. Nor is it enough to say that by deliberate "frightfulness" in Poland, at Rotterdam and Belgrade, by the bombing and machine-gunning of civilian fugitives in Belgium, and France, and by massacres in Poland and Russia, the Germans have put themselves out of court. To argue thus is tacitly to admit that war may be lawful if it is waged according to the rules, and that the Germans have merely broken its "laws."

If, on the other hand, the Allies affirm that they are bombing the Axis into unconditional surrender and are striving by this means to shorten the war, the Germans have turned against them, their own stock defence of "frightfulness." This defence is the specious plea that the greater the ruthlessness with which war is waged the more humane it becomes, inasmuch as it tends to break an opponent's spirit of resistance earlier than it would otherwise be broken, thus saving lives.

A CONVINCING answer must go to the root of the matter. I think I know the right answer which it took me nearly 20 years to find. I began to look for it on the battlefield near Verdun in 1916 when the senselessness of devoting human science, skill, courage, and wealth to the inhuman work of mutual destruction horrified me even more than the carnage I was witnessing. The real enemy, I felt, was war itself. How could that enemy be vanquished?

The difficulty lay, and to some extent still lies, in the status of war as a lawful undertaking. In virtue of its legality it was the source of legal rights, both belligerent and neutral. No guilt attached to it, provided that it were duly declared under International Law and waged according to the "laws of war."

Even in Article 231 of the Versailles Treaty—the misnamed "war-guilt" clause—the victors in the last great war were careful not to charge Germany with "guilt." They only declared her "responsible" for the loss and damage done by her aggression. In effect they filed a legal statement of claim for damages.

Yet the Versailles Treaty did contain at least one "war-guilt" clause. By Article 227 it publicly arraigned the former German Emperor for a "supreme offence against international morality and the sanctity of treaties." But when the Allies, on the strength of this clause, asked the Dutch Government to surrender the culprit to them so that he might be put on trial, they got the cogent answer that their demand was "an act of high international policy," not a legal claim. There could be no crime, said this answer, except in virtue of an existing law; and in 1914 there was no valid law against war. Should such a law be enacted in future, possibly by the League of Nations, the Government of the Netherlands, would respect it.

NOW the League of Nations was never able to enact such a law. It tried, and failed. The League Covenant even recognized the lawfulness of war under certain conditions. It did not expressly condemn neutrality or abolish neutral rights—as it must have done if war had been regarded as a crime, since no rights neutral or other, can flow from felony.

The nearest approach to a legal condemnation of war was made by the Treaty of Paris, or Briand-Kellogg Pact, of 1928. Its signatories, of whom Germany was the first, solemnly renounced war "as an instrument of national policy" and undertook never to have recourse to it.

Yet they did not outlaw war nor did they renounce neutrality. And the only practical effect of the renunciation of war was seen when Japan attacked China, Italy attacked Abyssinia and Albania, and Germany attacked Poland without any declaration of war. They behaved like footpads and gangsters. Their crimes called, indeed, for armed police action against them, action which, however, the other signatories of the Briand-Kellogg Pact were loth to undertake.

MEANWHILE a new doctrine or philosophy of war was proclaimed in Germany. Whereas in 1830 the classical German authority, General von Clausewitz, had defined war as "the handmaid of policy," and as "the continuation of policy by other means," General von Ludendorff, a century later, went far beyond Clausewitz in a work entitled "Total War." Insisting that war must not be the handmaid but the supreme aim of policy, he wrote that total war is pitiless, that it demands the last ounce from men, women and children. All energies (he went on) all economic resources, must be laid under contribution for it, and reserves of munitions, oil, food and every war requisite must be accumulated in advance. Thus prepared, Total War can be waged.

Attack by surprise at decisive points must be utterly ruthless—on land, on water and in the air—and be followed by pursuit so that defeat may be turned into rout. It is a mistake to suppose that war must begin by declaring war. Superior air squadrons must assail the opponent without warning; and, at the decisive hour, bombing squadrons must operate continuously and remorselessly.

This is a felon philosophy. There is in it no vestige of legality. It conceives total war as a total crime; and none can say that the Germans and their allies have not been criminal. Against them Britain and the United Nations are now discharging a police function on behalf of civilization. Since this function involves bombing, bombing must go on "continuously and remorselessly" until the criminals are beaten down and brought to justice. There is no room for compunction.

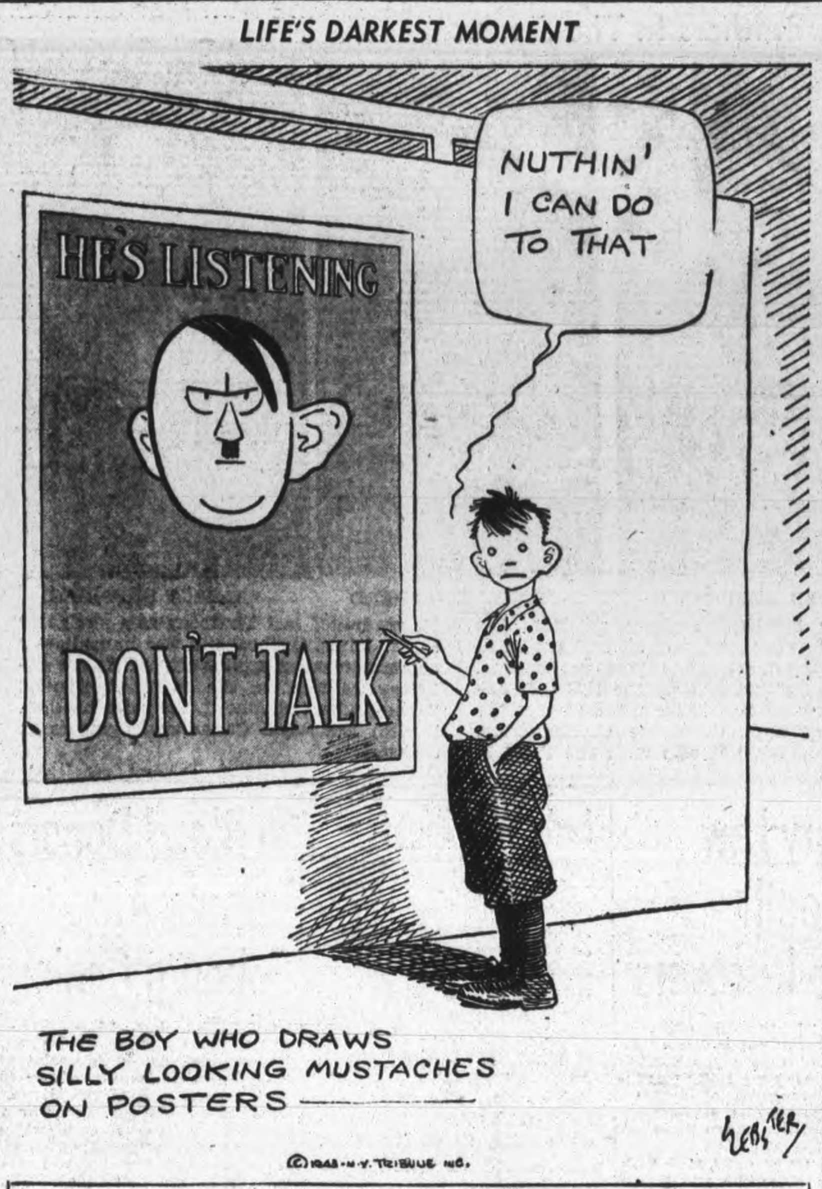
WHATEVER qualms of conscience Britain may feel should be detrospective. Britain and others were blind to the preparation of this crime of total war. Extenuating circumstances were even granted to those who were preparing it.

However distasteful their present grim and salutary task may be, Britain can perform it with clear conscience, provided that it is resolved in future also to treat war as a crime, to outlaw it, to renounce neutrality towards it, and to extend to a union of free nations the fundamental principle of English Common Law that no idividual member of a law-abiding community can be neutral as between criminals and the law. Then all coercive action will become an international police function, as the present Allied bombing is; and, like that present bombing, it will be rightful and righteous.



Letters To The Editor

WHAT "PARITY" MEANS

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—In the various political programs for Agriculture, as recorded in the Examiner's news columns covering the recent election, it has been encouraging to observe that the so-called "forgotten man" (generally described as "the farmer") is being accorded more attention these days.

Most of the references in the various parties' farm platform dealt in one form or another with the idea that the farmers are not getting their appropriate share of the nation's income—or, at least, up to the last two or three years, needed a fairer deal and were "economically undernourished."

I think this rural-urban awakening to their mutual inter-dependence is a first-class trend and, if developed, will play a central role in keeping the good ship "Canada" on an even keel, in the difficult years when the Axis has been "blacked-out," and the lights come on again across the world.

It is not widely-enough recognized that Agriculture (the so-called "Cinderella" of the business world) still employs two-thirds of the human family, and that urban prosperity is becoming increasingly dependent upon the buying-power of the primary producers. In countries like our own, with an agricultural machine having a capital investment equalling the capitalization of our forty leading manufacturing industries combined—i.e. $4,800,000,000—a depression in the secondary and processing industries has never synchronized with 'good times' down on the farm? Obviously, the reverse would be equally true.

In the final analysis, what the farmer is calling for are not "good prices" merely, but "parity prices." I noticed none of the political "farm platforms" mention this farm term. It may be that the word "parity" is not understood. However, there is no mystery about it. The term simply means that the price of what rural Canadians sell should have an appropriate (and enduring) relationship to the price of the things we buy from urban Canadians. Why not?

A DEMOCRAT.

SAYS TELEGRAM MISINTERPRETED

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—From the copies of my telegrams to the Prime Minister and Justice C. P. McTague published in your today's issue, I cannot understand how you arrived at the conclusion that the members of this Local expressed approval of the withdrawal of Mr. Cohen from the Labour Board.

No such opinion was expressed and your statement is entirely misleading.

The meaning of our telegram is clear and was in line with several sent by other Locals of this Union, and the Canadian Congress of Labour and The American Federation of Labour.

We asked for a joint report and that calls for unity, not separation.

N. HAMBLIN,
President, Local 524, U.E.R. & M.W.A.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The telegrams in question are published in our issue of August 21. If any reader interprets them as a call for unity we should be glad to hear how he arrives at that result.

Electricity On The Farm

(OTTAWA JOURNAL)

NOTING a recent article in The Journal on Electricity and the Farm, a reader asks if we can tell him what proportion of farmhouses in Ontario have electricity available. The probability is 40 per cent at least. The Dominion census of 1941 gives the exact figures of the number in that year, namely 37.3 per cent. There must be more now.

Incidentally, as bearing out what was said recently regarding the increasing comfort of farm life owing to electricity and the motor car, we may add the following statistics, also given in the Dominion census for 1941: Automobiles are owned by 60.6 per cent of Ontario farms; there are radio sets in 66.3 per cent of the farmhouses; and 50.8 per cent have telephones.

Ontario is much more advanced in the matter of electric power, heat and light than any other province, owing of course to the Ontario Hydro-Electric enterprise; also has a much larger number of automobiles and telephones proportionately than any other province. But in the matter of radio, all the prairie provinces show more sets in use porportionately to population than Ontario does; and the Eastern provinces are not far behind. Alberta leads all with radio in 73 per cent of the farm homes.

This great use of radio, greater now, of course, than when the census of 1941 was taken, is a tremendously notable factor in current information and influences. Assuredly now at least two-thirds of all the farms of the Dominion have radio. Two-thirds of the farm population (and probably a larger percentage in the cities) are in immediate receipt of the world's news. Also within more or less reach (this being fortunately at the radio owner's option) of the world's orators and the world's blatherskites, which is not so entrancing; but it at least illustrates what a vast medium of influence or recreation the radio may be at any time.

Whitehall Notebook

(By SCOTT YOUNG, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

LONDON, Aug. 26 (CP)—The fact that parliament adjourned without discussion of John McGovern's forbidden visit to Eire indicates that this case, which provoked considerable lobby and newspaper comment, will be allowed to drift unchallenged into oblivion.

McGovern, Independent Labour party member for Shettleston, entered Eire in direct defiance of instruction from the Home Secretary, Herbert Morrison, that British M.P.'s should not visit there. While in Eire, McGovern had a 40-minute talk with Premier deValera on general war conditions, although on his return he would not define the exact nature of the discussion.

McGovern says he refused to abide by the ban because only aliens need permits to enter Eire, and he demands the same right as any other British citizen, he said the ban placed him in an inferior position even to his wife, who was allowed permits to visit Ireland without any conditions attached and therefore could travel freely between Northern Ireland and Eire.

If the matter comes up when Commons convenes again, two alternatives wil be open: either the government will withdraw its ban or it will restrict further visits by refusing M.P.'s permission to cross even to Northern Ireland unless a promise is made not to go to Eire.

Another matter touching Eire raised in Commons just before adjournment may be dealt with after the recess. Prof. J. L. Savory (Con. Belfast University) asked during question time whether any steps had been taken to put a stop to the export of gasoline to Eire from Britain, saying that Axis representatives have been touring Eire in automobiles driven by American gasoline which had been brought originally to Britain at the risk of British sailors' lives.

The parliamentary secretary to the minister of war transport, P. J. Noel-Baker, said that exports of gasoline to Eire have been drastically reduced but that the government must endure that continued export from Eire to the United Kingdom of valuable agricultural products. It wasn't practical, he said, to limit the uses to which Eire must put the gasoline.

But he didn't dispel the anger in the House; cheers greeted M. Petherick, Penry and Falmouth Conservative, when he asked: "Could the government not lay down that any imports of petrol into Eire must be carried in Eire ships or neutral ships without the protection of the British Navy?" Noel-Baker did not reply.

Lobby Notes: The association of Welsh local authorities has petitioned parliament to appoint a secretary of state for Wales and Monmouthshire, placing it in the same parliamentary status as Scotland....William Gallacher, Communist member, suggests that nudists are supplied with clothing coupons they don't need and should put them into a common pool....Capt. Cunningham-Reid (Ind. Marylebone) has explained to Commons in a short personal state that he did not leave England during the blitz in 1940, but left several weeks before it started and had returned by October, so went through much of it....The fact that he was away during the early part of the blitz is often used in personal attacks against this outspoken Kormar Conservative.

A Bible Message

And it came to pass in the fortieth year, in the eleventh month, on the first day of the month, that Moses spake unto the children of Israel, according unto all that the Lord had given him in commandment unto them. (Deut. 1: 3.)

◇ ◇ ◇

The Lord thy God will raise up unto thee a Prophet from the midst of thee, of thy brethren, like unto me; unto him ye shall hearken. (Deut. 18: 15.)

◇ ◇ ◇

After this there was a feast of the Jews; and Jesus went up to Jerusalem....

Then answered Jesus and said unto them, Verily, I say unto you, The Son can do nothing of himself, but what he seeth the Father do: for what things soever he doeth, these also doeth the Son likewise....

I am come in my Father's name, and ye receive me not: if another shall come in his own name, him ye will receive. How can ye believe, which receive honour one of another, and seek not the honour that cometh from God only?

Do not think that I will accuse you to the Father: there is one that accuseth you, even Moses, in whom ye trust. For had ye believed Moses, ye would have believed me: for he wrote of me. But if ye believe not his writings, how shall ye believe my words? (John 5: 1, 19, 43-47.)

Schoolboys' Wages

As an example of the evils of inflation which Canada is escaping through price and wage control, it is necessary only to consider a report from Attleboro, Mass. There, a construction company has found it impossible to hire boys at 50 cents an hour, because these youngsters, working after school and on Saturdays, can average $38 per week.

The economic absudity of any such wage standard is obvious. It is a glaring example of inflation run riot. Wage scales are largely relative, and some balance must be maintained, else chaos and disaster result. Thirty-eight dollars per week for the part-time work of schoolboys is enough to unbalance the whole economic structure, because it must involve comparative pay for men supporting families. It is an example of the law of supply and demand operating wildly and without a shadow of control. We should be thankful for the sound precautions taken here, even though they may bear unfairly on a few people at times.—Windsor Star.

16,000 Auxiliary Firemen Fully Trained

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., Aug. 26 — (CP).— Dominion Fire Commissioner W. L. Clairmont of Ottawa to-day said "no men in the public services have shown greater devotion to duty or a more willing acceptance of their added responsibility than the Chiefs of our Fire Departments."

Addressing the 35th annual convention of the Dominion Association of Fire Chiefs here, he said 16,000 auxiliary firemen had been trained in Canada since the start of the war and he hoped training would continue after the war "as a sort of a reserve brigade for peacetime emergencies."

"In a country where we burn up $25,000,000 or $30,000,000 worth of property each year, we can do with a lot of fire fighters."

Stating that Kathleen Smith of Ottawa won the grand prize in poster competitions held during the Fire Prevention Week last year, he urged all municipalities to contest the competition during the week of October 3-9 this year.

Ontario Fire Marshal W. J. Scott, in an address to the Fire Marshal's Forum, said that while it was still too early to make definite contracts, he was hopeful that in exchange "for a reasonable salvage prices, pumpers, hose, clothing and other equipment supplied by Civilian Defence Committees for Air Raid Precautions services would be retained by municipalities after the war."

He warned Fire Chiefs to "be on the alert against permitting improper building standards."

Says Litvinoff Shift Not Significant

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.— (CP).— The New York World-Telegram in a copyrighted interview yesterday quoted Mrs. Maxim Litvinoff, wife of the recently recalled Russian ambassador to the United States, as saying "there's nothing extraordinary or unusual about the shift."

"Ambassadors of other countries are moved around and no one thinks about it," she was quoted as saying. Why should they read anything in it now? Another Russian ambassador is taking my husband's place. The government hasn't changed."

Must Scrap War Laws When Peace Returns

WINNIPEG, Aug. 25.—(CP). — Regimentation, necessary to a democratic nation in wartime, must in peace yield place to normal institutions, G. K. Aikins, K.C., of Winnipeg, declared yesterday in his presidential address at the opening of the 26th annual meeting of the Canadian Bar Association.

Mr. Aikins said some necessary laws and regulations governing the war structure were inconsistent with established democratic principles.

"These things we accept as incident to the war," he said. "But we as a profession, must be on guard to see that these encroachments are neither unnecessary to the efficient prosecution of war nor permanent and we must ensure that neither authorities delegated for the purposes of war nor the hysteria of war thinking are permitted to pattern our future nor bind succeeding generations."

Highly Mobilized

LONDON, Aug. 26—(CP)—Britain's civilian manpower is the most highly mobilized in the world, with two out of every three men and women between the ages of 14 and 64 working full time for the war effort, it was revealed today. The statistics were released by Malcolm Stewart McCorquodale, parliamentary secretary to the Labor ministry.

Essex Scottish Regiment To Be Seen In News Reel

By DOUGLAS AMARON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Aug. 26—(CP)—The folks in Canada will see troops of one of the Dominion's best known Highland battalions on the screen next month.

Newsreel cameramen spent a day with this battalion, a Western Ontario unit which fought at Dieppe. Individuals and groups were "shot" and the second-in-command, Maj. Don Mingay of Windsor, Ont., sent a message to the people at home.

Since its heavy losses at Dieppe, the battalion has been reinforced with men from every part of Canada and greetings from a soldier from every province was a feature of the newsreel. Many of the boys, too, were given a chance to say hello to their parents, wives, sweethearts and friends.

Most of the messages were strictly of the "hello mom, hello pop" variety but some of the boys expressed their thanks for cigarets sent by organizations at home while one lad sent love to his "girl friends."

"I've got a lot of them," he explained.

Provincial representatives in the newsreel included Sgt. Frank Dixon, Sackville, N.B., and Sgt. Wally Hussey, Riverside, Ont.

Dixon and Hussey both won the Military Medal at Dieppe. The cameraman was at Dieppe too as an official Navy photographer.

This battalion was one of the most heavily hit at Dieppe and since then has had a more or less transient personnel. Some 200 officers, N.C.O.'s and men have come and gone to other units since Dieppe, including 100 sent to the 1st Division before the Sicilian invasion.

With these changes it has been hard to build the battalion up to its former strength or keep its territorial affiliation but all the troops are training had for the time when they can go back again against the Germans.

Livestock May Get Health Insurance

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 26.— (AP).— Health insurance for livestock may be a new field for enterprising agents.

A system of animal health insurance to help the farmer provide better care for livestock and promote more efficient production was suggested in a committee report for presentation to-day to the war war conference of the American Veterinary Medical Association.

"Medical service for the average family obliged to live on a restricted budget is a problem in the medical profession to-day," the report drafted by committee chairman Dr. E. C. W. Schubel, Blissfield, Mich., explained.

"Perhaps we have a comparable situation among certain groups of farmers and animal owners who feel that adequate veterinary service is beyond their financial reach. An equitable system of animal health insurance which would provide veterinary service would go a long way toward solving this problem."

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—(AP.) — Tommy Manville, wealthy asbestos heir, was married yesterday to Macie Maria (Sunny) Answorth, 19, a show girl from Matagorda, Texas, by Supreme Court Justice Louis A. Valente. It was Manville's seventh marriage and the bride's third.

The ceremony took place without previous announcement at Justice Valante's office, just two weeks after Miss Ainsworth announced she and Manville had broken off their engagement because they were not well enough acquainted.

Municipal Workers Return To Work

MONTREAL, Aug. 26.— (CP).— Union representatives said yesterday that the five-day-old strike of some 2,500 employees of the municipal water and incinerator departments has been settled and that all men will return to work later to-day.

Announcement of the representatives, members of the Canadian Brotherhood of Municipal Employees, an affiliate of the Canadian Congress of Labor, came after some strikers had returned to work and after a meeting of those who had still remained on strike.

Toronto Wins 8 to 6 Over Hamilton

HAMILTON, Aug. 26 — Toronto Tip Tops defeated Hamilton Co-ops 8 to 6 in the first of a three-game series for the Congress League Baseball championship here last night in a rather loosely played game, and one in which each hurler proved easy to hit.

Big shot for the victors was Harry Eckler on first base, who turned in a smartfielding performance and drove in four runs, three coming after his homer inside the playing field, the first of its kind seen here since the early days of the Pony League. Eckler's drive was just inside the foul line in right field, and when it bounced from Howard the ball rolled to the flagpole.

[illegible]enoff went the distance fo' invaders, and was nicked for 11 hits and passed six men, but his mates managed to come up with some smart plays in the pinches, while he helped himself out of a bad hole in the ninth when he fanned Bedek with the tying runs on the paths.

Anderson, who hurled for Hamilton, had little but hope as he was found for 14 blows and was always in hot water.

The most exciting girls' game of the season should be on the cards at the East City Bowl this evening when Westclox and Aircraft meet in the seventh and final game of the best four-of-seven series for the senior championship of the Girls' Softball League. It is the end of the trail for one of the two outfits tonight for the rivals are tied with three wins each and this tussle ends the argument. The winners will have the honor of capturing the league championship and the right to represent Peterborough in the Ontario playdowns; the losers, after a hard battle for the glory will hang up their equipment and call it a season. With so much at stake the final tussle shapes up as likely to be the closest and most thrilling struggle of the campaign. And there have been some great battles at that. Both camps exude confidence as to the outcome and while neither has announced the starting pitcher it does not seem to be much of a military secret so far as the Aircraft are concerned for it seems to be generally believed that Norma Strickland will be called upon while Westclox will probably send in Isobel Bullock.

* * * * * *

It has been a great series between well-matched clubs and the fans are a bit sorry that tonight's tilt means the end for one or other of the rivals. When Westclox took the first two games of the playoffs the Big Bens looked to be well away to repeat their feat of last season. Aircraft rallied to take the third but when last year's champs flashed back with a win in the fourth fixture to go in front 3 games to 1 the round was apparently as good as over with Pat Hayden's club just a game away from the title. But the battling Aircrafters have changed all that. Their determined rally that saw them take the next two games and even up the series, changed the whole complexion of things. It is anybody's round now. It all dpends upon which of the rivals plays the better ball or gets the breaks in the final argument. The biggest crowd of the season will see the two teams battle it out for the championship and it looks as if ground rules will be necessary.

Clash Again Tonight

The law of averages finally caught up to Manager Ted Johnston's Genelecs last night. They had run through a string of 12 games without a loss but old No. 13 hit the league leaders smack in the face in the second tilt in the City League final series and the Gunners won by 16 to 6 in one of those games in which the winners had runners on the bases in every inning and scored in clusters. Akers and Moorhead had nothing to stop the onslaught and between them issued 14 bases on balls and gave up a similar number of hits. The rivals clash again tonight and after getting that bad one out of their systems the Genelecs are likely to snap back into form and make this tussle an exciting argument all the way. Manager Johnston has not announced his pitching selection but it may be Terry Woods, the boy from the Martimes while Manager Dormer will send Dave Wilson back at the Genelecs. The Battery team is certainly getting plenty of action. Tonight's game is their seventh in ten nights but they seem to be standing up to the pace. The fixture is billed to start at 6.30 o'clock in order to give ample time to complete the fixture. Fourth game of the series is programmed for tomorrow night.

Pitcher Haddie Eakins, the Lindsay boy who twirled for the Genelecs in the opening game of the City League finals and made his debut a success with a 4 to 3 win over the 4th Battery has been ruled by the City League executive as not eligible. Eakins was signed under the military replacement rule but the O.A.S.A. secretary has pointed out that the special rule authorizing a replacement for a player entering the armed services applies only in the case of the player replaced having played three games. In the local instance the player replaced by Eakins did not participate in a game with the Genelecs during the season and it is now reported that he has not in fact left town so that there could not be a legal replacement in any event. The executive, while ruling that Eakins could not be used further in the series, deferred action on Monday's game.

Katan Won't Come

The announcement that Killer John Katan has taken a run out powder so far as meeting Gentleman Jack Clayborne in a return bout here next Monday night is concerned will not make the Palermo Panther any more popular with Peterborough fans. Katan is Public Enemy No. 1 so far as local followers of the mat game are concerned and his statement that the fans here are prejudiced and intimidate the referees so that the officials cannot give an unbiased decision will not endear him to the refereeing fraternity either. Anyway Katan will not be here Monday but the mat bugs will get a chance to see Clayborne in action again for Manager Tunney has decided that the showing made by the Colored Comet Monday night earned him another chance as a main bout attraction. Few wrestlers have so quickly won the acclaim of Peterborough wrestling fans as the Colored Comet did Monday night. A partial explanation of course is the fact that Katan's skulduggery has made him the prize bad man of the season and the crowd is with anybody who threatens to make it tough for the rowdy Panther. Above that however is the fact that Clayborne made friends for himself by his speed and cleverness and Monday's crowd to a man believe that he was the victim of a raw decision. With the colored grappler matched against Housepainter Dick Hogan the rough-house artist from the Pacific Coast Monday night he can be assured that the crowd will be with him to a man—and to a woman. Hogan is about as unpopular here as Katan and if the Comet takes him apart the fans will love it.

Peterborough hockey fans will be saddened by the news of the death in Toronto this morning of Harold "Shrimp" McDougall. The former hockey star, whose exploits on the ice here and in Owen Sound had made his name a familiar one, was one of the outstanding players of more recent years to be developed in Peterborough. He began his career as a player at fifteen years of age in the local City League and his stick-handling even at that time made him notable. He played junior O.H.A. hockey here and then was grabbed off by Owen Sound where he soon won country-wide fame as a star centre ice man with the Greys, his playing when the Owen Sounders grabbed off Dominion honors being sensational. After graduating from junior hockey McDougall played for some time in the Ontario Professional League but his lack of weight was a handicap there. He also played in the North for some time and wound up his career as player and coach with Peterborough teams. At his peak one of the flashiest stick-handlers in the game, "Shrimp" made up for his small poundage by his speed and trickiness. He could make the opposition look foolish when he was going at his best. He was always popular with local fans and his passing will be deeply regretted. The sympathy of the sporting public will go out to the bereaved relatives.

Two Hurlers Are Blasted By Battery Men

Cashing in on their own power and the ineffectiveness of two Genelec pitchers 4th Battery grabbed off the second game in the City League final series at Riverside Park last night in easy fashion by 16 runs to 6.

The Gunners had the bases full so often that it looked as if they had their infield out there all the time. In addition to the sixteen runners who crossed the plate, a similar number was left on the sacks.

Players and fans stood for a minute's silence before the game started as a tribute to the memory of President Norman Lewis.

Ronnie Akers started for the C.G.E. outfit and after getting by the first innings was blasted for six runs in the second and four more in the third and then was yanked. Akers lacked control and the Battery bunched their hits with his passes to pile up the score. Bill Moorhead took over in the fourth and he too had a rough passage, walking nine batters and yielding eight hits. Strangely enough the Battery bunched all their fourteen hits and their sixteen runs into four frames. They had lots on in other innings but could not drive them home, two catches in left field by Earl McNabb with the bases loaded and two out on each occasion saving a lot of trouble.

Bob Crowe was the Battery pitcher and after being touched up for four hits and two runs in the first frame and taking a hot grounder from the bat of Johnny Playford on the ear, the youngster pitched steady ball for the rest of the engagement. The drive from Playford cut the inside of his ear but the accident did not seem to impair the effectiveness of the Gunner twirler who helped his own cause along with four hits.

In spite of the one-sided score there were some fine fielding plays. Earl McNabb had the feature in the eighth inning when he ran far to his left and made a diving catch of a hard drive by Les Burton. There were two out and the bases loaded at the time and the circus grab robbed Burton of at least a double and the Battery of three runs. In the seventh McNabb made a jumping catch of a hard-hit liner by Jim Ellis with the bases clogged and two hands down. Joe Stewart made several fine running catches in registering seven putouts in centre field for the Battery, and Ned Vitarelli made a long run for a gem of a catch in the fourth.

Crowe with a triple and three singles and Vitarelli with three singles and three walks in seven times up, led the Battery attack, with Eddie Starr driving in six runs. Jack Tucker had three blows for the losers, two of them doubles.

Genelecs started off on the right foot. With one away in the first Holmes doubled over left and Tucker hit to centre for two bases, sending the run in. Playford laced a hot one back at Crowe, the ball striking the Battery pitcher on the ear and bouncing over past Heal. Tucker scored on the smash. When play was resumed Mowry singled to centre but Cadd and Hawks flied out to Stewart.

The Battery had their first big inning in the second. With one out Kingdon was safe on Cadd's fumble. Heal tripled to right centre, scoring Kingdon. Tompkins rolled to Tucker and Heal was out at the plate. Vitarelli walked and Crowe beat out a tap down the first base line for a hit filling the bases. Burton walked, forcing in Tompkins. Starr doubled to centre scoring Vitarelli and Crowe and Stewart ripped a double through short on which Burton and Starr scored. Ellis up for the second time rolled out.

Genelecs got a run in the first of the third. Tucker singled and Playford was passed. Mowry tapped to Crowe who tossed Tucker out at third. Cadd singled to centre scoring Playford but Hawks hit into a double play, Crowe to Ellis to Starr.

Battery drove Akers out of the game with a four-run rally in their half of the third. Passes to Heal and Tompkins, singles by Vitarelli and Crowe and Playford's miss of Starr's short fly to centre, which he had to try for on the run, did the trick.

Moorhead got out of a deep hole in the fifth when Gunners filled the bases with nobody out and didn't score. Hawks threw two men out at the plate and Ellis' fly to left retired the side.

In the sixth, however, the winners filled the bases with two out on singles by Tompkins, Vitarelli and Crowe and then Moorhead walked Burton and Starr to force in two more runs.

Genelecs got one in the first of the seventh on a pass to McNabb and singles by Masterson and Playford but the Gunners roared back with four on singles by Ellis, Starr and Vitarelli, a double by Heal, Crowe's triple and a couple of walks.

Genelecs got the last two runs of the game in the first of the ninth. McNabb singled and after Masterson had flied to Tompkins, Tucker doubled past third to score McNabb and came in himself on Mowry's single, after Playford had flied to Stewart. Cadd ended it by forcing Mowry at second.

Redskins Bow To All-Stars In Chicago Game

By DAVE HOFF
Associated Press Sports Writer.

EVANSTON, Ill., Aug. 26—(AP).—Sammy Baugh was in form, the Washington Redskins acted the part of professional champions — but what can you do against the greatest collection of collegiate all-stars, fellows who have had the benefit of magnificent coaching.

The answer would seem to be: Lose. And that's what the Redskins did last night. Not only did they bow to the Harry Stuhldreher-coached 1943 all-star edition, but they took the worst thumping of any pro-team in the 10-year history of this traditional preview of the United States football season.

The score was 27-7, a supremacy margin of 20 points which outdid the performance of the 1938 all-stars, who also defeated Washington 28-11. That, incidentally, was the last time the Collegians had won the series, but they busted the pros' four-year victory monopoly wide open last night.

The thing that floored the 50,000 who crammed North-Western University's stadium was the spectacular fashion in which each of the all-star touchdowns occurred.

In the first period Missouri's Bob Steuber took a Redskin punt at midfield and scampered 50 yards for a touchdown, a placement by Wisconsin's Pat Harder making it 17-0 in favor of the all-stars. Baugh, who ended up with 22 pass completions, good for 273 yards, chucked a four-yard throw to Joe Aguirre good for a Redskin touchdown, opening the second period and tying the score 7 to 7, after Bob Masterson's placement kick.

The stars were just warming up. Along in the third period the Redskins, with Baugh pitching, were sneaking deep into all-star territory, and Sammy Lofted one for a touchdown try. Instead North-Western's Otto Graham intercepted on the three-yard line and travelled the entire 97-yard route for a touchdown to make it 20 to 7 for the all-stars.

Falcons Are Out Lose To Yanks

Called on account of darkness at the end of the sixth inning, the Yanks of East City eliminated their opponents, the Falcons of West City by a score of 19-18 last night at the Quaker diamond. A hard contested battle all the way it seemed as if the losers would make the grade and wipe out their rivals in the last half of the sixth, but were one run in the red.

The loss of last night's game for the Falcons meant being out of the running for the championship of the junior league. Although they put on a seven run rally in the sixth frame they were one short of a tie and two short of a win when Umpire Garvey waved the game to a close.

Roy Fitzgerald and Roy Spencer on the mound for the victors showed good form, holding the luckless Falcons down. Clare Conroy, doing the pitching duties for the losers, went all the way but was hard hit. F. Fitzgerald with two on came through with a full circuiter.

To-night at the Memorial Park flats the Yanks will take on the Giants of East City in the first game of the two of three semi-final series at 6.30 o'clock sharp. This promises to be a good fray, with rivalry keen. The boys have been playing good ball all season and some will step into senior ranks next year. The teams;

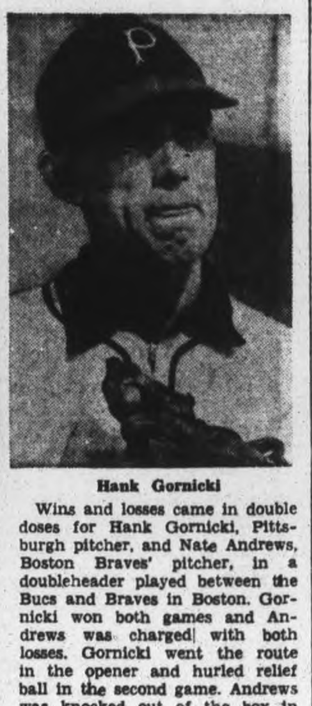
Nate Andrews



Hank Gornicki

Wins and losses came in double doses for Hank Gornicki, Pittsburgh pitcher, and Nate Andrews, Boston Braves' pitcher, in a doubleheader played between the Bucs and Braves in Boston. Gornicki won both games and Andrews was charged with both losses. Gornicki went the route in the opener and hurled relief ball in the second game. Andrews was knocked out of the box in the first and then hurled losing relief ball in the second. Scores were 8 to 0 and 4 to 3.

Here and There in Sport

Because of a cut over his eye, received Monday night at Philadelphia when he was defeated by Bob Montgomery, Fritzie Zivic announced last night at his Pittsburg home he would not be able to fight Jake Lamotta at New York Sept. 2 but would like a return go with Montgomery later.

Baseball statisticians have uncovered the fact that the Philadelphia Athletics have registered a number of all-time records, apart from the recent 20-game losing streak. In 1941 the Mackmen hit into 141 double plays and had the fewest stolen bases in both 1931 and 1941 at 27, as well as losing 19 straight games on the road in 1916.

Play Overseas.

President Will Harridge of the American League announced yesterday that consideration is being given to a plan to send teams of major league stars to play games for the troops behind the war fronts, the squads to sail after the world's series in October.

Manuel Ortiz, world's bantamweight champion, will defend his title for the seventh time this year when he takes on Leonardo Lopez, also from south of the Rio Grande, on Oct. 1 at Hollywood, Cal. In his last 29 fights, Ortiz has scored 16 knockouts.

Once famed as the pitcher for Fords of Windsor, Ont., Homer Lesser pitched the Shipyards team of Halifax, N.S., to a 3-1 victory over the Army nine last night to tie up the semi-finals at two games each in the Halifax Senior Baseball League. Lesser struck out nine men.

2 New Records.

In grand circuit racing at State Fair Park, Milwaukee, yesterday, Harry Fitzpatrick drove two horses to new records, sending Noble Hal to a 2:04 mark in winning the 2:26 pace and Worthy General to a 2:03 mile in the second heat of the 2:14 trot which he won in three heats.

Manager James McCaffrey, manager of the Ottawa Commandos, was presented with a 10 year medal last night by the Quebec Senior Hockey League signifying a decade of activity with circuit teams. The league "hoped" to operate during the coming winter, it was stated at the meeting which was held at Montreal.

Redskins Trimmed.

The inaugural of the 1943 football season took place last night before 50,000 people at Northwestern University's stadium, Evanston, Ill., when the College All-Stars swamped, by a score of 27-7, the Washington Redskins, last year's champions of the National Football League.

Frank Colman, London, Ont., contribution to the line-up of the Toronto Maple Leafs, is out of the game with an injured knee which has become greatly swollen despite medical attention. Manager Burleigh Grimes declared he would have to alternate Gruzdis and Dugas in left field during Colman's absence.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

Some time ago we said, regarding open tournaments, "as Peterborough goes, so go the tournaments." This was borne out yesterday when up at Lindsay our lady bowlers made up fifty per cent. of the entry, and furthermore, all the prizes came to the local club. It is nice to report that our representatives make a good showing at these open tournaments, but when they walk away with everything but the gate, why it is really something to shout about, and so we say, "Congratulations to all."

We have no reports from other tournaments held in the district.

And remember, tomorrow (Friday) night is the British War Victims' tournament. We will be looking for you.

Boxing Bout Condemned By Writers

By ALLAN NICKLESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Aug. 26.—(CP).—London boxing writers, pulling no punches in vitriolic attack against conditions surrounding the coming fight for the British and Empire heavyweight championship, charged arrangements for the bout were never made public. One writer even said the bout should be banned.

Plans, approved by the British Boxing Board of Control, call for Fraddie Mills, king of the light-heavies, to clash with Jack London, biggest man in the professional ring, Sept. 22, at the Queensberry Club. Lack of space there limits attendance to 1,750.

To make the venture pay, admission prices were set at a top of $115 and a low of $9. The limited seating and the luxury prices, the newspapers claimed, irked many a faithful follower who couldn't afford to attend.

Agreeing that a championship tilt should be made available to the ordinary man who makes war or its munitions, newspapers carried articles under such heads as "Stop this big fight racket."

Mills, 188-pound one-time booth boxer at country fairs, and London, 217-pound former truck driver, are sergeants in the Royal Air Force and proceeds from the bout, after purses and expenses have been subtracted, will go to war charities

YANKEES PRACTICALLY CONCEDED AMERICAN LEAGUE PENNANT

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 6 (AP)—Latest casting from the rumor foundry is that Leo Bond is leaving the Giants' official family—which ain't the kind of shakeup that Giant fans have been demanding . . . While lunching recently with the AP's John Colur Paavo Nurmi asked to be remembered to all his North American friends . . . and he remarked that Anglo-Saxon athletes generally were tops in the long run . . . Sgt. Joe Louis is on duty as a "One man task force" this week, looking after Cpl. Ray Robinson while he's here to fight Hank Armstrong.

Scrap Collection

After Lou Nova was stopped by Lee Savold in Chicago recently, he asked Trainer Ray Arcal what was the matter with him. Ray told him just what anyone else could have: "You don't have the right spirit to be a fighter." . . . The Cards' Alpha Brazle credits a sore arm with making him a winning pitcher. It forced him to change his pitching style and that cured him of wildness.

Punch Line:

After Frankie Graham, son of the N.Y. Sun sports columnist, had KO'd four other sailors in training tussles at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station, he was invited to show on the weekly station fight card . . . Frankie looked up from his task of handling a kid he has tabbed "K.O. Keough" and remarked: "No thanks; I'm Hymie Graham, the manager, now." . . . which just shows you the wisdom of having a sports writer for a pappy.

Orioles Blank Jersey City 3-0

By The Associated Press

Jersey City Giants broke a 34-year-old record in the International League yesterday, but it isn't likely they will go around talking about it.

The tailenders suffered their 27th whitewashing of the season in going down before Baltimore, 3 to 0. This wiped off the record books the 26 shutouts Montreal Royals absorbed in 1909. In chalking up his 15th victory of the season Steve Gromek, Baltimore right-hander, yielded only three hits and fanned four.

Rufus Gentry won his 18th game of the year in pitching Buffalo to a two-hit, 2-0 shutout over Rochester. The Buffalo flinger was in rare form, striking out 11 and issuing but one walk.

Syracuse Chiefs pulled a triple play in the third inning, but had to stage a spectacular four-run rally in the ninth to beat Newark 7 to 6. Dutch Mele won the game by driving in three runs with a two-bagger with the bases loaded. The defeat ended Joe Page's 8-game winning streak for Newark.

Montreal and Toronto were idle.

Keen Contests Feature Stratford Races

STRATFORD, Aug. 26. — What at one time yesterday appeared to be something very ordinary developed into one of the best afternoons of racing around these parts in a long time. Whether it was the odd distance the horses raced or just plain good horse racing that caused the spectators to leap to their feet and cheer heat after heat is a matter of conjecture, but at any rate the finishes were close, contests keen, and the winner in many instances in doubt until the last step was taken under the finish line.

Pitchfork Finishes

The free-for-all, feature event of the afternoon, was a sizzler, all heats at half a mile, and how those pacers did tear into each other. This can be readily seen when it is known the slowest time registered was 1:02¼. Easter Parade, owned by J. W. Brown of New Liskeard, and driven by Chapman, duplicated her performance of last week when she paced a half-mile in 1:02¼ to win her race, coming back yesterday to pace in 1:02, 1:01¾, and 1:02¼, three of the fastest half-mile dashes recorded this year. Each heat was a pitchfork finish, with the veteran Lástic Grattan landing in the place the first heat and Rip Harvester taking over to land the place.

It's Victory Tea Time

"This is the way I used to do it." So says Sammy Byrd, the baseball outfielder turned golfer, who shows a youthful audience his former batting pose as a member of the New York Yankees, during play in the National Victory golf tourney in Chicago. Byrd is one of the top golfers in the land

Cleveland Beats Red Sox In Two Games

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sport Writer

The mathematical lock hasn't been turned yet, but New York Yankees have just closed the door on another American League pennant, their seventh in eight years. St. Louis Cardinals have been conceded the National League flag for a couple of weeks or longer.

Now there no longer is any reason to doubt that the Yankees will be the host team when the world series opens. They finished their last western trip with a bang by drubbing Detroit Tigers in both ends of a doubleheader 7-5 and 5-1.

This performance gave them a record of having won 12 consecutive series, a feat not equalled even by the great Yankee clubs of the past, and sent them home with a 10½ game lead.

Rudy York took personal issue with the Yankees in their final games, hitting a home run in each half of the bill to bring his total for the season to 28 and his record for the month to 15. He now needs to hit four in his next four games to surpass the record of 18.

Browns Whip Senators

In the other American League contests Cleveland beat Boston Red Sox twice 8-3 ad 4-1, St. Louis Browns whipped Washington 7-4 and Philadelphia Athletics resumed their losing habits by folding before Chicago White Sox 4-0 as Jake Wade pitched four-hit ball and Luke Appling drove in three runs with three hits.

Vernon Kennedy pitched seven-hit ball and Ray Poat a six-hitter to account for the Cleveland Indians conquests with Jeff Heath chiming in with two home runs in the second game.

Bobo Newsom was knocked out at St. Louis again, but the Browns won anyway on good relief pitching by Nelson Potter.

In the National League St. Louis Cardinals completed their last eastern trip with their second straight shutout of the Boston Braves 2-0 as Lefty Harry Brecheen allowed five singles.

It was the champions' 15th straight success against the Braves.

Brooklyn Dodgers topped Pittsburgh Pirates 6-4 in the only other game in the senior circuit, scoring five times in the third inning through errors by Max Butcher and Elbie Fletcher.
